BANANAS V
Look Out for the Duesaredue!

A dangerous monster threatens the very existence of the Alumni Association and the Alumni Office. 1236 loyal alumni are helping to fight this common enemy and keep it harmless. However, this spring finds the situation critical and it would enable the Alumni Association to show real progress if the rest would join the fight and help exterminate this Duesaredue which has engaged us in a battle to the death.

Shoot in your check for $3.00 or $10.00 to pay your Alumni Dues. That is your part in the fight. Neglect this call for help if you will but do not be surprised if the old Alumni Office emerges from the fight weakened and perhaps disabled.

Heed the cry for HELP. Do your bit and do it now! Will you mail that check today?

Two Big Alumni Banquets

As The Alumnus goes to press two alumni gatherings are having the pleasure of hearing Dr. C. C. Little. New York and Philadelphia—April 23 and 24.

How Does Your Class Stand?

The following shows how the several classes support the Alumni Association. An average of 20% had paid dues up to April 15th, when this tabulation was made. Of course the figures include all living graduates and non-graduates whose addresses are known. What are you going to do about it?

Commencement Plans and Promises

The biggest and best Commencement ever is being planned by the 1926 Commencement Committee for next June. As has been the custom during recent years, class reunions of the so-called five year classes will be featured, and the alumni program will be built about their activities.

For some months and in some cases, for some years, the officers of the reunion classes have been making plans for the return to Maine next June. The class of '75 will hold its 50th anniversary. The class of '20 its first reunion. Of special interest to older alumni is the announcement that Dr. Jordan of the class of '75 who will be the Commencement Speaker.

Indications are that more alumni than ever before will return for Commencement this year. The reunion classes are generally fortunate in having as class secretaries, very enthusiastic and capable men.

The Commencement Committee working in unison with the class secretaries and with the Faculty Committee on Commencement are doing everything possible to make plans that will insure the success of their program which it is hoped will provide for every minute of the returning alumni's time.

The reunion classes have luncheons, outings, dances and frolics scheduled for their own management and amusement. Most of the younger classes are returning in strength for Friday morning and alumni activities will be numerous and varied from then on until the alumni banquet on Saturday night. Many, of course, will stay over for the graduation exercises the following week.

The class of 1915 has challenged the other reunion classes to a baseball game of about three innings and it is their hope that a tournament can be arranged so that a championship baseball series between reunion classes can be played. This will probably be scheduled for Saturday afternoon following the frolics. There is a state championship baseball game on Friday afternoon between Colby and Maine. This offers returning alumni an opportunity to see the Maine ball team in action.

Last year a Committee of Maine Alumnae headed by Dean Colvin arranged a schedule for the entertainment of the wives of returning alumni for Saturday morning while their husbands were attending the meeting of the General Alumni Association.

This move was so successful that it will be repeated and, if possible, improved upon this year. The Commencement Committee is anxious for returning alumni to bring their wives and children and they are planning to make the visit of these ladies to the Maine campus so pleasant that they will always be eager to return.

The Alumni Banquet of Saturday evening will be very similar to the banquet of last June which was so successful. There will be no dull moments. Every precaution will be taken that the capacity crowd which is annually in the big Gymnasium, is well fed and entertained. Reunion classes will see that there are no dull moments. Speeches will be few in number, short in length and will be made by men to whom it is both pleasant and worth while to listen. These will be four in number. There will be a representative for the graduation class, an alumni speaker, one from the Board of Trustees and the principal speaker of the evening will be Dr. Clarence Little, President of the University.

The Class Frolics of Saturday afternoon promise to be on a larger and more elaborate scale than ever before. The class of 1920 dressed in Yama Yama suits supported by their own band have a varied and interesting list of stunts to pull. The class of 1915 will repeat their circus performance which won them fame at their 5th reunion in 1920. This class will wear clown costumes and in the parade to the field will have a large variety of vehicles, animals and characters.

And so one might go on down through the several classes, each with plans well laid will vie with the others in a Carnival of Fun in an effort to win, for a day, the title of the greatest class that ever left the University of Maine.

Reservations will be made for all returning alumni on the campus. It is hoped and expected that classes can be quartered together. The administration at the University is cooperating with the Alumni Office to make this possible. One class or more will be given a section of Balentine Hall, perhaps another will have a part of Mt. Vernon, several will find assigned to them sections of Hannibal Hamlin Hall and Oak Hall and several of the fraternity houses have already offered their facilities for the entertainment of returning alumni.

Commencement and Alumni Day, which is Saturday, June 6th, is rapidly drawing near. The Committee however, assures all alumni that plans will be well made for their entertainment while on the campus. It is time now for all Maine alumni and especially, for those belonging to the reunion classes to make definite plans for their return to Orono in June. The Alumni Office is prepared to help in every way. A letter will bring the information desired, to any alumni. Dr. Little says, "Come Back," the graduating class say, "Come Back," your brother alumni say, "Come Back." Heed the call!

Commencement Quarters

For Reunion Classes

There is a constant and insistent demand from reunion classes for quarters in Balentine Hall at Commencement. Classes want to be together and they somehow seem to favor the girls dorm.

As all cannot be quartered there the Commencement Committee is considering assigning rooms in Balentine to that class which is most deserving and the most deserving class will apparently be the one which has the largest percentage of its membership paid up members of the Alumni Association. Have you paid your dues?
Interesting Details About
The New Gymnasium

Plans for the mammoth indoor field at the University of Maine are complete and construction will probably start in May. This section of the $500,000.00 Memorial Gymnasium- Armory which is being given by Maine Alumni to the State institution will be finished in time to be put into use next fall.

The steel contract has been awarded to the Boston Bridge Company. The contract for the balance of the construction of, at least, the indoor field will be awarded shortly.

Recent conferences with the engineers of the Rich D. Kimball Company of Boston, who are the engineers for heat, light, power and plumbing, have made it possible to settle many details.

The indoor field is to be heated by heaters in each of the four corners with fans to drive the heat. A temperature of 60° will be maintained in this section. The start and finish of the 100 yard dash can be heated. An interesting point made by the engineers is that when the indoor field is not in use, at some time like during the Christmas vacation, all heat can be shut off and the field allowed to freeze without damage. Offices and the military section will be heated to 70°.

Plans for ventilation in the main gymnasium are all inclusive. Six changes of air per hour are provided for in the locker rooms and ten in the showers. In the drying room a coil will dry uniforms and equipment. This room will be thoroughly ventilated.

The lighting of the indoor field will be cared for by twenty-eight 1500 watt lights. The straight away will be lighted sectionally and separately. The lights of the indoor field will be arranged in three sections so that it will not be necessary to light the whole field when only one end is in use. One control will master these three sections of light.

It is planned to have a public telephone installed in the main entrance to the gymnasium.

Arrangements for broadcasting both from the indoor field and the gymnasium are being made. Also the use of motion pictures has been considered.

The Building Committee hopes to secure the advice and services of Dennis Enright of Harvard University in the building of the track and the floor of the indoor field. Mr. Enright is recognized as being one of the greatest authorities in the country for this sort of work. He will be asked to come to Orono as soon as possible to look over the site.

For practical purposes the indoor field will be divided into two parts. One for track and the other for baseball or football, whichever is the seasonable sport.

The baseball end of the field will be enclosed in fish net. An infield of regulation size will be in this end of the field.

Coach Kanaly, after a detailed study of the problem, has recommended that we duplicate that section of Harvard Stadium which is used for field events in the track half of our indoor field. The size of the Main field is brought out when it is learned that everything can be duplicated except that the run way for the broad jump will not be so long. However, this can be 108 feet, which is a longer run way than is used now on alumni field.

There is to be a run way for the pole vault of 102 feet and a pit 13 feet square. For the high jump there is a 60 foot run way.

Provision is made for the hammer throw and discus. Coach Kanaly recommends that these sports be practised for when the indoor field is not otherwise in use. Shot putters can work with a 50 foot clearance.

It has been found possible to provide for a 220 yard dash with only one turn.

Maine will soon have the greatest indoor field anywhere in the East.

1909 Reunion in Wellesley

1909 is proud of the loyalty of her members, but loyalty is not the only explanation of the frequent well-attended reunions held in the vicinity of Boston. For several years semi-annual gatherings were held, either in the city or at some of the near-by country inns. They have always been successful, but new life and enthusiasm have been shown ever since the Swampscott party last May, when the wives were invited, in order that they might become acquainted before attending the big 15th Reunion at Commencement, which was pronounced the best he had ever seen by an alumnus of another class, who has never misses a commencement.

The latest party was at the Wellesley Inn on Saturday, March 14, attended by the following members, with their wives:

Put Bruce, of Nahant; Harry Farnham, George Derrmg and Deke White, of Lynn; Harry Sutton, of West Roxbury; Joe Gerrity, of Newton; Lew Pike of Wellesley Farms; Fred Knight, of Weymouth; Spike Mayo, of Portland; Harold Rich of Auburndale.

This reunion was even more enjoyable than the others have been, due partly to the pleasant surroundings and the careful preparations by Joe Gerrity, but most of all to the friendly spirit now so well established.

Following the dinner, a short business meeting was held in the attractive dance hall adjoining, after which the card sharks and the dancers, whether devotees of jazz or the well-remembered Virginia reel, were given an opportunity to exercise their skill and grace.

The enthusiasm shown by the Mayos in coming from Portland was much appreciated, and great satisfaction was evident when Fred Knight, the class president, announced his intention to remain in Boston, where he has recently accepted a position of responsibility with the Edison Company, after many years with Stone and Webster.

Towards the close of the evening, Mrs. Berry invited the whole gathering to a party at her home in Malden on April 11. Of course the invitation was enthusiastically accepted. An outsider might suppose that two meetings so near together would satisfy the desires of the class, but 1909 members know better, and it is understood that another party is being planned for May.

Old Prisms

Have you any volumes of the U. of M. Prism? The Alumni Office should have a complete file and any alumnus having issues of the Prism for which they have little use could make a most acceptable gift to the Alumni Office.
Track Prospects
Coach Kanaly Comments on the Situation.

With a grand total of 195 men comprising the track squad for the present season a great interest has resulted.

The only dual meet that it was possible to arrange for the varsity team this year will be held at the University of New Hampshire on Saturday, April 25th. Last year in this meet, held at Orono, we won with a score of 84\% to 50\%. We are presenting a stronger front than last year and unless our adversaries have materially advanced we should again place the balance in our favor.

The next event scheduled will be Freshmen vs. Huntington School of Boston at Orono on May 2nd. This event should prove of great benefit to our progress as the Bostonians are one of the most advanced school-boys teams in the country and for our Freshmen to cope with such a delegation will naturally raise our standards to a desired plane. The prospects of winning considerably favor Huntington though we will offer strong competition. This meet is the only acceptance of invitations sent to almost all preparatory schools and freshmen college teams. The fact of a like circumstance with the varsity team prompts the thought that considerable missionary work will be necessary to keep apace of the advancement expected with the opening of the Alumni Gymnasium.

Interclass games are listed for May 5th, 6th and 7th in connection with Junior Week program and should uncover some first class performances and much needed competition so vital to later events.

The Interscholastic Meet to be held on our field on May 9th should prove of greater magnitude than last year as over 100 schools have been invited by the Faculty Manager of Athletics Prof. B. C. Kent.

Baseball
In contrast to his former gloomy mood, Coach "Cuddy" Murphy is beginning to smile now and then these days. The change in "Cuddy's" outward appearance has no doubt been caused by the slightly different outlook which now presents itself on the all-important question of Maine's 1925 ball club.

Daily practice games have revealed much hidden strength. The boys have shown a lot of hitting power, a more than ordinary infield defense, and a team as a whole which may prove to be a lot more potent than skeptics have predicted.

The squad has been cut from 70 odd down to a working basis of 34. Of these, ten are pitchers, three catchers, twelve infielders and nine outfielders.

Captain Drew Stearns is going as good as ever, and seems to be all set for a big year. "Tim" Lawry, who is acting as his understudy, is also looking good at short, and will prove a capable substitute for Stearns. On the other side of the keystone sack, "Joie" Gay seems to have nailed down his job. The sophomore star is every inch a ball player, as those who saw him play last spring with the frosh outfit will agree. His only weakness was his hitting, and he seems to have overcome that failing this year, as the outfielders now move back when "Joie" comes to bat. "Ted" Hale and "Joe" Simons are other aspirants for the job at the second cushion.

At third, Stanton, Cassista, and Durrell are all about evenly matched. All these boys have been doing a lot of hitting and all look good in the field. This position, together with first base, where "Pop" Phipps and "Sam" Cutts are the chief contenders, is still unfilled.

In the practice games, Wing, Hackett, and Meserve have been alternating with Newhall, Linekin, and Lewis, with Linscott and Chalmers as subs. Wing and Hackett, converted from pitcher and shortstop respectively, have done the heaviest hitting to date.—Maine Campus.

All Maine Women’s Banquet

It was fifty years ago last June when the first woman graduated from the University of Maine, and at the Commencement of 1925 sixty girls are to receive their sheep skins. Since 1914 nearly three times as many women have been graduated from the University as in all its past history. This rapid growth in women students has brought problems and opportunities which only Maine women can assume.

With this in view the alumnae group on the campus, who are also graduate students, planned and executed the first All Maine Women’s Banquet.

Balentine Hall, since it was on the campus and would give the alumnae returning, a chance to visit and get acquainted with the campus as it is today, was chosen as the best place to hold the banquet. On Thursday evening, April 16, 1925, eighty Maine women and Dr. Little felt, as never before, the unity and strength of Maine women as a body.

The splendid banquet and whole-hearted singing put the group in a happy mood, to say the least, and the after dinner speeches served to keep us jovial. The speakers were Dr. Little, Dr. Percie Hopkins, a delegate from each of the three major lines of women’s activities—Student Government, Y. W. C. A. and Athletic Association, Mildred Prentiss Wright from the alumnae and Dr. Caroline Colvin, Dean of Women, Lucile Clark Hamlin and Gladys Merrill furnished some excellent music. Kay Kellogg came down from Radcliffe to act as toastmistress. Thru it all ran the feeling of joy for past achievement and optimism about the future. The need of a stronger alumnae organization was felt and we hope to see that develop soon. Some of our outstanding alumnae, though unable to be present, sent greetings. Among these were Joanna Coleord, and Dr. Mary Ellen Chase. Mrs. Fernald, the wife of our first president, Dr. Fernald, sent a most interesting letter although she herself was unable to be present. Her letter paid to Dr. Colvin the tribute she so well deserves as the one woman who has meant most to the life of women on the Maine campus.

The need of a group of women of character, dignity and scholastic ability possessing strong college feeling and well balanced all round development to carry on the work of unifying and strengthening women’s activities on the campus was met by the spotting with Maine’s symbol—the pine tree of students worthy to be called “All Maine Women.” This group is made up of the following girls:

Farmers’ Week

Maine’s most successful Farmers’ Week was held here at the College of Agriculture the first of this month. The largest registration on record was one of the outstanding features. Approximately five hundred farmers and home makers were in attendance.

Beginning at eight thirty in the morning of March 31st, four sessions were held continuously until Friday noon. At these all phases of agriculture of interest to Maine Farmers were discussed by prominent and well known speakers from Maine and other states in the East. The problems of the home maker were taken up by women widely known in home economics.

One of the special features was the presenting of a tablet in memory of Lutillus Alden of Winthrop in the Agricultural Hall of Fame in Winslow. Dr. Leon S. Merrill, Dean of the College of Agriculture delivered the address of dedication while Dr. Clarence C. Little, President of the University accepted the tablet on behalf of the institution.

Frank P. Washburn, Commissioner of Agriculture was the principal speaker at an evening meeting attended by nearly two hundred persons. Mr. Washburn told why Maine was a good state in which to engage in the business of agriculture.

Among the more important actions taken by the various organizations are the following:

The Federation of Agricultural Associations representing all agricultural interests in the state voted to organize a committee to meet with the Bankers Association of Maine to draw up a plan by which the financial and agricultural interests can work together more satisfactorily. The Federation of Farm Bureaus voted a protest against too much so called farm legislation.

Eleven agricultural organizations held annual meetings or conducted programs during the week. A basketry school for the women was an added feature to the home economics program. Every session of this was attended by at least forty to fifty women.

The program was brought to a climax with the annual Farmers’ Week banquet in Balentine Hall. Dr. Little was the principal speaker while John E. Abbott, member of the Maine State Grange, acted as toast master. Several men and women prominent in Maine farmers’ circles spoke.

A Letter to 1880

Dear Classmates:

According to the Bible we have possible or probable only another five year period after 1925 for which to celebrate such an anniversary as we have this year. Let us improve this year’s anniversary anyway, and try and beat the old fellow with a sythe a few more years.

Years have gone on so fast since the M. S. C., alias the University of Maine gave us our sheepskin and sent us out to make good that we have forgotten that “tempus fugits” and have kept putting off and putting off a reunion. It is high time we celebrate. Make up a little lost time. True, we have not made or unmade presidents, governors, etc. Nevertheless we can hold up our heads if we have filled the little niche assigned us in this world to the best of our ability.

Without further urging, let us give our Alma Mater a few days Commencement Week and sometime during the week have a banquet of “hot biskuit” and “apple sass” (a la the Henry Lauder menu) at the Commons.

Cast years and gray hairs to the winds, and make us students again just for one night.

Yours sincerely and happily,

A. H. Brown, ’80,
Secretary.
April 8, 1925.

Mr. Robert P. Clark,
University of Maine,
Orono, Maine.

My dear Clark:

Just a word to let you know we are on the job and working toward Maine on June 6th. We are attempting to reach all graduates of '20 by personal letter and are asking for five dollars to carry out our plans. Replies are coming in as well as can be expected and follow-up letters will be sent. I think we will have a good delegation back and we are trying to fix up an interesting program. Will be glad to have any information you may want to send us and in particular I want to inquire concerning reservations at one of the Halls for members of the class. Can you give us Coburn Hall for our Reunion Headquarters?

I am giving the following information to you and I hope this will fit into the program of other Reunion Classes.

1. We have purchased Yama Yama suits for all members and others who will join the class of '20.
2. We have ordered 500 balloons stamped with 1920.
3. We have ordered one big Reunion Banner for Headquarters.
4. We are having one dozen 1920 auto banners.
5. Arrangements are being for a Class Band (I do not know with what success).
6. We will pull a “wise one” at the banquet.

E. P. Jones,
Secretary of Class of '20.

Foresters Among Seniors

Refuse to Sport Canes

UNIVERSITY OF MAINE, April 13—University of Maine foresters of the class of 1925 have declared war on the high cost of being seniors by refusing to sport the festive canes which have been ushered forth during the past week by their classmates, and which have been a part of the near-graduate's spring equipment since the days of the hoop-skirt, “stove-pipe,” and “hossless carriage.” Axe handles, they say, are good enough for them. Since this good old, homely implement is to be the emblem of their future calling, the foresters are now carrying them about the campus with all the “savoir faire” of Beaux Brummells of the woods.

It is expected that the girls in the Home Economic Department will also declare themselves in a similar fashion and appear on the campus with some form of rolling pin as companion from this time forth until graduation.

Cross Country Abolished at Bowdoin

BOWDOIN COLLEGE, April 13—At a meeting of the Bowdoin College Athletic Council held Saturday afternoon, it was voted to abolish cross country as a college sport. This is a rather radical move as Bowdoin has always been represented by such a team in the fall. There was practically no opposition to this move, all the members of the athletic council being in favor of it. Coach John Magee was a strong supporter of the idea of abolishing the sport. Coach Magee says that notwithstanding the most expert coaching there is a possibility of the cross country man straining his heart. It is his contention that the long six-mile run is too much for the average college athlete. He will not, however, discard the short inter-fraternity cross country run.

Dr. Little Sneaks

On Birth Control

On March 30, during the spring recess, President Little addressed the Birth Control Conference in the Hotel McAlpine, New York City. The New York World, reporting the conference in its morning issue the following day, featured Dr. Little's talk in its headline.

The World quotes Dr. Little to the effect that “if the higher class would rather have their cars, their poms and their city, country and Palm Beach homes than children then they have become slaves to their environment. Like begets like, so why encourage people like that to have children? To encourage them would bring about a pug dog civilization.”

Piercing the Great Divide

West of Denver is the Continental Divide; hemmed in behind it is an undeveloped district twice as large as Maryland. That fertile area the new Moffat Tunnel will open up.

General Electric mine locomotives are carrying out the rock, and G-E motors are driving air compressors and pumping water from underground rivers.

The conquests of electricity on land and sea, in the air and underground, are making practical the impossibilities of yesterday. It remains only for men of ability to find new things to do tomorrow. Thus does Opportunity of 1925 beckon college men and women toward greater things as yet undreamed, and to a better world to live in.
