CAMPUS CHAT

There's altogether too much to say for the amount of space available this month . . . This business of having to cut down and restrict the amount of copy for The Alumnus is bad... Nine juniors have been elected to Senior Skulls, breaking away this year a little from a practice of electing "M" men which has been more or less prevalent in years immediately preceding. The juniors elected are as follows: Stanwood R. Searles of Cumberland Center, Philip S. Parsons, South Paris, John B. Quinn of Wilmington, Del., Lawrence J. O'Connell, Bangor, Kenneth Aldrich, Norway; Donald E. Favor, South Gray; Carleton Davis, Biddeford; James DeCourcy, Darien, Conn., and Donald P. Corbett of East Parsonfield. Professor L. S. Corbett, dean of men, was elected an honorary member. . . Another election, probably no less satisfying to most of the group, are those chosen for Phi Kappa Phi, 21 in number as follows. Mildred C. Brawn, Rose Snider, Grace Quarrington, and Edward G. Haggard, Jr., all of Portland; Clifton M. Walker, Wiscasset; Bruce Ashworth, Orono; Donald Coggins, Malden, Mass.; Henry W. Young '34, of Orono, president of the Women's Association. John B. Quinn '34, of Wilmington, Del., has been chosen head of Student Senate for the coming year and Alice Dyer '34, Freeport, is president of the Women's Student Government. James "Ed" DeCourcy of Darien, Conn., has been reelected Editor-in-Chief of the Campus. He has served also as co-editor of the Junior Prism which has just appeared. Managing Editor is Philip Pendell of Caribou, business manager, Roger Hefler of Hyde Park. Mildred Haney '34, of Bangor has been chosen to lead the girls' Y W C A. . . Dedication of Alumni Memorial To Be Commencement Feature

DEDICATION of the Alumni Memorial is to be the feature of Alumni Day, Saturday, June 10, as a part of the sixty-second annual Commencement of the University which opens June 9 with Class Day Exercises and a meeting of the Alumni Council of the General Alumni Association. Although the new gymnasium is not yet quite completed, it is expected that the structure will be done in time to dedicate the Memorial and possibly to hold some of the

HON. L. J. BRANN, '98

Commencement events therein.

Elaborate plans are under consideration to make the dedication ceremonies interesting and impressive. A special committee, representing the various groups interested in this project, is preparing the program. Hon. Louis J. Brann '98, Governor of Maine, has accepted an invitation to speak and he, with his staff, and other officials have been invited to participate in the exercises. An attractive program in the form of a Memorial Booklet is to be distributed Alumni Day for use at this event.

It is a very happy coincidence that the classes of 1896 to 1899 and of 1915 to 1919 inclusive are to hold reunions this year since this is a memorial to both Spanish and World War. They constitute virtually the War classes of the University. Early reports would seem to indicate that the '15-'19 class group will join in one stunt which may take the form of a limited pageant reenacting some of the events which took place on the campus or in service which would be most appropriate to precede the dedication program.

Banquet

With the particular classes which are to hold reunions this year, there is every reason to expect that the alumni banquet will be a lively and gala affair. Especially have the classes of 1908, 1915, and 1917 been prominent when they have reunied previous years. It is the first time that all three of these classes have held reunions the same year.

The banquet committee has agreed upon a policy of having several short talks rather than one or two main speakers. Among those who have been invited to speak and accepted are "Dan" Chase '08, speaking for his 25 year class, Arthur L. Deering '12, president of the General Alumni Association, and Raymond H. Fogler '15 for his class.

It is especially important that alumni should secure tickets for the banquet prior to Saturday noon or to make reservations beforehand, sending their check in the amount of one dollar per plate. Alumni will be protected until Saturday noon to purchase such number of tickets as they desire. After that hour, however, the sale will be unrestricted to seniors, faculty, and friends. Therefore, alumni who plan to attend the banquet should be sure to secure their tickets before 12 o'clock, June 10, or make their reservations.

Reunion Classes

Careful plans are being made to accommodate reunion classes by groups so far as this is possible. Alumni with wives in the classes of 1876-1880, 1883, and 1896-1899, will be assigned to Mt. Vernon House, if space will accommodate members of these classes. Alumni with wives in the classes of 1908, 1915-1919 inclusive, will be assigned to Balentine Hall. Alumnae will be placed in Colvin Hall and the Maples and alumni in Hannibal Hamlin Hall.

Headquarters rooms have been assigned to each class so that they may have one room centrally located for class headquarters. Some of the classes are developing special programs for their members who return.

Register First

Alumni who return, whether members of reunion classes or otherwise, are urged to register immediately at the information and registration window in Alumni Hall, both because it will assist the standing of their class in the awarding of cups and because other alumni are interested to know who of their group has returned. The two attendance cups, the 1908 Cup and Twentieth Century Cup, are awarded on a basis of those who have registered up to 6 o'clock of Alumni Day. A small fee of one dollar is charged, not for registering, but in order to cover certain expenses such as orchestras, band, dances, and certain Alumni Day promotional charges.

The costs this year are being reduced as low as possible. The banquet charge is

Dennett—Commencement Speaker

Carl P. Dennett '02L, who was chief speaker at the Alumni Banquet last year and who made such a favorable impression upon his audience, has been secured as Commencement Speaker, according to announcement by President Harold S. Boardman.

Mr. Dennett is a native of Bangor, attended the Law School, and has been engaged in many important business enterprises, being now officer or director of several important companies and more conspicuously of late as chairman of the northeastern division of the Economy League.

Other Features

At the request of the Commencement Committee, the All Maine Women, honorary society, has again agreed to put on a pageant. This will be at the usual hour, 4 o'clock, Friday, June 9, and probably on Coburn Green as in years past. This event has proved to be very interesting and has drawn large audiences.

Events scheduled on Eastern Daylight Saving Time

Friday night and Saturday night, there will be dances for which no charge will be made for students and for alumni. It is necessary, however, that alumni should have registered and secured a badge.

A student band of 25 pieces will be on hand to participate in the program of Class Day, Friday, Alumni Day, Saturday, and again at Commencement, Monday morning.

Dr. Franklin Johnson, President of Colby College, is to be Baccalaureate speaker at 10:30, Sunday. He is widely known for his interesting addresses and doubtless will prove a big drawing card for this special exercise.

A detailed program of events is shown on this page.

Women's A. A. Sponsors Broad Athletic Program

By

Marjorie Moulton, '33, President

Women's Athletic Association

Steadily changing educational attitude toward the conduct of women's athletics, which favored a highly organized intramural program, rather than the former varsity program, and the resulting physical impossibility to obtain suitable competition in women's varsity athletics, caused the Women's Athletic Association to abolish varsity competition in 1930. Intercollegiate and interscholastic Play Days, and an extensive program of intramural athletics has now completely replaced varsity competition. This change was brought about through the Women's Athletic Council which formulates the policies and directs the activities of all women's athletics.

The Council in its present form is an outgrowth of the first organization known as the Women's Student Athletic Board, which was established in 1923 with Elizabeth "Cracker" Ring '23, as its first president. At that time, the president, secretary, and treasurer were student members of the Women's Student Athletic Council, which included the Dean of Women and several faculty and alumnae members. Such a council, which functioned in much the same manner as the present Men's Athletic Board, is now non-existent in the management of women's athletics.

The Women's Department of the University of Maine Athletic Association includes all women students in the University. It is governed according to the by-laws of the Women's Department. The Athletic Council is composed of a president, vice-president, secretary, senior representative, who is the treasurer, freshman representative, head manager of all sports, and four class leaders. A member of the Department of Physical Education for Women acts in advisory capacity for the Council. One representative from the Women's Department is a member of the Executive Committee of the University of Maine Athletic Association which has charge of the election of succeeding officers in that association.

When the present policy was adopted, six competitive groups were formed, each composed of one-sixth of the members of each class. The "Group System," being the first stage in the transition, encountered various obstacles, although it proved that an intramural program was feasible. In the fall, 1932, the Women's Athletic Association voted to discontinue the Group System, and to substitute the Interclass System of competition. That type of intramural competition is now proving most satisfactory. The feeling between classes is extremely high when tournaments are in session, and the support of the program is such that double round schedules involving both first and second teams have been instituted to meet the needs of the girls competing.

Hockey, archery, and tennis in the fall, basketball and volley ball in the winter, and tennis, archery, baseball, and track in the spring, are sponsored by the Association. Hockey, tennis, basketball, and archery are termed major sports, the others are classed as minor sports.

Seal Is Highest Award

Numerals, an old English M, and a University seal are the three forms of recognition for which the girls strive. The awards are made on a point system. All girls who make their class teams, which requires that they play in three-fourths of all periods, are credited with the number of points, more or less, awarded to them relative to their team's final standing in the tournament. The interclass champions receive numerals, or in cases where numeral awards have been made previously, individuals are credited with 125 points, the numeral value, toward the higher award which is an old English M. That is given only when an individual has accumulated 375 points, which is equivalent to three sets of numerals, one set of which must have been earned in a major sport. In the individual sports suitable awards are made to first place winners in track, and tennis singles and doubles, numerals are given or credited, and to the tennis finalists and the high scorer in the track meet, a cup is awarded, to the four women whose scores are highest in the intercollegiate telegraphic archery matches the AMT is awarded, and likewise the RMT is given to those five women whose scores are highest in the telegraphic riflery matches. The services of managers and other Council members are recognized with the proper numeral or letter awards.

On rare occasions the University Seal, embroidered in white and silver on a blue felt background, is awarded by the Director of the Department of Physical Education to the individual who has earned 1175 points credit on the Association books. The total is equivalent to three letters or nine sets of numerals. The recognition given this final award by the Athletic Association is noteworthy for the Seal is the coveted possession of very few students. It symbolizes the highest athletic honor which can be achieved by any University woman. Since the inception of the present Women's Athletic Association the Seal has been awarded to only the following eight alumnae and undergraduates: Margaret "Spud" Churchill, Estelle "Stubby" Burrill, and Hildreth "Ikey" Montgomery, 1932; Polly Brown, Blanche Henry, Marjorie Moulton, and Martha Smith, 1933; and to Shirley Young, 1934.

Other Activities

Besides organizing and managing an intensive athletic program the Association sponsors other activities. In the fall, soon after the freshmen have matriculated, the Council holds its popular Freshman Picnic at Piney Knoll or Standpipe Hill, where the freshmen are introduced to the customs of the organization, and "warmed up" to it with good food, congenial upper-class companionship, and peppy college songs. Later in the fall the Sophomores lead the freshmen a merry hare and hound return to the River Bank where all enjoy a fish chowder prepared by the seniors and juniors.

In December, each year, the Council sponsors the traditional Penny Carnival and Dance which dates back to the first year of its organization in 1923. It is always most popular and anticipated by the student body.

In February this year six Maine girls, accompanied by Miss Marion Rogers of the Physical Education Department, attended the Intercollegiate Play Day at the University of New Hampshire.

The Council now is preparing for the annual Interscholastic Play Day, held in the spring each year to which delegates are invited from approximately forty high schools in this section of the state. As part of the day's program a mammoth picnic luncheon is planned for the guests, who are again entertained at a banquet in the evening when Athletic Association honors and awards for University of Maine Women are announced.

Miss Helen Lengyel '27, Director of the Department of Physical Education for Women, supervises all of the activities sponsored by the Council. The Executive Committee of the Athletic Association Council consists of Marjorie Moulton '33,

Mrs. Nellie Spencer, '77 Is Maine's Oldest Alumna

By RUTH WALENTA, '34

Sixty years ago this coming fall two young women, probably not then called coeds, presented themselves for admission to the Maine State College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts, as members of the class of 1877. There had been but two women students precede them, one in the class of 1874 and another in the class of 1876. One of these two ambitious youths of 1877 was Nellie Estelle Weeks, now Mrs. Llewellyn Spencer, of Orono. She is Maine's oldest living alumna in years as well as in class age.

During these three score years, Mrs. Spencer has lived a quiet, retiring, but busy life in her native town. An interview with her reveals interesting sidelights on the early years of the University.

"There was but one other girl in my class—only seventeen of us in all," said Mrs. Spencer, "and the graduation exercises were held in the Town Hall in Orono." For the first time they were in late June, for till then it was customary to give the long vacation ten weeks in mid-winter, so that the students might teach. Graduation exercises had occurred in early August.

The faculty, according to Mrs. Spencer, numbered eight. Several of the names are very familiar to students of today—Fernald, Aubert, and Farrington, on account of buildings and scholarships named for them. The professor of military training taught also modern languages, and all the civil and mechanical engineering were taught by one man.

In the elective course, which Mrs. Spencer followed, were—besides German, French, algebra, geometry, and "Analysis of English and American authors"—physics, chemistry, meteorology, physical geography, mineralogy, and political economy—a course which would appall the modern co-ed. Also listed in the catalogue, a twenty-three page pamphlet, for the year 1876-77, are rhetoric, logic, a history of civilization, and "mental and moral science." The latter course was taught by the President of the University himself. The possible contents of it make fascinating food for speculation.

When Mrs. Spencer was here the college buildings, aside from the farm building, included only White Hall, which was burned February, 1890, located where Wingate now stands, Brick Hall, the present Oak Hall, at that time connected with what is now the M. C. A. building; and the Chemistry Laboratory, now Fernald Hall, which apparently was adequate for all the sciences, and a library of 2,000 volumes was also housed there. In addition, where Coburn now stands, was the Q. T. V. Hall, built in 1876 by the members of that fraternity which later became the Maine Chapter of Phi Gamma Delta. What is now North Hall was the home of the President, where two women students were safely boarded.

Tuition was free to all residents of the state, and twelve dollars for out-of-state students. The catalogue lists room as free, board two dollars per week, and washing and heat fifty cents, students to furnish all their own furniture and lights. Attendance at daily prayers at the college, and at "public worship on the Sabbath at some one of the neighboring churches" was required. Students were required to do some work on the farm during their first two years, and they were to be paid 'according to industry, faithfulness and efficiency'—but the maximum amount for three hours work was not to exceed thirty cents.

"Hod" Cook, '10 Named Head of New "M" Club

In accordance with the vote passed at the meeting of the alumni and undergraduate "M" men held last fall the committee on organization has prepared and adopted a constitution and elected officers for the ensuing year.

Horace J. Cook '10, Auburn, who served as presiding officer at the first meeting last fall was chosen president. Arthur W. Abbott '14, of Playland, Rye, N. Y., was named vice-president, and Theodore S. Curtis '23, Faculty Manager of Athletics, was named secretary-treasurer. The members of the Executive Committee appointed by President Cook, after being informed of election, are as follows: P. A. Jones '19, Bangor; A. P. Wyman '07, Waterville; A. C. Hammond '11, Bangor; F. P. Preti '17, Portland, and M. A. Hincks '32, campus.

After very careful consideration the name "M" Club was agreed upon since there was no undergraduate organization of that name at the present time. The purpose of the organization is to bring together at least once annually the alumni and undergraduate lettermen of the University and to be of as much assistance as possible in promoting the athletic program of the University. All male undergraduates and alumni to whom an "M" in a major or minor sport has been awarded are automatically members of this organization.

Provision is made for meetings, election of officers and other matters in the constitution which has been adopted. The Executive Committee of the Club is to be appointed annually by the newly elected president. It is believed that this plan will be wisest to follow in order to select individuals who have marked interest and who are so located as to be able to get together and transact the business of the organization.

The committee on organization charged with the responsibility of formulating and adopting the constitution and naming the officers was: A. L. Deering '12, Orono; R. F. Talbot '07, Orono; P. A. Jones '19, Bangor; L. B. Jordan '24, Bangor, and W. C. Wells '31, Orono.

have never lost a match game. They won the Interclass basketball championship this winter and were well represented on honorary All Maine Teams.

All Maine Hockey includes Polly Brown, Merrita Dunn, Miriam Hanaburgh, "Marge" Moulton, "Marne" Smith, "Em" Thompson, Eleanor West, and "Puss" Whitman; All Maine Basketball: Blanche Henry and Marion Dickson.

Arts College Faculty Adopts "Comprehensives"

College students and faculty have been accused of being course-minded. The student takes his course. When the grade has been recorded by the Registrar he has had it. The tense is unfortunately significant for students have been telling us increasingly that a course is soon completely forgotten in the whirl of taking more courses, acquiring more grades, and approximating the 125 hours which will make them college graduates.

The result has been a real attempt in many institutions to meet the student's complaint. Chief among the movements that have been undertaken to make courses experiences related to the whole of life has been the comprehensive examination. When the student is required to take such an examination toward the close of his senior year, he is encouraged to look at the courses in his major subject as a unit. He inevitably relates courses with each other, understands how one builds upon another, and recognizes the broad area of human interest and activity with ramifications in neighboring fields. Thus the major student in English understands English literature better because of his familiarity with the historical, social, and philosophical forces that were at work behind and in the literature. The psychology major too appreciates not merely the total course material of his subject, he finds his work in zoology, physics, and sociology an avenue by which he may approach his subject scientifically.

At a recent meeting of the faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences it was voted unanimously to adopt the recommendation of its committee that departments be authorized to require of their students the passing of a comprehensive examination in their major field of study. The adoption of this plan was the result of a careful study by a committee composed of Professors E. F. Dow (History), (Chairman), C. A. Dickinson (Psychology), A. L. Fitch (Physics), R. M. Peterson (Spanish), and K. S. Rice (Zoology,) into the nature of the comprehensive examination as it has been tried elsewhere. The committee was much impressed by the favorable reaction in almost every quarter by students and faculty.

The Department of English at Maine has been giving such an examination for ten years with profit both to the student and his teacher. Other departments are planning to initiate the examination within another year. In some instances courses are being designed to summarize the major field and to integrate the

May Return From Buenos Aires for Class Reunion

From Buenos Aires, Argentine, Jonathan V. Cilley, member of the class of 1883 which is to observe its fiftieth anniversary this year, writes that he will return for the reunion of his class next June 10 if he can possibly do so. He indicates that they are having their troubles in Argentina as we have been in this country.

Immediately following graduation, Mr. Cilley went to Argentina where he has been ever since. For fifteen years he was engaged in survey and construction work on the Western Railway; from 1898 to 1903 he was general manager of the North Argentina Railway; during the next nine years he engaged in construction work and for the five year period 1912-1917 was general manager of the Province of Buenos Aires Railway. Mr. Cilley has now retired.

He is married and has eight children. He has visited the University on several occasions, in 1900, again in 1919 and in 1925. When he was on the campus in 1900 the honorary degree of Doctor of Engineering was conferred upon him.

courses of the department into a unity. This will help to bring student and instructor close together and give them a sense of a common enterprise. For the student intending to continue his studies in a graduate or professional school, the examination will be a great advantage.

Third State Scholarship Contest Now Underway

The third annual State Scholarship Contest, sponsored by the School of Education at the University is, for many of Maine's schools, the outstanding academic event of the year. The major purpose of this Contest, as set forth at the beginning of the project in 1930, is to "afford a degree of recognition for scholastic attainment comparable to that already given for excellence in athletics, forensics, music, and other so-called extra-curricular activities." The theory back of the Contest is that the ability to solve a problem in algebra gives as much personal satisfaction to some pupils as the ability to "hit a home run in the last half of the ninth" gives to others, and that the former is entitled to share the honor now often reserved for the latter.

This contest is organized under two separate divisions: First, in those schools which have entered the Contest, every pupil participates by taking the prescribed tests. Second, a District Contest is held for the two high-ranking pupils from each school. Results from the School Contest are reported in terms of class averages; those from the District Contest in terms of individual scores.

The Contest consists of a series of tests which are administered to the pupils of the participating school by the principal or someone selected by him. The tests which are prepared by entirely disinterested persons are sent out just before the date of the Contest. The tests are objective in form and the scores of all schools are comparable. The scores from each school are forwarded to the School of Education where all are combined and a report sent back to each school. These reports are keyed, thus each school can identify the results of its own pupils, and compare them with the results of the other schools without being able to identify them.

The subject-tests vary from year to year. The subjects which are being used this year are English, Latin, and French. In addition to the subject-tests, there is, each year, a general test for senior students. This test has an additional motivating factor in that it is the one used to select the recipients of the eight Tuition Scholarships.

Western Penn. Ass'n.

We held our winter meeting on the evening of Feb 1 at McCann's Private Dining Room. The guest of honor and speaker of the evening was W E Dunn, president of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. His subject was "Keeping Machine Politics out of Education" Mr. Dunn spoke of the recent attempts of the city politicians to gain control of the school board and in this way coerce the teachers and pupils of the public schools into canvassing votes for their candidates

As has been the case at most of our meetings of recent years, the alumni brought their wives or "to-bes," twenty three in all. An entertainer sang popular songs and led the singing for the group

We were sorry that the usual Spring visit by one or more representatives of the University was cancelled this year, but appreciate the circumstances only too well. We'll more than make up for it next year

Philadelphia Overcame Bank Holiday

The Bank Holiday nearly wrecked prospects for the Philadelphia Chapter's annual banquet on March 10, but the issuance of scrip by the Philadelphia Clearing House saved the day and twenty-six members and guests turned out for the event

During the dinner, the guests were entertained by a radio broadcast especially in their honor from Bangor (In the next room), and New York (In the next room). Following the dinner, President Boardman and Secretary Crossland made short addresses after which moving pictures of some of the Maine football games and of the Philadelphia Chapter's picnic of last June were shown

ATHLETICS

Varsity Baseball Appears Promising

Four victories in five starts, the one loss being an eleven inning game, is the auspicious way in which the varsity baseball team has opened its season to date. The team started with but three veterans and was rated only as an outsider for good standing in the State Series, largely because of expected weakness in the box. Thus far, pitching has been very creditable.

As shown in the accompanying schedule, Maine took the first game from Connecticut at Storrs, 2-0. Romansky held the opponents to four hits, while Maine collected six, MacBride and Lewis contributing two apiece.

The following day, April 28, Maine was defeated by Rhode Island, 3-2 in eleven innings with Hoyt, a sophomore, pitching his first varsity game. Four errors counted in some measure for defeat. In this game, MacBride and Lewis again were the heavy hitters, contributing a total of five of the eight hits made by Maine.

Hal Hall, a senior, who because of sore arm was all but counted out for this season, held Northeastern University to four hits and Maine won 3-1. The game stood 1-1 until the ninth inning when by a squeeze play, followed by a triple, two runs were scored.

The varsity line-up as it appears from games thus far played is—c, Sanborn '35, 1b, Numm '33; 2b, Lewis '33, ss, Hallgren '33, 3b, MacBride '35; outfield, Walton '35, Aldrich '34, Talbot '33, with Hall '33 and Honer '35 as substitutes. The three pitchers have already been mentioned.

Maine 4—Colby 3

In a very close game, Maine was victorious over Colby with Hoyt in the box, who held his opponents to five hits. Colby's five errors were somewhat instrumental in Maine's score. MacBride with two hits led the Maine batters.

Maine 11—Bates 2

Maine batters had little difficulty in collecting 15 hits in the opening home game of the season, May 3. Romansky held Bates to five hits, two of which were home runs by the Bates' third baseman Walton, MacBride, and Talbot each contributed three hits, MacBride included a two base hit and a home run.

End of Homestead Strike

In the summer of 1892, while financial panic swept the U. S., the most bitter and bloody labor dispute of U. S. history focused public attention on the Homestead steel mills, near Pittsburgh. There Amalgamated Association, powerful steel unit in six-year old American Federation of Labor, clashed in a finish fight with labor's Number One Enemy, Carnegie Steel's Henry Clay Frick.

Rejecting all of the Union's demands, tycoon Frick declared a general lockout in the Homestead mills, next day found the town an armed camp in the hands of the workmen. After several pitched battles between strikers and strike breakers, militia men were ordered in, established martial law. Newspapers filled with stories of strikers privations fanned public sentiment against Frick and Carnegie Steel Company to white heat. Weeks dragged by, mills remained idle, and iron fisted Frick was forced to play a waiting game.

As TIME, had it been printed three weeks after the first outbreak, on July 28, 1892, would have reported subsequent events:

For weeks screaming headlines have focused popular attention on the Homestead Strike, battle between organized steel workers and individualistic Henry Clay Frick. Nowhere throughout the U. S. had the newspaper headlines screamed louder than in a small ice-cream parlor in Worcester, Mass.

There the owners, two dark haired excitable anarchists, Emma Goldman and thin slavish Alexander Berkman, awaited impatiently each new dispatch from the strike center. In each new outbreak they

Impulsively they started for Pittsburgh, ran out of funds in New York. Emma Goldman unable to raise money soliciting on the streets, begged, borrowed Berkman's train fare to Pittsburgh. As all negotiations between strikers and Frick collapsed, Berkman appeared at the Carnegie Steel offices, describing himself as the representative of a New York employment agency.

Five times last week Berkman tried to interview Scot Frick. Five times he was refused audience. The fifth time, starting to leave the waiting room he wheeled suddenly, pushed past the colored attendant, marched straight into the private office of Carnegie Steel's Chairman. Grizzled, unimaginative Frick rose from a conversation with one of his assistants, turned towards the door.

Berkman took two steps forward, drew a pistol from his pocket, fired point blank. As Frick fell to the floor, like a flash his assistant grappled with Berkman. More shots, cries for help, brought attendants running to find Frick shot twice in the neck, stabbed several times with a poisoned file.

Frick, streaming blood, braced himself against a desk. As Berkman rode off to jail, he continued to work until an ambulance arrived. Immediately he wired to Scotland—sojourning Carnegie. "I am still in shape to fight the battle out."

Later in the afternoon Homestead strikers were dazed by the news of the terroristic act in which none of them had any part. Said Hugh O'Donnell, leader of the workers, "The bullet from Berkman's pistol went straight through the heart of the Homestead Strike."

Meanwhile the U. S. public, partial to all martyrs, read new screaming headlines making Frick a new hero, turning public opinion against strikers.

Something to Say

not just saying something

A friend of CHESTERFIELD writes us of a salesman who had "something to say":

"I dropped into a little tobacco shop, and when I asked for a pack of Chesterfields the man smiled and told me I was the seventh customer without a break to ask for Chesterfields. 'Smoker after smoker,' he said, 'tells me that Chesterfields click . . . I sell five times as many Chesterfields as I did a while back.'"

Yes, there's something to say about Chesterfields and it takes just six words to say it—"They're mild and yet they satisfy."
