

Maine Policy Review

Volume 15 | Issue 1

2006

Table of Contents

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.library.umaine.edu/mpr>

Recommended Citation

"Table of Contents." Maine Policy Review 15.1 (2006) : 4 -5, <https://digitalcommons.library.umaine.edu/mpr/vol15/iss1/1>.

This Front Matter is brought to you for free and open access by DigitalCommons@UMaine.

TO OUR READERS 6

THE MARGARET
CHASE SMITH ESSAY

The Double Crisis and the Civic Mission of Education

David Scobey 8

FORUMS

Maine's Economy: Peering into the Crystal Ball

The Maine Consensus Economic Forecasting Commission's fall 2006 forecast described here by Maine State Economist Catherine Reilly suggests the state's economic future will be one of slow yet steady growth despite a weakening housing market and impending closure of Brunswick Naval Air Station.

Catherine Reilly 10

Public Access to Privately Owned Land in Maine

Maine's "open land" tradition of public access to private lands is increasingly under threat from a variety of sources. James Acheson examines these sources and suggests a more active course for preserving Maine's "open-land" tradition. At stake, he points out, is the viability of the state's outdoor recreation and tourism industries.

James M. Acheson 18

A Maine Policy Review Interview with Governor Angus S. King

In a wide-ranging interview with Maine Policy Review Editor, Kathryn Hunt, former governor Angus King talks about the issues of regionalization, state economic development, a nation "at risk," and charting a path forward for Maine.

. 32

Municipal Restructuring in Québec: Some Lessons for Maine

With the push to consolidate municipal and school administrative functions growing stronger in Maine, David Wihry draws upon the recent government consolidation experiences of the Province of Québec to point out some "lessons learned" with applicability to Maine.

David F. Wihry 40

Maine's State Parks: Their Value to Visitors and Contribution to the State Economy

Visitors to Maine's state parks and historic sites report high levels of satisfaction. As the authors convey, parks are an important component of Maine's tourism industry, generating an overall economic impact exceeding $30 million annually. Nonetheless, many suffer from long-deferred maintenance and are in immediate need of major capital improvements.

Robert Roper, Charles E. Morris,
Thomas Allen, Cynthia Bastey 56