restoration Of Food And Campus Store

By Don Povich
Planned is the opening of a store on the campus about one week from the date of this issue. The store will be in the basement of the University Union and will be open 24 hours a day. The store will have a large variety of merchandise, including food, clothing, and stationery.

Gatherings Planned For Students, Profes
By Burt De Frees
We here on the Brunswick Campus are, in many respects, more fortunate than other inhabitants of the state. The opportunity to participate in this type of activity, it will be necessary for me, to bring to the front on only advantage, namely, that of having our instructors so close at hand most any time during the day — and sometimes the evening as well — we map approach them with our problems and questions. From reports, it is surmised that in Orono after an instructor’s class, he takes flight in defense to the shelter of his practically impenetrable domicile.

Through the willingness of our instructors to meet with us for the purpose of discussion, the gatherings at the Student Union between the faculty and students have at last come to a realization. The first of these will take place Wednesday evening, Feb. 18, at 7:30.

It was suggested that we have a speaker on which we may base our discussion, but as a talk which would have the factors necessary for the three colleges to discuss is impossible, it is instead proposed that the students, submit questions which you would like most to have discussed. Out of these submitted a representative program will be chosen and published. The questions may be on anything, ranging from foreign affairs, the Third Party, the most recent best-seller, to the latest development in the scientific field.

Grab a piece of paper, label it “discussion”, write your question, sign your name only if you wish, and drop it in the Suggestion Box. Then, Friday, Feb. 13, look for the Orono Committee in the ANNEX and come to the Student Union the next Wednesday to discuss the topic you have chosen.

Next Week THE MAINE ANNEX will be four pages, but despite the long vacation, we will publish. As in the past, a four page edition is only an emergency, and not a permanent change.

Machinery Started For Campus Mayor Campaign

Annex Wheels Begin Political Grind As Constituents Canvas Campus for Petition Signatures

By John L. Borden
In the Student Union on Friday February 27th, there will be a dance to inaugurate the 1948 “Mayor of the Campus”. When the Student Senate met two weeks ago it was decided to sponsor a “Mayor of the Campus” campaign which would terminate at the dance where the new mayor will receive his justly won rewards.

Last year the campaign was held with great success, and the way everybody is this year you know, “Lead me but to the path of glory”, I’m sure it will be a banner year for candidates who will vie with each other and who will make the most passionate senatorial Western hang their heads on their dropped “cheeks”. Last year the candidates made a lot of promised, but this year the man you elect is the one who is the most sincere. After all, if a candidate determines does help one to conserve his energy.

In order to be a candidate for the office of student campus mayor you must submit a petition signed with at least thirty-five names to the Student Senate. A few minutes one of my “Zinger and Sickle” boys called me up and told me that one hopeful candidate has three hundred and fifty names already signed. My only comment is, “Capitalist propaganda”. Through necessity the candidates will be limited to four, so the four with the most names on their petitions will be the ones to dig up the cut-throat tactics.

The campaign speeches will be presented on the steps of the Annex during the twentieth of February. Refraining days will be on Tuesday the 24th and Wednesday the 25th. An assembly will be held that week in the student Union and on Thursday the 26th. We will be held to determine who can throw the most of the hestulent ball.

This dance is being sponsored by the campus mayor, and his kin (and his henchmen) and will not men going around and about in the next few weeks to take care of

Mid-Years — And Other Such Nonsense

By the time we go to press, the frenzy of the winter term — we hope — will have been on the wane. For a while the campus has echoed with the released expressions of pent-up duffesses hopes and anxiety. The floor of the chow hall has run red with broken kettles, bottles and pieces of expertly thrown bottles. Continuous warfare has been waged in the dormitories, with every hall a no-man’s-land, and every room a flash point. Numerous bodes have appeared in the walls of various buildings, and out a few still contain the heads of frustrated students.

The reason for the present hubbub, needless to say, is extremely apparent. It is a custom among the majority of the American University, unfortunately, to conduct an annual series of examinations under the discouraging title of “Mid-Years.” The Brunswick Campus is deeply engrossed in this titil of traditional anguish. The hope of each and every man is that these tests will in truth be mid-years, and not final.

However, supposing that we are all together again next term, how about making the Campus a little better community in which to associate with each other. As important are the factors in the office of a man called spirit et corps, or school spirit. One way in which the spirit might be built up is by having a larger number of students turn out for the various campus and sports functions of the future. Another is by choosing a man to back the coming Mayors of the Campus, and backing him all the way.

A second factor is the practice of banging trees and steamers for the least invitation in the show line. The first time was merely amusing, the second was just a piece of understatement — and the third was downright childish. One last thing, if you must throw food, let’s have no more of the chocolate mustard pie — it’s rough on stretched collars.

Rep. Margaret Smith
Brunswick Speaker
Representative Chase Smith has accepted the invitation to the town meeting to speak before the student body on Wednesday evening, February 25th. 2:00. The talk will be open all students of the Brunswick Annex.

Mrs. Smith recently asked the question, “What is the purpose of the veterans’ subsistence; in so doing, Mrs. Smith submitted information for the benefit of the representatives of the Maine campus.

Of the fourteen senators candidates in Maine, only three are candidates for the seat in the Annex. The Political Forum plans to invite the remaining candidates to the campus will be held in the Annex. The Political Forum plans to invite the remaining candidates to the campus.

THE EDITOR’S DESK...

In every game, it be a card game or the game of running a newspaper, there comes a time for a re-shuffle and a new deal. And the reasons for re-shuffling, in general, are these: that the adoptability of new means to the same end lends new spirit to the game and tends to recapture the waning interest of its onlookers. When variety revives interest, in a card game, the dealer may achieve variety by tossing in the joker, or by letting the deck run wild.

In the hope of recapturing our readers’ apparently waning interest, therefore, we of the ANNEX staff decided last week to revitalize our newspaper through the means of a re-election. New officers would mean a new editorial policy and perhaps a completely changed newspaper.

The election was held under the chairmanship of our very able faculty advisor, Bruce Marliash. Before the election proper, the staff enacted some by-laws—this is done with in a news story—‘to put teeth into its organization. To the position of Editor, William Robertson succeeds Roy W. Nickerson for the second semester. Nickerson was elected to serve as one of the Managing Editors, and Emerle Genest was elected to be the other. Wendell Hodgkins was chosen to be Feature Editor. Other changes in staff positions may be noted in the masthead on this page.

For Roy Nickerson, to whom should go most of the credit for organizing the ANNEX this year, the members of the staff have a great deal of appreciation and gratitude for his efficient management of the paper throughout the first semester. Nickerson, who will continue to serve as our bookkeeper, will still be a valuable member of the staff.

In our new deal—aces high—Bill Robertson, who was a joker in the last hand, is now the Ace of Spades, our editor. And he has a full house of news ideas for running a newspaper. Among other things, there will be new features that will help to make the students feel more keenly that this is their paper. Other features, for which there appears to be no regular demand, will be cut. The staff will be enlarged, and thereby we hope to give you a higher caliber of writing. The cards are out, the chips are down, and it’s anybody’s bet. Someone who cares to bet that this won’t be a better newspaper? Raise you five!

We would like to add that a new policy has been drawn up for the paper. Included are three items worthy of being passed on to our reading public:

1. All student workers who hold a position on the staff; (2) writings from guest writers may be submitted for publication; (3) there will be a joyous, open-armed welcome for all those desirous of experience in the field of newspaper advertising; and (4) finally, we would like to say that we need a Business Manager who knows books and is willing to contribute one or two hours a week to the upkeep of same.

A little research has shown that the milk consumption per meal in- creases during the course of a day. We gulp down about 460 quarts at each meal, or around one pint at a sitting. We can imagine about three hundred men turned out for the variety show. Some three hundred quarts is a wishful thought had they heard of its success. Seems strange that just a little over one third of the student body could find an hour and a half in which to end joy themselves and to contribute to the variety case. The new rates indicate that a fairly large number signed for the Prism... Attention! The senior classes are now offered a selection of armed manics from Weller Hall. They and several other jokers are armed with firecrackers and won’t give up their folly until some gets hurt—College? Hell no, to them it’s a playground for the mentally unbalanced. Maybe when they’re home they sit at the supper table and cast lighted firecrackers about the room for entertainment...

It seems that the ship’s store has acquired a new look to keep in style. Maybe they should hire more like her to make the boys forget that cake is seven cents a box...

For the benefit of Arts students who might wonder how a T-square is used, the guide is set aside. The Tech boys use the squares or circles as an aid to themselves in toggling their numerous books around...

THOUGHTS WHILE SHOWING: Don’t know why Os Ed behaves as if he’s still making a living in the privacy business up in the mountains of the South. Why? You don’t need to take your car to a garage to put it in cold storage; just leave it in the parking lot. Probably there are a half dozen under that pile of snow...

The hockey team made a good showing at its first time out. At this writing the Bowdoin J. V. ‘s haven’t been beaten on the ice. Too bad we couldn’t have seen the game. The Charleston lads are tops in prep school competition this year... Havre de Grace Memorial last January 30th... As Tokio Rose would have said, “Boys, Steel yourself to take those tests! FACULTY FAC

By Robert Corrigan

This week I had the pleasure of meeting my advisor. He is all of you know: Clifford Linth the Physics Dept. At first he had a little skeptical about an inten- tion to take a couple of the less history, (hit by hit).

Little graduated from Brunswick High (a local boy, no less) and then joined the ranks of old Bowdoin Beasts. There he is a year and a half studying physics. The Navy then grabbed him or he spent his service as a radio- nic career sending his work over the other waves. After basic training he entered the N. V.-12 program. Under the V. studied at Bates and then went down to Harvard where completed his control. During his time as a member of the Navy career worked as a radio technician for Aner Aeronautical Laboratories on the West Coast under NASA.

Upon being discharged from the Navy he returned to Bowdoin and received his B.S. Degree. Year he took the position of Phys- ics Instructor here at the ANNEX was also faculty advisor for Ski Team and coached tennis the Spring.

Clifford Little plans to attend University of Maine next year complete his studies for his Ph.D. Degree. The subject of thesis will be geiger counters, really believes that he is in love with his “that machine”. If you could him bending over that geiger-con- ter trying to pick up the rays as stirred from his wristwatch you think so, too.

In putting the finishing touches on this article a sudden thought came to me: the reader probably had better be prepared; Mr. L. is liable to appear over at that station at any time.

THE SEA
By B. D.
Oh, how I long for the life of the sea—
The pounding, majestic, mysterious sea.
The roaring, rocking, whitecap covered
The salty, clammy, chilling spray
That swallows ships by night or day.
Oh, how I long for the life of the sea—
The calm, carressing, beautiful sea,
Where far and about, all that surrounds suggests peace, quiet, tranquility Oh, how I long for the life of the sea—
The moon at night is mirrored in the sea
The sun sparkles blindly all through the day.
The sea . . . where peace holds forth
The sea . . . where cares are lost at their source.
Nothing matters—we are naught.
It's the sea, the sea, the magnificent sea
That draws us—holds us—shuts us
Out from life's common fraught.
Oh, how I long for the life of the sea—
Now let me live the clandestine life
Of the sea.

Mr. French Answers Questions

In answer to the many questions that have been asked about registration and schedule changes, here are the answers to several of the questions as obtained in an interview with Mr. French.

The principle role that will be followed for schedule changes is, all students will normally continue in the same division in the same course to which they are now. A person who fails a subject will unquestionably have the schedule changed in all of his classes. No scheduled changes can be made because there is not enough time available to permit it. The Registrar's Office is running on a tight schedule and they have tremendous task of record keeping about 10,000 grades. Because of the amount of clerical work that has to be done in such a short time, your advisor will only have the fall-grading grades. The typed reports will be out Friday the thirteenth if it is possible.

A word about Saturday classes, Mr.
French says that it is unfortunately necessary to have Saturday classes because of the large enrollment. He continued to say that if Saturday classes are actually a hardship on a student, he may write a letter to the director's office stating the hardship, and this letter will be taken up by a committee. He adds that somebody had to have Saturday day classes, and it was merely because there were students who needed it.

The classes start Friday, February 13, at 8:00 a.m.

CORRECTIONS

In this issue we'd like to make two apologies, one for referring to Mr. Cole as a chef; he is in reality a steward. The other, we wish to apologize for drawing unnecessarily favorable light on Mr. Ryan, personally, in last week's editorial. Also, the editorial indicated that the Athletic department did not know of University Store donations to the V.F. M., in reality it was meant to be stated that the donation, which had been stated by other parties, was not known.

INHERITANCE

By Burton DeFree

It has been eight months since your conception, my son. And for eight months, I have wondered what it was that made my father give to you that you may enter the world a bit more prepared for the future than most men. I cannot explain the actions of my people, nor that which makes them act as they do. I, however, know why there is hatred in a world so small. I cannot tell when we will, like our fathers, and why it is inevitable that we do so. I do not understand why all men are not treaties. Domestication is no sign of inferiority.

No one can give you answers to these questions; you must reason them out for yourself. That is why you are born into this world—to answer the questions, and to take part in their correction.

There are, though certain things, with which every man is gifted, and these are the things which I give to you.

I give you the green grass, through which you may walk bare, footed with your toes curling deep into the tall verdant blades of the earth. In August, when the leaves have fallen to protect the fabric from the snow, you may rake down the leaf-mold to heal wounds con

I give you the snow. From it you can make a snowman, the only reason for which they were piled, their beauty, they can always be rebuilt. There will be hills of snow for sledding woods of snow for walking, and everywhere the world will be b Knit a fake coat of one's own to improve tractability.

But above all, I give you the greatest wealth on earth. I give you the happiness of your fellow man: his joy of a loving family; his love of life from when he was a boy; his respected station: his successes; his rights and the future these rights will give him.

I give you the suffering of your fellow man: his sorrow for his dead; his loss of hope; his loss of will and the wretchedness of living lonely in a world of millions; and his present fear of the severity which he has created. His plea for warmth and light and guidance will ring in your ears, and your most mean bat- and er to answer.

These, then are your inheritance seasons and the peoples. If you understand and enjoy your future will be secure.

In the first annaul hockey game in Annex history, the Annex squad pocketed a heart-breaking 1-0 win over the visiting Middlesex team.

The game's outcome was decided early in the first period when Bowdoin's captain, Murray, scored. The puck, deflected by the Middlesex goalie, found its way into the net in the first minute of play.

Second period action was more even, with both teams applying solid defense. However, Bowdoin capitalized on a penalty shot by Middlesex goalie in the final minute, to increase their lead to 2-0, and secure the win.

The Annanx team played a solid game, with出色 defense throughout. Murray's goal was the only blemish on the Middlesex defense. The game was played in 70-degree weather, and the crowd of 1000 fans enjoyed an exciting contest.

Sports Sidelights

The Maine Annex has a great hockey team. Although they have dropped their first two games, they fought both teams right down to the wire. In both of these games, the Annex has come from behind to tie the game in the last minutes of play. It seems too bad that the University does not have a varsity team. We hope that some day in the future that the University will have one.

On Thursday night, the Annex takes on the Colburn Classical Institute from Waterville. It was the same club that downed the Maine Jayvees. This should be a hard fought game right down to the wire. On Saturday night, the Annex goes to Orono to tackle the Jayvees in their return game. We predict that the Annex will get its revenge over this club. However, it could go either way and will be no cinch for the winner.

On the following Tuesday, the Annex tackles the Portland Junior College.

Coach Raymond will have the spring sports schedule ready for release in a few days. And believe it or not, spring is just around the corner. Get that baseball equipment in shape for it won't be long now.

ANNEX DRUBS
M.C.L. 60 to 43

By Mac McAuslan

The Maine Annex basketball team rolled to another victory on Jan. 27 at Pittsfield by turning back the Maine Central Institute 63 to 40.

In the initial period, the scoring started very slowly as both teams missed several foul shots. M. C. I. scored first, but this was followed by a basket and a foul shot by Small. The M. C. I. quickly tied the score again, and the game remained tied until Keese sank two foul shots to give the Annex the lead. At the end of the period, the Annex had a 1 to 7 lead.

The Annex broke out in a short scoring spree with Mahaney, Goudin, and Adams hitting the rim for the visitors from Brunswick. They built up a 22 to 12 point lead midway through the second period, and the M.C.I. could regain its footing. When the M.C.I. club started to move, they cut the Annex lead to eight points at the end of the first half.

With the Annex ahead 28 to 20, both clubs began to roll up the score. Using a fast break the Annex piled up a comfortable 15 point lead.

The final quarter saw Gott sinking several long shots and playing a bang up game. Leet chucked three in three out of four foul shots, and Jewett scored the final basket to end the game 63 to 40.

Gott was the outstanding player on both offense and defense for the Annex. He scored a high 14 points, and he fouled out in the third period. Dyke and Crowley were key men for the M.C.I. club.

Bridgton Hands Annex
Puckstet Second Loss

The Annex hockey squad suffered its second defeat at the hands of Bridgton Academy by a score of 4 to 3. The Bridgton squad built up a three to nothing lead in the first two periods of play. They had continued outskated and out-played the Annex squad in building their lead.

The Annex caught fire in the last period as they slipped three points through the net. One of these points came on a beautiful free shot that slipped past the goalie. With less than a minute and a half to play and only three men and the goalie left on the ice for the Annex, Bridgton chucked in a shot from ten feet out.

The Annex has now lost two heartbreakers, but they will be out to revenge their first defeat when they tackle Bowdoin J. V. on the Bowdoin ice.

STUDENT SILHOUETTES

By Sid Foleman

This week, as a part of the new policy of your MAINE ANNEX we are proud to present a new feature, STUDENT SILHOUETTES. The new series of columns will serve to introduce to you various outstanding men-about-campus. All of the school's Men of Distinction who will be written up will already be well-known to most of you. The interviews will serve to acquaint you with the more important details of their precoc- lege life, and all the data on what they've been doing around school to make themselves worthy of recognition. As you can well understand, an important part of any such column is a picture of the Man of the Hour showing him in his natural surroundings. We are unable to follow this policy in the current edi- tion, but we promise a full Roger's gallery, if necessary, from here on in. So if you want to find out who's who, if you are interested in getting to know your fellow Maine-men, if you wonder just who a certain Joe is and what he is like, this pillar is just what you want. On with the show!

As you may or may not know, the U. of M. Annex numbers among the population two men who thought enough of the dear old Alums Mater to come to school here all the way from a foreign country. This week's Man of Distinction is one of these, Lee Prince, whose home town is Caracas, Venezuela, where his fa- ther is connected with the chewing gum industry. Lee's school days have been spent in the States, specifical- ly Bloomfield, N. J., where he attended secondary school, and Storm King, N. Y., near West Point, where he went to prep school. While in school, he was ac- tive in sports, with soccer and foot- ball sharing the limelight. Follow- ing this, he took a vacation from school life in the form of an all- expense tour of Europe through the courtesy of the U. S. Army. Be- tween the summer of 1945 and Christmas, 1946, Lee served with a Field Artillery lienion outfit, where he was an instructor in the main- tenance/conf reconnaissance planes. His activities carried him through France, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Belgium, and Hungary, until "that happy day," late in 1946 when he went through the process known as separation.

Since he arrived at Maine this fall, Lee's main interest has been in the field of the Spanish language, which would seem natural in consi- deration of his South American background. He's also taken part in the activities of the Maine Out- Ing Club and the BUMS, becoming the secretary of the latter. His ambition is to become a geologist, preferably in the field of the petroleum industry, and he hopes to make his career carry him down Venezuela way. His outside interests include flying (he works at the Caracas airport summers), and holds a student pilot's license and motorcycles. When asked for a rea- son, he said that he thought there was nothing so enjoyable as flying out and traveling on one's own initiative.

As for his habitation here, school, blonde, crewwcut Lee has been for a while in Dorm 30, and resides in the fair city of Brus-wick. When asked if he had any general comments or gripes he said, "none." When published, his only reply was that he considers Maine winters very cold. We agree.
