For Travelers

Domestic Travel Restricted (New: 04/03/2020)

The University of Maine System now prohibits all university-sponsored domestic travel beyond the State of Maine. Narrow exceptions remain for limited travel within Maine. Minimizing travel should be every employee's guide when considering whether to request, authorize, or direct domestic travel within Maine. The University understands that even at this time there is work which requires an employee's physical presence. In such cases and when the work cannot be postponed, such travel may be permitted with supervisory approval. For the limited that travel that may still occur, carpooling and sharing transportation with others except immediate family members is prohibited. The use of public transportation is prohibited unless absolutely necessary. University meetings of any kind will not require in-person attendance while this travel restriction is in place.
