COVID-19_UMaine News_Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

University of Maine Division of Marketing and Communications

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.library.umaine.edu/c19_marketing

Part of the Higher Education Commons, History Commons, Medicine and Health Sciences Commons, and the Physical Sciences and Mathematics Commons

This Webpage is brought to you for free and open access by DigitalCommons@UMaine. It has been accepted for inclusion in Division of Marketing & Communications by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@UMaine. For more information, please contact um.library.technical.services@maine.edu.
Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this:

Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this:

Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this:

Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this:

Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this:

Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this:

Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this:

Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this:

Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this:

Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this:

Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this:

Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this:

Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this:

Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this:

Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this:

Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this:

Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this:

Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this:

Education Week talks with Ferrini-Mundy about STEM teaching during the pandemic

April 13, 2021

Education Week reported on a symposium at the American Educational Research Association’s virtual annual meeting featuring Joan Ferrini-Mundy, University of Maine System vice chancellor for research and innovation and president of the University of Maine. In the symposium, Ferrini-Mundy spoke about the challenges of teaching science during the pandemic while recognizing the opportunity to “watch science unfold.”

Share this: