The University of Maine System's (UMS) Universities and Law School are continuing in-person operations for Spring 2022.

As in Fall 2021, faculty and staff should expect to continue to return increasingly to pre-pandemic conditions and modalities. This means that employees whose duties required in-person presence before the pandemic— such as maintaining physical campus operations, conducting research and teaching in-person courses— should expect to continue to work in person.

Not all employee circumstances are the same, of course, and therefore the University of Maine System has developed a process and a structure designed to support those who may find it necessary to explore alternative work arrangements— that is, something different than their pre-pandemic work schedule and/or modalities.

As always, if you have any questions, please call on your HR Partners for assistance and support.
