ably the most prestigious pre-season in the country. It's a great opportunity the only problem is that everybody has 20 games under their belts and out of the fieldhouse."

of Maine at Orono baseball coach was referring to the 12th annual National Intercollegiate baseball Tournament in which his Black Bears will be competing beginning on March 27 and lasting through April 1.

Beside Maine, the attractive eight-team field includes defending tournament champ Washington State University, Oregon State, the University of California at Riverside, Oral Roberts University of Tulsa, Okla. and Valdosta State of Valdosta, Ga.

"Over the years, they've tried to take the teams in the country which have strong baseball programs. All the teams coming to this year's tournament are really strong," said Winkin.

The tournament field will be divided into two divisions and each team will face the other seven. The two teams with the best records following the seven games will meet in Saturday's (April 1) championship game.

Maine faces Oral Roberts on Monday in its tournament opener and also meets the host club, UC-R, the same day. On Tuesday, the Black Bears will take on Oregon State; a pair of exhibition games with non-tournament teams are on tap Wednesday; Stanford and Washington State are Maine's tourney opponents on Thursday; Valdosta State is Friday's tournament foe and the University of California at Berkeley faces Maine on Saturday. Maine has other exhibition games scheduled during the week including one with UC-R on March 25, the day the Bears will depart Bangor International Airport and arrive in Riverside.

Maine, 24-11 a year ago and a participant in the ECAC Division One playoffs, will be led by co-captain Russ Quetti. Quetti was an All-New England shortstop last season and led the Bears (Continued on back page)

BEAR HOOPSTERS CLOSE OUT 17-8, THIRD-BEST MARK

University of Maine at Orono varsity basketball coach Tom "Skip" Chappelle was more than prophetic at the media day last fall when he announced unqualifiedly that, "We have turned the corner in our basketball program."

Results of the 1978 season just concluded bear him out. The Black Bears posted their best record since Chappelle's playing days in 1960-61 as they won 17 games and lost eight; the UMO club was rated the fifth best in the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference New England region; 6'4" forward-guard Rufus Harris of Framingham, Mass., set a new UMO single season scoring record with 569 points; the Bears defeated arch rivals Massachusetts and Connecticut back-to-back; and Chappelle, himself, became the top percentage basketball coach in UMO history with a career mark of 97 wins and 76 defeats.

And the best is yet to come! Why? Because the Bears have a nucleus of three tremendously talented players returning next season, because their record and reputation should enhance the recruiting efforts of Chappelle and assistant coach Peter Gavett and because a gradually upgraded schedule will start to bear fruit when Maine tackles national power Marquette next season at the Portland Civic Center.

The nucleus of returnees includes Harris, only a sophomore, New England's second leading scorer, who might have been the first player in UMO history to reach the 1000 point career mark in only his second season if the Bears' final game had not been cancelled; 6-8 center Kevin Nelson of Dover-Foxcroft, already the school's 15th top scorer and a premiere rebounder; and steady Roger Lapham at 6-6 from Wakefield, Mass., who almost without notice became the school's fifth leading scorer with a three-year total of 1136 points.

How far the Bears have gone in turning the corner will depend on the recruiting success Chappelle and Gavett achieve in supplementing these three fine players.

ICEMEN RECORD WINNING SEASON, MISS PLAYOFFS

Maine's brand-new varsity hockey team did what some thought was impossible. Not only did Jack Semler's Bears play respectably on the ice, and not only did a band of freshmen who played on 24 different teams a year ago enchant a campus, but they recorded a winning season (15-12) and missed an ECAC playoff berth by a whisker.

Capacity crowds looked on as the new Harold Alford Sports Arena opened to twin 7-5 wins over Acadia. The Bears went on to win 11 of 14 games played at the beautiful new rink.

Center Gary Conn scored the historic first goal and didn't stop there as the classy playmaker led Maine with 21 goals in 27 games and had 48 points (21-27-48). Center Brian Hughes led in assists (14-28-42), while other 30-point scorers included left wing Bill Demianiuk (17-22-39), center Joe Crespi (17-21-38) and left wing Jon Leach (16-19-35).

Goalies Jeff Nord (3.83 goals against average) and Jim Tortorella (3.96) shared the goaltending and gave the Bears solid play in the nets as well as hope for the future.

Crisp passing, aggressive checking and constant hustle are three reasons more than 30,000 fans attended home games this winter. A defense corps of Don Mason, Tom LeBlond, Art Demoulas, Larry Page, Marc Son and Brian McKiernan played up to Semler's expectations and those of assistant Ted Castle. Both Bear coaches were former hockey greats at Vermont.

Playing well in the first State of Maine Holiday Classic in Portland, UMO dropped a heart-breaking 5-4 verdict to Colby in the opener and lost to Princeton 7-4 in the consolation contest.

Maine's new fans can look forward to next year because of the 26 reasons several ECAC Division Two coaches will not be anxious to tangle with the Bears — they will ALL be back next year. Even senior Dan Sweeney, the hard-working right wing who was the team's only non-freshman, has another year of eligibility and plans to return.

MEN AND WOMEN SWIMMERS, RIFLE TEAM WIN NEW ENGLAND CROWNS

Men Romp at Springfield

Coach Alan Switzer left Orono for the 1978 New England Swimming and Diving Championships with a confident feeling, but he and his talented squad came back, after an "awesome" display of strength, with more than anyone could have hoped.

Fourteen firsts, nine records, a whopping 675 points, and the second title in the last three years were the result of a relentless assault against the region's top teams.

Tourney standout Don Winant and veteran Jim Smoragiewicz finished first and second in the 400 individual medley to set the tone the first night of competition. Winant's time of 4:08.5 was a New England record.

Other New England records included Winant's 1:53.4 performance in the 200 butterfly, Smoragiewicz (1:54.9) in the 200 backstroke, Winant (1:57.3) in the 200 I.M., and again with Smoragiewicz breaking the old record in the 100 backstroke during the trials with a time of 53.2 seconds. The 400 medley relay unit of Smoragiewicz, John Judge, Jamie Larochelle and Bob Marshall also broke a New England record.

Diver Lance Graham won both the one and three meter boards with teammate Rolf Olsen finishing second on the one meter board.

The Bears, narrowly missing the New England title last year after winning in 1976, climaxed a solid season with the championship. Switzer's squad won nine of 11 regular season meets, including its first-ever win over defending Division Three national champions Johns Hopkins.

While UMO will lose captain Jim Farragher, Larochelle, Olsen, Brian Seaward and Bob Stedman to graduation, the Black Bears will return most of the talented firepower that scored more tournament points (675) than the number two (Williams, 338) and three (host Springfield, 333) teams combined!

Woodcock Leads Women

The University of Maine at Orono women's swimming team captured the New England crown in swimming and diving at Boston College Feb. 19, completely dominating the meet and winning by more than a hundred points. The women compiled 602½ points to runner-up Yale which registered 483 points. Other team scores were: Boston College 379, Southern Conn. 359, UConn 352½, Springfield 337, UMass 241, UNH 221, Dartmouth 212, and Brown 176.

Julie Woodcock, perhaps the finest woman swimmer in New England, led the Black Bear team with five individual victories and also participated on two victorious relay teams. The Swarthmore, Pa. native took firsts in the 100 and 200 individual medleys, 200 free, 500 free, and the 400 I.M. She set New England records in three of the five events.

Adding depth to a very fine squad is sophomore Jill Puzas of Waterbury, Conn. She successfully defended her New England championship in the 200 breaststroke, an event she won as a freshman. She also had second, third, and sixth place finishes in other events.

Beth Carone also had an outstanding tournament. The Marblehead, Mass., freshman grabbed two thirds and one fourth place finish. Backing up this performance was Anne Griswold of Wilbraham, Mass., who had a third and a sixth place finish.

Julie Woodcock: Seven medals

On the first day of the meet UMO won the 800 freestyle relay with Carone, Ann Lucey, Linda Larue and Woodcock finishing ahead of second place Boston College. Two other Black Bear relay combines took fourth and sixth place finishes.

The UMO diving contingent also scored well. Patti Ward, a sophomore from Barrington, R.I., who won the one meter diving competition a year ago, placed sixth in this event to give UMO a very respectable finish.

The UMO swimmers finished the season undefeated with a 10-0 record, and having added the New England Crown, are busy preparing to send Woodcock and Ward to the nationals at Duke University.

Shooters Retain Title — Again

UMO's most successful team in history continued its tradition in fine style as the Bears' rifle squad outgunned its foes to win the annual New England Collegiate Rifle League championships March 4-5 at MIT.

Led by New England's top shooter, Tim Tobin of Gray, Maine scored 2238 total points to outdistance MIT by 51 points, broke the MIT range record and captured its third regional title in a row.

Tobin, who holds the New England record and has the top average this winter, led UMO with 571 points, followed by Dave Wellman, 562, Wayne Wood, 554, and Steve Murphy, 551.

The Bears, coached by MSG Robert Bernier, closed out its successful season with a sparkling 17-0-1 record.

Maine has won the New England title six of the last seven years.

All Winter Teams Win

There were other teams of the university that concluded their season with a winning record. One of these teams was the women's gymnastic squad which finished with a fine record of nine wins and only one loss. This was accomplished with a team effort that included leadership from captain Barb Dusty and freshman Martha Leonard.

The men's track team completed its season with a 6-3 record and an eighth place finish in the New Englands. Their counterparts, the women's track team, ended a very successful season with a 7-1 record.

The Black Bear wrestling team placed second in the Northern New England championship meet and concluded with a respectable 7-5 record.

Although they don't keep season won-lost records, both men's and women's ski teams had successful seasons. The men's season was highlighted by sixth place finishes at Vermont and Williams winter carnivals, and the women's season by a fourth place finish in the Eastern championships.

Another successful squad was coach Eileen Fox's women's basketball team. The Bears wound up with a sparkling regular season record and made the Northeast Regional playoffs. The state's top-seeded team was paced by center Barb Cummings, senior scoring standout Denise Blais and highly-rated freshman Barb Dunham.

SCHOLARSHIP
CORNER

The Black Bear Athletic Scholarship Fund has moved into high gear during the past few months. Under the leadership of President Howard R. Neville, a serious effort, coordinated by the University's Development Office, seeks to raise $100,000 to provide scholarship aid to outstanding athletes.

Maine's athletes and coaches have accomplished significant triumphs in a variety of sports during the past year. Their successes are particularly noteworthy in light of the fact that most of our opponents spend four times as much on athletic scholarships as do the Black Bears.

It is to correct this disadvantage that President Neville has established this year's goal of $100,000 in scholarship aid. To date, we have received gifts totalling more than $65,000 and are confident that those who have not yet given will put us over the top. With this amount of scholarship assistance, we are convinced that the fine records of many of this year's teams will improve to the level of regional and national recognition next year.

For your commitment to excellence in UMO athletics, you will receive a decal indicating your support of the Black Bears. Individuals who contribute $100 or more will be prominently recognized in the annual list of Black Bear Hall of Fame supporters in Memorial Gymnasium. Contributors of $500 or more will join the Black Bear 200, a select group of UMO alumni and friends, who will be invited to receptions with the President and coaches and a dinner prior to a varsity game. Whatever your level of support, you will have the appreciation of Black Bear athletes and fans.

BLUE-WHITE GAME SET FOR MAINE DAY

More than 100 candidates are expected to turn out for third-year coach Jack Bicknell's spring football drills April 10.

Thirty-two returning lettermen, including co-captains Chris Keating, an All-East candidate at linebacker, and standout offensive lineman Bill Leroy, will be among the Bears anxious for football to begin.

"The key is to give everybody an opportunity," says Bicknell. "We want to get to know our squad better during the spring. We are very physical in these practices and we also work on the little techniques we don't have time to work on in the fall," he adds.

Maine lost several key people on offense, including record-setting tailback Rudy DiPietro and veteran signal-caller Jack Cosgrove, but have capable people returning. Bicknell reports that his team will be a lot better on defense and that he is pleased with the recruiting class so far, but that his staff is still very active in this area at this time.

"The decisions for playing in the fall will be made this spring for the most part," Bicknell notes. "The true competition for positions on the team happens in the spring."

Bicknell also announced that the Bears' annual Blue-White Game will be held at Alumni Field at noon on Maine Day, April 26. The popular scrimmage was traditionally a Maine Day event until it was moved to the last day of spring drills in recent years. Spring practice will end May 6.

BLACK BEAR ATHLETES COMPETE NATIONALLY

Black Bear student-athletes constantly strive for excellence on and off the playing fields and this winter several outstanding competitors earned a chance to challenge for national honors around the country.

Skiers PETER JOSEPH, giant slalom, and JOHN MATHIEU, cross country, competed in the NCAA National Ski Championships in Franconia, NH. Both Joseph and Mathieu were among the team's leaders during the regular season for Brud Folger's Bears.

Coach Deb Davis' women's ski team also qualified team members. Veteran slalom and giant slalom skier KRISTIN WIESE and All-East performer SANDY COOK, cross country, competed in the AIAW National Championships in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Culminating a year in which Maine's swimmers totally dominated New England swimming, JULIE WOODCOCK and diver PATTI WARD qualified for the AIAW National Intercollegiate Swimming and Diving Championships at Duke University in Durham, North Carolina. Woodcock, the holder of five New England records, will compete in the 100, 200 and 400 individual medley events, while Ward will challenge for honors in the one-meter diving event.

Coach Alan Switzer's newly-crowned New England men's swim champions sent divers LANCE GRAHAM and ROLF OLSEN to Penn State for the pre-qualifying trials against the best in the East. Graham, the national Junior College champion a year ago, finished second at Penn State and will head West. The four best performers qualify for the NCAA National Intercollegiate Swimming and Diving Championships in Long Beach, California. Bears standouts JIM SMORAGIEWICZ and DON WINANT, along with relay members BOB MARSHALL, JOHN JUDGE and JAMIE LAROCHELLE, narrowly missed the national qualifying standards.

In women's track, ANN TURBYNE and JOAN WESTPHAL will compete in the AIAW National Indoor Invitational Track Meet in Columbia, Missouri. Turbyne, the school's record holder in the shot put, and Westphal, the UMO record holder in the two-mile, will compete in their specialties.

GRADUATE "M" HONORS

A total of 15 persons who have displayed a high degree of interest and loyalty to the intercollegiate athletic programs at the University of Maine at Orono were presented with honorary memberships in the UMO Graduate "M" Club during half-time ceremonies of the Maine-Massachusetts basketball game Feb. 11.

Prior to the game, those persons were honored guests of the Graduate "M" Club officers at a dinner in Wells Commons.

Among those receiving honorary memberships were Ted Curtis Jr. of Orono, state senator; Kenneth Fobes of Orono, class of 1949, UMO Assistant Dean Emeritus, College of Education (1948-72); Mickey Goldsmith of Old Town, class of 1948, president of a sporting goods store; and Robert Lahey of Old Town, Old Town HS athletic director and basketball coach.

Others honored were Ralph Leonard of Old Town, construction firm executive; Donald Joe Paul of Orono, Orono HS assistant coach; Rodney Ross of Brewer, class of 1968; Mark Shibles of Orono, Dean Emeritus, UMO College of Education; Thaxter Trafton of Bangor, recreation director; and Ed Halpin of Richmond, Portland HS soccer and basketball coach.

Also, Steve Martin of Brewer, WABI sports; Dana Devoe of Orono, class of 1956, attorney; Carroll Pickard of Hermon, class of 1952, a dairy firm owner; John Hctor of Orono, class of 1941, former Maine Maritime Academy athletic director and coach; and Bernard Deering of Orono, class of 1953, retired Orono HS athletic director and coach.

or tied for the lead in seven offensive categories: batting (.331), hits (41), runs (31), doubles (7), triples (4), total bases (59) and runs batted in (30).

Quetti, a senior from Pittsfield, Mass., is Maine's all-time hit leader with 114. He should also break the all-time RBI, total base and run records this season.

Another All-New England selection a year ago was outfielder Mike Curry, who hit .288 with seven doubles, 29 runs and 25 RBIs. The Concord, N.H., product is a senior this season.

Also back is right-hander Barry LaCasse who topped the pitching staff with seven wins (in nine decisions). The senior from Skowhegan had a sparkling earned-run-average of 2.28 and had three shutouts.

Winkin said he has an "outstanding team" this season, one that has the potential to be as good as the 1976 club which made it to the College World Series.

"Our major question mark will be pitching. If the pitching comes along we could match our performance of two years ago," said Winkin.

"We're starting early this season because of the tournament. We asked all our players to come back from vacation in extra good shape. The pitchers are on throwing programs and the regulars (fielders) took bats home with them and should be swinging them every day," said Winkin who will take 10 pitchers and 15 fielders to California along with assistant coach Jack Taylor and trainer Wes Jordan.

To point out the type of company Maine will be keeping at the tournament, UC-R is the reigning Division II national champion, Valdosta State (47-16 last year) also played in the Division II championships, Stanford was 43-23 in Division I and, as previously mentioned, Washington State is the defending Riverside tournament titlist.

Chappelle believes the chances for success are favorable despite a near blanking last year when UMO's top five choices all opted for other schools.

His reasons for optimism are simple and straightforward. Last year, for example, UMO was no worse than the second choice of those top five candidates and one of the top three actually signed a letter of intent at UMO and later changed his mind. This is a considerable advancement over previous years and shows that the University of Maine at Orono is commanding more interest than ever before in the minds of young men planning to continue their education and basketball exploits. He also cites the availability of privately financed scholarship aid, the better record and more attractive scheduling as pluses in the recruiting market.

Major losses from this year's club will be captain Wally Russell of Milo who averaged 10.6 points per game and led the club in assists with a whopping 135, and starting guard Jim Klein of North Haledon, N.J. Returning and in line to battle for these positions are sometimes starter Will Morrison of Nashua, N.H., Rick Boucher of Gales Ferry, Conn., and Bob McLaughlin of Southwest Harbor.

With a steadily improving Harris, who is already close to superstar status, bonafide players in Nelson and Lapham and with a little luck on the recruiting trail the UMO basketball program has the opportunity next year to move into the top four in New England and a post-season tourney berth is well within reach.

It's all very sweet stuff for Chappelle and Gavett who back last fall weren't afraid to say that the program had finally turned the corner of respectability.
