In accordance with the Superintendent's request I present the following report of the work of the High School.

The school was left in excellent condition by Mr. Clifford, and the work for the school year began in September under very favorable conditions. The work of the various teachers has gone on much as usual. Miss Fogg has given the entering class a thorough review of English grammar, and the analysis of sentences, and in the upper classes has done much work in composition. The Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors have recently begun their work in argumentation which includes class practice in actual debate. In addition to this a thorough study has been made of the literature required for admission to college. The classes in Latin have made very satisfying progress toward the completion of the required year's work.

Miss Smith's work in the Commercial department is proving to be more and more practical as the course progresses. It has been in operation only a comparatively short time, and there will be no graduates from this department until a year from next June. But the results already attained in Commercial Arithmetic, Bookkeeping, Typewriting and Stenography have been profitable and exceedingly practical. The purchase of three new typewriters and a typewriting table and the construction of a letter press by one of the boys have been the principal additions to the equipment for commercial work. During the senior year the students will do advance work in typewriting and stenography and will probably be given a course in United States History and Government, and a course in Commercial Law. All the students taking the Commercial course have been given regular work in business penmanship throughout the year. The Juniors in the English and classical courses have completed under Miss Smith, a review of arithmetic and algebra, and during the remainder of the year will take up advance algebra.
In French the Junior and Senior classes have been translating various stories and plays during the year, and in addition have done a small amount of grammar work and conversation. The Sophomores, beginning French, have learned the fundamentals of the grammar and have done considerable work in conversation and translation. The Seniors have reviewed their geometry and the Sophomores have begun that subject. The Freshman class has continued the study of Algebra which they begun last year in the 9th grade. In Physics, especial emphasis has been laid upon laboratory work. About one hundred experiments have already been performed. Every effort has been made to make the work as practical as possible. The equipment for the laboratory work in Physics has been ample up to the end of the winter term, but during the spring term a small amount of new apparatus will be necessary for the practical study of electricity. A course in education has been introduced this year for the benefit of those members of the Senior class who may intend to teach or who are interested in school problems. The entire class has selected the course this year. It includes a brief study of Psychology, a short course in the History of Education, and a discussion of definite problems of school management and methods.

The work in music in the High School has been changed from two periods a week to one, and it has consisted largely of singing rather than drill in the fundamentals of music which belongs to the lower grades. Results of the training in music were seen in the High School Minstrels and in the program given at the close of the recent school exhibition.

In a report of the work of the school mention should be made of the things done outside the regular course of study. An attempt has been made along three different lines to increase the interest of the students in good reading and to encourage them to write good English. The first of these was the establishment of the Log, a paper to be published three times a year by the students. This paper, under the efficient editorship and management of students has been already issued twice and has been very favorably mentioned by the papers of other schools. Another step has been the organization of a reading association. A table has been placed in the hall and has become a favorite resort for the students, who find there the daily papers and the current numbers of several magazines. The association has also purchased a newspaper rack with shelves for magazines. The third and perhaps the most important method of all has been the establishment of a school library after a plan suggested by the Superintendent. One of the greatest hindrances to the successful work of the school is the lack of a library, especially since there is no public library in town. Partly to remedy this condition until such time as the school may be able to have a reference library, we have adopted the plan of a mutual lending library. Each student and teacher submits to the librarian, Miss Fogg, a list of the books which he is willing to lend to the other students. A card index of these books were made and when a book from the list was asked for, it was brought by its owner and loaned through the librarian. This plan has worked very successfully and much use has been made of the privilege, which is extended, however, only at considerable personal sacrifice on the part of the owners of the books. It is hoped that some way may soon be found of providing the school with a library of its own.

Another new factor in the life of the High School is the High School Council, composed of three students, the teachers, and the superintendent. Meetings have been held regularly and questions pertaining to the welfare of the school discussed. Much profit has come from these meetings, and they have been the means of initiating such things as the library plan, the reorganized literary club, and the securing of new floor and equipment for the gymnasium.
An effort has been made during the winter to afford to the students new opportunities for social and literary activity by the formation of a new literary club which is a combination of the boys' and girls' clubs formed last year. The object is to encourage public speaking and debating as well as to provide an opportunity for a social gathering. It is probable that at least one interscholastic debate will be held this year. In addition to this club the people of the town have kindly opened their homes to the students on the alternate Friday nights, and several very enjoyable socials have been held.

During the Thanksgiving vacation a new floor was laid in the gymnasium and work has been going on in preparation for the indoor meet which will be held early in April. A set of chest weights has been built and raised corners constructed for running. The girls have also taken regular exercise and have in preparation two drills.

The students have raised a considerable amount of money this year for various purposes. The Fair held during the latter part of the fall term netted more than $50 for the piano fund, and the minstrel show the same evening about the same amount for the seniors. Later the seniors held a supper and presented a play very successfully, to help in the payment of their graduation expenses.

Respectfully submitted,

C. I. Chatto, Principal.
TO THE CITIZENS OF ISLAND FALLS:

We are pleased to submit to you a report of the conditions and progress of the schools for the past year and the needs for the coming year.

Work in the grades:

In most of the grades more work has been done than the course of study calls for. In the first grade, taught by Miss Merriman, the A division has read the Aldine primer and First Reader, Jones First Reader and will begin a new book the spring term. The number work has been carried along about even with the grade. They will enter second grade with much better preparation than the class did last year, chiefly because most of them have been in sub-primary and first grade for two years. The second grade, taught by Miss Watts, has made good advancement and very painstaking work has been done in this room but owing to a lack of preparation when they began second grade work they are not quite up to the required standard. We hope they will be able to make up the deficiency in the spring term. The third grade, in Miss Mayo’s room will be able to do the required work though extra drill has been given in the number work to keep them up to the grade. The fourth grade under the instruction of Miss Wood and Paulson, Miss Wood also has part of the third grade, has done good work and will be well qualified to pass to the next higher room next fall. The fifth grade, also taught by Miss Paulson, is doing the required work and is ahead in part of their studies, especially in English and Geography. Miss Shean has the sixth and seventh grades. The sixth grade is not back in anything and had completed the fifth and sixth years’ work in Geography at the close of the fall term. They were given a new and higher book at the opening of the winter term. The present fifth grade can easily do the same work next year. The sixth grade also completed its lessons in English at the close of the winter term and is prepared for the seventh grade
Grammar at the opening of the spring term. The seventh grade is meeting the requirements and is ahead in Grammar and Physiology so that the class has been able to take eighth grade Geography for the winter and spring terms. The eighth grade class has carried all its work and has done extra work in Grammar. The ninth grade will be able to enter High School next fall with a good preparation. Extra work has been made along the line of Reading and Grammar with this grade. The class is now able to analyze readily long passages from Evangeline. Miss Boynton has both the eighth and ninth grades. The three subjects that needed strengthening most in nearly all the grades were Reading, English or Grammar and Geography. Special effort has been given to these subjects and we are pleased to report excellent results. The work in the rural schools has been carried along nearly the same as in the village schools.

The work of the High School is very clearly outlined in the Principal's report to the Superintendent and it is sufficient to say that excellent work has been done, the best of school spirit shown, and teachers, superintendent and scholars have worked together most pleasantly. It is no flattery when we say that we have reasons to be proud of the strong teaching force we have in our High School as well as in the elementary schools, and the unusually pure, strong, and moral young manhood and womanhood in our student body.

The greatest need of our schools is a sewerage system for the village school buildings. The present conditions are far from what they ought to be. We should hesitate to describe them in this report. The committee appointed last year to investigate have performed their duty and will report at this town meeting. We most earnestly urge that the town take favorable action.

One more need other than the usual ones is that of manual training. We claim to have the best schools in this county and yet no school system can be complete and up-to-date that fails to give training to the body as well as to the mind. The old idea of education consisted of a knowledge of the three R’s. Important as that knowledge is to-day the newer ideas center round the three H’s, the head, the heart and the hand. The first two our schools are training, the last one they are neglecting. When industrial education is sweeping the country and holds a prominent part in nearly every educational assembly and when the state so generously gives two-thirds the cost paid for instruction and when such a course can be had without excessive cost to the tax payers it seems to your school officers that the town is just a little slow if it fails to provide manual training for its schools. We estimate the cost of benches and tools will not exceed three hundred dollars and that the town’s part of the cost of instruction will not be more than two hundred to secure the services of a first class teacher. It will be necessary to finish the unoccupied room in the new building at a small expense. After the first year but little will need to be expended except for teacher’s wages. We most earnestly urge that the town adopt this recommendation.

We wish to thank the people for their kind support of the schools, the interest you have shown in school affairs and especially in the school exhibit recently held in Pettengill Hall, and for liberal appropriations.

Respectfully submitted,

S. R. Crabtree,
C. E. Milliken,
H. H. Noyes,

S. S. Committee of Island Falls.

G. C. Hight, Superintendent.
State of Maine

To Joseph H. Lurvey, one of the Constables of the town of Island Falls,
