INDEX TO MAINE HISTORY AND ITS PREVIOUS ITERATIONS PUBLISHED BY THE MAINE HISTORICAL SOCIETY, 1969 TO DATE

BY NICHOLAS NOYES

THE FOLLOWING is an index to the Maine Historical Society's scholarly journal, now called Maine History, and includes articles, book reviews, and features from over thirty-six volumes published over a period of more than forty-one years. The index includes editions of the Maine Historical Society Newsletter, numbered as Volumes 9 to 12 and dated as Summer 1969 to Spring 1973; the Maine Historical Society Quarterly, numbered as Volumes 13 to 33 and dated as Summer 1973 to Winter-Spring 1993/94, and Maine History, numbered as Volumes 34 forward and dated as Summer 1994 forward.

The Index reflects the resurgence in research and writing on the subject of local Maine history in recent years. A growing index such as this is by nature organic, so some inconsistencies are to be expected. Both natural language and standardized Library of Congress Subject Headings will be found. The Index includes proper names (personal names of authors and subjects and place names), natural-language subjects (War of 1812), and broad subject headings in bold (e.g., Military history), all in one alphabet.

Book reviews are indexed by the author of the book, the reviewer's name, and the subject or short title of the book under review. The notation "(fig.)" indicates an illustration within an article; "See..." references direct the reader to standardize subject headings. Normally, pagination is consecutive from issue to issue within a volume. On occasion, the pagination was re-started, in which case the date has been added. This index was prepared by a commercial vendor in 2006 and is updated periodically, usually after the completion of the last number of a volume. The index is available and searchable free to the public on our website, www.mainehistory.org under Online Resources. Full text of all journal
