COVER ILLUSTRATION: Winfield Scott, among the nation's most colorful military heroes, was a hero of another sort in Maine in 1839. In this issue, Michael D. Wagner describes Scott's role as a preserver of the peace between the United States and Great Britain. Other aspects of Maine's military heritage are explored by Jules J. Arel, who shows how German prisoners of war helped resolve northern Maine's labor shortage during World War II, and by Judy Barrett Litoff and David C. Smith, who provide commentary on the wartime correspondence of an American WAC stationed in Georgia. Illustration from Frank Moore, THE REBELLION RECORD (1862).
