H. S. BOARDMAN ACTING PRESIDENT AT UNIVERSITY OF MAINE

DR. LITTLE BECOMES PRESIDENT AT MICHIGAN

The people of the State of Maine and the alumni and friends of the State University received a real shock last July when it was made public that Dr. Little had resigned to accept the presidency of the University of Michigan

LETTER OF RESIGNATION

President Little's letter of resignation follows:

"University of Maine, Orono, July 1, 1925.

"Colonel F. H. Strickland, president, board of trustees, University of Maine, Bangor, Me.

"My dear Colonel:

"After a lot of thought and with a great deal of heartfelt reluctance, I wish to hand to you, as president of the board of trustees, my resignation, effective at the convenience of the board but not later than October 1, 1925.

"In doing this, I wish at the outset to state that my action is in no way prompted by any unpleasant factors, but by the fact that I have been offered an opportunity to try on a large scale the educational policies which the State of Maine has not yet been willing to adopt.

"At the present time the State of Maine is lagging woefully in its support of its state university. It has departed somewhat from the absolutely inadequate appropriation in 1922 but it is still far from realizing its obligation and even from adopting as generous an attitude as that shown by smaller and poorer states.

"It seems entirely probable that active elements of the state will require at least two more years to reach a point where they have recovered from the shock of having given additional support and are ready to progress still further.

"There is not as yet enough unprejudiced support of higher education in the state to have outgrown criticism of the college of arts and sciences at the University—a criticism as primitive and unintelligent, in its way, as in the legislation against teaching of the evolution theory.

DR. C. C. LITTLE

"There has not yet been an elected representative of the people, other than a governor, powerful enough to force this issue to a point where the wishes of the people on this matter could be brought to a vote.

CITES MILL TAX

"The State of Maine, boasting of its vigor, its resources and its desire to hold the best elements of its youth, has after much straining, reached a point where its annual per capita appropriation to its university is slightly less than 53 cents. The neighboring State of New Hampshire, with fewer resources but more forethought and courage, has placed its university on the basis of a mill tax meaning an annual per capita appropriation of over one dollar.

"It is my sincere belief that the citizens of the State of Maine will eventually insist that their children shall have an opportunity for a high education at their State university. In the meantime, there will have to intervene a period of slow progress and of 'hoss-trading.'

"There is a ten-year program which may be attenuated to a 150-year program but which is nevertheless a program. The trustees have adopted this as a general guiding policy. There is a plan for campus development already becoming visualized.

"There is a real opportunity for hard, constructive work ahead and you have at your disposal an intelligent and thoroughly cooperative faculty to work with.

PROBLEMS UNFINISHED

"It is a real wrench to leave the problems unfinished but the odds are that long before they approached completion, an entirely new set—equally as fascinating—would have been added.

"In carrying out the program plans for the university and in adding to its completeness, the loyalty and splendid spirit of the alumni has helped more than I can possibly say, I am sure that the alumni will give to my successor the same magnificent loyalty that they have shown to me.

"During the remainder of my stay, I shall consider it a privilege to help my successor if he can be appointed.

"It is my sincere hope that he may be a University of Maine alumnus and if possible, a State of Maine man. I might add in closing that if my salary is continued during the Summer, I plan to use most, if not all of it, towards the expenses of the University of Maine biological station at Mt. Desert Island.

"The three years spent at the University have been the happiest of my life and will be for me a lasting inspiration.

(Signed) C. C. LITTLE."

President Little, as President of the University of Michigan will be head of the third largest state university in the country. He will have a faculty personnel of 900 persons. The student enrollment is something more than 10,500 pupils, and the university has a state maintenance of $3,750,000, representing a mill tax of seven eighths of a mill.

TRUSTEES PRAISE PROGRAM

Colonel Strickland, chairman of the board of trustees made public the following resolution today, as drawn up by his board following receipt of Dr. Little's resignation:

"In accepting the resignation of Dr. C. C. Little, of the University of Maine, to take effect September 1, 1925, the board of trustees wish to express their deep regret, but wish Dr. Little unbounded success in his new work.

"During his three-year stay in Maine, he has demonstrated his ability as an educator, has impressed his personality upon the institution of which he has been in charge, has visualized its needs, and set up a program of advancement which eventually must be accepted by the state and put into operation.

"The board of trustees see in Doctor Little a young man of powerful possibilities, fully capable of handling the institution to which he is called, and commend him without hesitation or reservation, to the people among whom he is to labor. They feel, however, that they have no moral right to insist upon the withdrawal of his resignation, according to every man the right to work out his own career among conditions and opportunities of his own choice."

High Lights on Dr. Boardman

Harold S. Boardman was appointed Professor of Civil Engineering in 1903, having been called back to his Alma Mater to take charge of the courses in structures and bridge design in which field he had been in active practice. This experience and his work at Massachusetts Institute of Technology under Professor G. H. Swain had given him unusual opportunities for fitting himself as a teacher. He quickly began to develop his department and at the same time took such an active interest in the other engineering departments that he was made chairman of the faculty of engineering.

Early in his career he allied himself with various engineering enterprises and his summers were spent in the field. In 1910 the College of Technology, which included the courses in Civil, Electrical, and Mechanical Engineering and Chemistry, was officially organized and he was appointed its Dean. The development of the college was slow owing to the meagre funds which were available, but the progress was constant and a strong organization was built up, and a high type of work was developed. Dean Boardman early recognized that an outside contact of the engineering faculty was very necessary and insisted that heads of departments, at least, should make frequent trips to other institutions and engineering centers.

In 1913 he was one of a handful to organize the Deans of the Land Grant Colleges into a group which has since become a recognized and influential section of the National Association of Land Grant Colleges, and in 1923 he was its chairman. For many years he has been closely associated with the Society for Promotion of Engineering Education and in 1920 was instrumental in organizing the New England Section of which he is secretary. This society has received funds from the Carnegie Foundation which has resulted in a most searching investigation of education, which is now in its third year. Nothing of the kind has before been attempted.

When the State Highway Commission was formed in 1913 and the Public Utilities Commission in the same year, he offered the services of the College to each. This resulted in a close association with the former whereby both the University and the Highway Commission have benefited. He was consulting engineer on bridges to the Commission until the time came when it was possible to have a bridge division with a permanent engineer.

In 1921 upon the resignation of Dr. Aley, the Trustees placed the administration of the University in the hands of the deans, and during that year many administrative problems were handled by them in close association with the executive committee of the Trustees. Dean Boardman being an active member of the former gained a valuable experience and an insight into the innermost affairs of the University. At Commencement time following that year the Trustees conferred honorary degrees upon the four deans as a mark of appreciation of their services. At that time Dean Boardman was awarded the degree of Doctor of Engineering.

Dr. Little upon taking the presidency immediately made known his belief in the delegation of authority and instead of decreasing the responsibilities of the administrative officers, he made them heavier. This kept the deans constantly in close touch with administrative affairs, so that when Dr. Little left, Dean Boardman was able to take up his duties with very little confusion.

During the past two years Dean Boardman has been in charge of the activities of Freshman Week, a movement which started at Maine and which is being widely copied by other institutions. Since assuming the acting presidency, he has been widely quoted in the press regarding his belief that too many of the youth of the country are going to college.

The Journal of Education of September 24th, comments as follows:

"HAROLD R. BOARDMAN, dean of the School of Technology and acting president of the State University of Maine, Orono, has started off heroically as shown by the following sentences of his in an interview upon his selection as acting president.—

"Fifty to sixty-five per cent. of American youths are being thrust out of college doors because they are not fitted, temperamentally or otherwise, to stand the gaff. Mass production is making for generalized mediocrity and lowering the criteria of American culture. It is placing a financial burden on the college, which is penalizing those whose interests are at stake.

"It will only end when we admit that as a nation we are going to college because it is the thing, when we face squarely and reasonably that about half of us are fitted to go through college and that the rest of us are handicapping ourselves and others by going."

Maine alumni will be interested in Boardman's policy. He has given out the following statement.

"In assuming the Acting Presidency of the University of Maine, it is not my intention to outline any definite policy. During the past four years we were guided by a man who did not depart from the high ideals he held and altho his stay with us was but a college generation, he instilled into the University a large measure of his enthusiasm. The impetus which he gave us will go far in carrying us on to better things."

Then continuing he defined his conception of his new office.

"An acting president is, as the term implies, a temporary officer to keep the ship under full headway and to steer it straight. To do this successfully the cooperation of both faculty and students is necessary. I feel sure that I have the full support of both and that during the year we all shall work together for the best interests of the institution.

"My interest is two-fold. As a faculty member I have for many years endeavored to assist in its educational upbuilding, and as an alumnus I have watched our advancement and growth with pride. It is probably unnecessary for me to state that I am keenly interested in all of our activities. I feel, however, that a careful balance must be maintained between the educational and the extra-curricula activities. The development of the intellect, which should receive first consideration, is accomplished only by hard study while the sports, the various clubs, fraternity life and other activities develop the body and afford a social side, all of which is very necessary in helping to develop a well rounded man or woman. Each must be sure, however, to strike a proper balance."

In conclusion he suggested the following as a keynote

"Always remember that the University is larger than any of its individuals or organizations and must receive first consideration. Be loyal and true to it before all else."

Walter J. Creamer, associate professor of electrical engineering and assistant to the Dean of the College of Technology, has been appointed to the position left vacant by the appointment of Dean Harold S. Boardman as acting president of the University, maintaining, however, the title of assistant dean.

Dean Creamer is a Bangor man, graduate of Bangor High, a graduate of the University of Maine in the class of 1918, with the degree of Bachelor of Science. During his last two months of college, he taught as instructor of electrical engineering, students in that year being obliged to fill the positions left vacant by instructors who entered the service. For a year after graduation he was employed by the Western Electric Company on the development of submarine detectors and telephone transmitters. The following year he returned to Maine as instructor of engineering, drawing, being appointed the next year as instructor of electrical engineering. He later became associate professor in that department and then assistant to the dean.

Dean Creamer is a member of Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity, and Phi Kappa Phi, scholarship society, and holds degrees of B. S., E. E., and B. A. from the university. Associate, American Institute of Electrical Engineers. Member of Society for Promotion of Engineering Education.

MAINE 33—FORT WILLIAMS 0

Maine opened the football season on Alumni Field September 30th and incidentally defeated the soldiers from Fort Williams 33-0. Maine scored four touch-downs in the first half. The army team came back and succeeded in getting the ball on Maine's one yd. line only to be held there for downs. Barrows and Cassista made several long runs. Maine's aerial attack worked almost perfectly, seven out of ten passes being completed for a total of 91 yds.

Coach Brice was able to send in many substitutes. The army team was the strongest that has played on Alumni Field representing any of the army forts for many years. Maine made 17 first downs to the soldiers 2 and held the army twice for downs.

TUFTS 7—MAINE 6

In a heavy downpour of rain Maine lost to Tufts College, by one point on Alumni Field, October 3d. The field was a sea of mud, but nevertheless, a fine football game was witnessed by several hundred spectators who remained in the stand until the final whistle.

Maine scored first following a punting duel in which Peakes of Maine met with the most success. Tufts punt went outside on their 20-yd. line, from there Maine drove down the field with a concerted attack on the left side of the Tufts line. Barrows scored one touch-down. Peakes failed to kick to goal.

In the second half Tufts forced the play and showed a splendid offensive. The Medford team completed several passes and Perry, their star quarterback, made three good runs off tackle. They could not gain through the Maine line.

Tufts got a break when Cassista fumbled on Maine's 5-yd. line and the ball went to Tufts. Three attacks on the Maine line failed to gain but a trick play barely enabled Tufts to score on the last down.

Perry showed good generalship when, instead of attempting to kick for the extra point, he shot a forward pass to McDowell, thus was the game won.

MAINE 7—CONNECTICUT 0

STORRS, Conn., Oct. 10—A Harold Lloyd stunt by Tom Dickson, University of Maine guard, in the last three minutes of a terrific battle with the Connecticut Aggies, sent the Maine boys on their long trip home winners when defeat stared them in the face, or a scoreless tie at best.

The Aggies had Maine against the ropes. Stopped on the 35-yard line they lined up in a formation for a drop-kick which, if made good, would repeat the victory of the Aggies at Orono last year.

When the ball dropped the Bears charged the line like mad. The ball was blocked by Dickson who caught it on his stride and was away for the Aggies goal before the Nutmeggers could turn after him. He outstripped their fleetest runners and dropped with the ball in the middle of the posts.

Stanton kicked the goal.

Maine won 7 to 0.

Maine slightly outplayed the home team but slipped up at critical points.

Connecticut kicked off to Maine and the game immediately resolved itself into a punting duel, with Peakes of Maine having all the better of the argument. Time after time Maine was held for downs and Peakes forced to kick, and time after time Peakes got away some beautiful hoists, aided greatly by the terrific wind which swept the field.

Once in the second quarter Connecticut took the ball on their own 20-yard line and smashed it to Maine's 20, chiefly due to some great line plunging by Makofski and Schoefield. With a touchdown seemingly inevitable, Connecticut fumbled Peakes immediately punting out of danger.

In the last half Connecticut opened up and displayed some brilliant aerial work, completing nearly every pass they tried in spite of the desperate work of the Maine secondary. Once Newhall intercepted an Aggie's toss and all but got clear, only to be dragged down by the safety man between him and the goal.

Maine completed but one pass, Bryant to Newhall, which carried the ball to the Connecticut five-yard line, only to have the Nutmeg line hold for downs.

Dickson's play was the feature of the game, of course, but the all around playing of Zollin and Schoefield of Connecticut and the great defensive work of Dickson and Beaker, Maine guards, and Paul Lamoreau, star tackle, must not be overlooked.

The teams were evenly matched, with Connecticut having a slight advantage on first downs made. Maine was twice in position to score but miscues spoiled the chance.

A CHEER LEADER'S "M" TO JOE McCUSKER

The Athletic Board, at a recent meeting, awarded a cheer leader's "M" to Joseph A. "Joe" McCusker, '17 of East Braintree, Mass. This award has met with unanimous approval as "Joe" is Maine's greatest cheer leader and well deserves the award, both for his work while in college and for his services since graduation on innumerable occasions when he has stepped in as emergency cheer leader and given Maine teams real support.

"Joe" is now the official cheer leader of University of Maine Alumni.

COACH MURPHY RESIGNS

Official announcement of the termination of the services of Joseph T. Murphy, generally known as "Cuddy" has been made. Murphy has resigned and the board of trustees have accepted his resignation to take effect December 3d. It is reported that he will enter the insurance business with his brother.

Murphy has served as assistant professor of training at Maine the past three years, having been line coach of football for three years including the present season, head coach in basket-ball and baseball for two years.

Murphy, who is a resident of Manchester, N. H., first came before the public eye when he played tackle on the Hebron eleven. He was also a weight man on the track squad and star twirler on the nine. "Cuddy" entered Dartmouth College in 1916 and played on the Freshmen team there his first year. In 1917 and 1919 he was the star tackle on the big green varsity. He also won his 'D in track and baseball at the Hanover institution.

He left Dartmouth and played professional football for the famous Canton bulldogs for a while after which in the Spring of 1920, he joined the Boston Red Sox but was sold to Toronto of the International League and later traded to Syracuse. In the Fall of the same year he coached football at the Colorado School of Mines and at the close of the Fall season he then came East and became athletic director of Albany Felt Company at Albany, N. Y.

In the Fall of 1922 he came to Maine as assistant coach of football and has since become head coach of basket-ball and baseball.

Rufus Sewall, '25, accompanied MacMillan on his recent trip to the frozen north. Maine is proud to have had an alumnus with the famous Bowdoin explorer. Sewall served as steward on the "Peary."

DR. LITTLE

Clarence C. Little has resigned as President of the University of Maine and accepted a similar position at the University of Michigan.

We are sorry to lose him but cannot blame him for making the change. It is a call to a larger field—a real promotion and a recognition of worth and promise such as few men receive so young.

Congratulations, "Pete" and "good luck."

FOOTBALL TICKETS

The Alumni Office has attempted to mail an order blank for football tickets to every Maine Alumnus. Any one failing to receive this blank should write in for one at once, if tickets are desired.

The best grand stand seats for all games on Alumni Field are reserved for Maine Alumni. The seating capacity of the grand stand is limited. Orders should be sent in promptly.

Tickets for the Bates and Colby games will be available and Maine Alumni will receive as good seats for these games as we can get allotted to us.

BOOK REVIEWS

Light, Photometry and Illuminating Engineering by William E. Barrows, '02, Professor of Electrical Engineering at the University of Maine, has just been published by the McGraw-Hill Book Company.

This book is a text on illuminating engineering and a reference work for the practicing engineer, growing out of the author's previous books, ELECTRICAL ILLUMINATING ENGINEERING and LIGHT, PHOTOMETRY AND ILLUMINATION. About two thirds of the present book is entirely new. The book presents the accepted principles and practice of modern artificial illumination and the choice of lighting equipment. Various types of lighting installations are thoroughly discussed.

KAPPA SIGMA HOUSE RECONSTRUCTION

One of the most noticeable pieces of new construction now being done on the campus is the rebuilding and enlarging of the Kappa Sigma fraternity house, which was badly gutted by fire last Spring. According to a prominent Kappa Sigma alumnus, $50,000 is to be laid out on the house and it is to be one of the most attractive on the campus.

The old house has been totally demolished except for the outer shell and a few partitions unharmed by fire. All the rest of the building is new. The original house will be enlarged by the addition of two wings, one of 18 feet, the other of 16, on the south and north sides respectively. This will change the style of the house, which will be old colonial, painted white, with green blinds and a gable roof.

On the first floor will be the matron's quarters and the living room, embracing the new south wing, on the other side of the main hall will be the dining and smoking rooms, taking in the north wing. The kitchen and storerooms will be in the rear. Ten studies will occupy the second floor, two more than were in the old house. The third floor will be unfinished with the exception of the chapter room, the guest room and the stairway.

The house is to be ready for occupancy by the 15th of December, according to the terms of the contract.

Local Association Reports

EASTERN NEW YORK

Scotia, N. Y.
Aug. 13, 1925.

Mr. Robert P. Clark,
Alumni Secretary,
Orono, Maine.

Dear Mr. Clark:

The following is an account of the activities of the Eastern New York Alumni Association for the Summer of 1925.

The annual outing of the Eastern New York Alumni Association was held at Breakabeen, N. Y., on June 6, 1925. A seven inning ball game, won by "Red" Plumer's team was the feature of the afternoon. There was no question in the minds of Red's followers at the end of five innings. However, R. E. Strickland appeared on the scene, and being an ardent athlete, wished to exhibit his prowess in the national game. In spite of his assistant as pitcher for the losing side, and H. W. Chadbourne's umpiring from a comfortable reclining position, Red led his team to an 8-7 victory. Following the game a party of thirty-four, including alumni, families and friends, enjoyed a fine chicken dinner. Later all adjourned to the lawn outside for a few "Maine" songs and cheers.

On June 18, 1925, seven local alumni joined the delegates at the S. P. E. E. Meeting being held in Schenectady at a banquet. Dean Boardman was present as representative from the University of Maine. Several other alumni were also with delegations from other schools. A luncheon was held the following day, which was attended by all visiting alumni. A total of twenty-two were present.

During the Summer the noon luncheons have been rather short on attendance but announcement will be made thru the "Alumnus" soon giving details of the program of lunches or dinners to be held during the winter.

Philadelphia Alumni Annual Picnic

The annual picnic of the University of Maine Alumni Association of Philadelphia was held on the banks of the Wissahickon Creek in Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, Pa., on Saturday, June 13th, 1925.

A total number of 54 people were present, including alumni and members of their families, and a very enjoyable time was had by all.

During the afternoon sports were provided, including races for the children, tape cutting and nail driving contests for the ladies, sack races for the boys, and baseball throwing contest for the girls. Some of the members of the party took advantage of the opportunity to take a boat ride on the creek.

The supper was spread on large tables provided at this location on a green shaded by towering trees.

The principal feature consisted of baked beans cooked in Maine style by the wives of some of the alumni. In addition to the beans, each person or group of persons, brought sandwiches, cakes, pies, etc. Coffee was provided by the committee.

The practice of holding an annual picnic was started by the Philadelphia Association several years ago, and they have been increasing in popularity and attendance. The attendance at this picnic was the largest ever recorded at any meeting of our Association.

A special meeting was held in conjunction with the picnic.

The following officers were elected for the year 1925-26:

President, C. H. Lombard, '00
Vice President, A. E. Kittredge, '23
Secretary and Treasurer, W. A. Fogler, '09
Ass't. Secretary and Treasurer, W. D. Williams, '15
Member of the Executive Committee to serve for a term of three years,
I. L. Craig, '22

The picnic meeting proved to be a very successful affair, and was enjoyed by all.

The total attendance, including members of families and children, was 54.

W. A. FOGLER.

The Class Endowment

And How It Can Be Done Through Life Insurance

THE JOHN HANCOCK MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY worked out this problem for the 1923 graduating class of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and is ready to do it for others.

Many graduating classes, wishing to benefit their Alma Mater have turned to the insurance idea since it allows the participation of a large number of students

This plan provides for the payment of a certain specified sum to the University at the end of 20 or 25 years, the members of the graduating class paying a nominal sum each year to create an endowment. In case of the death of a graduate before the endowment matures his full share is paid into the fund.

Every student is given a chance to put his John Hancock on the dotted line and become a continuing contributor to the future welfare of his Alma Mater. It has been successfully carried through in a number of cases, and it can be done with your institution.

The John Hancock organization will be glad to render any service it can to college classes and individuals, also to interest ambitious college graduates in life insurance work.

The city moves to the country

ELECTRICITY builds cities. Without electric elevators, pumps and fans, the tall buildings would be lifeless piles of steel. Without electric cars, city streets could not accommodate the crowds.

But now, having made the modern city, electricity is making the country. Wherever electric lines lead out from the city, you find suburban property values enhanced, suburban life made comfortable, and waste land blossoming into homes.

The automobile helps. The motor bus helps more. But the trolley and interurban cars are more important still. Sixteen billion Americans rode on electric lines last year—145 rides per capita of our entire population!

This is an impressive record for a utility that is still young. The first complete electric railway system in the United States was installed in Richmond, Virginia, in 1888. It was a quaint, almost an experimental car-line. But it introduced a new economy in transportation, a new epoch in the art of making homes.

To the electric railways of America the General Electric Company contributes engineering skill and manufacturing efficiency. It builds motors that last a generation in service and controlling devices that make electric transportation one of the safest means of travel in the world.
