Alumni? For What?

The question has been asked, "What does an alumni association do?" It has been asked by students currently enrolled and by former students and by some trustees and administrators. The Executive Committee of the University of Maine General Alumni Association remind regular readers of our fundamental purpose: to foster a spirit of fraternity among former students and graduates of this university and to effect united action for the welfare of the University. Let us answer more fully the question about activities. It does seem appropriate in this issue of the Alumni.

First, our association interprets the university to its alumni through 50 state, national and 1 foreign alumni chapters. It acts as secretariat to the constituent groups of classes, chapters and significant special interest bodies such as foresters, teachers, lawyers and pulp and paper technologists. The association promotes particular alumni activities such as class reunions.

The question regarding money is sometimes embarrassing, not because there is frank and frequent solicitation of gift money. There seems to us no finer cause. The embarrassment is from the repetition of the solitary implication that alumni are organized simply to raise funds, without minimizing such importance as exists in annual and capital drives, so much more is also done by alumni, especially in activities paid for by the gifts which are given to the tax exempt association.

An outstanding professorship is annually supported by alumni, and an additional award to one distinguished faculty member each year and students are given aid through both individual and class accumulations which earn annual interest amounts.

Alumni promote back-to-campus events involving the whole campus community, especially at Homecoming and Commencement-Reunion.

The alumni office counsels with and advises the university on matters of importance to alumni. Herein are subjects of admissions, publicity, public support of legislative requests and recent programs of encouragement to and talent search among young people.

Alumni records are kept for the use of alumni, students, faculty—on former students, more than 42,000 of them in ninety years of the existence of the association. Addresses as well as records of course of study and degrees are kept and biographical facts on each person.

Distinguished alumni are recommend-
As the thousands of college alumni return to their respective campuses this fall for annual homecoming celebrations, the most startling surprise may not be the upset victory of the opposing team, but the length and breadth of Fraternity Row.

Contrary to a popular belief fostered by many national publications, Fraternity Rows are growing rather than dying. According to statistics recently published in Baird's Manual, an almanac of the fraternity system, the returning alumnus will even find a few fraternities that didn't exist on campus a few years previously.

The tabulations in the 1963 edition of the manual show that there were 4,092 fraternity and 2,125 sorority chapters established at 915 accredited colleges and universities, an increase of 352 men's groups and 249 women's groups since the previous edition of the manual in 1957. Since the 1940 edition, the number of established chapters has more than doubled.

The manual points out that 7,324,481 college men and women have been initiated by the Greek-letter societies and 1,799,875 have been inducted within the past six years.

While much newspaper attention has been given to the contention that fraternities are no longer desirable in the opinion of some college administrators and faculty members, almost 400 additional institutions throughout the nation have persuaded national fraternities and sororities to become established on their campuses in the last six years.

Why should the fraternity system, which has been criticized heavily recently and even predicted to die within 20 years by a leading men's magazine, be growing at this seemingly unprecedented pace?

To begin with, the growth of the fraternity system can be attributed largely to the growth of higher education itself. As U.S. colleges and universities experience a population explosion, they rely more on the private sector of the university community to provide housing and dining facilities for students. In the main, fraternity and sorority facilities are owned by private corporations whose directors consist of alumni members of that fraternity.

Dr. Elvis J. Stahr, former Secretary of the Army and now President of Indiana University, recently said that he was "very proud of the many groups at Indiana University who are rebuilding or remodeling and enlarging their physical plants." While Dr. Stahr, a member of Sigma Chi fraternity, may have had the fraternity system at heart, it is likely he was also thinking of the several thousand additional dining and living spaces the fraternities and sororities have provided at Indiana University over the past decade.

Another factor that may be contributing to the growth of the system is that the Greek-letter societies seem to be overcoming some of the problems that their critics have pointed out in the past.

An undergraduate president of a national fraternity chapter put it this way: "The fraternity system has had a change. Whereas just several years ago our house and many others here at the university practiced some very questionable hazing of pledges, that has gone the way of the raccoon coat. The demands of the fraternity member's time are greater also. I think it has been good for all concerned."

Not the least of the problems fraternities have had to face in order to expand concerns finances. To construct and furnish a new fraternity house capable of housing 80 members, a fraternity must plan to spend approximately $400,000. Where does a group of 80 college students come up with this staggering sum?

Capital for the construction of fraternity houses can come from several sources. Many chapters which contemplate expansion or new construction have been in existence for a number of years, have accumulated assets, and can obtain the remainder from banks, savings and loan associations, and insurance companies.

Many colleges and universities have taken Dr. Stahr's point of view that fraternities can help with the student population explosion problem and provide housing for the expected increased enrollment and have cooperated with fraternities in securing financing. I.U., for example, will co-sign mortgages with fraternities, enabling these groups to obtain financing sometimes exceeding 75 per cent of the construction costs.

Other areas of financial support for fraternities include their own alumni members and fraternity-related educational foundations. Fund-raising efforts among fraternity alumni have resulted in accumulated funds approaching a quarter of a million dollars for a single chapter in recent years. Often a college will cooperate to provide the donors with a tax deduction for their gifts. The most widely accepted method is for the educational institution to take title to the fraternity property and enhance or rebuild this according to the gifts received, which have been earmarked for this purpose by the organization's alumni members.

Most national fraternities and many local chapters also have incorporated related educational foundations which the Internal Revenue Service has approved to receive tax deductible gifts.

It is ironic to note that the very expansion of the fraternity system itself has prohibited some of the fraternities from enlarging the number of chapters they have. Many national fraternity executives take the point of view that the plush fraternity houses on various campuses are keeping their organization from starting there. Bruce B. Melchert, executive secretary of Tau Kappa Epsilon, a national fraternity with over 200 chapters, says: "We were fortunate to have established our chapters at several of the universities where fraternity building booms have taken place before these booms occurred. To start new chapters at many of the state universities would be more difficult today because of the physical plant needed to compete."

At most private universities where the Greek-letter societies have enjoyed a traditionally strong existence, there is very little critical comment about the system. At DePauw University where over the years over 80 percent of the students on the average have belonged to the 23 fraternities and sororities located there this atmosphere is much in evidence.

Robert E. Crouch, secretary of alumni affairs and executive secretary of the DePauw Alumni Fund, supports the fraternity system, especially its contributions to university life. He says, "Although fraternities have responded to the demand for scholastic improvement, it is in the social area where they are still the greatest benefit to the private university. Returning alumni at DePauw's Old Gold Day (the annual homecoming celebration) always spend at least some portion of their time on campus reminiscing with former classmates at their respective fraternity houses."

Fraternities Get Facelifting

Another step in the continuing movement to strengthen the fraternity system at U-M was made this summer when groundbreaking was held for an addition and renovation project at the Lambda Chi Alpha chapter.

The groundbreaking was significant in the light of three reports which have been made in the past few years to the university's Board of Trustees evaluating the fraternity system. All three reports point out the faults and weaknesses of the fraternities but all agree that the system has the potential to make it well worth the effort to restrengthen it.

Beta Zeta Chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha has undertaken a $50,000 addition and renovation project which includes a 13-foot addition at the south end of the chapter house on College Avenue. The addition will enable the fraternity to bring the number of study rooms on the second floor up to 11, will allow for relocation of the lounge area, will permit construction of a powder room for visitors, will allow relocation of the dining and serving area and will permit the construction of a new kitchen and chef's living quarters in the basement.

The housemother's quarters will also be renovated. Some work, including renovation of toilet facilities and the fire escape, has been completed. It is the first major renovation work in the chapter house in 40 years.

To pay for the work, some $36,000 has been borrowed from the bank and the rest will be raised from alumni donations. The house now has 43 members and hopes to build the membership to 52.

Among the major points outlined in the three evaluation reports and suggested for the strengthening of the fraternity system at the U-M were the regulating of pledging so that only those students who could maintain a minimum of a "C" average would be eligible for pledging, with all informal initiation activities completed during the first week of the fall semester; appointment of a scholarship advisor for each fraternity with fraternities remaining below the All-Men's Average for four consecutive semesters placed on academic probation; establishment of a judiciary system by the Inter-Fraternity Council; appointment by the university of an assistant dean of men for fraternity affairs.

Other major points included a recommendation that a cooperative buying program be set up with the IFC and Fraternity Advisors; Council hiring an executive secretary whose job it would be to manage the buying program; and the appointment of a Standing Fraternity Committee which will include a professional architect, to make annual inspections of the houses and make recommendations regarding repairs, alterations and renovations.

A number of these recommendations have already been heeded. About half of the fraternity houses at the U-M now have scholastic advisors; the university now has an assistant dean of men for fraternity affairs; the cooperative buying program for food is now being used by eight houses on campus; and the Inter-Fraternity Council has established a judiciary system to promote self-discipline within the system.

The chapters now on the Orono campus are Alpha Gamma Rho, Beta Theta Pi, Delta Tau Delta, Kappa Sigma, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Eta Kappa, Phi Gamma Delta, Phi Kappa Sigma, Phi Mu Delta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Chi, Sigma Nu, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Tau Epsilon Phi, Tau Kappa Epsilon and Theta Chi.

Upswing at U-M

While a number of colleges throughout the nation are questioning the value of fraternities, the University of Maine is witnessing an upswing in its "Greek" membership.

According to Arthur F. Mayo, assistant Dean of Men and adviser to the Interfraternity Council, the percentage of Freshman pledges has increased in the past two years.

Despite an ebb in membership in 1963, he said, "the fraternities pretty well filled their pledge classes this year."

Of 520 first-year students who were eligible, having an accumulative academic average of 1.8 or above, more than 400 became members of the fraternity chapters on the Orono campus.

The 1.8 average specified by the IFC, but some houses require a 2.0 minimum before pledging members. Mayo added that houses whose accumulative averages fall below the accumulative average of the University's male population for three consecutive semesters are required to pledge only those students with a 2.0 or better average.

However, he said "more houses bested the all-men's average last fall than in several years."

Fraternities, according to University officials, play an important dual role on campus: they not only provide housing accommodations for a great number of students but also offer opportunities for social growth.

The system, Mayo said, provides full room and board for 680 men at a cost that exceeds by only a small amount that of dormitory accommodations.

He said that "fraternities furnish its members with the opportunity to hire their own help, maintain their own finances, manage their own affairs, set up their own rules."

With the exception of two or three, he said, all the Greek houses on campus operated in the black during the past fiscal year.

Tau Epsilon Phi recently completed a new $80,000 addition; and Lambda Chi Alpha had a $45,000 face lifting during the summer.

"All the houses are undergoing different types of renovation," Mayo said, "and their physical condition has improved a great deal."

Reference libraries have been installed by Phi Kappa Sigma, Tau Epsilon Phi and Tau Kappa Epsilon, he said; and other houses are working in the same direction.

Mayo estimated that about 80 per cent of the University's campus leaders—class officers, members of honor societies and student organizations, athletes—are fraternity members.

In the fall the IFC solicits in the Bangor-Brewer area in the drive against muscular dystrophy, he said, and various fraternities assume civic projects.

Some $12,000, a third of which are local funds from the active chapters, is offered in scholarships and loans annually by the Greeks, he said.

The majority of the chapters, he added, offer part-time employment to their members in the form of dish-washing, stewardships and house managing.

Each fall the fraternities contact freshmen and upperclassmen to secure pledges during a period called "rushing."

"For the past 10 years," Mayo said, "initiations have involved very little hazing. Rather, the pledges paint, clean and repair their houses."

"Fraternities offer a college student the opportunity for small group living, close friendships, leadership, and a personal atmosphere on an expanding campus," he said.

Joseph B. Chaplin, recently retired University of Maine official and former Bangor High School principal, has been named director of the State of Maine Talent Utilization Agency which has just received a $74,994.62 grant for its first year of operation.

Chaplin, who will begin his duties immediately in the scholar scout program designed to increase the number of Maine high school graduates attending college and post secondary schools, will be assisted by four scholar scouts, yet to be named.

The grant for the project is financed by the Office of Education under provisions of the Higher Education Act of 1965.

Robert B. Cobb, director of Student Services and project supervisor until the appointment of Chaplin, said that the agency will work in close cooperation with other state educational institutions, the Maine Principals' Association, and other civic groups.

The program is designed to identify qualified youth of exceptional financial need and encourage them to complete their secondary schooling and undertake post-secondary educational training. Secondary school or college drop-outs of demonstrated aptitude will also be encouraged to re-enter educational programs.

Black fly and mosquito research at the University of Maine received a boost when University President Edwin Young announced a three-year grant of $28,428 from the National Institute of Health for the support of research entitled "Biology of Floodwater Culicidae and Black Flies."

Prof. Ivan N. McDaniel, the man in charge of black fly and mosquito research at the University, that the funds would be used for more extensive biological research on black flies and mosquitoes.

"The emphasis of our research is on identification distribution and relative importance of the species which bother man in Maine. Once we have determined our problem species and have studied their habits, we will be able to study means of eliminating them," Professor McDaniel said.

With the aid of two graduate assistants and specially designed equipment, Professor McDaniel hopes that experiments which involve rearing black flies and mosquitoes in the laboratory can be carried on more successfully.

"Conditions of light and temperature essential to the successful rearing of black flies and mosquitoes can be controlled in the new insectary and these facilities should contribute a great deal to our research achievements," Professor McDaniel said.

Campsites and campers' needs are considered in a circular just published by the University of Maine Cooperative Extension Service.

In "Fitting the Campsite to the Tent Camper's Needs" U.M. Extension economist, Francis E. Montville, discusses the tent campers equipment and suggests the kinds of campites and facilities best suited to his needs.

Copies of the circular may be obtained by writing to the Mail Room, Winslow Hall, University of Maine, Orono.

under the grant will be done by two graduate assistants. John L. McDaniel, Lake City, S.C., a graduate of Clemson College, will handle mosquito research; and Howard F. Harris, New York City, a graduate of City College of New York, will be responsible for the black fly experiments.

Already at work in the new building, McDaniel is rearing mosquitoes from various sections of the state and is studying their life cycle; and Harris is busy collecting newly hatched black fly adults and their pupal cases in order to send specimens to the National Museum in Washington, D.C., for identification.

Harris also is planning an experiment which is designed to simulate the stream environment in which black flies thrive for purposes of rearing black flies in the laboratory.

Both men are working toward M.S. degrees in entomology and their current research projects will provide the basis for their theses requirements.

G. Peirce Webber of Bangor, president of the University of Maine Foundation, has reported to members that gifts exceeding $35,000 have been received during the last fiscal year and that the assets of the foundation now exceed $1,200,000.

Webber has been reelected president of the foundation for 1966-67. Other officers are George D. Carlisle of Bangor, vice president; Willard Linscott, Brewer, treasurer; and Harry W. Gordon of Orono, secretary.

Directors for the ensuing year are Webber, Carlisle, John F. Grant, James A. Patterson and George W. Prince, all of Bangor.

Chosen to serve as members of the foundation for five years have been Spofford Giddings of Augusta, executive vice president and director Central Maine Power Co.; John T. Maines of Bangor, vice president and director, Great Northern Paper Co.; John C. McGinn of Bangor, vice president, Merrill Trust Co.; and Harold L. Nason of Bangor, president, Bangor Savings Bank. Otto H. Nelson of Bangor, an honorary member of the foundation, was chairman of the nominating committee at the June 4 session.

Library Largest in Maine

A 48-foot hole is only one part of a renovation project which will make the University of Maine's Fogler Library the largest in the state.

To comply with Maine fire regulations the hole is being transformed into a fireproof stairwell to provide an exit on the east end of the building. All other stairwells in the building are being fireproofed with the addition of firedoors on all levels.

In addition to meeting the specifications of the fire code, the building is being revamped so that adequate security measures can be installed.

The Fogler Library is virtually the only university library in the country with an open exit. The policy has been maintained at the university to encourage students to make full use of all the library's facilities.

Due to the spiraling student enrollment and to the increasing loss of expensive and often irreplaceable materials steps now must be taken to keep the library collection intact.

When renovation is completed in September, the library will have one entrance and exit at the front of the building. All other exits will be locked with emergency locks.

A check out desk will be located at the front exit for the convenience of those borrowing books from the collection in the Louis Oakes Room, and a guard will be stationed at the front door to check books and briefcases.

"Security measures such as those we are now installing are the accepted procedure on college campuses throughout the country," Dr. MacCampbell, librarian, said.

"We hope to make the new regulations as unobtrusive as possible. The cooperation of all members of the university community in observing them will assure their success," he said.

Office and stack space also will be increased considerably as a result of the present $300,000 renovation project.

The addition of fifth and sixth stack levels will increase book space by one-third making it possible for the library to house one-half million volumes.

In order to cope with the growing collection an expandable card file was installed during the spring semester.

Office space is being added on either side of the circulation desk and offices for Dr. MacCampbell and his staff are being built in what was formerly the Joseph P. Bass Room.

An area on the third floor is being converted into a study room large enough for 100 individual study carrels, and the Louis Oakes Room is being redesigned as a recreational reading lounge.

"The additional space and new facilities that this phase of library renovation provides will make the Fogler Library more convenient and comfortable for those who work here as well as for those who use the facilities," Dr. MacCampbell said.

Two Bangor firms, Crowell, Lancaster, Higgins and Webster, architects, and Nickerson and O'Day, Inc., contractors, are responsible for the new library design and construction.

Dr. Ralph E. Armington has resigned from the faculty of the University of Maine to accept a lectureship in electrical engineering at the Illinois Institute of Technology in Chicago.

A native of Massachusetts, Dr. Armington holds degrees from Tufts University, New York University, the Pennsylvania State University and the University of Pittsburgh, and is a registered professional engineer.

Prior to joining the faculty at U-M in 1961, he was design engineer with Westinghouse Electric Corporation, and a member of the faculty of the Pennsylvania State University.

During Dr. Armington’s five years as professor and head of the electrical engineering department at the University of Maine, the department moved into and equipped the new Barrows Hall, and inaugurated a post-baccalaureate program in power systems engineering and a two-year technical institute program in electrical engineering technology.

During that time Dr. Armington, with the aid of members of the staff, organized and conducted three engineering seminars and two international symposia on electric contact phenomena.

At the Illinois Institute of Technology Dr. Armington will be associated with Dr. W. A. Lewis, and will devote the major portion of his effort in the area of power systems engineering.

The University of Maine presented honorary degrees to a well known lady diplomat and a veteran Maine educator at its summer commencement August 19.

Miss Margaret Joy Tibbetts, formerly of Bethel, who is now this nation’s ambassador to Norway, received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree. Lincoln Asher Sennett, Machias, president of Washington State College, received an honorary Doctor of Pedagogy degree.

The commencement exercises were held in the Memorial Gymnasium.

Miss Tibbetts was graduated from Gould Academy in Bethel and received her A.B. degree from Wheaton College. Later she received her A.M. and Ph.D. degrees from Bryn Mawr College.

She joined the Department of State in 1945 and from 1949-51 was an attache at the American Embassy in London. From 1954-56 she was second secretary at the American Consulate in Leopoldville. She was special assistant to the director of International Cooperation Administration from 1959-61 and first secretary in the American Embassy in Brussels from 1961-63. Between her various foreign assignments she has served at the State Department in Washington.

In 1964 President Johnson appointed her as this nation’s ambassador to Norway, the fifth ambassador to be named from among American women.

A native of Albion, Mr. Sennett was graduated from Besse High School in Albion and received his B.A. degree from the University of Maine in 1925 and his M.A. degree in 1932.

He began his career in education as a teacher-coach at Washington State Normal School in 1925. He was named principal of that school in 1946, president of Washington State Teachers College in 1952, and president of Washington State College in 1965.

Mr. Sennett is a past president of the Washington County Teachers Association, Washington County Schoolmen’s Club, Machias Rotary Club, Centre Street Congregational Church Corporation, and Washington County Extension Association.

He has also served as a selector in Machias, district chairman of the Boy Scouts of America, president and trustee of the Machias Savings Bank, and is active in the Masons.

Football

Little All-America linebacker John Huard will be back and the University of Maine has the 1965 Lambert Cup safely tucked away, but the latter won't be of much use to the Black Bears during the upcoming football season.

Huard, of course, will be of immense value, but the loss of record-breaking quarterback Dick DeVarney, All-New England halfback Frank Harney, and defensive end Al Riley, another All-New England performer, will hurt.

Maine figures to be strong in the interior line, but problems at end and in the backfield make it impossible to visualize another 8-1 record, as the Black Bears carried into their Tangerine Bowl appearance last year.

Fullback Charlie Belisle, a co-captain with Huard, was the second-leading rusher last year and is a bright spot in the offensive backfield, but the other three spots show up as question marks.

Junior George Platter is the present bet to replace Dick DeVarney, who holds every passing record in the Maine logs, at quarterback. Platter has more experience under the center than senior Paul Pendleton or sophomore Bruce Stafford, but his game time doesn't add up to much.

If seniors Paul Keanly and Norm Tardiff can play halfback, the Black Bears would have a strong backfield unit, but some serious questions exist.

Keanly was hobbling at the end of last season and his knee may not hold up under the pounding, while Tardiff may have to stay on defense where he picked off seven enemy passes last fall and earned All-Yankee Conference recognition.

Often-injured senior John Fahlgren has speed to burn at offensive halfback and classmate Walt Nelson has experience in the defensive backfield, but most of the other backs on the roster are just names at this point, although soph fullback Charlie Yanush has interesting potential.

If senior Dennis Doyle and junior Dennis Carey can come back from leg injuries, Maine will be strong on the flanks offensively. Senior John White and junior Pete Norris lend depth there.

Defensively, however, the top three ends must be replaced and right now, bulky sophomore Tom Dyer is the only candidate of note.

Seniors Bill Pasquill, an All-YC pick, and Gerry Perkins return at offensive tackle and senior Paul Smith is back on defense. Senior David Sawyer could claim the other tackle post or the spot could go to one of a pair of 235-pound sophs, Don Loranger and Steve Gravelle.

The Black Bears are in fine shape at guard with starters Ivan Brawn and Mike Hodges returning, along with John Sherry, a starter two years ago.

Co-Captain Walt Hirst is gone at center, but junior Don White returns on offense and junior Keith Kalman will be a big help on defense.

Thus, Coach Hal Westerman's primary problems are in the backfield—moving the ball and pass defense.

Roundup

University of Maine athletic teams in the year 1965-66 met with continued success as they compiled an overall record of 63 wins and 46 losses. The totals include all intercollegiate athletic teams except skiing and sailing.

U-M's winning percentage in nine major sports for the year was .579. During the year three U-M teams won or shared Yankee Conference titles. The baseball team shared the Y-C crown with Connecticut and Massachusetts while the football and rifle teams won the title outright.

In addition, Maine teams won or shared four State Series titles. The baseball team shared the crown with Colby while the golf, outdoor track, and ski teams won series titles outright.

Among the most successful teams during the past year were the rifle team, eight wins and no losses in dual competition and New England champions; the football team, eight wins and one loss and Lambert Cup winner; the golf team, 13 wins and two losses; and the baseball team, 15 wins, nine losses and a tie.

Thus, the University's winning percentage which started to rise in the 1963-64 year continued for the third straight year. In the 1963-64 year Maine athletic teams won 65 games and lost 40; in 1964-65 they won 66 and lost 34.

Since 1945 U-M athletic teams, with the exception of skiing and sailing, have won 909 contests and lost 773 for a percentage of .540.

Facilities

An improvement of athletic facilities at U-M to be undertaken fully with state funds started during the summer.

Some $295,000, part of an overall bond issue of $6,970,000 approved by the 102nd Maine Legislature and ratified in a referendum vote by citizens of the state, has been set aside for the construction of ten new tennis courts and a new soccer field and a field for miscellaneous intramural activities.

Four new tennis courts will be built for the use of women at the University and will be situated near the woman's athletic field and Lengyel Hall at the south end of the campus.

The current eight tennis courts near the Memorial Gymnasium at the north end of the campus will become ten under the resurfacing program scheduled and four new courts will be added in this area. In addition, five of the present courts will be resurfaced.

The program also calls for enlarging to regulation size and resurfacing the two courts now located next to Balentine Hall.

According to Richard Eustis, assistant director of engineering services at the University, the soccer field and the intramural field will be constructed north of the present varsity baseball diamond and will encompass an area measuring 500 by 1000 feet.

The demand for use of tennis courts has increased considerably every year. Some 30 years ago the University had 26 tennis courts, 14 of them at fraternity houses, and an enrollment of 1,900. Today the enrollment has reached nearly 6,500 at Orono and until the new construction was authorized the University had only 11 courts.

The additional courts also will allow the University to bid to be host for the annual Yankee Conference Championships in tennis. U-M has never had the conference championships held at Orono because of lack of courts.

Baseball

Diminutive University of Maine right-hander Gordon Engstrom has been rated the sixth best pitcher in earned run average in the country among major colleges. This standing was reported in the latest official baseball statistics released by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

Engstrom, a sophomore at U-M, wound up the past season with five wins and three losses and an earned run average of 1.11. Leader among major colleges in the country in earned run average was Stoneman of Idaho with a mark of 0.46 in 13 games.

Engstrom appeared in 10 games, hurled 73 innings, gave up 44 hits, walked 19 and struck out 51. He gave up only nine earned runs.

A two-sports star at Foxcroft Academy at Dover-Foxcroft before coming to the University, Engstrom at 5'9" and 145 pounds is the smallest hurler on the Maine club.

Bob Butkus of Bowdoin was listed as the fourth best hurler in major college earned run average circles with an ERA of 0.92.

Cross Country

The University of Maine varsity cross country team will participate in eight meets this fall including a renewal of the rivalry with Colby College.

Maine and Colby have met eight times in cross country over the years and Maine has won all eight meets. The two schools have not met in the harrier sport for the past several seasons.

The Black Bears will field a veteran club with considerable promise. Returning are lettermen George Clark, Jon Kirkland, Paul Petrie, and Dale Small. Also boosting the stock of the Bear runners is the return of Joe Dahl, out last season with a broken leg, and Albert Lagasse who was ineligible to compete last season.

The varsity cross country schedule:

Oct. 1—Northeastern and Massachusetts at Boston
8—New Hampshire
15—at Vermont
22—St. Anselms and University of New Brunswick
29—Yankee Conference at Rhode Island

Nov. 1—Colby
7—New England at Boston
14—IC4A at New York

The University of Maine football schedule has taken on a new look the last several seasons with the death of State Series gridiron competition.

Boston University and Youngstown University are on the Black Bears’ schedule for only the second straight year this fall, while Bucknell University will be a new name.

However, the 1967 schedule shows powerhouse Boston College and gives a tip-off on future Maine scheduling plans that should be of interest to Alumni, particularly in southern New England.

The Black Bears will visit Boston College on October 28, 1967, playing in the Eagles’ 25,000-seat stadium, but that game isn’t the barometer on future Maine schedule plans.

While the B.C. game is under a one-year contract, Maine will play host to Northeastern University on November 4, 1967 in what officials hope will be the start of a long-time series.

The return game in Brookline, Mass. with Maine is set for October 31, 1970, since the two teams don’t have any mutually open dates in 1968 and 1969.

However, Maine officials hope to get Northeastern on the slate yearly thereafter, which could put the Black Bears in Boston once a year if plans with Boston University work out.

Boston University visits Maine on September 28, 1968 and the Black Bears return to the Hub with B.U. on October 25, 1969. A 1970 date with the Terriers appears probable and games beyond that, if alternated with Northeastern, would give Maine alums a game in Boston each year.

With Bates, Bowdoin, and Colby Colleges completely gone from the Maine schedule after this fall, the 1967 slate had been reduced to five games, but now only one open date remains.

In addition to the five Yankee Conference opponents, Boston College, and Northeastern, Maine will probably face The Citadel, a Southern Conference member. The Citadel is expected to invade Orono in ‘67 on September 30. Reportedly, the only thing holding back the contract is the finding of a mutually-acceptable return date.

Another new team on future Maine grid slates is Hofstra University, a member of the Middle Atlantic Conference. A four-year series, 1968 through 1971, will be played with the Hempstead, N. Y., school.

Maine plays host to Hofstra on November 9, 1968; November 1, 1969; and September 26, 1970. The Black Bears will visit Hofstra on September 26, 1971.

Bucknell, a power in the Middle Atlantic Conference, is scheduled at Maine this fall on October 1 and the return match in Lewisburg, Pa., is slated for November 2, 1968. Maine’s November 5 date at Youngstown, O., this fall is the return game on a two-year contract.

The run-down this fall lists the final game for Maine with a State Series foe when the Black Bears play host to Colby on October 29.

The complete Maine schedule this fall lists: September 17, at Massachusetts; September 24, Boston University; October 1, Bucknell; October 8, at New Hampshire; October 15, at Connecticut; October 22, Rhode Island; October 29, Colby; November 5, at Youngstown; and November 12, Vermont.

With the sudden demise of the State Series, Athletic Director Hal Westerman has been in a bind finding suitable opposition for his football forces.

The game with Boston College, a major power in Eastern football, is no indication that the Black Bears will be making an attempt to reach major status.

However, as a one-shot stop-gap, the Boston College contest is an attractive date on the Maine slate.

Future scheduling with both Boston University and Northeastern University would provide natural rivalries on Maine’s level and exposure for the Black Bears in Boston.

Boston University was once a major college school, but has de-emphasized and now plays a small college schedule similar to Maine’s, as does Northeastern.
The date: September 22, 1927. Gene Smith of Huntington, West Virginia, hunches over a radio crackling with static and the excitement of an historic fight—the second Dempsey-Tunney world heavyweight match.

But more importantly, for Gene, it’s his first closeup look at radio, and he is fascinated with the maze of wire and tubes that somehow—miraculously—snatch the announcer’s voice from the air. That fascination never cools.

First, Gene Smith built crude crystal sets. Then, he rebuilt a set operated off his father’s car battery. Next a plug-in set, one of the first in the neighborhood. And radio was a big part of his life in the U.S. Navy, where he served as Radio Technician, 1st Class.

And then, in 1953, Gene Smith joined the Cadillac Division of General Motors and set up the Test Instrumentation Application Section. Today he heads up a crack team of technicians responsible for the accuracy of test equipment that helps make Cadillac the leader among luxury cars.

There were three winners that eventful Fall day many years ago: Gene Tunney, Gene Smith and General Motors!

General Motors is people making better things for you.

Most Successful Fund Drive

7,000 Alumni and Friends

Give Total of $126,758.35

The most successful campaign in the six-year history of the Annual Alumni Fund of the University of Maine ended June 30 with more than $126,000 in the till and over 7,000 contributors.

A total of $126,758.35 was donated by just over 7,000 alumni and friends. The money is used for scholarships, cultural endeavors, support of the University library, attracting professors to the University through the establishment of named professorships.

Carl Whitman '35 of Needham, Massachusetts, headed this year's drive.

The Maine Annual Alumni Fund was started in 1961 when the alumni association changed from a dues system to annual giving. The program has shown steady progress. Some $61,000 was collected in 1961-62, $85,000 in 1963-64, and $107,000 in 1964-65.

The average gift this year was $18.13 compared to $15.44 for 1964-65. 353 people gave $100 or more this year, 80 more than last year.

The change to an annual fund drive came after it became obvious that the dues system was old fashioned. Alumni officials note that in 1956 the General Alumni Association became a tax exempt organization and that gifts became deductible items on the donor's income tax. Dues were not deductible.

However, the main reason for the change was simply to get more money. The Fund was established to increase the amount of aid the alumni Association was able to give to a growing University. Under the new system many alumni have donated who felt they could not afford to do so before.

Annual funds have become increasingly popular at public institutions, where because of rising costs, governments and students are finding more and more of a need for private support.

Interestingly, while state support has increased in total dollars, the percentage of the total cost has shrunk, placing more and more of a burden on students and other sources.

At the University of Maine, for instance, two-thirds of the revenue is provided from private sources, while only one-third comes from public support through state appropriations. The Annual Alumni Fund is one method of attempting to obtain more assistance for already hard-pressed students.

There are two clubs that are part of the Fund idea at U-M. The "Century Club" is comprised of those who give $100 or more. Those who give between $25 and $99 are listed in the "Maine Stay Club". Those alumni who give up to $25 are listed on the "Honor Roll" of givers. The ranks of all clubs have grown as alumni increasingly become aware of their importance to the University.

The "Matching Gift" program is one of the most important results of the Fund idea. Under the program more than 250 companies in the United States match the gift of their employees. As more companies join the ranks of matching gift companies, the program has grown in importance.

Past experience indicates that many alumni are surprised to discover that their company is a matching gift company. Alumni officials urge alumni to look into the matching gift program. Requests for matching gifts must be made by the individual through the company concerned and not through the alumni office.

Work has already started on a new drive with a goal for 1966-67 of $150,000. Kenneth Woodbury '24 of Gray, Maine, is chairman of the new drive. He will be assisted by the following committee: Paul W. Bean '35, Ralph R. Bennett '24, George H. Bragdon '50, Malcolm E. C. Devine '31, John R. Dyer '41, Mrs. John R. Furman '38, Ralph L. Hodgkins, Jr. '59, Arthur F. Mayo '58, Mrs. Donald W. McIntosh '50, Robert C. Oldfield '56, George A. Potter '20, Earl H. Smith '62, and Carl A. Whitman '35.

How dull if everybody who joined us had the same aims, color, and interests!

The guy who wrote what you are reading joined the company as an optical physicist. Now he's an advertising man. His assistant, an English and French major from Catawba College in Salisbury, N.C., who first joined our French affiliate, Kodak-Pathé, in Paris, has just written a manual in English that introduces beginners to a system of separations chemistry for which we market equipment and supplies. Her husband works in our Photographic Technology Division engineering color motion-picture processing systems. (Four other departments tried to lure him away, but he decided he preferred the exciting new development work in his area.) The chairman of our board also came originally as a physicist, the president as a mathematician, one of our two executive vice presidents as a chemical engineer, the other as a Ph.D. chemist. On the other hand, our vice president of marketing majored in economics at the local university.

The point: out of self-interest, pure and frank, we have to help every college graduate who joins us find where he is happiest and can therefore earn raises fastest. What makes this a little easier here for both parties is our tremendous scope.

Having long been part of many, many more industries than the one with which the general public identifies us, we operate in technologies that range from optics to cattle nutrition, from knitting to laser-cavity design. Perhaps more significant to the person choosing an affiliation for the long haul, we have room and need for every shade of personal bent. In most people personal bent is still to be discovered at the time of college graduation.

One makeup is tuned for avid pursuit of better understanding of the physical world, whatever the purpose. He can enjoy himself here. Another will enjoy himself here far more in tough competition to create demand for the ultimate fruits of the first fellow's studies. One technical talent finishes what the other technical talent starts. To man the long line between them, we have urgent need for just about every other honest technical talent, male or female, all creeds, all colors. That's how broad we are.

Drop a note about yourself to Director,* Business and Technical Personnel Department, EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY, Rochester, N.Y. 14650.

*The engineer who previously occupied that position has been promoted to associate director of the Photo Technology Division. One of his former assistants then moved up to the job.

Distinguished Alumni

The record of four consecutive years of sunshine on Alumni Day was broken this year when a mixture of clouds, raindrops and partial sunshine was the order of the day.

Senior Alumni and guests to the number of fifty-eight gathered at the Bear's Den for the annual Breakfast.

George D. Bearce '11 presided at the business session in the absence of President Fred D. Knight '09, confined at home because of illness.

Guest speakers included President Edwin Young '40 and Executive Director of the General Alumni Association Russell Woolley '41. The annual report will contain their remarks in full.

The contribution of the Senior Alumni to the University this year amounts to $1,785 which includes the sum of $735 to be added to the Senior Alumni Scholarship Fund and the sum of $1,050 to be used by the Committee on Student Aid.

The officers elected for the coming year include: George D. Bearce '11, Bucksport, president; J. Larcom Ober '13, Beverly, Mass., vice president; Clifton E. Chandler '13, Cumberland Center, 2nd vice president; James A. Gannett '08, Orono, secretary-treasurer and Albert K. Gardner '10, Orono, auditor.

Golden Anniversary

The Class of 1916 returned to the Campus on June 3rd, 1966 to observe its Golden Anniversary.

There were familiar faces, of course, but to the four or five who were returning for the first time since their graduation, many of the old familiar “land marks” were either missing or changed. Their comment seemed to be “what amazing changes have been made—this is wonderful.” We also had the thrill of greeting a new University President (Dr. Edwin Young ’40) who was inaugurated on April 21st. We also had the realization that the University was just beginning its second century of its existence.

Our reunion banquet was served at the Penobscot Valley Country Club on Friday evening with a total of 84 (members and guests) assembled to enjoy a fine dinner. It was a great delight to see and talk with everyone present but we were sorry that some who were expected, at the very last minute “did not show” because of illness. For example, we missed “Gus” Ham, “Norm” Small, “Frank” Dugan Carleton, Charles “Finesto” Dole—just to name a few.

A moment of silence was observed to honor our deceased members. Our current Class officers were all reelected so that no additional meeting was necessary the next day.

The Alumni Luncheon was held on Saturday noon in West Commons. At that time we were given our 50 year certificates by President Young so now we are recognized as the “Freshmen” members of the Senior Alumni—an additional honor. At the conclusion of the Luncheon we reassembled outside for our group picture. This seemed to me to be an exceptionally good one and hope that about everybody ordered one. Incidentally, did you pick up your copy of the biographical sketches as compiled by the General Alumni Office?

The General Alumni Banquet Saturday evening is generally regarded as the highlight of the day. During the evening we were proud to present our gift to the University in the amount of $3,100—and very elated when it was announced that our class had won the attendance cup.

Activity and Delight

Our reunion was three days of activity and delight. On Friday evening fifty classmates — and spouses — gathered at the Oronoka in Orono for a gay cocktail hour and a delicious dinner. After that Ray Smith, our M. C. called on several classmates to give speeches. Then Kid Potter, president of 1920, and Laurence Davee, president of 1922, spoke briefly and delightfully. There was time for us to “mill” around to greet old friends and “catch up” on the years since our 40th. Later some of us attended a reception for Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Young and Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Little. Some of us also saw the centennial film and the Tangerine Bowl game film. It was a busy but happy evening.

Saturday morning we gathered in Memorial Union for our class meeting. President George read a letter of appreciation from Dr. Young for our class gift of $1,850 to the Centennial Fund.

Roger Castle reported on our reunion gift to the University — $1,000 (which later in the day reached $1,200).

Roger then announced the winner of a special award, which you will recall he offered to give for the first check received. Two checks, one from Concord, N. H., the other from Haverhill, Mass., arrived the same day, same hour, and postmarked the same day and same hour. Generous Roger gave two first place prizes; one to Prexy Marcoux and another to your secretary. Then to make the awards more interesting he gave the same prize to Effie Weatherbee Peters whose check came the greatest distance, the Orient. Now we three own sets of the beautiful Centennial Prints.

Prizes and Parties

The Class of '26 gathered Friday evening at the Pilots Grill in Bangor. There were 61 people there to enjoy a social hour followed by an excellent dinner. Myles Standish as chairman of the reunion committee opened the program by calling upon each member to identify himself and give a brief account of his business, his family, etc. This was followed by the awarding of two prizes. The first went to the person who had traveled the greatest distance (Emily Pendleton) for the reunion and the other to the person having the greatest number of his family connected with the University (Edgar Coffin). After a rousing rendition of the Stein Song we all returned to the campus for the reception and meetings with old friends.

Our class meeting on Saturday morning was attended by 29 people, with Oren Fraser, president, presiding. The meeting was opened with a moment of silence for those who were no longer with us. By request Philip McCarthy of the Alumni Office appeared and explained to us the purpose and distribution of class funds. There had been some confusion in the minds of some of us as to whether our financial contributions were going directly to the University or being credited to the class treasury as donations for our scholarship fund. As a result of this talk, Oscar Wyman was appointed as class agent to send a series of four letters annually to the members of the class acquainting them with the facts of the financial situation. At the present our scholarship fund totals $2,982 with $1,900 available for loans. It was voted to transfer $500 from the savings fund to the loan fund and the total amount frozen until it reaches $5,000 — at that time the interest to be used for the scholarships. The following slate of officers were elected: Oren Fraser, president; Willis Barrows, vice president; Shirley R. Heistad, secretary; Oscar Wyman, treasurer. The officers are to appoint a reunion committee for our 45th.

Huge Success

Our Thirty-fifth Reunion was a huge success. A grand time was enjoyed by all those attending. To you who were not able to be with us, we missed you very much. Start making your plans now to attend our Fortieth!

Our class dinner at the Tarrantine Club started the week-end off with the proper bang. A social hour preceded the dinner giving everyone an opportunity to greet old friends and revive old memories. Fifty-two class members and guests, all sporting 1931 yachting caps, sat down to the delicious dinner of roast beef or lobster newburg. Since this was our Thirty-fifth, we celebrated it with "jade." Favors at each place included pale green carnations tied to special 35th place cards, and lucky "jade" lockets and charms of polished Maine jasper stone. Each class member was a "feature speaker" giving an account of happenings to him since the Thirty-fifth, and, in some cases, since graduation. After each speech, he was promptly presented a can of good old "Maine Air," as a reward. Ted and the new Mrs. Bickmore won the prize Maine stein for coming the farthest distance — Twenty-nine Palms, California. Many parts of the country were represented. John and Mrs. Cutler were there from Kentucky. The Cutlers brought their two charming little daughters whom we met on Sunday. Dot Osgood Doria came from Youngstown, Ohio and travelled East with Eleanor Thompson from Detroit, Mich.

Bernard and Mrs. Snyder had timed a trip from Dayton, Ohio to join us for the week-end. Vi Purinton Giffin came from Fort Myers, Florida, first, to greet a new granddaughter, and also to join us for the occasion. After a speedy trip from Silver Spring, Md., Ward and Mrs. Cleaves arrived just in time for the dinner. Verne Snow came up from Warrick, R. I. Other class members from near and far were: Ellen Wareham Holmer and husband from Exeter, N. H., Elizabeth Livingston Morse from Winchester, Mass., Vance Springer and wife and Ray "King" Lear and wife from Augusta, Mal Devine and wife from Coventry, Conn., Don Henderson and wife from Hamden, Conn., Elmer Hodson from Mansfield, Mass., Marion Avery Gilmore and husband from Waterville, Bob Morse from Boothbay Harbor, Bill Hamblet and wife from Windham, N. H., Lou Dargin Hammons and husband, Don Goode and wife, Jessie Fraser, Kay Whitcomb Butler and husband, all from Bangor, Jake Holmes and wife from Calif., Victor Coffin and wife from Old Town, Parker Cushman and wife, Bill Wells and wife, Dick Stone, Phil Brockway, Mickie McGuire and wife, Ethel Thomas Sezak, Samuel Sezak, and son Thomas from Orono.

After dinner, the group was treated to A NIGHT AT THE STRAND THEA- TRE IN ORONO, with an old-time silent movie and music furnished by Madelyn Duffy, one of the last of the silent movie piano players. After the movies many requests were played including her own arrangement "Cowboys and Indians."

A large number turned out for the class breakfast at West Commons Saturday morning. This was followed by the class meeting at our headquarters in the Memorial Union. The meeting opened with President Samuel Sezak presiding. A moment of silence was observed for those members now deceased. The secretary's report of the Thirty-fifth Reunion meeting was read and approved. The nominating committee composed of Ellen Wareham Holmer, Ted Bickmore and Don Henderson brought in the following slate of officers:

Silver Anniversary

I'm sitting here organizing my notes to report on our 25th reunion weekend. Among my notes is last year's report for the Class of 1940, which I'm using as a guide. It says "biggest group ever for '40 meeting." Well, they might have had a bigger group at the class meeting on Saturday morning — I don't know — but we sure had the biggest and swingingest and noisest group at our class dinner at the Penobscot Country Club on Friday night, June 3rd. I know that because the 50 year class — 1916 — said we were big, and swinging, and noisy. Man, the old Buzzer was buzzin', and Ding Dong was dingin' — and Haddie was hammin'. "Hairless Ted" Newcomb was there — and "Hairy Roy" Shepard to mention a few of the notables. So help me, there must have been over 150 "aged" members of the Class of 1941 present.

At our class meeting on Saturday morning, many items of business were handled by our able president, Mike Cohen. John Dyer reported that the Class of 1941 had succeeded in its drive — thanks to John's devoted and capable effort — to present $7,500 to the University at the Alumni Banquet, to set up a Scholarship Fund in the name of the Class of 1941. We were all mighty proud of this accomplishment and wish that all of our members might have been present to share in that moment of satisfaction. It was unanimously decided to undertake the raising of $10,000 by 1971 — our 30th reunion — to add to the fund. The other principal item of business was the election of class officers for the next five-year period. Those elected were:

President — John Dyer, 496 Riverside Drive, Augusta, Maine 04330
Vice President — Hartwell C. Lancaster
Treasurer — Haddie Hamm
Secretary — 1966-67 Don Blaisdell, 110 Fireside Terrace, Camillus, N. Y. 13031
1967-68 Agnes Walsh
1968-69 Dave Astor
1969-70 Ginny Jewett Muzroll
1970-71 Walt Strong

Don Blaisdell
Secretary

Attendance Problem

The class meeting was held Saturday morning at the Memorial Union with our class president Virginia Tufts Chaplin presiding. Seven class members were present. After the secretary and treasurer's reports were read and accepted, there was a discussion concerning goals for the class of 1946. It was voted to raise $5,000 as our class gift. This money will be presented to the University at the time of our 25th reunion.

The next point for discussion was attendance at reunions. This is a problem. A reunion of seven class members is hardly a reunion. I know we are all busy people, busy or not the University needs the support of every Alumnus, and our class needs the support of every one of its members. We all need to know this and make an effort. It was suggested that we join with other wartime classes for reunions. This idea is being explored by the Alumni Council. A personal call from class members to other class members in given areas was suggested as a way to stimulate interest.

Judy Banton Crispell submitted the following slate of officers for the next five years. The slate was unanimously elected: C. Donald Stebbins, president; Joan Potter Robart, vice president; Betty Perkins Stebbins, secretary; Charles Hass, treasurer; Judy Fielder Harris, class agent.

Texas Cowboy Hats

Friday evening about 90 of us headed towards the Pilots Grill for our class dinner. We were greeted by Bill Robertson and Don McGlauffin all decked out in their 1951 Texas cowboy hats. As soon as the rest of us acquired ours, we took our hats off to these two classmates who did a splendid job in arranging our reunion.

Saturday morning some of us made it to the Commons for a hearty breakfast, then on to our class meeting at the Memorial Union. Pepper (Burbank) and Floyd Milbank and Dwight Demeritt strengthened our ranks, joining us for the day. President Russ Meade presided at the meeting. The business brought before the meeting was as follows:

a. A motion was made by James Elliott, seconded, and carried, to consolidate the various bank accounts, in which the class funds are deposited into one account.

b. A motion was made by Eleanor Mower, seconded, and carried to present the money to the University in the form of a 1951 Class Scholarship Fund. After much discussion as to how the scholarship gift should be made, it was determined that the $1,304 we now have would be presented to the University. Such monies to be used after five years or until the gift amounts to $5,000, whichever comes first. The gift to be administered by the Director of Student Loans. Preference to go to descendents of the Class of 1951.

c. The nominating committee presented a slate of officers for a vote of the class. Those nominated and elected were:

President — Donald McGlauffin
Vice President — Ralph Clark
Secretary — Hilda Livingston Miller
Treasurer — Patricia Jones Totman

In the evening, the Alumni Dinner was held in the Memorial Gymnasium. Singing and cheering in this familiar atmosphere really took us all back 15 years. Suddenly we were all jolted out of the memorable past when the speaker was a 1966 University graduate. We didn’t look that young, did we? Come judge for yourselves in 1971 when some of us might have our sons and daughters enrolled at Maine!!!

Sincere Invitation

At the suggestion of the president, the following people were appointed Area Chairmen for financial assistance:

"Doc" Nevers — Worcester County and Western Massachusetts
Ed Plissey — “The County”… Aroostook
Ann Keyo Lounsbury — Bangor Area
Dick Clark — Portland Area
Jean Patridge Mason — Central Maine… Augusta
Dick Crummy — New Jersey, New York, and Long Island
"Barney" Oldfield — Southern Massachusetts

"Doc" Nevers moved that the 10th Reunion Class Gift to the University be in the form of a “Memorial Loan Fund” in remembrance of deceased members of the Class of 1956. It was accepted.

Phil McCarthy of the Alumni Office enlightened the group on Class Donation Policies.

At the suggestion of Ben Thomas, the group agreed to give authority to the Reunion Chairman to draw on the restricted funds as the need arises.

For those who missed the 10th, we extend a sincere invitation to come to the 15th… believe me, it will be great with Don at the helm again.

Touch-Tone push buttons are swift servants of the modern hand. With them you place calls faster and someday will "input" instructions into bank and store computers to render and pay bills, transfer money, charge purchases, verify credit and thus gain greater command of personal time and energy. Still other ways they can free you of daily drudgery are being explored.

Tomorrow’s Telephone Service – A Forecast

Bell System planning now extends to the year 2000. We see possibilities that go beyond. Already, Touch-Tone® service has become a magic key to many doors.

New advances in telephone service promise to make your daily life easier, and give you still more command of your personal time and energy.

One advance is today’s Touch-Tone service—the push-button means of placing calls that is now being introduced in many areas.

These buttons will not only let you call your bank, for example, but may someday put you “on line” into your bank’s computer in order to pay bills and verify deposits and use revolving credit. There are many such “input” uses for these ten little buttons.

Another big step forward is the Electronic Switching System, which in the years ahead will be handling almost all phone calls. The first ESS office went into operation last year and more are being added.

Spurred by what we have learned from Electronic Switching, we are now adapting existing equipment to test new optional services that...switch your calls to your host’s home for the evening...add a third phone to a conversation...hold one call on your home phone while you answer another.

Picturephone* service that lets you see while you talk will add visual enjoyment to your calls.

There is no end to telephone progress. As new service needs arise, new Bell System thinking will meet them.

For the Bell System is simply people at work for other people, to make communications serve better in many more personal ways.

"I don’t know another business in which you can do as much good and become as successful in as short a time."

Four years ago some of my closest friends thought I was a little crazy when I quit a solid job with a giant corporation to sell life insurance.

"Now, a wife, a daughter, a comfortable home and over $4,000,000 in life insurance sales later, even the most skeptical of these have changed their views.

"And best of all I am not caged in by the age or ability of anybody else. My ceiling is unlimited — my income is in direct proportion to the work I do . . ."

And income consists of two factors — commissions from new business and fees for policy renewals. Since a new agent’s clients tend to be his contemporaries, the volume of new business from them increases as they progress and move up the income ladder. But even if an agent’s new business were to remain level at, say $1 million per year for the first five years, his income could double during that period because of renewal fees.

While income is extremely important, the insurance company you represent can make a big difference, too. Ask any life insurance man and you’ll find Mass Mutual has a reputation for being solid yet progressive. After all, it’s been in the business for over a century and has more than $3 billion in assets.

So if you’re a person who likes people, who wants a business of his own with no capital outlay and no ceiling on what he can make — and if you’re anxious to work hard for yourself — this is it.

If you are looking for the rewards Tom Wheeler wants, the President of Mass Mutual would like to know about it. Write him a personal letter: Charles H. Schaaff, President, Mass Mutual, Springfield, Mass. 01101. It could be the most valuable letter you’ll ever write.

Harbor Shipping

Until the advent of the railroads and for some time thereafter, Portland's prosperity depended entirely upon shipping. At the close of the Revolutionary War commerce was at a standstill, for blockades had harried shipping out of existence. But the fortunes of the town revived rapidly. From 1789, when but 5,000 tons were entered in the port, to 1807, the increase in tonnage was phenomenal. Then, in 1807, the Embargo Act dealt a severe blow to all commerce and not until 1815, with the coming of peace, was there another period of growth. Shipping in 1830 was 43,071 tons. In 1812 there were owned in Portland 412 vessels employing 2,700 seamen. One early record shows "registered 28 ships, 90 brigs and 12 schooners. Enrolled and licensed, 12 brigs, 203 schooners, 55 sloops and 5 steamboats. Population had grown from 2,240 in 1790 to 12,601 in 1830. The harbor was crowded not only with the coastal shipping, but trade far afield had developed rapidly and ships of many nations were frequent visitors to the port. Literally hundreds of ships were to be seen in the harbor at times - one early writer speaks of "400 ships sailing today, having been storm-bound for nearly a week."

Cargoes were of lumber, barrels, shoes, masts, bark, hides, wool, butter and cheese, among others. Later in the century Portland matches were known around the world. In 1839 the sailor Isaac Winslow of Portland was experimenting, in the kitchen of his house, with the canning of corn - an effort which fifteen years later would lay the foundation for Maine's huge food canning industry. Maine canned foods went to the far corners of the earth with ships of all nations - Maine products became a familiar sight in most countries. And Portland Harbor, with its jumble of tall-masted ships waiting for dock space, was a major shipping port of these, besides the grain and lumber and other products of Canada to the North.
