Maine Alumnus, Volume 13, Number 2, November 1931

General Alumni Association, University of Maine
Graduate Study

Graduate work leading to the degrees of Master of Arts, Master of Science, Master of Arts in Education, and Master of Science in Education, is offered by the Faculty of Graduate Study.

This work includes the field of Agricultural Economics and Farm Management; Animal Industry; Bacteriology; Biological and Agricultural Chemistry; Botany; Chemistry; Economics and Sociology; Education; English; Chemical, Civil, Electrical, and Mechanical Engineering; Entomology; French; German; History and Government; Home Economics; Horticulture; Mathematics and Astronomy; Physics; Physiology; Psychology; Spanish and Italian; and Zoology.

Professional Degrees

The professional degrees of Chemical Engineer, Civil Engineer, Electrical Engineer, and Mechanical Engineer are conferred upon graduates in the curricula in Chemistry, Chemical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, and Mechanical Engineering respectively, upon the presentation of satisfactory theses, after at least three years of professional work subsequent to graduation.

Scholarships

Three competitive graduate scholarships of the value of a year's tuition, one for each college, open to members of the senior class or to graduates of earlier classes, have been established by the Board of Trustees.

Three graduate scholarships similarly established are available for graduates of institutions located in the Maritime Provinces of Canada.

Three graduate fellowships of $500 each available for candidates at large have been established by the Board of Trustees.

The Coe Research Fund

The Trustees of the University have set aside the sum of $100,000 from the Coe bequest to form a permanent fund, the proceeds of which are to be used for carrying on various phases of research work within the University.

University of Maine Studies

The University of Maine Studies are issued under the direction of the Faculty of Graduate Study for the purpose of publishing notable pieces of research work produced by graduate students and members of the faculty.

These opportunities await you in your own University.
MAINE'S first Homecoming, to be held November 7, the day of the Bowdoin-Maine football game, inaugurates a new era in the tradition of the University. Careful plans have been laid for the occasion, the program including tours of the campus, brief talks by the heads of departments in the College of Technology, an alumni-faculty luncheon and a State series football game.

An informal program that will make everyone feel at home has been planned by the alumni committee in charge of arrangements, composed of chairman Arthur L. Deering, '12, president of the General Alumni Association, Robert R. Drummond, '05, head of the Department of German at the University, and Charles E. Crossland, '17, executive secretary.

Dr. Robert H. Fernald, '92, nationally known educator and engineer, and son of the late Dr. Merritt L. Fernald, president of the University, will be the main speaker at the luncheon Saturday noon. Dr. Fernald, recently appointed Dean of the Towne Scientific School at the University of Pennsylvania, is outstanding in his field of work and will undoubtedly give alumni attending the luncheon much to think about.

"Prexy" Boardman, as president of the University, will preside during the Home Coming luncheon, which will begin at 12 o'clock sharp. This is especially fitting, as the program is being sponsored cooperatively by the University and the Alumni Association.

The College of Technology will be the feature of Saturday morning's program, with Dean Paul Cloke and the Tech faculty as hosts, although alumni of other colleges will be at perfect liberty to browse about where they wish, inspect what appeals to them as the most interesting phase of the University, and, above all, to witness the University in action. Since formality finds no place on the program, no one should be bored. Faculty members not engaged with classes will be in their offices Saturday morning, and will be glad to meet all homecomers who drop in on them. The utmost care has been exercised to make November 7 a day long to be remembered in the annals of the University—a day when everyone will be at home and feel at home.

Presentation of the Alumni Service Emblem will take place at the luncheon, Raymond H. Fogler, '15, recently retired president of the General Alumni Association, making the award. Last year, Harry E. Sutton, '09, was the recipient of this award for outstanding service to the University through the Alumni Association.

A band of 25 pieces will be on hand during the luncheon to furnish music. Coaches Jenkins and Brice will give short "three minute" talks concerning cross country and football. Ermo Scott, '31, has been invited to lead the singing during the luncheon. Ermo has made a reputation for himself as a song leader during the last few years and is expected to introduce plenty of pep into the program.

As a climax to the noon program, officials of station WLBZ in Bangor have laid plans for broadcasting events scheduled on the program, beginning at 12:45.

Facilities for checking clothing will be available in the Chapel of Alumni Hall throughout the morning and early afternoon. An information table will be situated in the main corridor of Alumni Hall, where alumni will be able to obtain printed programs concerning the headquarters of members of the faculty.

Last, but not least, at two o'clock, the annual football tussle between Bowdoin and Maine will take place on Alumni Field. Those who witnessed last year's game at Bowdoin will look forward to seeing Maine avenge its last State series defeat.

Alumni who have not visited the campus for several years will have a surprise awaiting them on their return on Home Coming Day, for improvements and new developments on the campus are many and interesting.

Recent improvements and changes include: the remodeling of the Maples into a suitable girls' dormitory, the erection of Merrill Hall and Colvin Hall, Home Economics building and girls' dormitory respectively, the remodeling of the Heating Plant and installation of two 1290 H.P. H Type Stirling Boilers, and numerous other minor changes.

Program

10:00 College of Technology program—Wingate Hall.
10:10-10:50 Tau Beta Pi members will conduct parties interested in inspecting electrical, mechanical, chemical and civil laboratories.
11:00-11:40 Brief talks by heads of departments of College of Technology—Wingate Hall.
12:00-1:30 Alumni Faculty Luncheon—Alumni Hall Gymnasium.

Those who are to attend the luncheon should assemble in the Chapel where checking facilities will be available.

2:00 Bowdoin-Maine—Alumni Field

Faculty members who do not have classes will be in their offices Saturday morning.
Dean’s Portrait
Recently Unveiled

Ceremonies in the dedication of Merrill Hall, new Home Economics building, held Saturday, October 10, included the unveiling of a portrait of Leon S. Merrill, Dean of the College of Agriculture. Arthur L. Deering, ’12, president of the General Alumni Association, gave the address just prior to the unveiling of the portrait, funds for which were contributed by alumni of the College of Agriculture. Mr. Deering paid Dean Merrill a fitting tribute for his many years of service in behalf of the University of Maine, as one may see from the following paragraphs.

“It is my special privilege to present to the University, as a part of these exercises, a portrait of Dean Leon S. Merrill. In this connection let me say that this fine building which we are dedicating today is due in no small part to his untiring efforts and his ability to win support from others and thereby bring about the necessary action that caused a dream and vision to become a reality.

“One hears much today about those sons and daughters of this State who have attained fame and fortune in distant lands, who have become leaders in the political, religious, social, and economic life of this nation.

“However, the time may come when we will devote more space than is now being done to those who have given their lives to the upbuilding of Maine and achieved greatness for themselves and for their native State in so doing.

Swan Song for Bananas

By George K. Stackpole ’25 and Whitney L. Wheeler ’30

A MORE enthusiastic cheering section than the one that greeted the return of the Maine squad at the beginning of the last half could not be wished for. Bedlam let loose! The team caught the wave of enthusiasm and crossed the Bowdoin line for a touchdown in the last few minutes of play. When kicking for the point after touchdown, the kicker miscued and the ball shot ahead horizontally, about five feet from the ground. As our center was straightening up from his crouched position, the ball hit him between the shoulder blades and bounced over the goal post cross-bar for the additional point.

This might serve to answer the often-asked question, “Do mascots help a team?”

The Spring of 1923 was rather uneventful as far as bear history is concerned. We took second place in the State Meet that was held at Orono on May twelfth.

After Commencement, Stackpole took Bananas IV to his home at Sanford, Maine. From there, they went to the Hotel Atlantis, Kennebunk Beach, Maine, where Stack was to be employed for the summer. During this summer, a romance started that might have proven heartbreaking for the swain had Stack not come to his rescue. The bear was tethered in a secluded shady place near the golf course. She was happy in her new seaside summer home.

One of the house guests from Montreal, Canada, brought his English Bull dog “Jiggs.” The dog was a thoroughbred and had won ribbons at bench shows. He was so homely he was handsome.

Jiggs met Bananas IV on the golf course where many a summer romance starts. The bear shook hands with him in the same manner as she did with the Bowdoin mascot. In spite of this cave man form of greeting, they became real pals. All that summer they played and wrestled together much to the amusement of the hotel guests and surrounding summer folk. They became inseparable.

Stack was aroused one August morning at day break by the night watchman. He was all agog. “George,” he exclaimed, “the bear has broken loose!” A searching party was organized and at 6:45 A.M. with the help of Jiggs, the University of Maine mascot was found curled up in a couch hammock on the East veranda of a nearby summer cottage, basking in the early morning sun. All day long reports were received of her ravages of the night before. She had driven several spooning couples off the beach long after midnight. She had helped herself to newly made preserves at a nearby cottage. The cop on the beat had been put to rout just before daylight.

A week before the hotel closed, Stack took Bananas to Sanford, and returned to the beach alone to finish the season.

Jiggs would wander down to where the bear had been tethered and return with such a dejected look. At night he would sit at his old trysting place and howl. He refused to eat. The poor fellow was pining away, as any love-sick human will.

Jiggs’s master informed Stack that he had spoiled the dog as far as he was concerned and he might as well take him to complete his zoo. Thus was acquired the other half of the bear and dog team that was to help put the University of Maine in the public eye that Fall.

After the hotel closed, Jiggs was taken to join the bear at Sanford. What a reunion that was! They wrestled and sparred as they never had before. The dog’s melancholia disappeared.

Stackpole entrained with his zoo for Orono, September seventeenth, 1923. The trip north in a baggage car was made without mishap.

At the first football game of the season, a bout was staged, Bananas IV vs. Jiggs. They were received with great applause.

The next trip taken by Stack and the zoo was to Lewiston on October twentieth. Maine took Bates 12-7.

Bowdoin came to Orono on November third, but they left their Eskimo dog at home. They did not want him cuffed again by the Maine bear. However, Maine did cuff Bowdoin that day 28-6 and the State Championship was ours.

The final game of the season was played in Portland on November tenth. A “Maine Special” carried the student body and its two mascots to the Forest City to witness our boys clean up the New Hampshire State team 13-0. What a glorious Fall this had been and what football history had been made.

A hard-earned rest was in store for Bananas IV. She demurred on November twenty-seventh. At first, Jiggs thought it was a game. He could not understand why his playmate should hide away in seclusion. He would bark at the mouth of the den and challenge the bear to come out. She did once or twice and administered a few well-placed jabs that registered. After this, Jiggs seemed to realize that she did not want to be molested, so he retired.

At noon, February twenty-eighth, 1924, the bear came out. This was most unusual. Before the day ended, she became very sick. We called all the medical assistance available, but she died the following day.

During the Spring of 1924, we were without a mascot. The White Mountain Alumni Association promised us a new bear. She arrived on May fourteenth. This wee, eight-weeks-old infant became the famous Bananas V. Jiggs was very much pleased with the new arrival because he could boot her (Continued on Next Page) around at will. In a short time, the tables were reversed and he soon learned to take his orders from her.

Her career as a mascot started immediately as the State Meet was held in Lewiston on May seventeenth. Equipping himself with a nursing bottle and some spare nipples, Stack and the zoo went to Bates. At the Meet, a bout was staged, but the dog was the winner.

At the close of the school, the baby Bananas V was entrusted to the care of Mrs. Junkins. Stack took Jiggs to the Hotel Atlantis for the summer. Jiggs's owner was glad to see his dog again, but consented to loan him for the Fall Semester.

The Fall of '24 found our young cub, under the careful attention of Mrs. Junkins, had grown to a hundred and fifty pound young lady. Jiggs would no longer bat her around as he had done in June.

Stackpole gave up his job as trainer that fall and Mrs. Junkins automatically became the bear keeper, which position she has held ever since.

Bananas V was her first charge and incidentally her favorite. A series of interviews with her has revealed several interesting incidents, which to some may seem funny but to her must have been rather exasperating at times.

Mrs. Junkins' home is adjacent to the old pump house, which, as has been explained, has served as the bear den for several generations. Bananas V, it seems, had a special liking for her mistress' house rather than for her own comfortable habitation. On one occasion in the Spring of 1925, upon returning to her home after having been away for the day, Mrs. Junkins noted that the bear was not in her usual position, tied to a tree in the yard. Investigation showed that the chain had been broken and further investigation showed that a cellar window had also been broken. Upon entering the house Mrs. Junkins found every pot and pan in the place scattered over the floors, furniture tipped over, dishes broken and muddy tracks all about the house. It was easy to trace the culprit by means of the tell-tale tracks. She was found in a bedroom, quietly gracing a bed, from which she had torn all the blankets and sheets, and calmly amusing himself by pulling an electric light on and off with a fore paw.

Precautions were taken to make Bananas more secure when being left alone in the future. These were of no avail, however, for sooner after returning home Mrs. Junkins found the house in general disorder. This time the bathroom was the main object of attack. A medicine cabinet had been knocked to the floor, and iodine spilled all about the room. Water in both the bowl and tub had been turned on, flooding the room, and when discovered, the bear was seated in the tub enjoying a cool bath.

Bananas' life was not all play, however; she had the task of guiding Maine teams to victory resting on her furry shoulders.

The Spring of 1925 was rather uneventful as far as bear history is concerned, but the Fall of that year saw Bananas steer us to the State Championship in football as well as in cross-country. The Spring of '26 found us taking second place in the State Meet.

It was during the following summer that Bananas' greatest weakness was brought out—fear of thunder storms. It was at the height of one of these electrical disturbances one night in August that Mrs. Junkins heard the pitiful moans of our supposedly brave mascot coming from the direction of a large spruce tree nearby her den. Examination showed Bananas perched on a limb, as far up the tree as her chain would permit her to go. Fearing that she might fall off her precarious perch and hang herself, Mrs. Junkins was forced to climb the tree and hold the bear until the shower was over.

That Fall saw us win the State Championship in football for the second consecutive year. The cross-country team was forced to be content with second place in the New Englands.

The Spring of 1927 indeed made athletic history for Maine. We won the New England Track and Field Championship for the first time and also annexed the State baseball title. Bananas was a very busy body, being carted about here and there by anyone who desired to shoulder the responsibility of caring for a mischievous creature who required a great deal of attention. The Cogswell brothers seemed to take a special liking for our mascot and many a ride did she take in the "Galloping Ash Can" which took the place of the "Maine Special" of Stackpole's time.

The Fall of 1927 witnessed one of the greatest football upsets that Maine has ever known. With one of the best teams that ever represented the University on the gridiron, we went to Waterville to do Colby battle. Bananas was present but must have been ill that day. At any rate she failed to inspire the team and we lost 17-0. That season, however, we amassed a total of 245 points as against our opponents' 36. The cross-country team fared better, winning the State meet and again taking second place in the New Englands.

At one time, Bananas participated in a Shriners' initiation. The candidate was blindfolded and honey liberally sprinkled on his bare feet. Our bear was then released and immediately made way with the delicacy to the discomfiture of the unwilling hero.

Shortly after coming out of hibernation in the Spring of 1928, Bananas was taken sick and died. We were without a mascot for the remainder of the school year, but the track team must have received sufficient inspiration from the year before to carry on, for we again won the title of New England Champions in Track and Field.

College opened in the fall, minus a bear. We were not long without one, however, for "Izzy" Goldsmith, proprietor of Orono's foremost trolley shop, contributed the necessary funds to purchase another. Bananas VI was never destined to be a mascot. He was lassoed in a tree up in the wilds of Maine, near Danforth, and never could get used to the yelping crowds at football games and the caressing touches of fair co-eds. Although he was but a tiny cub when brought to the campus, his fiery disposition made it necessary for his trainers to keep him tied to the end of a long pole when he was being taken to the various games. Perhaps his dislike for college life in general explains the fact that we were again forced to share the State Championship in football with Colby that fall.

Bananas VI stayed with us until May, 1929, when he was sold to Lieut. Wardwell. For some time, he could be seen attracting patrons to the Gypsy Tea Room near Bucksport. It might have been a coincidence, but after this quick tempered little beast had been disposed of, we again won the New England Track Championship.

June of the same year saw Bananas VII make her appearance on the campus. Mr. Goldsmith was again the contributor. This bear was purchased from the owner of the Gregory Camps on Green Lake. She was but a cub when her first appearance was made, but had big ideas, as shown by the fact that she had been in the care of Mrs. Junkins but a few weeks, before she had ruined a wonderful collection of plants that her keeper had been working over on the porch of her house, supposedly out of reach of mischievous paws.

Bananas VII certainly was endeared to her mistress. Although the bear was not at all ugly, and was readily approached by anyone, the only person that could make her mind was Mrs. Junkins. Strange, too, she had a special dislike for Mrs. Jun-
At the present writing, the eve of the State Series in football is at hand and within another 24 hours the State Championship will probably be won. The press favors Bates to win from the Bricemen in their opening game, and predicts also that Maine should have little difficulty with Colby and Bowdoin.

The pale blue opened its football season on its home field with Rhode Island. Playing a steady, conservative game, the visitors outclassed Maine on a rain swept field to gain an 8-7 victory, their first triumph over the Bricemen since 1916. A safety early in the first quarter spelled defeat for Maine. During the second half, both teams scored touchdowns, Maine adding an extra point for booting the ball between the crossbars. Maine scored on a long pass from Bagley, '32, to Smith, '32, which was caught behind the goal line.

In the season so far, Maine has won one game and lost three. At Yale, on October 3, a crowd of 30,000 watched an alert and fighting Maine team hold the Bulldogs for a 19-0 score. No serious injuries were sustained during the game and much valuable experience was gained. Twenty-four Bricemen played in the game.

October 10 witnessed a victory for Maine over the Connecticut Agricultural College, 8-0, the game being played on the Connecticut gridiron. The eight points scored during the game came as the result of a safety and a touchdown. "Fern" Bagley, '32, lifted a beautiful punt out on the Aggie one yard line and the entire Maine team swarmed in on the next play and smothered a line plunge for a safety. In the fourth period, two completed forward passes put the pale blue in scoring position for the last six points of the score. Maine scored 11 first downs to four for Connecticut Aggies and completed six passes out of 12.

New Hampshire invaded the Maine campus on October 17 and squeaked through to win by a score of 13-6. As in the Rhode Island game, a blocked punt in the early minutes of play accounted for New Hampshire's first touchdown. Their second score came during the last minute of play, when a hurried Maine punt from behind the goal line netted less than 10 yards. The Bricemen scored when "Johnny" Wilson, '32, came into the game as quarterback in the third period, "Mun" Romansky, '33, crossing the line after a series of gains by himself and Wilson.

Scores made by Bates, Colby and Bowdoin are interesting for comparison. Harvard beat Bates 28-0 and New Hampshire 39-0, the latter winning from Maine 13-8; Rhode Island won over Maine 8-7; Bates beat little Rhodie 3-0. On paper, Bates should win from Maine. "Foxy" Fred certainly has the material with which to win from Bates and it is expected that he will open up his "bag of tricks."

Colby has won one game and lost three, winning over Vermont, 6-0, and losing to Brown 22-8; Tufts 21-6; Springfield 33-0. Bowdoin has lost three games: to Wesleyan 7-0, Williams 25-0, Massachusetts Agricultural College 32-6. Massachusetts State won over Norwich 33-6; Bates won over Norwich 34-0. Bates should therefore, according to figures, beat Bowdoin about 30-0.

In the first meet of the season, the pale blue harriers easily defeated the Connecticut Aggies at Storrs, covering the hilly course of 3 1/4 miles in 17:35. Booth, Earle and Gunning tied for first place for Maine, with Osgood taking next honors in fourth place, Shaw in 7th place, Austin 8th, and Folsom 14th.

The team will have run against Bates by the time The Alumnus reaches its readers. Present indications seem to show that Maine has a good chance of avenging its last year defeat at the hands of the Garnet hill-and-dales. The Bates course is 6 miles long, as compared to 3 1/4 for Conn. Aggies. Whitten of Bates, one of the foremost cross country men in the east, will cause Maine no little trouble, but it is expected that Earle, Booth and Gunning will be right up in the front of the pack.

The Freshman football team, although dropping its first two games to M.C.I., 6-0, and Bridgton, 6-0, has improved by leaps and bounds since the opening of the season. Coach P. A. Jones and his assistants, "Art" Lurkin, '32, and Freddie Burke, '33, deserve much credit for their work in shaping up what has come to be an aggressive, hard hitting, plucky little football squad.

On Saturday, October 17, the frosh held Hebron in a scoreless game, outrushing and outplaying the visitors during most of the game. Previous to this game, Hebron journeyed to New Haven and trounced the Yale freshmen 7-0.

The Frosh earned their first real triumph when they won over Higgins Classical Institute, Friday, October 23, by a score of 37-6.

The Freshman cross country team has produced results even better than the football squad. Between the halves of the New Hampshire game, the Maine yearlings completely outclassed their Hebron rivals, 7 Maine men finishing in a dead heat for first place.

Intramural touch football is proving to be the sport again this fall in competition held between the fraternities. The summary in the first week-end of games follows: in the northern league, Delta Tau Delta won from Hannibal Hamlin B with a score of one first down to none; Tau Epsilon Phi forfeited to Sigma Nu; Theta Chi downed Beta Theta Pi by one first down to none; Kappa Sigma won from Oak Hall, 8-6; Sigma Phi Sigma forfeited to Hannibal Hamlin A. In the southern league, Phi Mu Delta captured two points to none for Alpha Gamma Rho; Lambda Chi won from Phi Kappa Sigma, 12-0; the Phi Eta Kappa-Sigma Chi game resulted in a tie, 12-12; the game being awarded to Sigma Chi since they had one first down; Phi Gamma Delta won from Beta Kappa, 12-6; Alpha Tau Omega won from Phi Kappa, 6-0.
The month on the campus as reported in the columns of The Campus and The Weekly Calendar of the University has many items of interest.

Chapel periods, held in the Chapel, Alumni Hall, every Monday morning, have been especially interesting and instructive. Cecil Fielder, Secretary of the M.C.A., has charge of chapel periods and has done a very creditable job of things. On October 5, Walter Habenicht of Bangor entertained with a violin recital; Homer W. Huddleston, '32, son of Professor John Homer Huddleston, gave a travel talk on October 10, entitled "Innocents Abroad—1931 Edition"; October 19 witnessed a peppy musical program which introduced the new song books to the student body; Captain Bruce Bairnsfather, internationally known humorist and cartoonist and author of the play, "The Better 'Ole", spoke on "Old Bill and Me."

Alpha Tau Omega broke ground recently for a new house situated just north of the Phi Gamma Delta House. The house which was designed by Crowell and Lancaster of Bangor, will cost $35,000 and will be furnished at a cost of $25,000. The old A.T.O. house, situated on the lower end of the campus, burned last spring, necessitating a new house.

The history department has been giving a series of lectures, which are open to the public, on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 8:00 A.M. "Current World Problems" as the lectures are called, have been given this month by Professors Richard G. Wood and Albert A. Whitmore. Some of their topics have been: "British Political Parties", "The British Empire", "Canada and the United States", "Empire Problems", "The New Imperialism", "The New Materialism", "The New Freedom", and "America and the World War."

Three faculty clubs are in operation on the campus, regular meetings being held and special programs arranged each time. The names of the organizations are: The Speculator Club, the Arts Club, and the Faculty Club.

The department of Home Economics has begun the operation of a lunchroom in Merrill Hall. Meals are served each noon to a select group of faculty members and their friends. Reservations must be made a day in advance. Students in Home Economics are finding the lunchroom a fitting place in which to study the preparation and serving of tasty foods.

Along with the Home Economics department, the University Store, under the efficient management of Harold L. Bruce, '20, installed a new lunch counter during the summer months and is serving a long line of University students throughout the day.

The week-end of the thirty-first will be a great time at the University, for classes will be suspended Saturday and a horde of students leave Orono to witness the Colby-Maine football game at Waterville.

Phi Kappa Sigma had the honor this year of winning two cups for scholarship: the Senior Skull Scholarship Cup, having won it for four years, and the National Founders Scholarship Cup of the fraternity.

The Senior Skull Society this year has as its president, John D. Dickson, '32, of Waterford, New York. Other members include: Everett A. Gunnings of Waterville, Lovell C. Chase of Houlton, Maynard A. Hincks of Portland, Raymond A. Smith of Combined Locks, Wisconsin, Raymond T. Wendell of Oakland, Lester C. Fickert of Skowhegan, and James M. Sims of Andover, Massachusetts. The Skulls have the job this year of raising money for a new scholarship cup, Phi Kappa Sigma having appropriated the last one after winning it four times.

Final registration figures obtained from James A. Gannett, '08, Registrar of the University, show an increase of 66 in the registration of the University over last year's figures. The tabulation below gives a bird's eye view of the situation.

In the Intercollegiate Judging Contest held at the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass., three Maine men won recognition. Harold E. Bryant won $15, Stacy R. Miller also won $15 and in addition, received a watch fob from the Exposition and a gold medal from the American Jersey Cattle Club. Noel L. Landers won $10, received a watch fob and a cup from the Ayrshire Association for high point man.
Three Lawyers

George Edward Thompson, a graduate in the civil engineering department in 1891, has made a name for himself in Maine, as an Attorney at Law, in Bangor. Following his graduation from the University in 1891, Mr. Thompson was assistant engineer on the Bangor and Aroostook Railroad until 1897, when he left Maine to attend Boston University where he studied law for two years, after which he gained admission to the bar and began practising in Maine. From 1903-1905, he was a member of the legislature of Maine and from 1909 to 1913 served as County Attorney for Penobscot County. Mr. Thompson married Belle A. Pretto of Orono in 1900 and has two daughters, both graduates of the University—Esther Louise, '27, and Ruth Maria, '28. On several occasions, Mr. Thompson has rendered able service to the University, and has always maintained a live interest in her welfare.

John Daniel MacKay obtained the degree of LL.B. from the law school in 1900. In 1904, he received his L.L.M. from the University, and has been practicing law since 1901. Mr. MacKay was elected to the Massachusetts Senate representing Quincy in 1929, winning the election by an overwhelming majority over all other candidates. He is a Mason and an Odd Fellow, a member of Rotary, and was a member of the Selective Draft Board and later the Government Appeal agent for Quincy from 1917-18. From 1910-1917, he served on the school committee in Quincy and was City Solicitor from 1923-1924. Mr. MacKay has just recently been appointed as Chairman of the Senate Committee on Revision of the Insurance laws for the State of Massachusetts. In 1904, he married Martha C. Kincaide of Quincy, Massachusetts; they have one son, Donald, who is a member of the Massachusetts bar. Mr. MacKay writes for Massachusetts newspapers on current political questions.

William Henry Waterhouse, who graduated from the law school in 1900, is another lawyer closely associated with the University, inasmuch as three of his children have attended the University of Maine. Mr. Waterhouse is a Maine Phi Beta Kappa, a member of the Masons, Odd Fellows, Elks, Knights of Pythias and the Rotary Club of Old Town, Maine. In 1905 he was elected Mayor of Old Town, and was given the same honor again in 1917 and 1918. He is a member of the School Board and has served his community politically and otherwise in many capacities. He has been a state official of the Universalist Church and has been a member of the University Christian Association Advisory Board. Mr. Waterhouse married Clara Louise Cooper of Old Town in 1901, and has two sons and one daughter who have attended the University—Ruth Elva, '24, Edwin Cooper, '26, and Frank Chester, '33.
For more than a year now, there has been in process of development a plan known as Endowment and Donations, which aims to bring gifts and bequests to the University in order that Maine may have some of those "extras" which make a college or university a finer place.

The work has been done, and probably will continue to be done, quietly. Some little progress at least has been made which only time will make known.

There is one question which, as alumni, we may fairly ask ourselves and give the answer in the form of positive action. Can we consistently ask outside interests to make gifts and bequests to the University, unless we do our part? Someone may say that alumni have shown their very live interest by subscribing gen-rously to the Memorial Fund. That is true for alumni as a group.

But look at this from the standpoint of each alumnus individually, not as part of our growing organization. There are scores, even hundreds of our group who can, without much, if any, hardship to their family, make either a gift or a bequest to the University. No alumnus should think that because he may not feel able to give a large amount he should give nothing. Numerous and frequent gifts of any size will soon make a substantial total. If each one does according to his means, within a quarter of a century Maine will be a vastly different University.

It is not because we owe anything to the University that this is suggested. It is merely speaking out loud about an opportunity to be of real help to our Alma Mater which needs and merits such assistance as may be given.

Some may say, this is a rather bad time to suggest such action. Yes and no. This depression is but temporary and will soon disappear. In the meanwhile, the time to be thinking about and acting upon a gift or bequest to the University is right now.

Coming Home?

If Alumni Council members had known how favorably the proposal of an Alumni Homecoming Day would be received, perhaps the many hours of thought and discussion given to the subject would have been reduced somewhat. It was not a question of fear of disapproval which caused more than one delay in finally reaching a decision, but rather an honest desire to make sure that a progressive step was being taken.

Frankly, the reaction of alumni to a Homecoming as a substitute for Maine Night has been most encouraging. It is true, of course, there are some who are disappointed, but we feel sure that if they had faced the problems of Maine Night that they too would be ready to try what promises to be a more satisfactory plan.

The next question is: how many will show in tangible form their approval of this event by coming back to the campus and participating in the program?

As a final word, here’s a suggestion that you make a reservation for the luncheon. The committee must know in advance how many are coming, in order to make adequate provisions. Having no treasury upon which to draw, no registration fee, nor other income, the guarantee to the caterer must be in line with the number of reservations made.

The Homecoming Day Committee asks your support. Careful thought has been given to formulating the program and arranging details for the enjoyment of those who are the first “Homecomers.”

Western Massachusetts Alumni Greet Very Distinguished Guest

The Western Massachusetts Alumni entertained Governor Wm. T. Gardner, Presxy Boardman, Dean Corbett, Prof. Hall and his stock-judging team, at a dinner served at the Hotel Clinton on Governors' Day of The Eastern States Exposition, Sept. 21. After everyone had the pleasure of meeting the Governor, we assembled in the "El Patio" Room where he spoke briefly before hurrying off to catch his train for Detroit.

After a steak supper at which all had an opportunity to sample the famous Mt. Zircon Ginger Ale provided by P. E. McCarthy, '02, of Rumford, a long list of speakers, well handled by a go-caution-stop traffic signal, completed the program.

Members of our Association admit there may be other toastmasters, but only one Judge Hobson. His Honor, of the class of 1900 put aside judicial dignity for the moment and told the story of a case (a liquor case) at which he presided where Merrill Torrey, '15, was Prosecuting Attorney and "Doc" Redman, '12, was a member of the jury.

Prexy told us of some of the changes being made at the President's House and also in student policies. Dean Corbett, though handicapped by the presence of undergraduates, explained the details of his position. Arthur Deering, '12, President of the General Alumni Association, praised his predecessors, but showed clearly, by his grasp of Alumni problems, that no mistake was made in selecting him for leadership. "Joe" Parker, '15, of the Dept of Agriculture at Washington, mentioned the work of many Maine men in that city. Prof. "Hoss" Hall, '14, gave a brief resume of the difficulties of visiting Springfield during Exposition Week. Called upon, McCarthy, '02, gave a vivid picture of his first contact with "Boardie", teacher of Freshman Drawing. The stock-judging team was seated at the head table and two were called upon, Landers and Hincks. Hincks, being a member of the Football Squad, presented an outline of football prospects and urged support for the Yale and Conn. Aggie games which are to be played in this vicinity.

Lehigh Valley Plan for Nov. 6

The Lehigh Valley Association held its first meeting of the fall season recently, when its members met in the Hotel Allen. Addresses were made by Roy Porter, president, and L. E. Curtis, secretary, after which an open discussion was in order. Group singing of old college songs was enjoyed.

At the business meeting, plans were formulated for the annual meeting of the association to be held in Palmerston at Mr. Porter's home on November 6. This meeting will be held concurrently with Home Coming Day at the University. Maine baked beans and brown bread, a typical New England meal, will be served. The meeting will be open not only to Maine alumni, but also to alumni of Bates, Colby, and Bowdoin.

Three Local Associations Hold Meetings

Three alumni associations held meetings in Maine and New Hampshire during the week of the Maine-Bates game.

The White Mountain Association met Wednesday night, October 21, in Berlin, N. H.

On October 22, the Oxford County Association met at Bryant's Pond, Paul Cloke, Dean of the College of Technology, and Charles E. Crossland, alumni secretary, visiting the meeting.

The Androscoggin Valley Alumni Association met Friday night, October 23, at the DeWitt Hotel in Lewiston. Coming as it did on the eve of the Bates-Maine game, several of the University faculty were present, including: President Boardman, Chester A. Jenkins, track coach, and C. E. Crossland, alumni secretary.

A more detailed report of the three meetings will appear in the next edition of The Alumnus.

The monthly meetings of the Boston Alumni Association have been set for the third Monday in each month beginning October 19, City Club, 6:30 P.M. The dinner is to be strictly informal, with no fixed prices for the dinner. One eats as little or as much as one chooses. A bowling match will be put on after a little smoke talk and get-together. This is a stag party and any alumnus in Boston or the suburbs, or anywhere else is cordially invited to attend.

Those who plan to attend the Home Coming Day Program should make reservations at once by sending a check to the Alumni Association. The luncheon charge is but one dollar per person.

Maine Bricemen and Harriers Win Oves Bates

A 47 yard jaunt by a sophomore back spelled defeat for Bates on October 24 when Maine invaded the home field of the two-year champions of the state series and left triumphant, after pounding out a 9-6 win over the highly touted Garnet eleven.

Don Favor, a former Deering High player, in the last part of the second quarter, shot through right tackle, eluded three Bates backfield men, and sped 47 yards for the touchdown which meant defeat for the Batesmen. Johnny Wilson, outstanding quarterback of the game, booted the extra point.

Late in the final period, Kiszonak, after a series of beautiful spiralling punts from the toe of Favor, blocked a Bates’ pass behind the enemy goal line and fell on the rolling pigskin for a safety.

Bates scored six points late in the second quarter, after “Foxy” Fred Brice had put his second string men into the game.

The game was a thriller from beginning to end and kept the large crowd of spectators on their feet throughout the four quarters.

The State cross country crown went to Maine on the afternoon of October 23, when Coach Jenkins’ team outclassed the Bates quintet at Lewiston, 27-30, thus regaining the State title for Maine after a two-years’ interval of defeat.

Booth, although given third place, was clocked with the same time as Jellison and Whitten of Bates, the latter one of the outstanding hill and dalers in New England, the fast time of 26 minutes, 42 seconds being given to all three men, a record which surpassed the time of 27 minutes, 3 seconds made by Richardson and Lindsay over the same course two years ago.

Although Bates was given the first two places, Maine swarmed in on the remaining points, Booth placing third, Gunning fourth, Earle fifth, Osgood seventh, Shaw eighth, and Austin ninth.

Dean's Portrait Recently Unveiled

At Solon, Maine, a graduate of Bowdoin College, Dean Merrill has devoted more than 20 years in public service, the most productive period in his life, to the advancement of the agricultural and educational interests of this State. How fortunate it has been for Maine that neither fame nor fortune, position nor rank, all of which have been offered him by other interests, could divert him for one moment from his goal. This service, this sacrifice, this devotion has meant advance-ment for this institution and state far beyond that which would have otherwise taken place.

"So while we are here today to dedicate this building, we are also paying a fine tribute to the 20 years of unselfish public service that Dean Merrill has rendered. A tribute that many times comes too late in life to be appreciated by the one who has rendered it instead of serving, as in this case, as an inspiration for continued effort in work and opportunities that lie ahead.

"The faculty and alumni of the College of Agriculture take pleasure in presenting at this time a portrait of the man we all love, admire, and respect—Leon S. Merrill, Dean of the College of Agriculture."

The morning program in the dedication of Merrill Hall was presided over by Harmon G. Allen, president of the Board of Trustees. Frank P. Washburn, Commissioner of Agriculture, and a trustee of the University, presented the new building to the University, Harold S. Boardman receiving it as President.

Mrs. Frances Freeman and Dr. Esther McGinnis, both former heads of the Home Economics Department, were present at the ceremonies, Dr. McGinnis giving the main address on "Extended Horizons in Home Economics."

During the afternoon exercises, an ornamental drinking fountain, presented by the alumnae and the students of the department, was unveiled, Mrs. Jenny Hutchinson, '30, and Ruth Callaghan, '33, acting as representatives.

The dedication ceremonies ended with a tea, which was in charge of the Sophomore class in foods.

NEW YORKERS TO RECEIVE GAME
The New York Alumni Association, as has been the case during the past years, will receive play by play reports of the Bowdoin-Maine game on November 7. We have engaged Exhibit Room 2 at the Pennsylvania Hotel for that afternoon and have arranged with the Western Union to furnish the reports at that room. Notices are being mailed to the New York alumni and we are going to get in touch with the Bowdoin alumni and invite them to join us.

DEATHS

The Alumnus extends its most heartfelt sympathies to the friends and relatives of the following Maine men who have passed on to a better world.

05 George S. Williams was reelected a director and treasurer of the Eastern Music Camp at the recent annual meeting of the corporation.

06 Elmer J. Burnham was elected president of the new Kittery Lions Club which was organized recently.

07 Bernard Archibald, past district governor of the Northern Maine district of the Rotary International, addressed the Houlton Rotary Club at Hotel Northland on Monday, October 12.

08 Edward W. Cram was chairman of the Commission which built the Portland High School Athletic Stadium. This Stadium is the largest and most complete in the State of Maine and was officially opened on Saturday, October 3, with an attendance of 7,000.

A letter from Robert K. Steward of East Lansing, Mich., reads as follows: "On June 17, I took the Missus along and attended the National Convention of the S.P.E.E at Purdue University, ‘Boardy’ and family were there, he being President for the year. A group of Maine folks numbering about twenty sat together at the banquet including Robert Fernald, ’92, Ernest Swain, ’95, ‘Hod’ Farnham, ’09, H. H. Jordan, ’10, and Ben Kent, ’12. We drove to Maine this summer making our headquarters at our cottage at Bayside (5 miles south of Belfast) on Penobscot Bay. Had a nice call from Ray and Madge Fellows, ’08. Saw ’Bill’ Cobb, ’08, who was east on a visit from Chicago. Enjoyed a personally conducted tour about the campus with ‘Jim’ Gannett. There are many changes and a great many improvements.

Bernard F. Twitchell is owner and operator of a creamery at Hiram.

10 F. R. Bigney, who has been away for a year, is now back at Hillside Farms, Greenville, and states that he will be very glad to see any members of his class who might be passing his way.

11 Frank C. Cobb of Interlaken, N. J., visited the campus the first of October, for the first time in seventeen years.

12 Lynne Allen of Newcastle, Superintendent of Schools in that area, presided at the rural session of the Lincoln-Sagadahoc County Teachers’ Association annual meeting held October 7.

13 Paul S. Harmon, former president of the Portland Kiwanis Club, has been appointed chairman of the National Farm Committee of the Community Chest again this year.

An anonymous gift of $80,000 from an alumnus of the University of North Carolina, made possible the completion of a student activities building.
REACH FOR YOUR TELEPHONE AND TAKE COMMAND

You need only pick up your telephone to control millions of dollars' worth of property . . . a thousand yards or a thousand miles of wire . . . five thousand or five million dollars' worth of equipment . . . a few or many of the Bell System's hundreds of thousands of trained workers.

What you get from your telephone depends on your wish of this or any moment.

Few things you buy can so exactly fit your needs. Telephone service is made to your order for each call . . . and the telephone becomes an extension of your voice and personality for whatever purpose you choose. All of the System's plant and equipment is of interest to you, for you cannot be sure which of the 20 million interconnecting telephones in this country you may need to reach.

The Bell System provides a constantly improving service at the least cost consistent with financial safety. This means that it pays only reasonable regular dividends and devotes all earnings beyond that to the extension and improvement of the service.

This has been the practice for half a century, with the result that the public has doubled its use of Bell telephones in the last ten years.

The money you pay to your telephone company brings you steadily increasing value.

EUROPE! NEXT SUMMER

Special Educational Tours

College men and women are especially interested in travel, for travel is conceded to be the most enjoyable and beneficial form of adult education. The American Express Company has studied the interests and travel preferences of alumni, and is offering special group tours of Europe which have certain cultural aims. An educational director, who is an authority in his field, will accompany each group. These tours will sail the latter part of June or early July, 1932, and be of six to eight weeks' duration. These groups are being planned:
