I just assumed the more narrow definition and sent items that are a little more directly Covid related, as well as the graduation ceremony for seniors we did on Zoom in BUA 337. Also, in the fall, I'm looking at teaching BUA 325 online, half canned videos, half Zoom. The Zoom sessions will be 30 minutes for half the class in discussions/more interactive material, 10-15 minutes of common time with full class, and then about 30 minutes for the other half of the class. Still thinking about how that can be adjusted, of course. Cheers, John.

Nic, I realized I hadn't parsed the language of this closely enough as I was about to send my materials. Is it "Materials related directly to Covid-19" as in "Here are some comments on how Covid-19 will affect business operations", or is it "Materials created to deal with the switch to online teaching due to Covid-19?" Cheers, John.

AD Colleagues---

For those who haven't already forwarded this material in response to other requests, thank you in advance for soliciting the following from faculty in your colleges/divisions:

1. Word or PDF copies of COVID-19-related course activities, assignments, projects, etc. from spring 2020;
2. same as above for summer and fall 2020, including syllabi for courses focused entirely on COVID-19 (all disciplinary perspectives, all areas of scholarly expertise); and
3. any materials for COVID-19-related symposia, special journal issues, lectures, colloquia, conferences, presentations, etc. planned or projected for summer or fall 2020.

We'll happily accept materials throughout the summer, but please collect and forward what you receive in response to this initial request to Jon Jue-Wong by the close of business next Wednesday, June 3. We'll organize these materials in an Academic Affairs Google Drive as a resource for the university community, and we will also pursue stories/marketing opportunities in coordination with Margaret Nagle and individual faculty to showcase the innovative work being done all across the campus.

Thanks again for your help.

Best,

Jeff
