University Loyalty to Alumni

"The game of last Saturday with Colby will go down in my memory as one of the outstanding contests played by a Maine team. I have never seen a better example of 'Maine spirit', clean playing, and determination to win. That we lost is no disgrace. Everyone who saw the game should be proud of the team and of the fact that even against heavy odds every moment was full of fight and aggressiveness."

This message was sent to the student body by President Boardman en route to Chicago and the Pacific Coast. President Boardman was authorized by unanimous vote of the Board of Trustees to make this 6000 mile coast-to-coast trip for the purpose of carrying the spirit and news of the University to the Alumni Associations of the middle west and Pacific coast and to bring back to the campus the spirit of the far western alumni associations. This is one more bit of evidence of the University's interest in her former students. The University family will be bound together by closer ties as a result of Prexy's long journey.
Maine Christian Association
Now Includes Both Men and Women

By George F. Dow, '28

With pride do we mention the Maine Christian Association of the University of Maine. It is a leader among colleges in the East. The increasing value of its service to the many whom it reaches is reflected in its rapid development. Starting as a volunteer undergraduate organization known as the Y.M.C.A., the Maine Christian Association has grown through the stages of a part-time secretary in 1915, a full-time secretary in 1922, an additional full-time secretary in 1927 devoting the majority of his time to freshman men, and a third full-time secretary in 1929 to assist the women in their work. The present personnel, consisting of Mr. Cecil G. Fielder, Mr. Chester S. Ramsey, and Miss Louise G. Campbell, forms the largest full-time staff devoted to this type of work in any college in New England.

Cecil Fielder, general secretary, came to Maine in 1928 with a wealth of understanding of college life and its problems, gained at Princeton University and the Newton Theological Seminary, and from extensive missionary travels. YMCA work at Massachusetts Agricultural College, and missionary work with young Hindus, Mohammedans, and Christians in India. His sincerity, enthusiasm, and joy in the work are wonderfully contagious and have caught our loyalty; and we hope "Ceece" is here to stay.

Chester Ramsey, who has completed graduate work at Columbia University, already has made a place for himself during his first few months at Maine in the lives and friendship of many, especially the freshman boys.

Miss Campbell, a graduate of Ohio State University, is the secretary for women. Her father, the Reverend William J. Campbell, was pastor of Williston Congregational Church, Portland, from 1913 to 1920, and her mother, formerly Miss Carrie Green, is a graduate of the University of Maine, class of 1896. The guidance and leadership of a secretary for women, which marks the start of a new era, has filled a need at the University and rounds out a well balanced staff to shape up the work of the Association.

The union of the men's and women's organization this year to form the present Maine Christian Association is a decided forward step. This is real pioneer work, the University of Maine being one of the few colleges or universities at which an attempt has been made to solve the problems of college life through mutual cooperation and understanding between men and women.

The student representation is composed of three cabinets: the men's upperclass cabinet, the freshman men's cabinet, and the women's cabinet.

The Advisory Board, composed of alumni, members of several denominations represented in the student body, and faculty, including both men and women, aims to insure stability and close cooperation among the faculty, students, alumni, friends, and religious organizations.

The program is varied to meet the multifold needs of those with whom it comes into contact—and directly or indirectly, it does come into contact with practically all of our students as well as many persons outside our campus, as an influence for good.

Co-Ed Speaks at Maine Night For First Time

About 2000 Maine men and women, including several hundred alumni, many from distant points, attended the 29th annual Maine Night, held November 8, in the Indoor Field. William McC Sawyer '01, was chairman, and R. H. Fogler '15, president of the General Alumni Association, was chief speaker.

Two new features were included in the program. One was the address by a co-ed, Miss Pauline Hall, and the other, the honoring of Dr. W. H. Jordan '73 as distinguished guest of the evening. So far as is known, no woman student at the University has ever spoken at Maine Night before. With 372 women registered, a number equal to the entire student body when Maine Night was established, it seemed fitting that they should be represented. Miss Hall filled the bill admirably.

Dr. W. H. Jordan spoke at the first Maine Night held in 1901 and again in 1922. In each of these years, Maine defeated Bowdoin. Dr. Jordan forecast another victory on the morrow, a thing which was later realized.

Mr. Sawyer, who was director of the first Memorial Fund campaign, and now a member of the Board of Trustees, of the Athletic Board, of the Memorial Fund Committee and active in several community projects in Bangor and a successful business man, was given a fine round of applause when he was introduced by C. E. Crossland, executive secretary of the General Alumni Association, in the absence of Dean L. S. Corbett, chairman of the Maine Night Committee.

Telegrams and messages were read from alumni in different sections of the country. "Prexy" Boardman, who was in Indiana attending a meeting by vote of the Board of Trustees, sent his word of regret and wish that Maine Night and the Bowdoin game may be a big success.

Charles O'Connor, president of the Athletic Association, of the Maine Christian Association and a leader in other activities, spoke for the men students.

Coach Fred Brice outlined the problems which made the football season a difficult one. Captain Zakarian in brief, well chosen remarks, expressed confidence in the team play against Bowdoin.

Coach Chester Jenkins then discussed cross country and was followed by co-captains Richardson and Lindsay, each of whom spoke interestingly about cross country and track.

The "will to win" was the thought emphasized by R. H. "Bub" Fogler '15 in his address making application of that thought not only to athletics but to all phases of university life. He attributed our remarkable cross country record, equal to that of any college in the country, to the fundamental principle—that our boys are accustomed to winning and think only in terms that they must win to uphold Maine's past record.

"Prexy" Pearce, head cheerleader, kept things lively. The big, excellent Maine band of some 80 pieces was important to the success of the evening. The McMichael Twins, class of 1933, contributed a tumbling act which gave variation to the program.

Thanks to the chairman, Mr. Sawyer, the whole program was run off in snappy fashion and completed in an hour and fifteen minutes. The bleachers accommodating 1800 were filled and many stood. The cheering was unusually successful.

Alumni Council Holds Fall Meeting at the University

Fifteen members and officers of the Alumni Council and General Alumni Association attended the fall meeting of the Council which was held at the University, November 9, the morning of the Bowdoin-Maine game. Immediately following the Council meeting, the executive committee held a session.

Raymond H. Fogler '15 of New York City, president of the Association, presided. Among the reports received were the finances of the Association, the work of the Song Book and Donations and Endowment and Memorial Fund Committees. The Alumni Trustee situation was discussed as was also the awarding of honorary degrees by the University and the landscaping of the University Grounds.

Those present were R. H. Fogler '15, A. L. Deering '12 of Orono, vice-president, B. C. Kent '12, clerk; E. R. Tobey '11, treasurer; and council members, Mrs. Mildred P. Wright '11, Bangor; H. F. Drummond '00, Bangor; W. R. Thompson '14, Caribou; H. E. Sutton '09, Boston; A. E. Silver '02, New York City; L. B. Thompson '12, Belfast; H. A. Emery '06, Bangor; H. A. Cooper '15, Auburn; E. H. Kelley '90, Orono; C. P. Crowell '98, Bangor; and A. L. King '14, Portland.

1929—Still Well Ahead of 1928 But Slowing Up

Perhaps the outstanding feature of the 1929-30 dues campaign is the showing which is being made by the class of 1929, more than one hundred of whom have thus far done their part toward supporting the Alumni Association their first year out.

This class is at present well ahead of the standing of 1928 on similar date last year and about equal to the mark of 1927. Contest Shield, 1929 must speed up between now and December 31, or 1927 will still stand as "The Class" of recent years.

Considering alumni as a whole, a slightly greater number of alumni have paid dues thus far this year than on this date in 1928. With an increased budget and a more expensive ALUMNUS than heretofore, alumni are urged to support the association by prompt payment of dues and thus relieve the association of expense of raising funds.

Have you paid your alumni dues for this year?
Maine Christian Association

Yale, Professor Kirtley F. Mather of Harvard, and Mr. Kirby Page of New York, and many others who have been brought to the campus by the M.C.A. have been welcomed by capacity audiences. Their addresses have meant much in helping our students preserve their balance in the whirl and rush of college.

In discussion groups in the fraternities and dormitories there have been popular discussions of the moral and religious problems of life. Bible-study groups are being organized this year in order to delve deeper into the teachings and life of Jesus. Delegations to intercollegiate Christian conferences have broadened their perspective of Christian living and the scope of their service. Week-end retreats for groups of from fifteen to thirty-five, in an atmosphere of Christian fellowship, have given them opportunity to think through their problems and crystallize new and higher ideals.

The personal companionship and confidences between students and secretaries, though rarely mentioned, is probably the greatest service that is or can be rendered. As previous conceptions of life become inadequate, confused, or upset by new experiences and a broader view of life, the sympathetic and understanding counsel of Mr. Fielder, Miss Campbell, and Mr. Ramsey is sought by many, who are helped to work their way through to a satisfying new position.

The Chapel a Distinctly New Feature

A small chapel has recently been completed in the M.C.A. Building. This beautiful room, furnished with fine hangings, soft lights, and inspiring pictures, contains a small altar with cross, candles, and flowers, and provides an environment in which to find quiet for meditation and prayer. It is causing much favorable comment here and great interest in other colleges.

Character is being built through practice and service. Each year the incoming members of the freshman class are welcomed by upperclassmen as they arrive, aided in becoming oriented, and furnished with a handbook of information. Boys' and girls' clubs are carried on in surrounding towns, and not only develop leadership in the students but furnish a profitable entertainment for the boys and girls.

Deputation teams, consisting of students and a faculty representative, visit outlying towns, where they lead social programs on Saturdays and conduct religious meetings on Sundays. The well balanced programs are an inspiration to the towns visited, a means of crystallizing the religious thinking of those who take part, and an aid to the University through setting at rest the fears which many parents have regarding college life.

The M.C.A. Building, formerly Estabrooke Hall, contains pleasant reading and committee rooms, a lunch room for women commuters, and offices for the secretaries. It has the best supply of daily papers on the campus, desks for studying, and other helpful features, and is used daily by large numbers. Many organizations hold their meetings there.

In the absence of a Union Building the M.C.A. Building is filling a very real need. It is in a sense, a service building offering lounging facilities for both men and women which alumni also are invited to use when they are on the campus.
Bates Wins Football Crown for First Time in 23 Years

Review of Season for Maine

Armistice Day, November 11, 1929, will go down as a red letter day in Bates athletic history. On that day, before a holiday crowd on Seaverns Field, Waterville, they turned the Colby team back to defeat by the narrow margin of a 7-6 score Bates had defeated Maine 6-0 and Bowdoin 26-0. Colby had won over Bowdoin 19-0 and over Maine 13-6. The “Bobcats” as they are athletically named, gradually developed all season under their new coach, Dave Morey. That he or someone put new life and fight into the Bates team is evident. They have earned the distinction they won—and incidentally a good many are of the opinion that it is an excellent thing for football in the state.

Injuries Wrecked Maine’s Chances

Maine won two and lost five of their games. This is no column for alibis, but it seems only fair to present a picture of what has actually taken place during the season. When camp opened, prospects were good, optimism prevailed but not for long. Before the first game Fred Hall, who was slated for fullback, suffered from his old knee injury and was done. Lymie Abbott, first string quarterback, pulled some tendons or muscles in his foot and was out until the Bates game only to develop again similar trouble after a few minutes of play. Palmer, the only experienced end, and a good receiver of passes, cracked his jaw bone in the first home game, and was out for the season. Jasionis was injured in the Boston College rout. The next week Davis, big guard, hurt his foot while practising at Connecticut, which put him on the sidelines until the Bates game, when because of the Bates offense he was pressed into service. Gowell, substitute tackle, filling in for Gowell, came out of the Colby tussle with a cracked hip bone. When the final game came around, Maine came nearest to having her full strength at any time during the season, and the score showed it.

The spirit and fight shown by the team in the Bates and Colby games was of the very best, and although they were defeated, their showing was most commendable. If there had been reserves to put in at times, the story might have been different.

Losses by Graduation

Nine of this year’s squad are seniors, six linemen, and three backfield men. Gowell, Palmer, Vail and Zakarian, regulars and Waggett and Moyer, substitutes in the line and Abbott, Daley and Hebert in the backfield. These men leave some real holes to be filled but fortunately there is some promising material left. Particularly encouraging is the number of sophomores who have played more or less regularly this year; Riley, Sims, Jasionis, Leland, Buchan, Hincks, McCabe, all backfield; and Lufkin, Bagley and Robbins, ends; and Fickett, tackle. Outstanding juniors are Davis and Gowans, guards; Elliott and Horne and Tracy, tackles, Smith and Webster, ends; and Blockinger, backfield. In addition to these, there is some promising material in the freshman class.

While Maine lost, everyone was happily surprised at the somewhat unexpected resistance they put up and their gameness to the very end.

Basketball Abolished as a Major Sport at Maine

Because of limited space this month, the mere announcement of the abolition of basketball as a major sport at Maine effective immediately is given. Details will be presented in the next issue.
Maine 25—Bowdoin 6
At Orono—November 9

Much to the delight of about 4000 alumni and students, the Maine boys showed a flash of their real power, as a grand finale for the season by defeating Bowdoin 25-6. Excepting for a few minutes in the last quarter, Bowdoin failed to show any real offensive drive, while our players gained ground consistently throughout the game.

It was a treat to see the line in action. On the defense they repeatedly got through and stopped the Bowdoin backs for no gain. On the offensive, the interference was the best of the season, being well nigh perfect at times. It would be difficult if not unfair to mention stars for all seven men seemed to "team together."

In terms of first downs, Maine made 19, five in each of the periods except the second. Bowdoin made all six of their first downs in the final quarter due chiefly to some excellent forward passes which brought them their only score.

Maine scored her first touchdown early in the second period after a series of plunges and end runs in which all three backfield men, Hebert, Riley and Sims, looked big. The second touchdown came when Hebert went through the center for 35 yards, wholly unexpectedly and due to some beautiful interference. Again before many minutes had elapsed, Sims broke loose and duplicated Hebert's performance.

Interception of a forward pass by Daley, Maine's quarter, well down into Bowdoin territory led to Maine's final score. Coordination of line and backfield soon brought the ball over the goal line.

Then Bowdoin started. Failing to gain through the line, they resorted to forward passes. Four were completed, all long, well executed passes, the final one giving the Brunswick men the consolation of at least one score.

A Victory and Defeat for Varsity Field Hockey Team

Under the leadership of Sylvia Gould, captain for the day, the varsity field hockey team defeated the Connecticut Aggie lassies 2-0 at Orono, November 9, in a game of thrills. The visitors had enjoyed a successful season up to their defeat by Maine.

The varsity field hockey team lost a fast game to Posse Nissen girls 1-0 at Lexington Center, November 16. Ellen Mullaney was captain for the day. The game was hard fought throughout and was replete with much clever playing; the only score being made on a sensational bit of playing.

R.O.T.C. Scabbard and Blade

A series of three lectures on "How to Study" were given under the auspices of the M.C.A. One lecture was given by Dr. C. A. Dickson, head of the psychology department, one by Prof. F. G. Fasset, of the English department and the final one by Dean Paul Cloke, of the College of Technology. Interest in these lectures as judged by attendance was unexpectedly good.

"Jim" Ashworth '30 has had the unusual experience of winning two letters as manager of football. Last year under the new system of Junior managers he was awarded a letter. This year because the manager-elect Henry Favor could not return on account of an accident, Ashworth was named manager again by the Athletic Board.

R.O.T.C. Seaboard and Blade has instituted a contest between platoons. Factors in scoring, absences, ranks attained, demerits, competitive drill. The leader of the platoon will receive individual recognition, as well as the group as a unit.

Maine Places Second in N. E. Cross Country Race

Inability of Maine or any other New England college to break up Bates team formation gave them a decisive victory at the 17th annual New England Cross Country run, Monday, November 18, at Franklin Park with a score of 30 to Maine’s 52. Lindsay and Richardson finished together well in front for the third time but their advantage was offset by our failure to place more men in the small numbers. Stanley came in tenth, Gunning 15th, and Austin 24th. Perkins and Caler were in the next two places.

Bates finished five men in succession from fourth to eighth, a most unusual achievement but only a duplication of what they had done in their dual meet with Maine.

M.I.T. placed third, 107; New Hampshire fourth, 121; Northeastern, Rhode Island, Tufts, Conn. Aggies, Amherst, Mass. Aggies and Boston University finished in the order named. The race was run in a very heavy rain.

Carnegie Bill of Health

The widely divergent reactions to the result of the study of college athletics by the Carnegie Foundation as announced in their bulletin 23 certainly makes interesting reading. The value of the comments which came largely from officers, coaches or alumni of the 130 colleges involved, depended chiefly upon what kind of a bill of health the Foundation passed out.

Both Bates and Bowdoin were included among the 28 colleges in which no indications of subsidized athletics were found. Colby and Maine were not investigated but the press of the State so far as is known felt that both Colby and Maine too were free from this diseased condition.

Perhaps the college officials who had sufficient courage to give facts which might lead to the indictment of their institutions should be commended. It would seem to be a difficult thing to do—a very unthankful task.

Editorial comment generally agreed that the report brot out nothing but what was common knowledge of people in reasonably close touch with athletics. Maine has suffered on numerous occasions the loss of promising athletes because we had nothing to offer. In the long run the men who come to Maine because they want to come will make by far the best alumni, tho obviously the policy of "no inducements" is not conducive of strong, successful athletic teams. Even so, we are for our present policy.

Someone has suggested that the Foundation investigations might learn some interesting facts by interviewing either secondary school officials, or outstanding athletes or both.

The question is—what is this study going to accomplish? Is anything going to be done about the situation or does the fact that alumni want winning teams and the public wants high class entertainment furnish the answer?

Alumni Directory

Copies of the Alumni Directory are being mailed to all alumni whose addresses we have. In presenting alumni with a copy, we recognize that since the material was prepared there have been scores of address changes. We are conscious also that some addresses may not be right up to date, for although repeated efforts were made to secure replies several hundred alumni did not fill out and return the card. We knew mail from this office was being delivered to the address given so we gave the latest address we had.

Alumni appreciate the cooperation of the University which has made possible the compilation, printing, and distribution of the directory. The volume fills an outstanding need.

The Alumni office will appreciate receiving up to the minute information of any alumni listed as lost or whose address as given is incorrect.

The Football Season

For the first time in several years Maine has had a near disastrous season, by far the worst since the present coach came to us. Every sane thinking alumni knew it was only a matter of time before we would probably have just such a year, if for no other reason that the laws of chance would not permit us to win all or even the most of our games year after year.

Naturally we want to win. So do our opponents. That is what makes the games interesting. But it would hardly seem possible for a real good team having no more reserve strength than we could muster this year to overcome one break after another and chalk up victories. Those who are closest to the football situation are not only well satisfied with the outcome but feel Coach Brice made an excellent showing. On the athletic page is a resume of the season. In a small or medium sized college it is rare that the substitutes can quite fill a position as well as the first string man. Several times this fall the Portland Press Herald has complimented Coach Brice and the football team on the showing which has been made under extremely adverse conditions. Defeated in score but not in gameness nor spirit best describes the outcome of the state series.

Good sportsmanship demands that we recognize the success of others. Bates has made a truly remarkable showing and we are glad to give them credit.
Charles A. Robbins '00, principal of Mattanawcook Academy at Lincoln was elected president of the Maine Alumni Teachers Association at the annual meeting in Portland, Thursday noon October 24. December 6

Special plans have been made by the executive committee of Penobscot Valley Alumni Association to make the meeting scheduled for December 6 an outstanding success.

Two speakers have been signed up, Dr. J. S. Stevens, dean of the college of Arts and Sciences, and Raymond Fellows '08, of Bangor, former attorney general of the state. Both are known to be interesting speakers.

The members of the football and cross country teams and coaches are to be guests of the evening. This is renewing a custom of former years.

At the conclusion of the speaking program a dance will fill out the evening.

In accordance with the policy started at the last meeting, both men and women alumni are urged to attend and bring their wives, husbands and friends.

W. Ray Thompson '14 of Caribou was elected to membership on the Alumni Council for three reasons; (1) to give northern Maine representation, (2) to have a real farmer representing the College of Agriculture and (3) to benefit from his qualities as a leader. Mr. Thompson operates a large farm in Aroostook, specializing in the growing and shipping of seed potatoes. He is an agricultural leader in his county and in the state, having served as president of the Aroostook County Farm Bureau, is now president of the Maine State Federation of Farm Bureaus and vice-president of the Maine Federation of Agricultural Associations. He is a Rotarian.

Mr. Thompson married Corinne A. Barrett, August 17, 1914; they have four children, two boys and two girls. Golf, hunting and fishing occupy the spare hours.

Engineering alumni by unanimous vote at the June alumni meeting, elected Mr. Silver as their representative for three years on the Alumni Council. After graduating from Maine, Mr. Silver was associated with the General Electric Company for two years. His next position was with the Raleigh (N. C.) Electric Company, first in charge of the meter department but finally as electrical superintendent and chief engineer of the Carolina Light and Power Company, which was formed through consolidations. In 1910, he became affiliated with the Electric Bond and Share Company of New York City. As a result of his successful work he was made in 1919, consulting Electrical Engineer in charge of all electrical engineering work. He has been author of many technical papers, and served as a committee member and chairman of several important national electrical societies.

Mr. Silver married Anna J. Teall of Bloomfield, N. J. They have four children, one boy and three girls. They reside at Montclair, N. J. Mr. Silver's record in the alumni office as well as his service to the New York Alumni Association are ample evidence of his devotion to Maine.

Connecticut Alumni Observe Maine Night

Twenty-seven alumni and their wives sat down to a very nice dinner at the University Club, Friday, November 8, the meeting opening up with the singing of the “Stein Song.” Following dinner, instead of Mr Elwell, our president taking charge, in Army fashion, he “passed the buck” to me to act as Toastmaster.

During the course of the dinner we had several Maine songs, following which an opportunity was given to all of those alumni present to relate some rather unusual experiences they had while in college. Everybody responded and in this way I think we got better acquainted.

Boardman’s talk was very interesting and covered a general outline of the college activities. He explained that with the increased tax on personal property the University must expect to get a little more money to maintain the college. He also explained the building program that is now going on and what the University would like to do in the future.

A million and a half dollars a day

An Advertisement of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company

More than 200 new Bell telephone buildings are going up this year in the United States, 800,000 additional telephones are going into use and new switchboards to care for 3,000,000 additional calls a day.

Thousands of miles of new cable, millions of miles of wire, new carrier systems, vacuum tubes and loading coils. These are a few of the things in the 1929 construction and improvement program of the Bell System which will cost more than $550 million dollars—a million and a half a day.

Telephone growth is essential to the new American civilization of better opportunity for the average man. The Bell System employs more than 400,000 workers, is owned by 450,000 stockholders, and serves the people of the nation.

Every day the Bell System is extending its lines to more people, increasing the speed and accuracy of its service, giving greater comfort and convenience in telephone use. All of this is done that each individual may get the most from this means of all inclusive and instantaneous communication and that the nation may be one neighborhood.

This is part of the telephone ideal that anyone, anywhere, shall be able to talk quickly and at reasonable cost with anyone, anywhere else. There is no standing still in the Bell System.
Cleveland’s New Railway Terminal Is G-E Equipped

This great $60,000,000 station marks the latest advance in the electrification of union passenger terminals in America. It will be opened early in 1930.

Seven railway lines, all heavy passenger carriers, converge at Cleveland. Only an electrified terminal could carry the daily thousands of travelers to and from the heart of the city—with the necessary speed and convenience and with the comfort and smoothness demanded of modern railways.

Twenty giant electric locomotives, each eighty feet long and each able to haul seventeen 75-ton Pullman cars, will be supplied with power by five 4000-hp. motor-generator sets. A single operator in the passenger station automatically controls the two power substations miles away.

All these electric locomotives carry the General Electric monogram. So do the big motor-generator sets. So does the floodlighting system, which gives special distinction to the terminal tower. The same General Electric mark of dependability is also found on thousands of other electric products, such as MAZDA lamps and electric refrigerators,—home necessities which promote health and comfort.
