Leon S. Merrill, Dean
DEAN STEVENS RESIGNS

REALIZATION of James S. Stevens' resignation from the deanship of the College of Arts and Sciences will come as a distinct shock to the hundreds of alumni and alumnae who have had contacts with him during the forty year period of his activity in University of Maine affairs. Dr. Stevens ended his duties as Arts and Sciences Dean February fourth, when the Board of Trustees formally accepted his resignation, tendered as a result of recent ill health.

In an informal interview, Dr. Stevens expressed his regret at having to leave the position that he has so competently filled since 1905, but was happy to know that he would continue teaching his Biblical Literature course of two hours a week. When asked for a few of his own ideas covering the College of Arts and Sciences, his first thought was a commendation of the present faculty. "I have the highest respect for all the Arts faculty," stated the Doctor. "Up until recent years it has been somewhat of a problem to eliminate "snap" departments, where students could get by easily in their courses. I believe that there are now no such courses in the college. Students of today pick studies not because they are easy, but because they feel the want or need of them."

While stating his beliefs covering the ideals and functions of the Arts College, Dr. Stevens said: "The College has two main functions—1. That of giving a broad, cultural course to all arts students and 2. That of giving such cultural courses as are possible to the students of Agriculture, Education and Technology. I believe emphatically that the Arts course should be general in its application and not specialized. The college student is preparing for life, and to enjoy life to its fullest extent, he must acquire an appreciation of the basic fundamentals in art, literature, linguistics, history and the like. To this end, freshmen entering the College are required to follow a certain number of prescribed courses so that they may have a well balanced background for later years in life. The Arts College does not fit the student for any specific trade.

"To be an educated man," concluded Dr. Stevens, "one must have contacts with all departments of the college and must not specialize too deeply in any one division of study."

During the last few minutes of the interview, Dr Stevens stated that he hoped the standards of the college would be upheld in the years to come, especially in reference to two points now incorporated in the requirements of admission and graduation—namely, that four years of languages be required for admission, and that to receive the B.A. degree, three-fourths of the courses followed be passed with a grade of "C" or better.

A brief résumé of Dr. Stevens' life shows the diligence, perseverance and whole-heartedness with which he has tread the paths of learning and education. After receiving his B.S. from Rochester in 1885, he continued on to his Masters in 1888, and in the following year obtained a similar degree from Syracuse.

He began his career as a teacher in a small village school in New York where he stayed for a year after which he was appointed an instructor in Cook Academy at Montour Falls, New York. In 1891, he entered the faculty of the University of Maine as teacher of physics and in 1893 established the department of electrical engineering. Eight years later he became the first Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, which he watched grow under his guiding hand from a small department to a college with an enrollment of 647 students.

Undoubtedly one of the most significant and interesting phases of Dr. Stevens' life is the fact that he started to teach in the field of science but has since gained nation-wide renown as a scholar of literature.

Some of the positions held by Dr. Stevens include the following: director of the University Summer School from 1903 to 1904, national officer of Phi Kappa Phi since 1898 and president from 1919 to 1923, instrumental in establishing a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa on the campus, a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, fellow of the American Physical Society, member of the French Physical Society, holder of degrees of doctor of laws from Rochester and doctor of letters from Maine, president of the Bangor Forum Committee, the Dickens Fellowship, the Maine Association for Biblical Instruction, and the Parish Committee of the Fellowship Church in Orono. The study of the works of Charles Dickens has also been a favorite pastime of Dr. Stevens, and he has for many years served as president of the Dickens Fellowship.

Said in part President Harold S. Boardman, when Dr. Stevens' resignation was announced: "The resignation of Dean Stevens severs a companionship which has existed for nearly forty-one years. He should look back upon his work with much satisfaction. It is with sincere regret that our administrative relations are to be severed. It is, however, pleasing to realize that he will still be with us in the capacity of a teacher."

Dean James N. Hart expressed himself as follows: "A faithful friend, always glad to recognize and give credit for the work of others, a wise counsellor, a lover of young people, he has always maintained high standards for himself as well as for his students. Words are inadequate to express my appreciation of the work of Dean Stevens."

Dean Corbett, Dean of Men, made the statement, "For eighteen years I have had the pleasure of knowing and working with Dean Stevens. The closer contact of administrative work during the past few years has brought a deep appreciation of his keen mind, ready wit, and fine and sympathetic cooperation. It is with genuine regret that I learn that these closer ties of administration are to be broken but a pleasure to know that he will still be an associate without the more weighty and disturbing cares of executive work."
STUDENTS PLAN LOAN FUND DRIVE

Entire University to be Included. Student Senate and Class Officers Endorse Proposal. Committee Appointed.

Tentative plans for raising a loan fund for the University through the cooperation of students and faculty originated recently in the Student Senate, governing student organization of the University, through its president, John R. Moore, '32. A committee of four students has been appointed to make a survey of student and faculty opinion on the matter. Up to February 22, officers of both the senior and junior classes have met and enthusiastically endorsed the raising of a loan fund. Meetings of the sophomore and freshman class officers will be held in the near future, according to plans now being formulated.

The Student Senate at its next meeting will take active steps towards carrying through the drive. Soon after this, mass meetings of the four classes will be held and the matter will be further discussed and voted upon.

The need for student loan funds is most apparent at the University this year, as is the case with most colleges in the United States. Most of the money available for loans has been exhausted, for the present at least, and the drive proposed by the Student Senate will come as a distinct help to many students in need of financial aid. The drive will be conducted as soon as possible so that students in financial troubles this spring may be aided in continuing their college work.

The committee appointed by the Senate has as its chairman, William W. Johnson, '32, Editor of the Campus. Other members are, Bryce H. Jose, '33, Robert E. Pendleton, '33, and Peter A. Talbot, '33. It was decided by the committee that the most workable plan would be to present the proposition to each class separately and recommend that each class contribute a small sum per person to the fund. Payments may be made on the University term bill.

It is the plan of the committee to turn whatever money is collected over to the University loan fund for administration, the money being loaned out through the regular channels. Loans would be made in comparatively small amounts, probably none of them being more than $100. Students who receive these loans will be asked to give their note in return, with repayment of the loan being made after graduation. By loaning the money through University administrators, all the machinery of the institution can be utilized to determine the most worthy men, and there will be more assurance of a repayment of the money borrowed.

No particular qualifications for students who wish to borrow from the fund will be named, loans being made to those who are most in need of the money, and who have shown themselves to be good around students. Athletic ability, high rank, interest in outside activities, and the efforts which have been made to secure an education will all be considered in favor of the men applying for loans, but no especial stress will be laid on any one of these.

Students who lack only a few credit hours for graduation will be favored over members of the lower classes, and in general, the upper classes will receive precedence over the lower.

Senior class officers who expressed themselves in favor of this plan recently included Everett Gunning, class president; John Moore, vice-president, Helen Stearns, secretary; John Dickson, treasurer, and Margaret "Stubby" Burrill, Austin Beecher, Robert Shean, and Orestes Rumazza, all members of the executive committee.

As the Alumnus goes to press, all classes have already held meetings of their officers. The opinions as expressed at all of the meetings seem to indicate that the student body as a whole will endorse and support the project.

More Historical Material

Kenneth W. Brown of Old Town, son of Albert H. Brown '80, recently sent to the Alumni Office additional historical material on the early days of the University. Mr. Brown has been particularly interested in this collection. His contributions include: a picture of the football team in action, class of 1894; a picture of the first Phi Gamma Delta house, then known as the QTV; copies of the College Reporter for 1876 to 1877, and the Transit for 1883.

Druggists Consider Chair of Pharmacy

At the mid-winter meeting of the Maine Pharmaceutical Association, druggists attending appointed a committee to make a survey to be used in asking re-establishment at the University of Maine of a chair of pharmacy. At present, pharmacy is not taught in any Maine college, and it is seemed to be the opinion of those present at the meeting that the University might well serve the State by re-establishing the school.

Correction for 1921

The editors have been advised that the secretary of the class of 1921 is not Winthrop L. MacBride, as it appeared in the February issue. The business address is 134 Main Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts, and whose home address is 517 Fellsway East, Malden, Mass.
Winter Sport Champions

The Maine Snow Birds entered two major winter carnivals during the month of February, taking third place in the Dartmouth carnival and emerging champions of winter sports in the State of Maine by winning the Bates Dual Meet for the second consecutive year.

"Win" Robbins '32 scored one of the biggest upsets of the day at the Dartmouth Carnival on February 6, when he broke the Dartmouth Meet record in the 1 3/4 mile snowshoe course, covering the distance in 9 minutes, 59 seconds. Maine took third place in the meet with only 61/2 points, while Dartmouth was the winner with 47 points, and New Hampshire second with 20. Other teams' scores were: McGill 6, Bowdoin 5, St. Lawrence 1 1/2, Harvard 1. The remaining 6 colleges in the carnival failed to score.

Goode of McGill, favored to take the 1 3/4 mile event was completely outclassed by Robbins and finished in fourth position. In the same event, Horace Drummond '35 finished in fifth place. Leif Sorensen '33 "Don" Green, '34 won the 5 mile ski run.

Track

The University relay team easily defeated Massachusetts Institute of Technology in a mile relay held at the Knights of Columbus meet in Boston, January 30. The time of 3:35 3/5 was the fastest run by a Maine team in the past two years. The Pale Blue was represented by McKinnir '33, Timberlake '32, Moulton '33, and Wendell '32, who ran in the order named. The largest gain during the race was made by Timberlake, who gained well over ten yards on his man.

Frosh Basketball

The freshman A squad under the able tutorage of "Bil" Kenyon, frosh mentor, has at the present writing a clean slate to its credit, marred only by the loss of a game to Kent's Hill. Scores made so far include the following wins over Crosby High 39-10; Coburn Classical 32-29; Gilman High 30-12; Hebron 28-24; Ricker Classical 42-16; MCI 30-24, Houlton High 34-25.

Maine Second in B. A. A. Meet

The Pale Blue emerged from the University Club Meet in Boston on February 21 in second place for the B Division.
President Speaks in Chapel Period

Chapel exercises for the third week in February were held Friday morning in place of the usual Monday morning hour. The program was based upon the commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, and was listened to by a gathering of students and faculty that overflowed the auditorium.

The main speaker of the chapel hour was President Harold S. Boardman '95, who gave a stirring address on the life of Washington. In addition, a trio consisting of violin, cello, and piano, rendered appropriate music of the colonial period, and Miss Helene Mosher of Bangor sang. Several minuets were danced in colonial costume by students.

Parking Problem Taken Up by Maine Campus

The parking problem as raised when announcement was made last fall that all students must park their cars in the parking space adjoining the Gymnasium-Armory, has been receiving much room in the last few editions of the Maine Campus. In one issue, pictures were displayed, showing conditions under which cars had to be parked. Several students have written the paper remarking upon the hardships, as they saw it, of parking morning, noon, and night at the far end of the campus. The February 18 issue of the magazine states, however, that an agreement advanced by the students in favor of a change I shall be glad to carry any such message before a meeting of the Board.

The engagement of Miss Mildred E. Guay to Charles E. O'Connor, popular man about the campus, has recently been announced. Mr. O'Connor is Assistant Dean of Men.

Music Night on the Campus

The annual music night, sponsored by Delta Pi Kappa, musical fraternity, to promote better music on the campus was held in Alumni Hall on the evening of Friday, February 19. The program included selections by the University of Maine Band, the University Quartet, Miss Ruth Hamor, soprano soloist, the University chorus and the University of Maine Orchestra. G. Holland “Pat” Loane, president of Delta Pi Kappa and well known in University musical circles, was chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

New Education Society

The University has taken into its fold another national honorary society, Kappa Delta Pi. The society is composed of those who are majoring in education; only those who are in the upper fourth of their class are eligible for membership. The society is national in scope, having chapters in all sections of the country. Dr. Ava Chadbourne of the School of Education is the sponsor of Gamma Omicron Chapter being formed at the University.

The Maine Snoopus

During the past few months, the Campus has been running a column entitled “The Maine Snoopus.” Its writer is anonymous, and luckily so for that person, for information appears concerning the personal doings of a number of students and faculty on the campus each week. Terse, slang expressions are rather pointed in some instances and woe betide the unfortunate who performs a faux pas within the inner circles of University society, for the Snoopus’ ll get him.

1933 Prism Underway

Work on the Prism for the class of 1933 is progressing rapidly under the direction of Editor William Bratton, as the date approaches when it will be put on sale. A novel feature of the Prism this year will be tinted views of the campus. Modernism will be the general theme of the book this year, the art editor having submitted some very attractive and appropriate departmental headings, which will be in color.

Student-Faculty Banquet

The Third Annual Student-Faculty Banquet, held under the auspices of the Wesley Foundation, took place in the vestry of the Methodist Episcopal Church on February 17. Specialties found on the program included Mr. “Jeff” Smith, main speaker, and movie reels by Neil Calderwood ’32.

Students in Oak Hall are engaged in an intricate bridge tournament to discover who will be the best player in the dormitory. Four teams are entered; those winning the highest number of points in ten rubbers will be declared winners.
Twenty-fifth Reunion Class - 1907

John Buckley, a graduate of the University Law School in 1907, has become one of the most successful political figures in Hartford, Connecticut. He received his LL M in 1908, also from the University Law School. Since leaving Orono, he has risen steadily in his chosen profession until he now stands high in the estimations of those who know him and his accomplishments. In addition to his political activities, Mr. Buckley is a successful attorney, practicing in Hartford. His home is in Union, Connecticut, where he spends most of his time during the week-ends. He has acted successively as Assistant Secretary to the Republican State Committee of Connecticut and as Secretary of the same organization. He later became Clerk of the House of Representatives and Clerk of the Senate, both in the State of Connecticut. He has been House Chairman of the Judiciary Committee and Majority Leader for two sessions of the House of Representatives in the same state. On December 10, 1930, Mr. Buckley married Grace R. Gaylord, of Winsted, Connecticut. He is a Mason and a member of the Hartford Golf Club, the Stafford Country Club, and the Cohasse Country Club. During his college course he was a member of Beta Theta Pi, and was active in baseball and football. From 1908 to 1915 Mr. Quint was Superintendent of the Western Maine Power Company, and until 1925 Vice President and General Manager of the same company. From 1922 to 1929, he was Vice President of the Limerick Mills, and from the former date up to the present he has been agent for the Maine Land and Lumber Company. Mr. Quint was a Representative to the Maine Legislature in the 1929 and 1931 sessions. On July 1, 1907, he married Linnie Mae Roberts of North Berwick; they have one girl, Zelma Elaine, who is 18 years old. Mr. Quint's hobbies are fishing, hunting, and skeet shooting.

Lowell J. Reed, now living in Baltimore, Maryland, and Head of the Department of Biostatistics in the School of Hygiene and Health, Johns Hopkins University, also graduated from the Department of Electrical Engineering. Following graduation, he acted as instructor in mathematics at the University of Pennsylvania until 1913, when he left Orono to follow a year's graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania. The following year he taught mathematics and acquired his Ph.D. at the same institution, returning to Maine in 1915 as Assistant Professor of Mathematics. From 1917 to 1918, he was director of the Bureau of Tabulation and Statistics under the War Trade Board in Washington, D.C., and in the fall of 1918 entered Johns Hopkins University as Associate Professor of Biostatistics, becoming head of the department in 1925. Dr. Reed is a member of the following scientific societies: American Mathematical Society, Mathematical Association of America, American Statistical Association, American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Public Health Association, International Union for the Scientific Investigation of Population Problems, Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, and Delta Omega. In 1908 he married Marion Ballantine (class of 1907).
Students
What ever may be the outcome of the present effort on the campus to raise loan fund money, the mere fact that students should bring forth such an idea suggests two or three fairly vital points.

First, they have recognized the urgency of the situation. With most of the loan fund money now in use, and the likelihood that a number of students, especially seniors are going to need help to finish out the year, students have taken it upon themselves to do what they can to remedy the situation. This is not peculiar to Maine. Emergency loan funds are being raised at several colleges, while others report the need or lack of sufficient funds in these days of the economic “blues.”

Second, the spirit in which the suggestion is made and the discussions up to the time this is written is highly pleasing. It is an altruistic project, to help those who for peculiar reasons, find themselves in a difficult position. Especially do they not want any senior to drop out, if a little timely help will mean his graduation. This action represents a fine democratic spirit, which may well be nurtured. Then, too, there is another idea which has cropped out repeatedly, namely, that this will do good for years and years, and that by establishing a Class Loan Fund, the door is opened for classes which follow—or those which have gone before to add to it, the principle being that we as students and alumni should be doing something which will forward the interests of the University.

Third, the action of the students not only is a striking reflection of the need but may be regarded as a fairly strong hint—if not example for others, conspicuously alumni, either individually or in groups—to follow.

It is hoped, too, that this student action will forcefully remind those who have borrowed loan funds, that it would be most helpful if they would make some payments at this time, even though such payments might come hard.

In the meanwhile, maybe there are a few alumni or friends who would be willing to contribute in a small or large way—to either this fund or perhaps to establish another one.

Work
Alumni will learn with regret that ill health has caused James Stacy Stevens to resign as dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

The high quality of work, the scholarly attainments, and the faithful service rendered to the University for over forty years have earned for Dr. Stevens the approbation of students and alumni, who hope that he may take genuine satisfaction in his achievements at Maine.

By no means the least of his attainments is his reputation off the campus as a speaker and a scholar. His many appearances have not only reflected credit upon himself but also upon the University. One of the few ways in which the public has direct, personal contacts with the faculty of the University is through their addresses or through services rendered in conferences. A state university especially needs such contacts. While the primary duty of a faculty member is to teach, his value to the University is greatly enhanced if he can make pleasing contacts with the aid of his ability and his personality. In this field of activity the dean ranks high among those on the faculty.

The Alumnus is happy to commend Dr. Stevens for his valuable contributions to the progress of the University, at the same time regretting that his health makes it unwise for him to continue as head of the college. Fortunately the University will continue to benefit from his years of rich experience, for he is to continue as a teacher.

As Though They Meant Business
Two rather interesting incidents have occurred lately and seem worthy of comment.

The Penobscot Valley Alumni Association officers demonstrated “It could be done.” For some time there has been a feeling of lack of interest and therefore support of alumni activities in that area. Finally, two or three sharpened their implements and went to work, the result being that even the officers, say nothing of others, were happily surprised. It was a fine time. The answer—some thought and work without too much of a load on anyone.

It may be folly to mention the other event at this early date, but the way the 1930 class officers are going to work on their June reunion is a delight. They are out to have a real time and recognize that weeks of planning, organization, and work are necessary to success. May their efforts be highly rewarded.
With the Local Associations

University Officials Visit Local Associations

Local Associations during the months of March and April will be visited by President Harold S. Boardman '95, Dean Paul Cloke, and Executive Secretary Charles E. Crossland. The itinerary now being worked out includes visits to eighteen associations.

On February 24, law school graduates will hold a meeting at the Tarrantine Club in Bangor, President Boardman and Executive Secretary Crossland attending.

From March 8 to 19, twelve associations will hold meetings, from Augusta, Maine, to Detroit, Michigan, if plans now being made go through. President Boardman will visit, with Charles E. Crossland, associations located in Portland and New York. "Prexie" will also attend the Boston meeting on March 12. Paul Cloke, Dean of the College of Technology will attend the following meetings in Schenectady, Buffalo, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, and Philadelphia. He will also be accompanied by "Charlie" Crossland, executive secretary. Plans for several associations have not been entirely decided as the Alumni Club's going to press, but advance notices may be found under "Schedule of Meetings," those doubtful being marked "pending."

Plans being laid for the month of April include visits to the following associations — York County April 11, Concord (New Hampshire), Worcester, Hartford, Springfield and Providence.

Boston Monthly Meeting

Thirty members of the Boston Association attended the regular monthly meeting held at the Boston City Club, Monday evening, February 15. At the social gathering following dinner, a remarkably good time resulted from tales by "Dinty" Doyle's escapades and a review by President McCusker of early days at the Maine State College. Following this, as is usually the case, came bowling.

Plans are now under way for the annual banquet, and every effort is being made to make Saturday, March 12, an occasion of enjoyment and general success. H H Ayer '24, Secretary

Good Old Time for Boston Alumni

Plans being laid by a committee of Boston Alumni, with President Joseph A. McCusker at the helm, indicate that the association is looking forward to one of the largest and best annual banquets within recent years when they meet at the Hotel Victoria, Saturday, March 12th, at 6:30 P.M. The committee hard at work on the program includes Myron Watson, Elwood Clapp, "Ditto" Trask, Fred Jordan, and Hazen Ayer. President McCusker will act as toastmaster. Because of the presence of the annual meeting in March, there will be no monthly meeting until April, when the regular schedule will be resumed.

Winter Party for Rhode Island

Rhode Island Alumni held a winter party during the evening of January 22 at the Country Club in Harmon, ten miles west of Providence. Chairman of the committee on arrangements was Norman H. Mayo '09, who was ably assisted by George Hutchins '18, John W. Chandler '25, Charles W. Pennell '05, and Florence Salley '21. The evening's entertainment consisted of an oyster supper, songs, cards, skating, sliding, dancing, ping pong, conversations, and renewing old friendships and making new ones. There were thirty-six in attendance at the social, including alumni from Fall River, New Bedford, Newport, Westerly, Attleboro, as well as Providence and its environments.

The annual banquet and meeting of the Association will be held in April, when it is expected that Harold S. Boardman '95, President of the University, and alumni secretary Charles E. Crossland '17 will attend.

Alumni of Harvard have contributed a total of nearly $1,000,000 to the Harvard Fund since it was started in 1926. It was one of the few if not the only major alumni fund to have an increased number of contributors during 1931.

Many interesting bits of information are included, among them the following excerpt from the November, 1889 issue: "Bates, following in Bowdoin’s wake, has organized a football team and will soon have it in the field; why shouldn’t we have one also?"

Deaths

The Alumnus extends its most heart-felt sympathies to the friends and relatives of the following Maine men who have passed on to a better world.

'02 Andrew George Hamilton, well known former district manager of the Boston sales office of the Alumnium Company of America, passed away at his home January 19, 1932, following several years' affliction with high blood pressure. Born in Orono, December 14, 1885, Mr. Hamilton spent several years following graduation in the logging industry, after which he joined the Alumnium Company, where he advanced rapidly to his late high position.

'06 Dr. Louis Elmo Gould, vice-president of the Aroostook Valley Railroad and son of senator A. R. Gould, passed away following a period of ill health, in Boston, February 12, 1932. Dr. Gould was born in Bangor, October, 1883, and attended in succession the Presque Isle High School, Ricker Classical Institute, the University of Maine, and a medical school in Baltimore. He is survived by his wife, his parents, a daughter, and two sisters.

'07 On January 3, 1932, Joseph Clarence Matthieu passed away at his home in Dayton, Ohio, after a lingering illness of seven months. At the time of his death, Mr. Matthieu was vice-president and director of the Potpourri and Light Company in Dayton, Ohio. He was born in Farmington, October 26, 1884, and is survived by his wife, two daughters, his mother and two sisters.

'09 Alfred Bassett Patterson, president of the Patterson Steel Company in Tulsa, Oklahoma, died in Tulsa during December, 1931, after a two months' illness. Mr. Patterson was an occasional deep sorrow to his fellow citizens, for he had been extremely active in many public enterprises. He was widely known for his support of the weekday Bible school during his last four years. Priceless are the voices of those we love

What price could be set on the voice and laughter of a little child a thousand miles away? What price on the brief and reassuring phrase, "We're all well"? What price on a hundred words between separated lovers?

What price on a doctor's midnight directions, on the swift response of the fire department, on the relief of anxiety, the cementing of friendship, the unexpected greeting after a long silence?

What price on speed in business, on the smooth running of a household, on leisure or rest without neglect of duty, on shelter in a day of storm?

How can any one say what the telephone is worth to you? We set a value on such visible, physical things as wires, poles, switchboards, instruments, operation. We set a price on telephone service based on what it costs us to render it and to assure its continued growth.

These considerations are fairly exact. But they have little relation to the actual worth of the telephone in your home or office. That is frequently a thing of the spirit and cannot be measured in terms of money.

When you buy telephone service you buy the most nearly limitless service the world affords. Because of it you receive the thoughts and emotions of other people and express your own thoughts and emotions to them. There are no hindering handicaps of time or distance, place or circumstance. For a few pennies a day, you move out of your own little corner in the kingdom of ideas and are free to range where you will.
