Luncheons will be held in Stodder Hall and the Commons at 12:30. The second part of the afternoon consists of a closer look at the college of their choice during the first part of the afternoon and visits to the departments of special interest at 2:00. The day will end with refreshments in the Main Lounge of the Me-orial Union.

Committee Has Many Activities For Graduation

The 1960 Commencement Committee held its first meeting on March 23 in the first floor lounge of the Committee Room in the Administration Building. The members of the committee include: W. Hall '14 are on the committee also.

The following planks are of particsary interest to University students and administrators:

1. The general endorsement for financial aid to the University of Maine and the state teachers colleges in keeping with expansion and development of adoption of voting rights for persons eighteen years of older (12) optional military science at the University of Maine (4) financial aid to the University of Maine for the purpose of establishing an educational television station at Orono and (3) study of a proposed industrial institute to be established at the University of Maine. The last two planks are specific proposals of the University of Maine YGOP.

Herman Dohi, president of the University YGOP, was particularly gratified with the results of the committee's work. Mrs. Marilyn Dietl was attended as an observer.

Election of officers of the council for the coming two years was held and a YGOP platform was adopted. Arthur B. Hoot, a University delegate, was elected to the office of Treasurer of the Maine County of the Young Republican Clubs.

Ball, Jazz Concert To Top Activities On Greek Weekend

By Vicki Waite

Take a deep breath and plunge into a whirlpool of activities. Proms, banana splits, banquets (with or without) will be continuous until June. A weekend is in store thanks to the efforts of the Greek Weekend Committee. The Masquerade Ball, Friday evening, will be something unique in the way of dances here. Couples may be included in a fraternity party no matter what your taste as long as you are a fraternity member. The dance will lend itself to anything from a period costume to semi-formal dressed topped by a crazy hat. The dance will be held at the Commons with music by the Maine Bears. The admission is free and it will last from 9:30 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Saturday morning will be taken up with workshops being held in the fraternity houses and sorority rooms. There is only one place on this campus to be Saturday afternoon. On with the shades man, we all is going to "make the scene" at the gym with Lou Armstrong. As far as the sororities are concerned the weekend will still be going strong Sunday with a banquet and the Panhellenic Sing.

Lucky Strike’s Dr. Frood reveals

A Foolproof Method for Rating Your College

Dear Dr. Frood: Do you believe in the theories that Shakespeare was actually either Marlowe or Bacon?

English Major

Dear English: All right, I have done considerable research on the subject and I can prove that Marlowe was actually Bacon, and that Bacon (who was a bit of a ham), was in reality, Marlowe, and that Shakespeare, an itinerant grape squeezer who could neither read nor write, was, in fact, Queen Elizabeth.¹

Dear Dr. Frood: I have a very serious personal problem. I am secretly engaged to three students here. Just between you and me, however, they are all fools. I really love a certain Professor Bowdley, who is married. What should I do?

Needless to say, this letter is not for publication.

Millicent Tweedy

Dear Dr. Frood: Whenever I am with girls, I stutter. Frankly, I think it is because my parents never told me about the birds and the bees. What can I do?

A. W. Shucks

Dear A. W.: You had better read some books on the subject. I especially recommend Mildred Widdle’s “The Bees Are Your Friends,” and Agnes Mopett’s “Songs in the Treetops.”

Dear Dr. Frood: Is there any accepted method for determining the academic ratings of American universities and colleges?

J. V. Leeger

Dear J. V.: Of course. Simply take the total number of graduates and divide by money.

A Little Hustle Please

Examinations, whether they be quizzes or prelims, are not just undesirable tasks which the student must suffer through taking and the instructor must suffer through correcting. They are an integral part of the learning process. They inform both the student and the instructor of the student's progress and achievement in a particular course.

We hear many arguments against the subjective examination. We could probably dig up equally as many arguments against the objective exam. But there is one element of testing that stands head and shoulders above all others in importance: the student's immediate knowledge of the results.

If we are to have any faith in psychological and educational research, we must accept the premise that the sooner the examinee learns of his errors, the more certain he is of correcting them. There is a relationship between the time it takes an instructor to hand back a corrected exam and the amount of learning accomplished by taking it.

With this in mind it seems logical that each instructor bears the responsibility of correcting and handing back his examinations with the utmost speed.

But there are many instructors on this campus who apparently do not know the meaning of speed. Many students go into a prelim and even into a final unaware of how they did on the previous test. We will grant that many instructors, especially those who must give subjective exams, have to spend long hours wading through reams of paper trying to come up with one grade per paper. It is expected that these exams will take a little longer in returning—but not several weeks, or months. If it takes that long to correct these exams, it is time to change the type of exam.

In all fairness to the student who must be present at prelims at the proper time and who must take his term papers on time or suffer the consequences, grade-wise, we appeal to the instructors to make the effort to correct and return the papers on time or suffer his students' criticism.

Man is nowhere anyway. No man is here. And I here too to test.

That's a little Kerouac. Kerouac is a sort of refreshing after listening to the R.F.D. Dinnerbell. Maine is about as far away from all you hear on the radio is Western music. It seems to me that Maine could get some Eastern music. Come to think of it, I never hear a good tune to ring about pig sties and potatoes. I don't want you to get the feeling that I don't like Maine. My parents were born in Albion and I've spent summers in Maine since I was one year old.

My greatest remembrance is walking home at night with my parents and letting the moon around the drinking holes shade us up. Sometimes we have heard the people grow old and the joys of have, men's desires the mind of the sophisticate. (I'm 21.)

The greatest institution in Maine seems to be the State Prison. Every Friday and Saturday night the boys arrive, beer in hand, smoke on head, and '50 Ford under rear. Considering the beer drunk, the theater sometimes even try to show intellectual movies like "Jungian" or "The Blob," etc. Most of these pseudo New York Hoods left High School and California. They turned out to be a convention of all the gas station attendants in Maine. They circulated around and they had been asked by the Maine State Police to give them a few beers. Mrs. Elliott Discusses Manners At Alpha Chi

Mrs. Lloyd H. Elliott was guest speaker at a formal meeting of Alpha Chi Omega Sorority Monday, April 4. The First Lady of the University, a charter member of Delta Theta Chapter of Alpha Chi Omega, selected as her topic “Equette and Social Customs.” She expressed regret at the present tendency to become formal in the point of rudeness.

Stressing the importance of instilling good manners in children, Mrs. Elliott said, “The social graces are as important to behavior as dress is to appearance.” Among the specific topics discussed by Mrs. Elliott were good grooming, proper dress at social functions, introductions and acknowledgments, conversations, and dance chaperons and guests.

WHO WENT TO THE PROM—AND WHY

“Hello,” said the voice on the telephone. “This is Werther Sigafoss. I sit next to you in psych. I’m kind of dumpy and I always wear a sweat shirt.”

“I’m afraid I don’t remember you,” said Anna Livia Plurabelle.

“In the note whose lecture notes you’ve been borrowing for two years,” said Werther.

“Oh, yes!” said Anna Livia. “What do you wish, Walter?”

“Werther,” said Werther. “What I wish is to take you to the Prom.”

“But this is November 27, Weston,” said Anna Livia. “Prom is May 21.”

“Prom is May 21,” said Werther. “I know, but you are so round and beautiful that I was afraid you might have a date already.”

“As a matter of fact I do, Wingate,” said Anna Livia. “Wingate.”

“Werther,” said Werther. “Oh, dear!”

Anna Livia did not really have a date, but she was expecting to be asked by Stewart Stalwart, athletic and BMOC, handsome as Apollo, smooth as ivory, wearer of faultless tweeds, smoker of Marlboro cigarettes which even without his other achievements would stamp him as a man with know-how, with a pleasure-oriented palate. If you think flavor went out when filters came in, try a Marlboro. This one brims with zest and the good, mild taste so dear to those who smoke for the pure joy of it. Get yourself a pack of Marlboros and listen to your friend say, “There, by George, goes a smoker who knows a hawk from a handsaw.”

But I digress. Anna Livia waited and waited for Stewart Stalwart to ask her, but two days before the Prom, to everybody’s amusement, he asked Rose-of-Sharon Schwartz, a non-descript girl with pavement-colored hair and a briefcase.

I have decided to accept your invitation—

Anna Livia immediately phoned Werther Sigafoss. “My Prom date has come down with a dread virus,” she said, “and I have decided to accept your invitation, Waldrop.”

“Waldrop,” said Werther. “Oh, goody ganders!”

The next day Anna Livia received a phone call from Stewart Stalwart. “My Prom date has come down with a dread virus,” he said, “and I will go with you.”

“Certainly,” she said and promptly phoned Werther and said, “I have come down with a dread virus and cannot go to the Prom with you, Whiephithec.”

“Waldrop,” said Werther. “Oh, mine and rufe!”

So Anna Livia went to the Prom with Stewart and who do you think they ran into? Rose-of-Sharon with Werther, that’s who! Stewart had felt obliged to ask Rose-of-Sharon because she always did his homework, but she had wussed out because she really wanted to go with Werther with whom she felt a great oneness because they were both so dumpy. He fell wildly in love with her at the Prom, and today they are married and run a very successful free-minute auto wash in New Bern, N. C.

Anna Livia and Stewart are happy, too. They are still juniors and have not missed a prom in sixteen years.

We hope you’ll be smoking Marlboros at your prom—or if you like mildness but you don’t like filters—Philip Morris—from the same makers.

Big Blue Back From South
Disappointed But Confident

By Earl Smith
Assistant Sports Editor

"Disappointed but not discouraged is the way Coach Jack Butterfield, Maine's baseball coach, expressed himself when quizzed about last week's Southern baseball swing. "We need lots of work on our hitting," continued Butterfield. "On the whole, we have a better balanced ball club than we had last year."

The Maine Black Bears returned to the Orono campus Sunday afternoo before a defeated group, but by no means a pessimistic bunch.
The Big Blue team, playing only four of its six scheduled games, did not have too much luck. They lost all four games. On Monday of last week, the Bears lost to Washington College, 5-4, after having a 4-1 lead going into the eighth inning.

Against Navy, the Bears lost 4-1. Following two rained out games at Washington, D. C., the Maine squad fell victims to Rutgers University, 3-2, in 11 innings and then lost to Columbia University, 4-2, on Saturday afternoon.

Pitches that worried Butterfield, was excellent. The Maine hurling staff issued only four free passes while giving up only eight earned runs. Pete Henderson was the best individual performer on the trip, stated the Maine mentor. "He was our tough against Rutgers." The young sophomore gave up three hits in five innings while striking out six. He walked only one batter.

Butterfield has this to say of his fielders. "Valton was the most outstanding. Ranzoni did an adequate job while Duphy was good defensive but needs to improve his hitting. Divesy started to come around to wards the end of the trip. He needs to get his timing squared away."

Butterfield started Tuesday to prepare for a tough Yankee Conference and State Series schedule. His first game will be with Rhode Island University on April 15 at Kingston.

Freshman Baseball

By Karl Perrone, Freshman

Ken Perrone, new freshman baseball coach, is pleased with the team's first assignment. "If I didn't have a better ball club to start with," he said, "I don't want to dwell too much about how much better the beginner can be made."

Perrone, who started with the Black Bears as a senior last season, has been in charge of the first year men for four weeks and has narrowed his squad down to 24 men.

"We have excellent depth in the infield as well as in the pitching and catching departments," he said.

The youthful diamond boss hesi tated to single out any one individual but noted that John Gibbons behind the plate, with Alton "Bump" Hadley and Laddie Deemer on the mound, will give Coach Butterfield a very strong team for the first game against the Bates Frosh.

Perrone noted that the freshman schedule this season is one of the best ever.

Frosh Track

The cinder track coach Ed Szymans has his frosh tracksters back in action after a three week layoff.

Most of the first year track men are completing the indoor track season and are in top shape for the outdoor swing.

Tennis Starts

By Fred Stubbart

As the second half of the semester begins and the intramural program starts down the home stretch, a look at the fraternity point leaders seems in order.

With three sports left, volleyball, softball, and tennis, Phi Eta has a comfortable lead over second place Phi Mu. 300 to 255.

No other fraternity has sufficient point totals to challenge either of the leaders although Delta Tau and Phi Kap are doing well in comparison to past years.

If Phi Mu is to catch Phi Eta, they must pick up sizable portions of the approximately 50 points available from volleyball, 70 points from softball, and 40 points from tennis.

This week marks the beginning of the volleyball schedule. Both the fraternity and non-fraternity league will be divided into four branches this year with each team playing three games during the regular competition.

The profligacy will pit the winners of each branch in a single elimination tourney culminating with the campus championship match between the fraternity and non-fraternity winners on Wednesday, April 13.

Applications for softball and tennis entries will soon be distributed; however, both sports will have to wait until the playing surfaces are in proper shape.

Starting with this week's contests and continuing whenever possible, the outstanding intramural athlete of the week will be mentioned in this column.

The choice will be made after consultation with officials and intramural faculty advisors.

The selections will be based on the individual's over-all performance as well as his value to his team, with sportsmanship not being neglected in the choice.
