UMS launches ServingU website, April 1

April 1, 2020 | Coronavirus, UMS

The University of Maine System has launched a website designed to be a COVID-19 resource guide for learners of all ages, educators, Maine citizens and communities. It comes at a time when UMS facilities, supplies, services and people statewide are being deployed to aid in Maine's response to the COVID-19 public health emergency. The ServingU website compiles the services and assets faculty and staff have developed to assist Maine students and local schools, as well as citizens and communities. Updates are made as available.
