G. I. TOWN

ELEVEN veterans of World War II have moved—bag and baggage, wives, children, and pet cats—into the famous University Cabin Colony back of the farm road. To relieve the suddenly acute housing shortage of residences suitable for married G.I.'s and their families, the University turned over this year the complete Cabin Colony to the use of the veterans.

The result is a unanimous vote of approval on the part of those living in G.I. Town and for the University abiding satisfaction that at least to this extent the perplexing family-housing situation has been solved. Unfortunately the Cabin experiment, interesting and valuable as it is, offers only a slight alleviation of a situation which, with the coming of the spring semester, will be even more acute than this fall.

The Experiment

The use of the University Cabins was undertaken quite frankly as an experiment in family housing. Traditionally used as bachelor quarters for students ready and able to rough it in all kinds of situations and conditions—even that of a Maine winter—the Cabins had been used for some time as homes for student families during Summer Session. But never during the snows and winds of January and February had they housed wives and children. It has been a great pleasure for those concerned, therefore, to have satisfied and enthusiastic reports so far from all those families who consider themselves fortunate to be a part of the friendly, cheerful, and cooperative neighborhood of the G.I. Town.

Seriously complicating the housing situation for the married veteran is, of course, the ever-present problem of finances. Under the G.I. Bill the veteran student receives for subsistence $75 per month for himself and dependents, regardless of whether the family consists only of a wife willing and able to work or of one or two small children as well. Therefore expensive rents are out of the question. The University Cabins have ideally met the situation in this respect.

The youngest member of the Colony was three weeks old on the first of November; his father, Second Lieutenant Donald Thomas, former A.A.F. pilot, is a sophomore in Arts and Sciences. In a near-by cabin are the seven-weeks-old twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Miner. Mr. Miner, two-year veteran of the Navy, helps out the family budget by preaching every Sunday in the Howland church. The oldest of the children of the group are Billy Harlow, 2, and David Littlefield, 3. Billy's father, Richard Harlow, Maine '43, served in the Coast Guard four years from December, 1941, entering in his junior year at the University. After service in Atlantic and Pacific areas, he has returned to his junior status in Agricultural Economics. Lewis Littlefield, veteran of the Anzio Beach-head where he was wounded, is still receiving treatment for the leg injury which sent him home from that inferno of battle. Formerly a meat cutter, he had long cherished the desire to go to college but lacked the opportunity; today, thanks to the government's program for veterans and the University Cabin Colony, he is on his way to becoming an electrical engineer.

The Residents

The human interest material in the Colony is inexhaustible. Medals, citations, and Purple Hearts are almost a commonplace in the background of these former soldiers and their courageous and very happy wives to whom the fates of war have been kind. After the weary months of separation, of waiting, and of constant worry, this community life in peace and contentment is idyllic. As Ralph Anderson, former Captain in the Quartermaster Corps, states it: "This cabin is the best break I've had in five years. I've never had people take such an interest in my welfare by providing everything as the University has done. When I arrived on the campus the first day I could tell that I was in a friendly atmosphere."

A South Pacific veteran, Ronald Berry, formerly A.A.F. Technical Sergeant, who went through the attack on Pearl Harbor and Guadalcanal, holder of the Bronze Star, lives near Ralph Barrett, A.A.F. Bombardier who sweated out 35 missions in the European Theatre to earn the Air Medal with 5 Oak Leaf Clusters as well as a Presidential Citation and the Purple Heart. Leslie Whittemore, Infantry Staff Sergeant, left his footprints on the beaches of North Africa, Sicily, and Normandy where he was in the first wave to go ashore. Wearer of the Silver Star, 8 Campaign stars, the Bronze Star, and, as so many do, the Purple Heart, he is registered as a Junior in Education.

Proctor for the Cabin group is Edward Hamblen, Class of 1943, who served 16 months with the Field Artillery after leaving the University. Veteran of Italy, Southern France, and Germany, he received a fractured hip during the last of the great invasion. Today he oversees the activities of the G. I. colonists with Mrs. Hamblen. He is preparing to go on for graduate study in the field of Education.

Always, the Budget

"We have to budget so very carefully," is the typical comment made by Mrs. Littlefield; nearly all are helping out the government allotment by work, assistance from families, or accumulated savings. However, conditions at the Cabins are more helpful for the financial problems of these families than other locations might be, and of course with the entire community facing identical problems there is a close-knit cooperation and understanding which helps all along the line. Rent for the cabin is $28.00 per month and this includes lights, water, and in the central Cabin, hot water baths and showers. Oil for the kitchen stove the colonist must buy. A minimum amount of furniture is provided; this most of the wives have added to and dressed up in typical feminine manner to provide the homey touches which make many of the small, frame cabins almost unrecognizably comfortable and cozy.

Research Director Appointed

The Trustees of the University have announced the appointment of Dr. Roy P. Whitney to the University staff to develop and direct the University's program in industrial research and service. He will act as the coordinator between the Technology Experiment Station, the Agricultural Experiment Station, the various Colleges of the University, and Maine industries.

Born and raised in Milo, Dr. Whitney is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and also received the degree of Doctor of Science from that institution. From 1938 to 1942 he served as assistant director and then director of the Bangor Station of the M.I.T. School of Chemical Engineering Practice at the Eastern Manufacturing Company. In 1939 he received the appointment of assistant professor of chemical engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In 1942 he was assigned to the Institute's Chemical Warfare Service Department Laboratory at Cambridge. He takes up his new duties at the University November 12.

Dr. Whitney is a member of Sigma Xi, Alpha Chi Sigma, American Institute of Chemical Engineers, American Chemical Society, and the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry. He is married and has one daughter. Mrs. Whitney is the former Virginia Gordon of Bangor.

RESEARCH DIRECTOR: Dr. Roy P. Whitney has been called to the University to develop and direct industrial research.

Two New Endowments For Scholarships Given

President Arthur A. Hauck has announced the receipt by the University of two gifts for students' aid.

An anonymous gift of $25,000 has been received as a supplementary donation to a fund previously established at the University by the donor. The new gift will be added to the endowment, the income of which is to be used for student aid. The generosity of the anonymous giver makes available from the income of the endowment additional scholarship awards. These will be given to students whose homes are in Maine and who without financial assistance could not attend the University.

The University has also announced the establishment of the Sergeant Walter McClymonds Wales Scholarship. Funds for the endowment of the scholarship were provided from the estate of the late Sergeant Walter McClymonds Wales, Army of the United States, in fulfillment of a request he made, because of his love for and interest in Northport, Maine, before he left for overseas duty as a member of the First Infantry Division. As a member of Company F, 26th Infantry, Sergeant Wales participated in the first African Invasion, the Tunisian Campaign, and the Invasion of Sicily. He was killed in action July 11, 1943.

The annual income for the Fund will be used for scholarship aid for students whose character and promise make them worthy of financial assistance in obtaining their education. Preference will be given to prospective or enrolled students from Northport.

Especially meritorious young men and women from Northport who have completed their undergraduate education at the University may be given grants in aid from the income of the Fund for graduate or professional study at the University or at other institutions.

Sergeant Wales was the son of the late Arvin Wales and of Mrs. Edna McClymonds Wales of Northport and of Massillon, Ohio. He was born in Massillon and attended the Rumford School of Connecticut and the Hill School of Pennsylvania. He married Miss Velma Bird of Northport. Prior to his enlistment in the Army in 1940, he was engaged in citrus fruit farming in Florida.

difficulties do not loom too forbidding. Unanimously all agree that they are very lucky to be able to live in the Colony. From the point of view of the University, it is a splendid opportunity to help out at least a few of the many deserving, married veterans who so much wish to come to Maine; the only difficulty with the Cabin Colony is that it should be several times larger.

M.C.A. ASSOCIATE NAMED

Miss Margaret S. Norris of Melrose Highlands, Mass., formerly associated with the New England Student Christian Movement, Boston, has been named as associate secretary of the Maine Christian Association at the University. Last year Miss Norris served as secretary to the Dartmouth Christian Union, Hanover, N. H.

As associate secretary of the MCA, Miss Norris will have general charge of the Christian work with women students on the campus and responsibility in other areas of work with the Executive Secretary, Rev. Charles E. O'Connor. A native of Riverton, N. J., she is a graduate of Melrose, Mass., schools and Boston University, from which she received a degree in secretarial education in 1928. She also attended Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass., and was employed there as a secretary.

In 1930 Miss Norris became associated with the New England Student Christian Movement in Boston, working in the office of the executive secretary, Mr. W. J. Kitchen. She was employed in the Boston office of the group until 1944. That year she went to Hanover, N. H., as the first secretary to the Dartmouth Christian Union under the advisorship of Prof. Roy B. Chamberlin.

By installing plumbing arrangements, oil burners in the kitchen stoves, and running water the University made the cabins livable for these families; they themselves are providing the necessary touches of attractiveness and affection which make them home-like.

The two large main rooms of the cabin are used, generally, for living room and study; the two smaller rooms are the sleeping quarters. In back is the kitchen. Curtains, some linoleum here and there, an article or two of furniture to supplement the bunks and tables and chairs provided by the University, have made a real home out of these cabins.

Naturally the husbands have a strong bond of common interests which help to bind the cabin group together; this same fellow-feeling is shared by the wives. The arrival of a washing machine for one of the women was a subject of universal rejoicing up and down the line of front doors. The health and condition of babies and mothers or mother-to-be are subjects of absorbing interest to everyone.

From the point of view of the residents the arrangement is most satisfactory; while there are problems and difficulties, all are met with cheerfulness and patience. After the grim years of war the few

ACCORDING to latest tabulations of the Alumni Office from the Military list for World War II, no less than 1,894 men and women from Maine have served as commissioned officers from the entire service list of 3,655. As of the end of October the service tabulation stands at 3,655 men and women in service; already many of these are receiving or hoping to receive in the near future their discharge papers. Honors by America and England came to Colonel Donald M. Libby '18 of Portland recently in recognition of his outstanding services in supply and procurement problems in Italy. He was awarded the U. S. Legion of Merit for his work with military and civilian agencies in obtaining needed supplies and helping set up labor policies which made possible the employment of many local civilians to free Army personnel for other duties. He was also named an honorary officer of the Military Division of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire by Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander for his work in solving many difficulties of joint operations between the allied forces. Col. Libby has served as Chief of Civil Supply and Local Procurement with G-4 of Allied Force Headquarters in the Mediterranean Theatre. He has been overseas for three years and has three battle stars on his Mediterranean Theatre Ribbon.

The Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service has been awarded to First Lieutenant Charles V. Chapman, Jr., '44 of Augusta in recognition of his successful leadership of a machine gun platoon from March through May last spring in France, Germany, and Austria with the Third Army. Lieut. Chapman was cited for leading his platoon on numerous motorized patrols far in advance of the battalion and usually with no other screening forces in front. His work often contributed materially to the advance of the battalion. Lieut. Chapman saw action for ninety-two days, traveling over a thousand miles. He has recently been placed in charge of the military government camp at Augsburg, Germany.

Returned from the Pacific, Marine Flyer First Lieutenant Milton T. Bodman '42 of Lubec brings a record of participation in 41 combat missions as a pilot with the Fourth Marine Air Wing fighter squadron. Lt. Bodman has flown his Corsair over Jap installations on the Marshall Islands through heavy fire. He entered flight training in 1942, won his wings at Pensacola the following August and was promoted to the rank of First Lieutenant November, 1944.

In the Women's Reserve of the Marine Corps Barbara Savage '42 of Bangor completed intensive training in O.C.S. this summer at Camp Lejeune, N. C., to receive from the hands of Camp Commander Major General Marston her commission as Second Lieutenant. Lt. Savage enlisted in July, 1943, and has served as a platoon leader at Camp Lejeune and as Link Trainer instructor at the Marine Air Station, Cherry Point, N. C.

Service NEWS and NOTES

The Stein Song continues to appear in unexpected places and circumstances according to Lt. George H. Northup '36. In a recent letter to Prof. Dwight Demeritt he wrote from the Philippines: "Out here there is a high civilian death rate, especially babies, so scarcely a day goes by but what a funeral procession goes down the road. Procession is always followed by a band, playing a fast piece for an infant and a dirge for an adult. The other day they went by playing the Maine Stein Song! Got quite a kick out of it and was reminded of the old days in Orono."

Recording of war history is the task of Captain Ernest Saunders, Jr., '36 of Lewiston, serving with the Allied Force Records Administration office in Italy. Duplicate copies of some 12 million important documents for the governments of the United States and Great Britain will help record the operations of the Mediterranean theatre, both military and naval. Such historic highlights as the invasion of Sicily, Italy, and Southern France and the battles of Anzio and Casino will be among the records duplicated and recorded for posterity by the office. Capt. Saunders saw action in the South Pacific with an Infantry unit and received promotion from the ranks.

New Department Head

Appointment of Dr. Alfred O. Shaw of Lexington, N. C., as head of the Department of Animal Industry at the University was announced last month by the Board of Trustees. Dr. Shaw's position includes the supervision of instruction in animal industry, of research in that field in the Experiment Station, and of the management of the University dairy herds at the campus and at Highmoor Farm, Monmouth.

A native of Utah, Dr. Shaw is a graduate of the University of Idaho and holds the Ph.D. from Pennsylvania State College. He served as instructor in dairying at Idaho and then became assistant professor in dairy husbandry at Kansas State in 1939. He was appointed in 1942 head of the department of animal industry at University of North Carolina. Two years later he was named manager of a large dairy farm at Lexington, N. C.

In addition to his teaching experience, Dr. Shaw has engaged in dairy research work and is the author or joint author of numerous publications in that field.

In his new appointment at Maine he will devote half time to teaching and half to

The Commanding Officer of the 82nd Armored Reconnaissance Battalion of the "Hell on Wheels" 2nd Armored Division is Lt. Colonel Wheeler G. Merriam '32 of Framingham, Mass. Several times decorated, he won the Russian Fatherland War Award Second Degree for freeing 8,000 Russian prisoners from a German camp. His most distinguished citation he considers the presentation of the unit award to the 2nd Division of the Belgian Fourragere given June 2, 1945. The unit was cited for being the first American troops to enter Belgium; Lt. Colonel Merriam's Reconnaissance group led the way. The Division was also cited for breaking up the spearhead division of the 5th Panzer Army during the German offensive in the Ardennes in December, 1944, in which his group was directly involved. Colonel Merriam at last reports was in Berlin in command of his Battalion.

Among the first Americans in Vienna was Colonel Fernando T. Norcross '14, chief of the internal affairs division of Headquarters Section G-5. A civil engineer in private life, Col. Norcross served overseas since September, 1943. He shared in the entry of allied forces into Greece in October, 1944, and was a member of the U. S. Vienna Mission last summer.

Father and Son served in World War II in the family of Lt. Col. Harold W. Coffin '16 and First Lt. Richard H. Coffin '42. A veteran also of World War I, Lt. Col. Coffin served from February 6, 1941, to last December in the defenses of the Port of Portland and with the Coast Artillery as a regimental commander at Camp Shelby, Miss. He also attended the C.A. School at Fort Monroe. Serving as intelligence officer for the Port of Portland which included in the sub-section covered by his duties the coastal defenses of Maine and New Hampshire, Colonel Coffin received a letter of commendation from his commanding general. Last year he returned to civilian life and his home in Bangor. Son Lieutenant Richard Coffin entered the Army as a Second Lieutenant after completing advanced R.O.T.C. training at Maine in 1942. He was sent overseas in the fall of 1943 and has served in India, Burma, and China. With a Signal Battalion he had charge of keeping up communications through the almost impossible conditions of Burmese jungles and in the face of the enemy. His group received for its work a Meritorious Service Unit Plaque. He was also personally commended for his leadership.

Graduated with the first class of officers from the Army Education Staff School was Captain Winfield C. Hodgkins, Jr. '42 of Bar Harbor. Overseas 24 months, Capt. Hodgkins wears three battle stars on his campaign ribbon. His graduation from the Army Education Staff School paves the way for organizing and operating the expanded educational program of the army to give occupation personnel opportunity to further their education while in service. The broad program of study to be administered by the Education School graduates offers instruction from the elementary grade level to that of the college graduate.

A rescue at sea by the submarine Hammerhead brought First Lieut. Walter N. Low '45 of South Portland safely to shore after he had drifted four days in the Pacific. Forced to bail out of his B-24 Liberator bomber last July, Lt. Low was picked up by the submarine as he drifted toward the Philippines several thousand miles away. Since going overseas last January he had won award of the Air Medal.

The HOMECOMING

WHETHER a war is fought with atomic bombs or with sling shots makes no difference; it is still a war to kill and the wrong approach!" So proclaimed Lieutenant Colonel James W. Harris '41 of Winchester, Mass., as he addressed assembled alumni and guests as headline speaker for the 1945 Homecoming Luncheon Saturday noon, November 10. A strong plea for a lasting peace and for a policy of adequate preparedness and self-protection for the United States climaxed his talk on the experiences he had known while in the Pacific theatre for four years.

The Luncheon guests, numbering over three hundred, welcomed Col. Harris back to Maine with an enthusiastic ovation. Also welcomed by them was the return of Football Coach George E. "Eck" Allen just back from service with the U. S. Navy. His introduction to the group by Alumni Association President Robert Thurrell '15 was the occasion also for announcement that Coach Allen will take on coaching of varsity basketball this winter.

Other Speakers

The Luncheon Program provided opportunity for President Arthur A. Hauck to welcome once more to the campus alumni and alumnae back for the first Homecoming program since 1942. He expressed his pleasure at the opportunity to begin again the tradition of the fall programs. Dr. Hauck then introduced visiting President A. N. Jorgensen of the University of Connecticut who expressed his appreciation at being among the guests. Alumni Association vice president Hazen Ayer '24 was also introduced to the luncheon group. Included in the head table party and for the first time presented to the general assembled alumni was new Dean of Education Glenn Kendall. Singing was led by Assistant Coach Phil Jones '19.

The entire week-end program began officially at 6:45 p.m. Friday with a football rally in the Memorial Gymnasium although numerous alumni, especially service men of the younger classes, were to be seen on the familiar paths long before that time. At the rally students and guests participated enthusiastically in the familiar songs and cheers.

Later in the evening alumni wearers of the "M" gathered for the always popular meeting of the "M" Club in the Armory. At the annual election Stephen R. Bussell '20 of Old Town was elected M Club president, Charles O'Connor '31, vice president, and Ted Curtis '27 secretary-treasurer.

Football movies and general discussion comprised the program. A general stag dance in the gym closed the first day's events.

Open House for fraternity members to give them an opportunity to visit chapter houses in use by the University as residence halls was one of the outstanding features of Saturday morning. Opportunity was also given to visit the various campus buildings and renew acquaintances with faculty members. At 10:30 fraternity groups were scheduled to hold meetings at the chapter houses with Alumni Advisers; at 11:00 a general meeting was scheduled in the Little Theatre for all fraternity alumni. Prof. Weston Evans '18, President of the Council of Alumni Chapter Advisers, presided.

Meanwhile the women students and alumnae enjoyed two field hockey games at the women's athletic field with the sophomores defeating freshmen in the annual hat game 4 to 1, while in the second game a picked alumnae team battled a student team to a 2 to 2 tie.

Alumni Council

Business of the Alumni Association was transacted by the Alumni Council Saturday morning. Those present included: President Robert Thurrell '15, vice president Hazen Ayer '24, clerk George

Dow '27, treasurer Richard Bradford '30, and members George Bearce '11, Miss Jessie Fraser '31, Fred Knight '09, Raymond Fogler '15, James M. Sims '32, Samuel Collins '19, Miss M. June Kelley '12, Myron C. Peabody '16, John H. Mahoney '27, Alfred Lingley '20, and Lt. John Sealey, Jr. Reports of committees were read and approved. The Council authorized the president of the Association to appoint alumni to Visiting Committees when the time should come to form such groups. A committee was authorized to develop plans for obtaining essential information about alumni in World War II. NEWS of the MONTH

Course—

A new training in the field of public management has been announced at the University to be started at once for training of students in governmental service for town, city, state, and federal administration. Recognizing the increasingly professional and technical character of governmental supervisory work on all levels the training is made available to veteran and other students in two-, four-, or five-year courses. For properly qualified students with previous college training or government experience a two-year program will allow rapid preparation. The standard four-year program leading to the bachelor degree in public management will also be supplemented by a five-year course combining management training with work in engineering so necessary in many of the government positions today such as that of town or city manager. In the five-year program the student will take two summers' internship in some branch of state or local government. The master's degree will be available also in the field.

With Maine an outstanding example of the development of town and city managership types of local government the new program is intended to offer adequate preparation for such work as well as for the greatly expanded specialized opportunities in government at all levels.

Award—

The University's fine Holstein herd in the campus barns was awarded the Progressive Breeder's plaque by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America in recognition of the excellence of the cattle. This award is the highest honor paid by the Association to a herd and is regarded as a real tribute of success among cattle breeders. The registered Holstein cattle of the University are under the general supervision of the Department of Animal Industry in the College of Agriculture.

Returned—

As helper to Trainer and Physical Education Professor Stanley Wallace, former football star Emile King of Orono has returned to the campus from service with the Army Air Forces. Beginning last month King started as an assistant in the long-famous "P.T." classes for civilian men and the members of the AST program. While in service King was able to keep up his outstanding football reputation by playing quarterback in an Eighth Air Force League. He was a leading star in Orono high school, Ricker Classical, and the University teams before entering service.

Extension—

Off-campus courses for community groups and correspondence courses for individual students have been made available this fall in increasing numbers by the General Extension Division. The University faculty is being supplemented by the service of teachers from some of the state Normal Schools and Teachers' Colleges to make possible the increased activity. Among the highlights of the program of courses being offered to groups of fifteen or more in communities throughout the state are several workshops in the educational field, and a series on current developments in education presented by a group of faculty members working in rotation. Other courses are made available in education, history, languages, psychology, and speech. Similarly a wide program of offerings for the individual is made available through correspondence.

Radio—

Study at home by means of radio is an innovation of the University's General Extension Division this fall. Under the direction of Dean Glenn Kendall a course has been worked out with the permission of the National Broadcasting Company to offer "American Foreign Policy" based on a series of Saturday evening radio programs over NBC stations on "Our Foreign Policy." The radio talks, featuring authoritative speakers on significant phases of foreign policy, will be supplemented by copies of the radio scripts each week and a bibliography of pertinent magazine articles and books for further study.

Officers—

Off-campus men held an organization meeting last month and elected officers of the group to represent them in student affairs. President is Dwight Moody of Lincoln, a returned veteran and former cross-country star, member of the senior class; other officers are: Earl F. Ingalls, freshman, of Cape Elizabeth, secretary; Roland M. Mayberry of Orono, freshman, business manager.

Speaker—

South America was portrayed through pictures and lectures in a two-day program last month by Sullivan C. Richardson, author, traveler, and speaker. Illustrating his talks by the colored moving pictures which he himself has taken on trips through the wilds of Central and South American countries he portrayed vividly the part played by our neighbor countries in supplying needed strategic materials of war.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

Mass. State 6—Maine 0

Helped by a high wind which enabled them to snare a Maine kick on the ten yard line the visitors from Massachusetts State College scored the only touchdown of the game at Orono on October 27 in the second quarter. The rest of the game was a struggle back and forth between well-matched teams. Both sides managed to gain rather consistently but tightened up to hold in the touchdown area. Fumbles and penalties checked several drives by the visitors. Maine was unable to score from the one yard line.

Connecticut 18—Maine 12

A close, exciting, and well-fought game at Storrs resulted in a victory for the home team by a margin of one touchdown as the Maine team turned in an unexpectedly strong brand of football. A score in the first quarter by a pass from Plavin to Woodworth put Maine ahead briefly. The lead was wiped out by Connecticut with scores in the first, third, and final quarter. Second tally for Maine came in the fourth quarter with another Plavin to Woodworth pass after a power drive from their own five yard line. Two of the Connecticut scores were turned in by Trojanowski, high scorer in the East. Among the outstanding men for Maine was freshman Jack Woodworth of Lawrence, Mass., right end. Maine turned in an especially outstanding job on defense.

Mass. State 14—Maine 13

By the difference of a point after touchdown, Massachusetts managed to edge out victory at Amherst on November 3 as the two teams again played a fast, close game. Following a 62 yard march by the Maine team, Gates passed successfully to Woodworth for the first Maine score; the try for point failed. In the final quarter recovery of a fumble by the home team enabled freshman Henry Dombkowski of Paterson, N. J., to carry over from the five yard line for the second Maine tally. Meanwhile the home team scored twice, the second time following an intercepted Maine pass. Both kicks resulted in scores after touchdown and provided the winning margin

Coach Allen Returns

Maine athletic fans acclaimed the return to the University last month of Head Football Coach George "Eck" Allen following two and a half years of service in the Naval Reserve. team on the short end of the largest score recorded in the history of the two teams. Rivals on the gridiron since 1922, the two teams have played 17 games, with Maine victor in eleven and one a tie. This year's game enabled the big team from Storrs to win its sixth victory and gave Trojanowski, high scorer for the nation, another 24 points to his credit. Maine fought hard from the opening whistle but found itself hopelessly outclassed. The visitors were able to score in every quarter of the game and had no trouble checking the attack of the Maine team.

CROSS COUNTRY

The Maine cross country team placed third in the New England Meet held at Boston on November 10. With a team score of 87, Maine's runners placed behind the Rhode Island team and the runners from Northeastern. Ten colleges were represented either with complete teams or individual runners.

Coming to Maine in the spring of 1940, Allen was able to coach only one football team for the University before joining the Naval Reserve for duty. In the two and a half years of his absence he has been engaged in the Navy's physical training program for naval personnel, particularly in the training of air combat crewmen. During his absence the coaching duties were taken over by William Kenyon who this year has completed twenty years of service with Maine teams.

Allen is well qualified to coach varsity basketball. He coached the sport at Brown and saw his teams establish one of the best records of victory in Brown's basketball history. He himself played both football and basketball as a student and was named an All-U. S. forward in basketball.

Equally outstanding was his record in football; while at West Virginia University he was named three times to All-American consideration as a quarterback. Following his graduation from West Virginia, he coached high school teams with great success. For four years he was varsity backfield coach at Brown as well as basketball coach.

Coach Allen, as he returns to his coaching duties at Maine, is 33 years old; his work in the Navy program has kept him in constant touch with athletic and physical training developments. He will take over his duties with the basketball squad early next month.

I wish you weren't all so shy about sending in material concerning yourselves. There must be many of you moving about and changing your jobs now that the post-war period is really here. Please relax and send me some nice newsy letters.

Did you read the nice write-up about Lt. Col. Ward B. Cleaves in the October Alumnus? His latest promotion makes him Chief of the Food Service Branch, Subsistence Division, Office of the Quartermaster General, Washington. Some people who don't rate overseas ribbons have done some pretty swell work on this side of the Atlantic. And you can take a bow on that one, Lt. Col. Cleaves!

At last I can say thank-you to George Farnsworth for the cards he sent during the war from South Africa, Australia, Nova Scotia, and other points of the compass. During that time Red was Chief Engineer of the Socony Vacuum Company's tanker, SS Cape Town. In 1942 he was on duty in the Atlantic and in 1943 in the Pacific, returning to the States in 1944. At that time he was taken off the ship and sent to Bombay, India, as a Tanker Expediter. He returned to New York in September to receive his present appointment, Port Engineer for the Socony Vacuum Oil Co., N. Y. There ought to be some tall tales between the lines of this brief information.

Mrs. Hanson is a graduate of Bangor High School and Gilman Commercial School and has been employed by the Fay and Scott Company in Dexter. Ed is now assistant superintendent at the machine shop of the same company. They went to New York on their wedding trip and are now living in Dexter.

1933 Secretary: Mrs. Dorothy Findlay Carnochan, 37 Falmouth St., Portland, Me.

During the past month it has been a distinct joy to me to have met several of our class members who have just returned from the European Theatre of Operations after months of service—Maj. Ralph Sawyer and family are now living at 11 Newland St., Augusta, Me.

His little girl is better now. I read the "Maine Men Home" list faithfully and I was glad to see Maj. Frederick Bendsten and Lt. James Sanborn among them.

1935 Secretary: Agnes Crowley McGuire, 59 Western Ave., Biddeford, Maine

Here's hoping this bit of news will be in the office before the Alumnus goes to print! The days aren't long enough now to wedge in all that seems to be on the docket.

I had an awfully nice note last summer from Ralph Wentworth, now S/Sgt. Ralph E. Wentworth, 31221045, 865th Bombardment Sqdn., (H), 494th Bombardment Group (H), APO #331, c/o Postmaster, San Francisco, Calif. He is in the Western Pacific (or was then) and had been on Angaur Island—about which he wrote, "It was a pleasant little island if you could be resigned to the dullness that set in after the first few months. We had good quarters and the movies for the most part were very recent, and since they were our only entertainment it was fortunate that they were so good. When we first got there we had trouble with Japs snooping around the area. It is a very uncomfortable feeling to wake up in the night with hand grenades exploding within a matter of yards of your tent." Ralph wrote that David Pierce was wounded in France last fall and after a long convalescence is now in Ft. Knox, Kentucky, and that Louise Hastings Eldridge is doing Red Cross work in New York. Oliver is in the Navy and stationed on Saipan. Thanks for all the good information, Ralph.

I wonder if there'll be room for anything else in The Alumnus besides this column.

1938 Secretary: Betty Gleason,
 61 Bennoch St., Orono, Maine

I hope all of you will be so disgusted with this brief column that you will sit down and write me some news for the next issue.

I received a letter from Don Kelly written September 20 and "Panama Bound" for the heading. I quote, "The old ship finally is bound for the States and right now we are nearly half way home from Saipan. Our destination is still unknown but we are now assigned to Commander Submarine Forces, Atlantic Fleet, so looks like the fall and winter in a large eastern port, New York, Philadelphia, etc., and then probably duty in the Caribbean Sea. Never did find any Maine people on Saipan but understand Ken Robertson was there, and also Ruth McClelland. Haven't seen an Alumnus for some time but was wondering if you knew the whereabouts of Johnny Gowell and Buzz Sherry? What year will the big victory celebration be? Looks like a good bet for most people in 1946." The latest address we have for Lt. (j.g.) John Gowell—Office of Inspector of Naval Material, 30 Church St., New York 7, N. Y. Ens. Edward Sherry—8210 McClelland Road, Norfolk, Va. Can't give you Don's address because I can't make out the name of his ship!

There was a picture of Roddy Elliott in the Bangor Daily News last month, and the caption under the picture read, "Former U. of M. Football Star Pilots Globe-ster." Then it goes on, "at Santa Marie Air Field in the Azores after successfully piloting the globe-girdling A.T.C. Globe-ster, in the first leg of the flight between Bermuda and the Azores. This trip marked the 100th crossing of the Atlantic for Elliott who is one of the A.T.C.'s crack C-54 pilots and a pioneer of the North Atlantic run. This leg of the flight, 2,216 miles, was made in record time. Capt. Elliott will soon return to the States for a discharge." Congratulations on your outstanding record, Roddy! We're all very proud of you.

RADAR made many contributions to Victory both in Europe and in the Pacific. It directed the fire of naval guns—the dropping of bombs through clouds and darkness—detected the approach of enemy planes and ships—spotted submarines—guided night fighter pilots to their unseen targets.

Radar takes scores of weird shapes, each especially developed to do a specific job.

A land-based radar may tip the scales at 70,000 pounds. A compact airborne unit may weigh only 168 pounds.

A simple radar may have 80 vacuum tubes—another as many as 374.

One unit may require 40,000 labor hours to complete—another type only 4600 hours.

Up to the end of the war, Western Electric had furnished more than 56,000 radars of 64 different types, valued at almost $900,000,000.

The basic principles of radar—transmission and reception of high frequency radio waves—have long been familiar to Western Electric through its wide experience in making telephone, radio and other electronic apparatus. So it was natural that this Company was chosen to play a leading role in radar for use on land, aboard ships and in planes.
