Do students have a Pass/Fail option in fall 2020?

November 5, 2020
Academic policy changes, faculty, staff and students

Undergraduate and graduate students enrolled in University of Maine classes have the option to convert their fall 2020 classes (grade(s) from graded to Pass/Fail), or to withdraw from one or more classes without academic penalties (equivalent to a grade of W).

The university's goal in making these changes is to be as student-centered as possible by offering choices that promote academic integrity and positive learning outcomes.

Pass/Fail

1. Students will have one week after grades are posted to select the Pass/Fail option. This deadline for posting grades in Mainescribe in December 26, so the deadline to select the Pass/Fail option is January 2, 2021. You can select Pass/Fail for one or more fall courses by completing a online form that will be made available through the Office of Student Records on December 14, 2020. Do not submit the form until final grades have been posted. Students are encouraged to discuss their grading choices with their academic advisor.

2. Pass/Fail grades will follow the definitions in the Faculty Handbook, which are:

a. LP, Low Pass, for a course passed on the pass/fail grading option equivalent to a D+, D, or D-.

b. P, Pass, for a course passed on the pass/fail grading option equivalent to a C- or above. Credit is earned, but the grade point average (GPA) is not affected. Students will need to consult with Faculty about requirement

c. F, Failed means that no credit is earned and the grade is not recorded on the transcript. Students will need to consult with Faculty about requirements

3. With this policy and procedure, the university will allow students to take multiple courses P/F. A P/F course will be treated as a graded course for the purposes of degree completion and coded by Student Records to allow the course to meet requirements within allowable limits (e.g., a P may be required as opposed to a D). Please note: in some majors, a P will not satisfy licensure or accreditation requirements.

4. Graduate students may use the credits from a 400-level course with a pass/fail grading option in partial fulfillment of the requirements of a graduate degree as long as the course is approved by the program and the Graduate School to count for the degree. Also, the transfer of a P or LP grade to another academic institution will depend on that institution’s transfer policies. If you have questions, please contact a faculty member, professional advisor, department chair, associate dean, or dean. They are all here to assist you in making this choice.

5. Once you have chosen a P/F for a course, there is no opting out. From that point the course will remain P/F.

6. Please note: in some majors, a P may not satisfy licensure or accreditation requirements. Also, the transfer of a P or LP grade to another academic institution will depend on that institution’s transfer policies. If you have questions, please contact a faculty member, professional advisor, department chair, associate dean, or dean. They are all here to assist you in making this choice.

7. Faculty members and professional advisors will communicate with students to ensure that each is aware of the opportunity to select Pass/Fail in one or more courses by January 2, 2021.

Course withdrawal

1. Students may choose to drop a course and receive a W grade (withdrawal) without academic penalty. This deadline for dropping is 4 p.m., on December 11, 2020. To drop a course, contact the associate dean or director of your department or college to get an official course add/drop request form and the required signatures. Check with your academic department for its procedure. Please note: Courses dropped will not show on the students academic record with a grade of W. The grade will not be computed into the semester average as a failing grade. (Bottom line: it’s costly to pay for courses and drop them, but sometimes you may need to drop a course to reduce stress. Please see your academic advisor if you have questions.)

2. Please note: students need to maintain 6 or more credit hours to keep their student loans deferred. Because each situation varies, students who receive financial aid should contact the Office of Student Financial Aid in person (Wingate Hall), by phone (207-581-1324), or at the Student Financial Aid website. If you have a scholarship, check with the provider about any stipulations. Special conditions may apply to international students and student athletes; they are encouraged to contact staff at the Office of International Programs (Broidy Hall, 207-581-2437) and Academic Support Services for Student Athletes (207-581-3173), respectively, with any questions.

3. Dropping a course may affect your academic standing or eligibility to live on campus. You are encouraged to talk with an academic advisor and a representative of Residence Life or the Director of Housing at 207-581-4580 to determine your status if you drop a course.

Graduate School Policy

There are some nuances that vary depending on whether you are a graduate student or undergraduate student in a course. If a undergraduate student intends to use the course for graduate credit degree— for example, in a 4+1 program— then Graduate School policies below will apply. If you are using the course to complete an undergraduate degree, then a C- still counts as a C, whereas a minimum grade of B- is required if the credits were used toward a graduate degree.

1. Graduate students may declare a pass/fail grading option in any fall 2020 graduate (500/600) course, recognizing that a minimum grade of B- is required to receive a pass.

2. Undergraduate students may declare a pass/fail grading option in any fall 2020 undergraduate (300/400) course. A minimum grade of C- is required for a pass at the undergraduate level and a minimum grade of B is required for a pass if the student intends to use the credit in partial fulfillment of a graduate degree in a 4+1 program.

3. Graduate and undergraduate students may use the credits from a fall 2020 course listed with a pass/fail grading option in partial fulfillment of the requirements of a graduate degree. Graduate students may use the credits from a 400-level course with a pass/fail grading option in partial fulfillment of the requirements of a graduate degree as long as the course is approved by the program and the Graduate School to count for the degree.

If you have questions, please contact the graduate program coordinator in your academic department or the Graduate School at 207-581-3291 or grad@maine.edu.
