Director's Corner

As a continuation of my remarks in the last issue on the President's "Report on the Biennium 1970-1972," the area of student affairs with its marked transitions is of prime interest.

President Libby discussed the changes in the area of student affairs, which has been marked by the new conception of the student as an adult member of the University community.

It was a turbulent two years for the affairs of students and their university at UMO as well as around the nation. A major cause of this transition can be seen in the fact that now full adult rights have been given to the eighteen year olds.

The University has moved away from the role of in loco parentis and toward a system where the student is responsible and accountable for his actions.

The Student Affairs Department, now under Vice President Arthur Kaplan, has replaced the former system of deans of men and women. Whereas the deans previously had the job of keeping order on campus, these functions are now carried by the Security Department.

The Student Affairs Office emphasizes more educational programs and services for the students rather than serving strictly as a watchdog.

A major reorganization brought the Residences and Dining Halls departments under Student Affairs rather than under the Vice President for Finance and Administration. Staffing, programming and student life in student related departments are now supervised by student affairs rather than by finance.

Along with these changes in organization, a center for Research and Development in student affairs has been originated. The center, being conducted in cooperation with the student personnel staff of the College of Education, will serve a dual function. It should supply valuable research experience for graduate students as well as provide information on the status and effectiveness of the programs.

Physically as well as administratively the campus has changed in relation to student affairs. Following the opening of the first "split dorm" for men and women in 1969, the university now plans to open seven such dorms next year. The dorms have common recreation and lounge areas and many offer different life styles for the students. There are cooperative dorms in which students do their own cooking and housekeeping. This area of change has received much publicity; yet, in the President's report, emphasis is placed on the fact that the split dorms are not an end in themselves but rather a plan for residence life which will provide students with a number of options.

The report also focused on two innovations that have been instituted relating to the student services.

A video-taped interview procedure to help increase the student job market received national attention and quite promising results in its first year. As a result the service is being continued this year in the Office of Career Planning and Placement under Philip J. Brockway.

In addition, funds for a Coordinator of Franco-American studies program were provided by the Emergency Employment Act. Yvonne Labbe is the coordinator of this program whose goal is to help with the problems Franco-American students face on campus.

Outside the area of student affairs, accountability was another subject dealt with by President Libby in his report on the biennium. Accounting for the use of public money is something in which the public and political representatives have become highly interested. In the past two years, UMO has developed a variety of management practices, tools and policies to improve administrative procedures.
Old collections have new home

Alumni at the University of Maine at Orono give to their university in different ways. One of the most interesting and unsung areas of alumni giving is that of contributions in kind to the Special Collections division of Fogler Library.

Over the years, books, manuscripts, letters, photographs and memorabilia had been collecting in the ROTC vault at Fogler Library. This fall after three years of specialized effort under the full-time direction of Mrs. Frances C. Hartgen, a professional librarian, Special Collections officially opened the doors of the beautiful new division for archival material.

Mrs. Hartgen sees the chief goal of the Special Collections division as helping Fogler Library develop into the state’s major research facility.

It is hoped that items of interest and research can be kept within the state by residents of Maine and in turn be deposited to the division for safekeeping.

The availability of the archival material for research has been vastly increased due to the organization and development of the collection in the past few years.

Filing, cataloging and the preparation of the thousands of items keep Mrs. Hartgen’s staff of Alumni and other contributors over the years have helped the division grow to its present size with gifts of letters, manuscripts and papers. The division relies heavily on the generosity of its contributors as it can not afford to buy the sometimes very costly items.

One of the earliest book collections was donated in 1936 by Clinton L. Cole from the class of 1900. The original collection of six hundred volumes concerns world-wide maritime material.

Eunice Nelson Baumann '39, on record as the first woman Indian to graduate from UMO, donated personal papers relating to her work in human relations and anthropology.

On file in the collection are two separate manuscript collections from alumni Dr. Paul E. Taylor '36. A native of Kittery, Maine, Dr. Taylor submitted papers of the Remick family from that area. In addition, he also donated his personal papers concerning Kittery and the state.

A collection on George P. Merrill from the class of 1879 includes his correspondence with other geologists and a vast photographic portrait collection.

These are just samples of the many alumni donations and manuscripts concerning alumni. The University Collection is another source of alumni material. Copies of over 4,500 theses written by graduates, alumni and faculty publications, all publications of the University and the University archives are part of this collection.

It has been an interesting three years for Mrs. Hartgen as head of Special Collections. Starting from her initial sorting of material from the ROTC vault to her present day tactics for securing new items, she remains persistent in her collecting.

An example of her determined efforts can be seen in her quest for the Walter L. Arnold papers.

Arnold, a fur trapper, trader and Maine Guide from the Millinocket area, was featured in a Boston newspaper. Always on the lookout for material relating to the Maine woodsman, Mrs. Hartgen tracked down the trapper to Indian Pond near Millinocket through a Millinocket post office number. Arnold was pleased to donate his records in trapping, trading and guiding and via his scheduled supply airlifts to and from his remote camp, his papers finally reached UMO.

In sharp contrast to this “catch”, Mrs. Hartgen is often surprised with unsolicited material from unknown sources. One day a practically demolished parcel arrived containing personal letters and papers from Maine dating from 1800. The package, with no return address listed, had an attached note firmly stating the gift was to remain totally anonymous. Needless to say, no matter what the source or means are, Mrs. Hartgen is always pleased to receive donations!

The State of Maine Collection is of prime importance to the library with a book volume of 10,000 in Special Collections and over 5,000 circulating volumes.

There are many areas of Maine interest the collection greatly needs. Mrs. Hartgen cites examples of lobstering, potato businesses, summer camps, resorts, logging camps, paper company's, lighthouse keepers, maps and early teaching records.

It is realized there is a good deal of competition and duplication of efforts within Maine's colleges and universities for the acquisition of Maine related archives. Mrs. Hartgen hopes to be able to work with all Maine institutions on these matters.

She continually laments over people who do not realize the research value of many of their papers and books. Even more frustrating for her is when she learns people have taken the valuable papers to the dump rather than having the material appraised!

Old papers, old books, old portraits, old diaries all fall into the stereotype of a research collection such as the Special Collections division. Although a great deal of the material is dated, Mrs. Hartgen is always adamant in her plea for not just antique material but present day items that are definitely artifacts of our times.

Such items are modern diaries, love letters, letters from the Vietnam war, resort records, writings of aspiring and amateur writers and even innovative marriage ceremonies written by the husband and wife.

The Haystack Mountain School of Crafts is an example of a "modern archive". It has periodically submitted material since 1950 recording the history of the nationally known crafts school.

A problem often met with when securing more recent letters and personal papers is the privacy of the people involved. Precautions of this nature are taken by the department. Items can be legally sealed to an assigned date and can not be viewed either publicly or privately. Donors can have the security of knowing their material is being safely kept and knowing their contribution has benefited the University of Maine at Orono.

The new Special Collections division has a seating capacity of over 100 in its attractively designed quarters. The new facilities also include special glass storage shelves for fragile rare collections.

He was “King of the Woods”

The American artist Carl Sprinchorn embarked on his education and career in art at New York City just as Caleb Warren Scribner, another young man, destined to be one of his closest friends, entered the University of Maine at Orono in the class of 1905.

Their backgrounds could hardly have been more different, yet each was to find common ground in their mutual interests of the Maine woods and painting.

As a student of Robert Henri, a leading art teacher in America, the Swedish born Sprinchorn was encouraged from the beginning to paint life wherever he found it. Even his early paintings of New York suggest Sprinchorn’s future in Maine as he painted horse drawn carriages in the snow.

Though his early career was developed in New York, Sprinchorn, like other Henri students such as Rockwell Kent, Edward Hopper and George Bellows, spent summers on the Maine coast. His first excursion to inland Maine was in 1911 to Monson where he had relatives from his native country.

In the 1920’s Sprinchorn spent most of his time in New York, busy with his art gallery. After his gallery closed in 1924, he went to Santo Domingo for two years to paint. The death of his teacher, Henri, greatly saddened Sprinchorn and he traveled back to his birthplace in Sweden.

Upon his return to the United States in 1931, Sprinchorn found himself so affected by the depression that he returned to the Maine woods to survive and to paint.

By 1937 he had become so enamored with the Maine woods he took up residence in Patten where he met Caleb Scribner.

Scribner had become a game warden after graduation and his interest in painting was that of a self-taught amateur. Sprinchorn boarded at his home while painting the surrounding woods of Shin Pond and began a friendship with Scribner that would last for over thirty years.

The Pause, 1946
They exchanged views on their lives in the woods and Scribner was an excellent source of forest lore and local color.

When Sprinchorn was unable to attend a one-man exhibit of his works at the University of Maine, Caleb Scribner faithfully attended the opening in his friend's absence. In turn, Sprinchorn was able to play host to Scribner and his wife in a visit to New York.

Researchers of Sprinchorn talked with Scribner before his death in 1968 and found him to be an enlightening and entertaining source of information on the Maine artist. Scribner himself left behind a tangible contribution to the history of lumbering in Maine in his paintings and articles, which are now in the Patten Lumbermen's Museum.

Caleb Scribner not only crossed the path of one Maine artist during his life in the north woods, however. In 1939, he guided the famous Maine artist Marsden Hartley to the vantage point of Mt. Katahdin where Hartley sketched and painted his famous Katahdin scenes.

Hartley and Sprinchorn became friends early in their art careers in Maine. Sprinchorn's emphasis on the woods as compared with Hartley's predominately coastal art brought about their amusing agreement that Sprinchorn would be "King of the Woods" while Hartley would be "King of the Coast".

Sprinchorn painted the Maine woods for over a period of 50 years. Life was not easy in the woods for the artist leading the rugged life of the lumbermen in order to capture their life style. His interests in lumbering brought about hundreds of sketches and paintings on river drives, forest animals and logging camps. Illness and strokes in his later life made it an endurance test for Sprinchorn and often caused him to return to New York for hospitalization.

His most productive years in Maine art were from 1937-52. He believed his works would in time be a substantial contribution to the field of picturesque native occupations. With so much of Maine's art belonging to the coast, Sprinchorn's capturing of the Maine people during the almost bygone era of lumbering is art history. Marsden Hartley had appreciated his friend's work and realized that nothing like his work had ever before been brought into the open art field.

A collection of many of Sprinchorn's papers had been established in the Special Collections division of Fogler Library at UMO. One year after his death on Sept. 6, 1971, all his private papers were contributed to the collection. The remaining sketches and paintings from his studio are in the temporary custody of the University. Prof. Vincent A. Hartgen, head of the art department; has been named curator. From these works a memorial exhibition has been drawn together for the Artists of Maine Gallery in Carnegie Hall at UMO from Oct. 22 to Nov. 30. The exhibit is being co-sponsored by the Patrons of Fine Arts and the Arthur R. Lord Fund.

"Directions in Canadian French" (below) was painted in 1948 near Sprinchorn's home at Shin Pond. The photograph of Sprinchorn (right) was taken in the late 1930's. Both photographs and text sources are courtesy of UMO Prof. Richard S. Sprague.
Undercover Notes on UMO

Win(n): President Winthrop Libby, the president of this fine establishment, and a really fine guy to get to know.

The preceding definition appeared in what is probably the university's first "underground manual" entitled Undercover Notes.

The catalog explains UMO from the ground up including hints on where the best snacks can be found to a glossary of campus idioms, from which President Libby's definition was excerpted.

The creators of the 30-page booklet were thirteen members of the 1972 Summer Student Orientation staff. One of the staffers, Elaine Watson, a junior in art education, penned the neat and gnomish drawings illustrating various aspects of campus life. The abstract cover was done by senior Leslie Bostrom.

The purpose of the manual was to give incoming freshmen a lighter and more student-oriented viewpoint of the campus to supplement the more academic university publications.

Last Spring the students formulated the beginnings of the booklet in a Special Studies Seminar: The University and The Freshman. Kristine Dahlberg, assistant dean of the student affairs, led the seminar and is advisor for the summer orientation staff.

Preparation and the publication at the University Press were finished in time for the first orientation group and booklets were distributed in the freshmen orientation packets.

With humor and art the students were able to compile a folksy guide to the practical side of life at UMO.

An extensive list under the "Leisure Time" category includes all available area radio and television stations, pizza shops, pubs, lunch stops and restaurants. The guide certainly gave different approaches to its subjects.

On student aid:

Don't make any assumptions regarding financial aid. Don't assume that your family has too much money or that your grades are too low or anything like that. Apply anyway. You might very well get help.

On legal aid:

As a student at the University of Maine at Orono, you will be able to acquire free legal advise. A lawyer is hired to come on campus two days a week to advise any student who needs legal assistance.

On courses:

This is your last easy chance to learn what your heart always desired. Don't get caught with narrowness of thought. If you want to take Greek because you like the letters of their alphabet, do it. If you are worried about your grade point average, take it pass-fail. Any course can be audited. Take advantage of the Special Seminars that are offered each semester. (This booklet is a product of one.) Some day you may want to communicate with a philosopher, even though you're a high voltage ion physics engineer. If you were diverse enough in your course selection at college, you may be able to get past, "hello, fine weather don't you think?"

The response from freshmen was very favorable. And although the project was for summer orientation of freshmen, the book has been found useful this year for transfer students or anyone with a "need to know".

'15 Earle M. Brockway writes, "I am retiring in May, 1954. In the last two years I have had six operations and three heart attacks. I am eighty-two and still going strong. Still rooting for the U. of M." In the "Orland Sentinel" of May 7, 1972, there was a feature with the caption "Shrubbery Bugs: Easily Solved with Harry Fog in the Neighbor- borhood." This is our Harry of '15, an expert on growing things who generously shares his experience with others. He has his own method of saving plants in high temperatures that affect their roots by mounding soil about each plant in a saucer-type arrangement that will hold water. His life has been spent in studying and researching trees. After graduation from the U. of M., he worked for the State of Connecticut. Fifty-four years ago, he was called to work for the State Plant Board of Florida. Now, semi-retired, he addresses classes at Lake Sunter Community College and the Vocational Institute at Eustis. William Henshaw Melien in Canton, Ohio, an avid genealogist of his own family, will go to England and France this fall for six weeks to dig up more about the family tree. He has found his roots go back to the signers of the Magna Carta in 1215!

At Alumni Days in June, it was good to see Frances Jones Bearch and Raymond Fogg. If you are taking a trip to Eastern Canada via Calais, we would be delighted to have you call. If that is not possible, just send a bit of news about yourself or another classmate.

Editor's Note: Mrs. Percy E. Jackman passed away on Sept. 22. We express our sincere sympathy to her family as Laura Jackman was a very devoted alumna and served her fine class of 1915 well. See In Memoriam.

'17 About our reunion last June, we feel inclined to brag a little. Twenty-eight members of the class were present, and this 55th was our fourth in five years. Charles Crossland says in his class letter, "That is some kind of record, and, believe it or not, the members voted to have another reunion next year." Charles is now both president and treasurer of the class, and Bryant Hopkins is secretary-treasurer for next year's reunion. Questionnaires that went out to the class last spring show that some members are hampered by poor eyesight or other physical difficulties, which we regret, but all who are able seem to be "busier than ever" with civic, charitable and hobby occupations. We have enthusiastic gardeners, woodworkers, bowlers, golfers, bridge players and those who speak up for travel. There are even a few who are again making plans for the fall to spend us a Xerox copy of a whole page of a "Who's Who" printing, listing his affiliations and accomplishments. Did you know he is the only person from University of Maine-Orono who ever served as president of the National Interfraternity Conference? This includes all the Greek letter fraternities in the United States and Canada. Sumner Cobb sends news of the death of Paul E. Chadbourn of Saco. He was the union president with an earlier class, but joined him 1917 after being out for a year or two, and graduated with us. We wish to extend sympathy to his wife and family. We also wish to express our sympathy to class members Marjorie Foss, the loss of her husband, Marion W. Fides, during the summer.

'18 Spent a couple of hours in Plaistow, N. H., with Roger B. Hill. He is very active in tracking down his classmates and was in the middle of the crowd of George Haines. He has a fine coin collection. Mrs. Stephen Dunham served me coffee while he told me of his 40 years as a merchant in the machine, mostly in Manhattan. He retired in 1962 and moved to Auburn. He has two daughters married and lives in Colorado on a big ranch. He operates a very successful antique shop. "Taxi" had his 76th birthday August 8, and Eveline is almost 80. They have been well and hope to continue for another 10 years. He will have a 50th wedding anniversary in Farmington, arranged by his son Stanley and his children, Timothy, Laura Jo, and Jonathan. Mrs. Ellsworth is a graduate of U. of M., Farmington, and was honored as Outstanding Citizen of Farmington. Ten guests of 50 years ago were present.

I am enjoying skiing and golf and my nearby daughter.

'19 "Taxi" Cross writes from Guilford, Maine, that his oldest son is teaching in Westport and his grandson was married a few weeks ago to a fisherman's daughter and is in the lobster pond and dandy business. He had built for himself a new lobster boat and has been doing very well. The oldest girl, Florence May, is still in the lobster pond and dandy business. She operates a very successful antique shop. "Taxi" had his 76th birthday August 8, and Eveline is almost 80. They have been well and hope to continue for another 10 years. He will have a 50th wedding anniversary in Farmington, arranged by his son Stanley and his children, Timothy, Laura Jo, and Jonathan. Mrs. Ellsworth is a graduate of U. of M., Farmington, and was honored as Outstanding Citizen of Farmington. Ten guests of 50 years ago were present.

I had another letter from Elliott Hall in Vinalhaven. His son David and family live in Anchorage, Alaska, with their three children. His other son, Donald '59, an assistant professor of German at UMO, is to have a sabbatical next year in Germany. Elliott buys himself setting up the Vinalhaven Historical Society and writing books.

"Brandy" and Faye (Smith) Merrow recently returned from a cruise to the Scandinavian countries as a way of celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. We extend our sympathies to the families of Forrest Harbourn and E. Earl Kennison. I had heard from Faye about her father's passing and had had a long letter from Earl.

News seems to be scarce this time. I hope that many of those from whom I have no response will report on their "doings" early in the fall or winter.

'20 Edith H. Barrows Beach writes that great-grandchild number 7 arrived in January—born to their oldest grandchild, a lawyer in Chicago. Harry and Ruth Watson—Harry took pleasure in honoring Professor Davee at an annual dinner—Bob Avery; Minerva French Anderson; Harry and Grace Butler; Rex and Helen Buzziell; Lawrence Libby who is active in Scout activities. '21 Marceux has had an interesting and rewarding career! After graduating with a B.S. in chemical engineering, he was affiliated with pulp and paper industries in Newton Falls, N. Y., and Berlin, N. H., in the wood chip situation.

In 1937 he joined the newly formed Social Security Administration and was stationed in Washington Eili ("Frezy") Marceux until he was transferred to New Hampshire to open the Manchester field office. Later he was in the Concord office until his retirement. With the exception of a period of five years from '37 on his work was in Social Security. During those years he served in World War II with four years in North Africa and Europe. Some of his activities, especially in "Liaison and Patriation" of Nationals to their homelands after cessation of hostilities, were recognized by the French, Polish, Tunisian, and American governments by appropriate citations and decorations. Eli's work in American Legion Affairs is most impressive! He has served in practically all offices up to National Executive Committeeman. He is presently a member of the Foreign Relations Commission of the Legion. By invitation of the U. S. Department of State, five prominent Legionnaires, one of whom was Eli, were selected to investigate various activities of the department. This required travelling around the world to gather information from our embassies and to submit findings and make recommendations. Eli is presently president of the New Hampshire Veterans' Association, holds membership in Legion Reserve, is a member of Retired Officers' Association, and a member of Concord, New Hampshire, Rotary.

Sorry to hear that George W. Crane is ill and under care at Fairfield Nursing Home in Fairfield, Me.

'22 Our return home at the end of July was saddened by the death of Milton A. Hescock who was our next door neighbor at the summer reunion. He has had the same difficult experience at Maine in obtaining that B.S. degree as I did at Aubert Hall. We extend to Mrs. Hescock and their son Jonathan our sympathy from the class of 1922. John T. Quinn has been a member of the Senate's 105th Legislature, membership Committee, five years Judiciary and Chair of the Committee of Legal Affairs. This sounds like important work for John and we hope you will continue with your active life in public affairs. We enjoyed seeing you at reunion.

A check on Henry "Hank" P. Turner indicates he is on the road to recovery and is out-of-doors in the sun watching the golfers at Raymond.
Eunice Winslow was given a special tribute by the pupils of the Camden Rockport High School in their 1972 Year Book. She has been a language teacher at the school for many years. George V. Blanchard is still practicing law in Presque Isle and is associated with Stevens, Engels and Bishop. George has three daughters and four grandchildren living in Southern California. Guy Matthews writes that he had a nice trip to Florida this past winter accompanied by his sister Annette '27. At West Palm Beach he spent several pleasant days with Milton Prentiss and his wife who lived nearby in North Palm Beach. This was fortunate as Milton passed away suddenly on April 5. The sincere sympathy is extended to his wife and family.

F. Gilbert Mills sent word to the Alumni Office that he is enjoying his retirement on Cape Cod. Arthur O. Willey and his wife have donated $75,000 to the Gardiner (Maine) Hospital, recently. Arthur grew up in Gardiner where his father was in business. After teaching and becoming a professor in mechanical engineering, Arthur became associated with Lubrizol Corporation of Wickliffe, Ohio, as consultant in their research department. He became president of the board until his retirement in January. Frank H. Clark writes that he has retired and his address is: Dr. Frank Clark, Lake Street, Oxford, Maine 04070. Frank has taught at Morris Harvey College, Charleston, West Virginia, for 17 years. He was chairman of the biology department for eight years. Most of his students were pre-meds. I'm glad you taught them genetics, Frank. Thanks for your kind note.

I have been persuaded by my children to live in Portland, and now I will tell you why. The Lafayette Town House, Congress St., will be my address from September on, to late spring. I will be happier to be where I can see more of Dick, Laura and their wonderful families. I have been excruciatingly lonely here in Trenton, more or less in isolation. Best to all.

Rue de Vallee is the name of a new street at Forest Gardens Mobile Home Community, near Lake Forest, California. Classmate Rudy Vallee was invited to attend ceremonies honoring him on Aug. 13 by this street naming event. Congratulations, Rudy. Saw Ray Burton and his wife at the River Drivers Supper at Lincoln, in July. Ray lives in Florida where he has retired from college teaching; he was vacationing in Maine. Velma Oliver holds the portfolio of the United States Congress and Representative Government on the State Board of the League of Women Voters of Maine. Had a quickie visit with Madeline "Mel" and Vena Field in Vancouver. Vena has retired from teaching in Massachusetts. Had a phone visit with Hope Baneister and Dr. Fereh Lawler. Hope was leaving for her home in Rockville Center, N. Y., after her summer at Southwest Harbor. She had traveled to Greece and neighboring countries in the spring. Lawler took the Western Canada tour in June by train. Congratulations to Bob Haskell who has been re-nominated by Gov. Curtis to the Board of Trustees of the University of Maine. In September, Bob was given an honor award by the Bangor Kiwanis Club for his 45 years of membership. Bob served as ninth president of the club. Sympathy is extended to the family of Lindsay Chalmers, of Machias, who died in July, Class V. P., Louise Lord, your secretary and Erdine (Besse) Dolloff '28, attended communal services for Lindsay at Albion.

Wallace ("Wally") H. Elliott was recently the recipient of the Future Farmer's of America Distinguished Service Award. After Wally's graduation in '26 he was teacher and principal of Patten Academy. In the year 1937 he received his Master of Science degree from Cornell University. He was head of the University of Maine's department of education at the time of his retirement in 1969 and had been a member of the faculty since 1937. While he was head of the U.M.O. Agricultural Education department, Wally held a joint appointment with the State Department of Education in Vocational Agriculture. Thyge Helstad and his wife Shirley (Roberts)—no news of importance except to us—our California daughter came East for the first time in ten years and was joined here in our home with our Pennsylvania daughter. So with two daughters, two sons-in-law, three grandsons and three granddaughters we had a wonderful, happy reunion. Ginger and Mabel just happened to drop in the afternoon they all arrived. All is well in the Fraser family—they both look fine.

Now to a more somber note. Our deepest sympathy to Myles Studdish who lost his wife since our last edition of the Alumnius.

Eunice Winslow was given a special tribute by the pupils of the Camden Rockport High School in their 1972 Year Book. She has been a language teacher at the school for many years. George V. Blanchard is still practicing law in Presque Isle and is associated with Stevens, Engels and Bishop. George has three daughters and four grandchildren living in Southern California. Guy Matthews writes that he had a nice trip to Florida this past winter accompanied by his sister Annette '27. At West Palm Beach he spent several pleasant days with Milton Prentiss and his wife who lived nearby in North Palm Beach. This was fortunate as Milton passed away suddenly on April 5. The sincere sympathy is extended to his wife and family.

F. Gilbert Mills sent word to the Alumni Office that he is enjoying his retirement on Cape Cod. Arthur O. Willey and his wife have donated $75,000 to the Gardiner (Maine) Hospital, recently. Arthur grew up in Gardiner where his father was in business. After teaching and becoming a professor in mechanical engineering, Arthur became associated with Lubrizol Corporation of Wickliffe, Ohio, as consultant in their research department. He became president of the board until his retirement in January. Frank H. Clark writes that he has retired and his address is: Dr. Frank Clark, Lake Street, Oxford, Maine 04070. Frank has taught at Morris Harvey College, Charleston, West Virginia, for 17 years. He was chairman of the biology department for eight years. Most of his students were pre-meds. I'm glad you taught them genetics, Frank. Thanks for your kind note.

I have been persuaded by my children to live in Portland, and now I will tell you why. The Lafayette Town House, Congress St., will be my address from September on, to late spring. I will be happier to be where I can see more of Dick, Laura and their wonderful families. I have been excruciatingly lonely here in Trenton, more or less in isolation. Best to all.

Rue de Vallee is the name of a new street at Forest Gardens Mobile Home Community, near Lake Forest, California. Classmate Rudy Vallee was invited to attend ceremonies honoring him on Aug. 13 by this street naming event. Congratulations, Rudy. Saw Ray Burton and his wife at the River Drivers Supper at Lincoln, in July. Ray lives in Florida where he has retired from college teaching; he was vacationing in Maine. Velma Oliver holds the portfolio of the United States Congress and Representative Government on the State Board of the League of Women Voters of Maine. Had a quickie visit with Madeline "Mel" and Vena Field in Vancouver. Vena has retired from teaching in Massachusetts. Had a phone visit with Hope Baneister and Dr. Fereh Lawler. Hope was leaving for her home in Rockville Center, N. Y., after her summer at Southwest Harbor. She had traveled to Greece and neighboring countries in the spring. Lawler took the Western Canada tour in June by train. Congratulations to Bob Haskell who has been re-nominated by Gov. Curtis to the Board of Trustees of the University of Maine. In September, Bob was given an honor award by the Bangor Kiwanis Club for his 45 years of membership. Bob served as ninth president of the club. Sympathy is extended to the family of Lindsay Chalmers, of Machias, who died in July, Class V. P., Louise Lord, your secretary and Erdine (Besse) Dolloff '28, attended communal services for Lindsay at Albion.

Wallace ("Wally") H. Elliott was recently the recipient of the Future Farmer's of America Distinguished Service Award. After Wally's graduation in '26 he was teacher and principal of Patten Academy. In the year 1937 he received his Master of Science degree from Cornell University. He was head of the University of Maine's department of education at the time of his retirement in 1969 and had been a member of the faculty since 1937. While he was head of the U.M.O. Agricultural Education department, Wally held a joint appointment with the State Department of Education in Vocational Agriculture. Thyge Helstad and his wife Shirley (Roberts)—no news of importance except to us—our California daughter came East for the first time in ten years and was joined here in our home with our Pennsylvania daughter. So with two daughters, two sons-in-law, three grandsons and three granddaughters we had a wonderful, happy reunion. Ginger and Mabel just happened to drop in the afternoon they all arrived. This male secretary can do as well as Angela, he will be proud. With the help of my wife Florence (Ward '32) who twirled a few arms at the reunion, here are some more notes added to previous letters.

The boys of '32 who took the four year ROTC course can be proud of Wheeler Merriam our new president. He was the only one to Reconnaissance from the 2nd of the 2nd Armored Division, WW II, and served as Sency. of the Armistice Co. at Panmunjom, Korea. Recently he is in New York and enjoys his former job in the New York and New Haven.

Mae MacInire, I learn that he has been involved in state and federal programs relating to agriculture on the supervisory and management levels. His wife Charlene works as decorator consultant at the Sears Store, Presque Isle. For recreation they, with their two children and grandchildren, run the Allagash. I was glad to see Don Lester who said he was retired, lives in Wethersfield, Conn. He is the proud grandpa of five children, and they keep him busy at times. Pricilla Noddin has been in the service overseas teaching Army dependents' schools in Germany and is now at Paramus where she teaches English and is serving as Student Teaching. Harriette (Cross) Henninger is a legal secretary with five grandchildren. Her enthusiasm is caught up in teaching disadvantaged children.

Helen (Sterns) Hinch now has four interesting grandchildren. Margaret (Churchill-Spud) Snyder told us that her son has married Alan Shepard's daughter, which is another ONE for 1932! Virgil Gross, now retired after two bouts with his heart like his father, is still an assistant district attorney. The old school signers for L. S. Starrett of Athol, Mass., Jim Bates (Dr. Bates of Eastport), who organized the members for the 1944 pickup, is a general practitioner and administrator of Eastport Memorial Hospital. Clayton Hardison, "the boy from Caribou", has been with the U. S. Geological Survey for years and is a well known engineering writer, recent author of two papers on the Proceeding of the American Society of Civil Engineers. Laura (Gross) Dunham wrote me that after a long time in Social Work she married and inherited a ready-made family including "two dear little grandsons." As she said, "We've got a family now."

汤姆·巴尔德之后，收到了一份由马里·梅森写的信，(Smith '33) Tom tells me in Maine of this year. I will always remember him as my chunky, good natured opponent in fencing class. He leaves two boys. You know Marnie, drop her a letter.

After a distinguished career as Commission of Merchant Marine and Industry, Marlon Martin retired July 1, She was appointed 25 years ago by Governor Hildred as the first woman department head and has been reappointed seven times by both Republican and Democratic Governors. Despite early opposition from labor and industry officials and the union, she was responsible for great changes in the State Labor Department. During her tenure, a state minimum wage law was passed, as well as an equal pay for equal work statute; strong industrial safety and collective bargaining laws were approved; and a research and statistical division was set up. Previously she attended Yale Law School and served for 10 years as Assistant Chairman of the Republican National Committee. Beryl (Mrs. Raymond) Grand, of the Center for Continuing Education at Morgan State College in Maryland, was awarded the Honorary degree Doctor of Pedagogy at U. Maine graduation ceremonies in August. During a recent trip to Maine I met President Marlin (Church) and Carl Homer in S. Portland and learned they are both retired and "really having a ball." They spent a month and drove to Mexico this summer and are planning a trip to Canada this summer. Among other things, Son Stephen and his wife were graduated from UMO in June, Daughter Cheryl and her husband live in Portland with their young daughter.

How about a few 30-word essays on "My Vacation"? We had a cool Maine summer with many guests and Don spent a lot of time on his boat. I had a great visit with Eleanor (Merrimack) Goggins and Phil, who is now Planning Director for Sea and Shore Fisheries. Eleanor teaches quite close to their lovely old house in North Edgecomb. Young Phil is just entering Columbia University and Amy is in high school. We met the newlyweds, Gordon and Judi Purinton live in Bangor, He is Director of Emergency Services at St. Joseph's Hospital and they are on the Board of Directors of the Bangor District Nursing Association. They are now back in Maine. Ken Shanabarger, of Mesa, Ariz.; Donny Suder, of Fairbanks, Alaska; and Susan Beaudieu, of Old Town.

Recently Don and I were in Falmouth and had dinner with Robert Fuller '38 and Beth. While a committee met afterward (which also included Marge (Moulton) Murphy '33, Dana Sidellenger, and Rod Elliot '38), Ruby (Black) Elliott '37 chatted with Beth. The Ellorts live in Gorham now. Dana and Eleanor live in Portland, where Dana is an executive with the N. E. Telephone Co. Their daughter Ann Picchi lives in Holliston, Mass.; Diane Frieslives in New Holland, Pa.; and Donna is a private secretary for a San Francisco, California law firm. Robert Huggett, of Lexington, Mass., has retired from the Electronic Systems Division at Hanscom Field. And did I mention before that Kenneth Chute and Virginia took an 8500 mile trip across the country after Ken's retirement from the U. S. Dept. of the Interior. Gerald Beverage was insatiable treasurer of the Centennial Chapter of the American Right of Way Assoc.

I just discovered that Vivian (Dow) Spruce was no further away than my phone book. After her husband, Wilfred '35, retired, she and Vivian came up to visit Vivian and me here. Here's another family with three girls! Their daughter Carol is a computer programmer for John Hancock Insurance Co. in Hartford, Conn., Betsy teaches in Bradley and Martha is a sophomore at Old Town High School.

'37 First, the high points of letters from some who couldn't come to reunion but were as detailed as us: Barbara Lancaster Raymond has been at Fishermans Wharf, Boothbay Harbor, for the summer and this fall will be teaching. Let us know where, Bob. Bob Laverty's son Eddie got his master's degree at UMO in June, and daughter Dorothy, a graduate of Pembroke, works at the Massachusetts Rehabilitation Center in Boston. Ernie Dimnour wrote that he is now with Schottenberg & Foss Company of Portland, Maine, but still lives in Roslyn Heights, N. Y., except for summer vacations at Orange Lake, Washington County, Me. He and Joan "would welcome visitors on the way to Canada Route 1"—address is R.D. 1, East Machias. And Lester Smith's youngest, Gregory, graduated from high school, Les and Betty were planning to be in Maine in August when Les was to give the bi-annual address at "Boston," named Davids. Don't forget that two of your class members are running for re-election: Senator Andrew Poulsen seeks another term in the New Hampshire State Senate; Andy is also a selector in Littleton. And Senator Richard is up for election to the Senate in Maine. Best of luck to you both.

'39 We are still limited to one typewritten page, double space, for our class notes, four times a year. The following letter from Dave Trafford may use up our allotment, but here goes: "Dear '39ers—Our class Prexy, Spyke Leonard, sent me a note saying he had heard from Anna (Anderson) Clapper of Oklahoma City thru Dr. Harold Chute. She mentioned several '39ers and added: 'How about Dave Trafford planning a special tour to the Continent following our class reunion? I sure would love to hear what Dave has to say and would study to prepare for such a tour. He could open our eyes some.' We just returned from a spring semester leave, most of it spent in Oxfordshire, England, so this message was quite a surprise. Since Bangor International now takes on charter flights, Spyke suggests that we leave from Bangor on Sunday following the 55th class reunion ('74). This is an exciting idea and one which needs further exploring, so I am taking the liberty of using the class column to see how much interest there might be in such a novel class reunion activity. All you jet setters let me know if you would consider a conducted tour of (1) the United Kingdom (2) Scandinavia and Northern Europe (3) Western Europe or (4) Eastern Mediterranean region for seven, fifteen or twenty-one days and other suggestions. Let's hear from you and I'll try to '2S/39 W. Trafford, 389 College Road, Orono, Maine 04473. Anna hears from Madge Logue who is still in Los Angeles. Louise (Rice) Ladue is a member of the Salubrity Garden Club, plays tennis and paints, exhibiting her works in local art shows as well as N. Y. C. Mike Sawyer, son of George and Jean (Grange) Sawyer was selected by the Boys State staff as a delegate to the Boys Nation in Washington, D. C. I tried to call Betty (Homan) Hazzard today to see what I could glean for news only to learn she is on her way home from a month in Europe. Maybe next time. And I hope there will be a "next time"! Please write.

MRS. ARTEMUS WEATHERBEE (Pauline Jellison) c/o American Embassy Manila APO San Francisco, California 96228 Manila is beginning to recover from the floods and preparing for two more typhoon months. Now the epidemics are starting. Art and I are recovering from the flu along with everyone else in Manila.

We had another great trip in April and May. The addresses of M.B.A. MBA in Vienna and we spent a month touring parts of Europe. In May I went on to the States, visited the children in Washington, Pa., and Conn., and ended up in Maine in time for falls and maple blossoms. What bliss! I was lucky enough to see many of my friends but lost all of my little notes of news so will have to rely on memory. I met Neil Sawyer the morning after his daughter's wedding looking the typical "father of the bride the morning after!" I drove to Camden and Rockland one day and visited Peg (Hauck) Ladd. She and Ted must have one of the most beautiful spots in all of Maine over-looking Camden and Rockland harbors. I ran update with Dr. Hauck which spends much of his time now visiting Mrs. Hauck who is in a nearby nursing home. Another day I met Barbara (Welch) Wilson and Ruth (Tracy) Parker at the Silent Woman for lunch. There was nothing silent about us women! Trick is still busy with her music and plays for the Colby Symphony. She also has a very interesting hobby of decorating and collecting unusual eggs. Barb is busy in local political circles for an office last year. Alice Ann (Donovan) Possmeier was at U. of M. for Alumni Council meeting and called me. We had a long phone visit. She still has a daughter at U. of M. and is on her way home. I spent a few days with my brother in N. H., and Bill and Vivian Treat came over one day for lunch. We took off again in Oct. and Nov. for Karachi, Cairo, Lisbon, U. S., New Zealand, Australia, and Tahiti.

'41 I tried calling several people this summer, but most were away on vacation so I'll catch up with them later. I did talk to Peg (West) Blake. She was recovering well from surgery at the Maine Medical Center. She said that she has four grandchildren and hopes some day to have a granddaughter. I also heard that Charlie and Betty (Grant) Adams of Westboro, Mass., were going to Europe this summer, so I'll have to try to catch up on a visit.

She is a graduate of the University of New Hampshire and has taught for 30 years in the New Hampshire schools. She succeeds Miss Grace Johnson, who is retiring after 35 years of service.

We understand that the Norman Stetson family is building a home in Kenduskeag. He was promoted to Lieutenant Colonel, U.S.A.F., last February. Ray Cross, administrative assistant to the president, St. Regis Paper Company, New York City, became assistant resident manager for the Bucksport mill, Printing, Communications and Packaging Papers Division effective April 17. Robert Bartlett was elected vice president of the Maine Society of Professional Engineers, Alpha Chapter, during the society's annual June meeting at The Silent Women, Waterville. Dr. Stanley Falkow writes that he has moved to Seattle, Washington, after 13 years in the D. C. area.

On June 23, Leland Fuller received a diploma from the Graduate School of Savings Banking, Brown University. President R. I. Leland, Assistant Mortgage Officer, Emigrant Savings Bank, New York City, Carol and their two children reside in Flushing, N. Y. I am mailing these few notes on August 24 as I leave for a long weekend at the Normand camp, Bridgton. "Sis" (Fournier) Normand has invited Ellen (Sargent) Kroot, Carolyn (Peters) Musso, Dot (Johnson) Felt and myself for a "little reunion" at the lake. No prizes for the most gray hairs or children, but you can bet that we'll have a marvelous time! After the hectic pace set by a July 31 move (did you notice the new address?) and stepped up by a job advancement (Assistant Buyer in the Purchasing Department, Random House), a real challenge after 8½ years as Field Staff Coordinator, the College Department—I look forward to relaxing with old friends.

Mrs. Moen received the award for her outstanding service in local association work, class activities and the General Alumni Association. She is one of six recipients for 1972 who will be honored at local association meetings.

Alumni Council allocates funds

Allocations of $3,500 for UMO projects were voted by the Alumni Council at the Oct. 27 Homecoming meeting, according to Albert M. Parker ’28 of Port Washington, N. Y., president of the alumni group.

Funds were earmarked for the 1973 Distinguished Maine Professor Award of $1,500. This will be the eleventh year the award, funded by the alumni association, has been presented to an outstanding faculty member selected from student nominations. Prof. Constance H. Carlson, dean of instruction and coordinator of general studies at the University of Maine at Bangor, was the 1972 recipient.

For the third year, the General Alumni Association has made a grant to President Winthrop C. Libby’s discretionary fund. This year $1,500 will be given to the fund which is used by the president to make emergency grants.

The Student Action Corps was voted to receive $500 of alumni funds for their volunteer work. The group is a non-profit and non-political association concerned about community welfare.

The funds were voted by the council on the recommendation of a combined alumni-faculty committee which reviewed appeals made to the Association by various campus groups.

dies at 86

"This is by far the most generous and helpful fund that has been given to the university," recently remarked Prof. Vincent A. Hartgen about the Arthur R. Lord Fund.

Arthur Russell Lord '07 of Palos Park, Illinois died on Sept. 1, 1972 at the age of 86. During the Centennial Fund of 1965 he gave over $300,000 in securities to establish the Lord Assist Fund of the University of Maine, presently known as the Arthur R. Lord Fund.

At his request the fund has been used to bring artists, lecturers and teachers to the campus who are considered to be of cultural and educational value to the students.

Prof. Hartgen, head of the art department, expressed the value of the fund and the opportunities it has provided in bringing the arts on campus. Presently, the fund is helping to sponsor the memorial exhibition of the works of the American artist Carl Sprinchorn. (See page 8 for feature.)

Lord followed a career in civil engineering after graduation from Maine and became co-owner of Lord & Holinger, Inc. of Chicago, an architectural and civil engineering firm. Famous for his work in reinforced concrete building design, he was an officer in the American Concrete Institute.

Alumni surgeons team up

Three UMO alumni are members of the state's first kidney transplant team at Maine Medical Center, Portland.

Donald F. Marshall '31, Ferris S. Ray '50, and Wesley J. English '57 and their associates on the surgery, urology and nephrology staffs at the Portland hospital, are in the care of patients with kidney disease or dysfunction, and have performed four organ transplants to date.

Donald F. Marshall, M.D., a native of Portland, graduated from Yale University School of Medicine in 1936 after he received his degree from UMO in 1931. After appointments in surgery and urology at the University of Rochester, N. Y., and in the Army Medical Corps, he returned to Portland and is now chief, Department of Urology at Maine Medical Center, and coordinator of Nephrology and the Transplant section of the Department of Internal Medicine.

Ferris S. Ray, M.D., a Bangor native, did graduate work in medicine at Tufts University. He has been a member of the Medical Center staff as a general surgeon since 1959.

The third UMO alumnus of the MMC kidney transplant team, Wesley J. English, M.D., went on to graduate from the Temple University School of Medicine. He began his association with the Medical Center as an intern in 1961, served as a resident in surgery from 1964 to 1968, and received an appointment as a general surgeon on completion of his residency.

Alumnus named acting college president

Dr. William L. Irvine '42 has been named acting president of Wheelock College in Boston. Irvine leaves his post as President of Vermont College which he has held since 1966.

Wheelock College offers bachelor's and master's degrees in various liberal arts and teacher preparation programs. With over 25 years in education involved in either teaching or the preparation of teachers, he is looking forward to a most interesting challenge at the 900-student school.

During his administration of Vermont College he put through many changes, the most important being the acceptance of non-resident male students culminating in a merger with Norwich University in 1972.

Irvine has held many educational administration positions in high schools, junior college and was also dean of the University of Maine's Portland campus. He received his doctorate from Cornell University in educational administration.
Search for a new director

With my announcement to the Alumni Council on October 27 that I wish to retire as Executive Director, the General Alumni Association is seeking candidates to find a successor. Since I had given notice of my decision to the officers last spring, President Parker was ready immediately to appoint a Personnel Committee which consists of former president Robert Schoppe '38 of Farmingdale, John Dyer, '41, Council member of Augusta, and Ralph L. Hodgkins, Jr. '59, of Auburn, Vice President of the GAA and chairman of the search committee. They will advertise the opening in the press and with this announcement in The Alumnus they ask all alumni to help find an Orono graduate who can take over the professional direction of the organization.

Your suggestions for a successor, or your own applications, will be most welcome.

Since I will reach the age of 62 early next year, I felt that I should make this move now so that the Association can seek the services of a younger person as its top executive.

I have indicated my willingness to continue to serve the Association as an assistant director with special interest in fund raising, and this the Council has accepted.

Even though my range of duties will change I look forward happily to a continuing relationship with the many friends of this university and association. In this announcement then I am not saying "Farewell" so much as I am saying "Be seeing you."

Donald M. Stewart '35, Executive Director

Alumni Association Director. Opening for University of Maine-Orono graduate as executive director. Required are organizing, managerial, writing and speaking skills; five years experience in public relations, fund-raising, alumni or other professional association, or equivalent experience in university or business organization. For immediate interview send resume and written statement of interest, General Alumni Association, North Hall Alumni Center, Orono, Maine 04473.

Trust Information

October 9, 1972 was the legal holiday celebrating Columbus' birthday under the Federal Monday Holiday ruling. However, this date is much more significant to a great many people.

The Tax Reform Act of 1969 established certain rigid requirements governing Charitable Remainder Trusts. These requirements are applicable to lifetime Trusts and Testamentary Trusts (created by a donor in his will) which become operational at the Donor's death.

Congress recognized that a great number of such Testamentary Charitable Remainder Trusts were already included in people's wills therefore, a two-year grace period (to Oct. 9, 1972) was allowed to provide time to revise these trusts. We urge everyone who has such a trust included in their will to consult with their attorney to determine what steps are necessary to make these trusts comply with the new requirements.

Please feel free to contact the Development Office for further information on Charitable Remainder Trusts or any other contemplated bequests to the University.

Portland principal retires

After 25 years as the principal of Portland High School, Howard C. Reiche '24 retired with over 47 years in education on his record.

Howard Reiche is a many faceted educator who displays many talents. He is a pianist, swimmer and lifeguard, expert skier and a founder of the area National Ski Patrol.

He started his career in education just where he retired. First in 1920, he graduated from Portland High School and then returned 27 years later to become the principal. He also graduated from Emerson School and became its principal in 1935.

Besides his studies at UMO, Reiche did graduate work at Clark University and Harvard.

Dr. Hitchner was a graduate of Pennsylvania State College and the University of Wisconsin. He joined the faculty at UMO in 1922 as assistant professor of bacteriology and was made department head in 1933.

He was a member of Sigma Xi and Phi Kappa Phi honor societies, the Society of American Bacteriologists, the Institute of Food Technologists and the International Society of Soil Science.

Hitchner Hall was dedicated in his name on Nov. 18, 1959. He was an active faculty member at Maine, serving as an honorary Senior Skull, and as a member of the Maine Environmental Improvement Committee for nine years.

Friends of History

A Friends of History group has been organized to support the department of history’s program at UMO. Special emphasis is being given to strengthening the history collection in Fogler Library.

There has been an extremely good response from the initial mailing to friends and alumni of the department, according to Professor of History Dr. David W. Trafford, the executive secretary.

The regular allocations to the library for history have decreased in recent years through budget cuts and other library commitments. With additional funds received through the Friends of History, special collections, new series and manuscripts have been procured.

Donations can be made through the UMO Development Office.

On Campus

Community Blood Bank started

A UMO Community Blood Bank has been created to benefit members of the university community and their families as well as low income people in the greater Bangor area.

Students, faculty, staff and classified employees are taking part in the blood bank, which is not a blood drive for donations but a master donor list which will be used to contact donors as the need arises.

Bangor’s Eastern Maine Medical Center and St. Joseph’s Hospital sent laboratory teams to the campus for “Blood Week” Nov. 6-10 to run screening and typing tests on possible donors. From these tests a master donor list will be compiled.

Besides the use of the list by the Bangor hospitals, a regional blood bank, presently being planned for the Penobscot County area, will have access to the list for service to some 13 hospitals.

The University of Maine Fraternity Board coordinated the students under the direction of Alban Cyr of Caribou, a member of Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity.

A successful bank was set up last year exclusively for students on a small scale. The emphasis with this blood bank is for the entire university community to participate and benefit, according to Cyr.

Future plans are for a committee composed of students, classified and professional employees and faculty to administer the UMO Blood Bank operations.

UMO senior Leslie Bostrom displays one of her mighty canvases next to her father, Thor Bostrom, a New York artist who spends summers in Maine. This November he will be showing his paintings in Gallery 1 while daughter Leslie’s art will be exhibited in the Student’s Art League gallery.
Parents Weekend: a rainy success

Over 1,500 parents and friends of UMO students visited campus Oct. 6-8 for the event-filled and informative third annual Parents Weekend, conducted by the UMO Development Council.

However rainy the weekend was, the spirits of the parents and students were not dampened in the least during the lively football victory against the University of Rhode Island on Saturday, a highlight of the weekend.

There were planned activities during the weekend to better inform parents about the university. The Organizational Fair, a mall display of all student groups, was postponed until the Homecoming Weekend because of bad weather.

A keynote address to the parents was given by President Winthrop C. Libby at the meeting of the Parents and Friends Association in the gym. After good-naturedly chiding the out-of-state parents for bringing the rain with them, he stated the importance of a shared experience between parents and their sons and daughters in their educational involvement. One way, he said, was to participate in events such as Parents Weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Delallo were unanimously elected as the new presidents of the Parents and Friends Association. The Delalios, of Bethpage, N. Y., have been ardent boosters of UMO since their son, Perry, Jr., entered as a freshman three years ago.

The Parents and Friends Association is very informal with no dues or regulations. The purpose of the group is to provide a liaison between students, parents and the university.

The final send-off for parents on Sunday was a shore dinner, or rather feast! Clams, lobsters and all the fixings was a fine ending for the 1972 Parents Weekend.
An English and forestry professor review book

The latest, the largest, and probably the most significant of the long series of books published by the Maine Studies of the University of Maine at Orono, Professor David C. Smith's A History of Lumbering in Maine, 1861-1960 (469 pp., 32 illustrations, map; $9.00) has much to interest anyone whose past or present is in any substantial way related to the state of Maine. This is a detailed study of the history of Maine's primary resource—its forests, the traditional and continuing basis of its economy—and since the tools, techniques, and practices of Maine lumbering spread far and wide, the book is also a major contribution to American forest history.

The author's own early experience working in the Maine woods led to his self-confessed desire "to study these woods, learn about their relationship to the Maine economy and to the social structure of the area." My colleague Dave Smith has realized his desire, and realized it very well. This is but one of his numerous books, articles, and bibliographies about his broad specialty. To me it seems his best.

Professor Smith demonstrates conclusively that contrary to popular assumption about the old pine days, Maine lumbering was at its height during the half-century or more following the Civil War, both in total production and in hard-won achievements in forest harvesting, shipping, manufacturing, management, and conservation. Another generalization that emerges is that the lives of the men who did the work in the woods changed little throughout the nineteenth century. Read chapter two, "Life in the Woods," for a masterful narration of this life; it has nowhere else been synthesized so well.

The chapters devoted to the arrival of pulp and paper in this "northeast corner" and to the struggles for power to control the rivers constitute some of the most valuable historical analysis in Smith's book. The account of the attempts to conserve the forest in the light of scientific and ethical principles, which is sometimes controversial but always written with his eye on the multiple actualities revealed by his sources, makes Smith's humanistic research valuable, particularly with respect to contemporary concern about the public and private sectors of life and the economy.

With his wry and knowledgeable conclusion that somehow, so far, amidst the conflicts of powerful interests, the state of Maine has been able to "cut its woods and have them too," Smith leaves the reader aware that it is the people of Maine who have managed to have the last word.

Richard S. Sprague '49, Professor of English

I began to read this interesting history with a good deal of apprehension because of my own real lack of a thorough knowledge of the history of the Maine lumbering industry. However, a professional viewpoint on the topic not excessively burdened with historical facts that might have been left out by Dr. Smith, either through oversight or value judgment, might be useful.

The woods of Maine have always been the major resource of the state. Unfortunately, too little is known of the early developments in many parts of the state. The early chapters of Dr. Smith's book provide a very interesting and apparently well researched history of lumbering, land ownership and water rights covering the period 1860 to about 1930. This history is written in an attractive style that provided a fairly good understanding of the way the early woodsmen lived. These chapters provide a good source of information for anyone interested in Maine forest history, though writings later in the period seemed excessively biased toward the Penobscot River drainages.

The chapters covering life in the woods, logging, etc., were fascinating reading and only disappointed me when the changes that occurred over time were not followed through. The later chapters on control of the Rivers did not give me the same feeling of satisfaction.

The coverage after 1930 was in my view very sketchy and some of the most important developments in lumbering were not even mentioned. A major influence from 1930 to 1960 was mechanization in the forest. This was not covered thoroughly at all. However, I do recognize that the book was long and Dr. Smith was giving the majority of his effort to early developments.

The two chapters on conservation and forestry are concise and evidently designed to say something significant in a limited space. Unfortunately, brevity can lead to omissions of many contemporary people. For example, every Maine forester is aware of Austin Cary and his early leadership in Maine forestry.

Finally, I must correct one last statement about the growth of the forestry school in recent years. This was not due to the work of any one of our staff members as suggested. The excellent work of Mr. A. D. Nutting and others in cooperation with Representative McIntire and Senator Stennis in the development of the federal programs for research at the forestry schools across the nation was of great significance.

Despite some of the omissions and a few technical errors this is a very good historical account and I recommend it.

A $35,660 National Science Foundation matching grant to the UMO physics department for the expansion of a physics graduate laboratory will make it possible for local technology industries to strengthen their background in experimental techniques. The expanded program is expected to be in full operation by September 1973.

A new semi-annual forestry journal has been published by the Maine Chapter of the Society of American Foresters. The "Maine Forest Review", edited by Dr. Thomas J. Corcoran of the UMO School of Forest Resources, includes articles from foresters and concerned laymen expressing opinions, ideas and proposals as well as research results.

Continuation of the innovative video-taped interviews in recruiting and placement during this year has been announced by Director of Career Planning and Placement Philip Brockway. The video tape system, started last year, is designed to geographically broaden the job market for UMO students. The system met with firm approval from companies contacted.

After 30 years service with the UMO Extension Service, Frank W. Hagan retired this fall. Hagan, who is a 1933 UMO alumnus, was the coordinator for Title 1 of the Higher Education Act. His career has been active in Maine adult education and he is a member of the National Adult Education Association.

UMO research scientists spent considerable time discussing tree fruits and berries with Fergus Black, a horticulturist from Australia's Department of Agriculture. Black is doing worldwide research on fruit agriculture to determine development possibilities for his country. He was especially interested in Maine's lowbush blueberry production.

Dr. James Aldrich, Dean of Academic Affairs at the University of Maine at Machias has published an article in the summer issue of "Pennsylvania History". The article on sectionalism in Pennsylvania during the War of Independence is based in part on research Aldrich did for his doctorate at UMO.

A total of 121 students who are preparing to enter pulp and paper or allied industries have been awarded University of Maine Pulp and Paper Foundation scholarships totaling $46,195 for the fall semester. This is the largest number of scholarships ever given by the Foundation.

The national service sorority Gamma Sigma Sigma, installed the Delta Nu Chapter at UMO on Oct. 14. The chapter had already been active on campus for a year, serving the University community. There are 39 charter members of Delta Nu with Laurel Cooney of Presque Isle as president.

The ninth Child Development Conference on Nov. 4 featured two authorities on early childhood education from the Merrill Palmer Institute in Detroit, Michigan. Dr. Clark Maustakas and Dr. Cereta Perry spoke at the UMO conference sponsored by the school of child development.

Heidelberg University is the home university this year for Donna M. Roy, a UMO junior from Limerick, as she participates in the 1972-73 Junior Year Program at Heidelberg University, West Germany. She is one of 21 students from colleges throughout the country entered in the program.

Lynn C. Johnston of Shawmut, Maine has been named to receive a graduate fellowship for four years study toward a doctoral degree in chemical engineering. The fellowship is through the UM Pulp and Paper Foundation, which each year gives four graduate fellowships totaling $12,000.
Dairy farm relocation started

The shivering cows pasturing behind the charred foundations of the burned dairy barns are expected to have new shelter by December, according to Director of Physical Plant Parker Cushman.

The damaging fire of May 12 which leveled the dairy barn complex brought about quick action and a change in priorities to already existing farm relocation plans.

A 1969 Farm Relocation Master Plan of $3.5 million was scheduled for three, 2-year phases. Phase 1, which was defeated in a referendum vote for the university during the 104th legislature, called for the relocation of the poultry facilities. With the advent of the fire, priority was given to the dairy complex and this summer the University of Maine Board of Trustees passed on the relocation rather than rebuilding of the barns at the present site.

The 1969 master plan had chosen a location and proposed the specifics of a new complex which enabled the relocation to start immediately and not be hampered by lengthy proposal deliberations.

Twenty-two acres of land located north of campus near Stillwater Avenue was the site chosen for the entire farm complex. This fall the Bureau of Public Improvement approved the first phase of the multi-phase relocation plan to build new barns. BPI studies the proposal to see that the state's money is spent in the best possible way. Regulation building codes, efficient planning and no unnecessary extravagances are the requirements they look for.

The dairy complex, at a proposed expenditure of $850,000 should be completed by Spring 1973. The insurance settlement from the May fire is expected to fund approximately half the dairy project. Bids have been accepted for the construction of the heifer barn which should be far enough completed by December to house the cows for winter. Work has already started on the access roads.

The new dairy site will ultimately be able to handle up to 125 cows compared to the present herd of 80. Also, a research barn, a "trench (horizontal) silo" and a modern manure storage facility will be new additions.

The poultry and sheep complexes are scheduled for future phases and will have both improved and new facilities at the site. A residence at the site is planned when the complex is finished to provide a form of security for the area.

The relocation of the dairy complex and in the next few years the complete farm relocation will be a milestone in UMO history. The university was founded in 1865 as an agricultural school with a starting campus consisting of a few private farms. The farm element was always central to the university. The barn complex which burned was built in 1923. The need to relocate was seen as the university enlarged itself to encompass a great many disciplines and as the need for more academic space on campus grew. The 1969 master plan was enlisted to look to the future considering this situation.

The changes due to the relocation, however slow, will be very noticeable. In the far future, after the entire complex is finished, the campus could be vastly changed. A proposed peripheral road connecting Stillwater Avenue, the farm complex and joining the Hilltop dormitory complex could initiate a new area of growth and development at the north end of campus.

A prime question that arises is what will happen with the longstanding farm area left in the center of campus. Buildings presently in the farm will be left and will be worked into the future plans for the area.

President Winthrop C. Libby has been accepting written proposals for new facilities to be located there. A horse facility to serve both as recreational and educational has been suggested along with a small animal center to provide better conditions for all experimental animals used by UMO departments. A definite factor in this decision will be the full use of the vacated buildings. The long term plans for more academic facilities on this site will be assessed when other proposals for UMO are decided on.
Basketball season to start Dec. 2

A young team and a building year are the major characteristics of the UMO 1972-73 varsity basketball season, according to Head Coach Tom "Skip" Chappelle.

Four freshmen are on the team which took a severe loss of seven seniors from last season. Three veteran players will be returning this season.

Peter Gavett of Orono, the only senior, returns from a fine season's average of 18.3 points a game and the title of All Yankee Conference Forward. As the team captain, Pete will be a major key to the team's success.

Jack Morrison of Pawcatuck, Conn. and Tony Hamlin of Milo are both juniors returning after a successful season as guards.

The season will open Dec. 2 in a home contest against Vermont. Their calendar of 23 games will take them all over the greater New England area.

Coach Chappelle believes the schedule is much better this year in part because there is no Christmas vacation trip. The vacation trips, although presenting an educational opportunity for the team to see the country, are tough schedules against big schools.

Coach Chappelle, in his second season as head coach after four years as the freshmen coach, feels that type of schedule would be especially hard on a new, young team.

Officers elected

The new officers of the UMO Graduate "M" Club were elected during an annual meeting on Oct. 28.

The former UMO athletes elected Dr. Henry K. Woodbrey '53, an Orono dentist, as president. Also elected were Samuel Sezak '31 of Orono, first vice president; Albert F. Hacket '53 of Orono, second vice president; Roger C. Castle '21 of Damariscotta, third vice president and Stuart P. Haskell, Jr. '41 of Bangor, secretary-treasurer.

Bears end gridiron season

The fighting Black Bears ended their season with a 1-4 record in the Yankee Conference and a 3-6 overall record.

The season was so close to being successful. In a matter of the last two minutes of play during the Bucknell, New Hampshire and Vermont games, the Bears were edged out of three victories.

A resounding victory of 25-7 against Boston University at an away game gave the Bears an optimistic start to their gridiron season. After two bitter losses of 37-0 at the hands of the Massachusetts Redmen and a Bucknell defeat of 17-14 on their home field, the Bears came back during Parents Weekend on Oct. 7 to beat the Rams of Rhode Island in an exciting 10-7 victory.

Again the Bears dropped two games before claiming another victory. The away game at New Hampshire was a narrow loss at 17-14 and the Connecticut Huskies proved too powerful with a 31-9 victory against Maine.

Homecoming Weekend saw a resurgence of strength as the team defeated Lafayette 16-6 on October 28.

The following Saturday the Bears took a 15-14 loss to Vermont.

The final game against a very powerful Delaware team resulted in a tough defeat of 62-0 at an away game.

Hopes are high for the 1973 season with a good returning team and promising freshmen.

Booters seek Maine State Series title

The varsity soccer team ended their season after a 2-1 victory over Bowdoin and for a third straight year have a winning record for either a win or tie in the Maine State Soccer Series. A tie will result if Bowdoin wins its last two state contests.

The Oct. 31 game left the Maine booters with a 5-1 state record and an overall record of seven wins and six losses.

Leading scorers for the season were lineman Bill Sproul of Easton, Conn., a junior with a leading total of 14 points, lineman Pete Elliot of Rocky Hill, Conn., a junior, and halfbacks Kim Shepard of Hampton, N. H. and Bill Brink of Winchester, Mass.

Goalie John Hackett, a junior from Nanuet, N. Y., in his first collegiate soccer season tied the school record of two shutouts in one season.

Coach Paul Stoyell has led UMO soccer teams to a fine record of 21 wins, 13 losses and three ties in his past three years as coach.

Swimmers to play first intercollegiate varsity season

The second season for the UMO swimming team will be exciting as the team plays its first intercollegiate schedule.

Head coach Alan Switzer is pleased with the prospects for the new varsity team despite their inexperience. The 17 member team will swim 11 meets and will host a Yankee Conference Meet on Feb. 10.

In their beginning 1971-72 season the team played strictly as a non-varsity sport. Richard Miller has been added this season as the diving coach and a physical education instructor.

Coach Switzer cited Tom Clark, a freshman from Greenwich, Conn., as a key swimmer. Clark's events are the free style and individual medley.
