Thanks very much for submitting an application to the September 2014 Cultural Affairs/Distinguished Lecture Series funding competition. Once again, as we had many excellent proposals asking for a total of over $23,000 in CADLS support. We had only $15,000 to award, so were unable to fund some proposals for their full amount requested. We wish we had more funds for all of the great events brought forward to the Committee.

In its meeting on October 8th, the CADLS Committee awarded $2,912.50 for your project. This amount is 50% of your total program budget, which is the maximum they generally award. We request that you please submit for payment receipts that do not include the roundtable lunches. Travel meals are fine, but per the fund description, we do avoid those types of expenses.

Please feel free to contact us should you have any questions.

Thank you.

Dear Cultural Affairs Committee Members:

The History Department Symposium committee has planned an ambitious and fascinating program for the Fall 2014 and Spring 2014⁵ series and are seeking financial support to assist us in bringing six well-respected historians to campus to speak on, "Identity, Intellectuals, and Empire: Human Experiences in Times of Tumultuous Change." In our society today, globalization and mass communication connect different people across vast oceans, potentially stifling a variety of human experiences in the world. It seems appropriate for historians to remind our intellectual community that "the past was a foreign country," and that people had different motives, objectives, and belief systems. It is important to provide our students and the community at large with examples from the past which suggest the multiple ways people have impacted their worlds and sometimes have found ways to assert their worldviews with dignity.

Our program has broad appeal to students and faculty across campus as well as the general public. Our lecture series is partnering with the Climate Change Institute, the Native American Studies Program, the Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies Program, and the Canadian-American Center.

The seven speakers will address a wide range of human situations in which individuals, identity, and empire shape their worlds around them. Five of the presenters are from the greater Northeast region, a proximity that will significantly reduce costs. The two featured scholars that will fly to Maine are:

"Politics, Peoplehood, and Recognition: (Re)Birth of the Monacan Nation."

Professor Samuel R. Cook received his Ph.D in cultural anthropology from the University of Arizona in 1997. His research interest in comparative political economy in Indian country and the rural South led to his long-term relationship with the Monacan Nation and other Virginia Indian nations. Professor Cook is the author of Monacans and Miners: Native American and Coal Mining Communities in Appalachia (University of Nebraska Press 2000), and numerous articles on the Monacan Nation and American Indian Studies program development. His current research focuses on indigenous natural resource management, traditional ecological knowledge (TEK) permaculture, and community organization. He is an Associate Professor in the Department of Sociology at Virginia Tech, where he serves as Director of American Indian Studies.

"Radical Enlightenment and Revolution (1750-1800): How Are the Two Linked?"

Professor Jonathan Israel is the Andrew W. Mellon Professor of the School of Historical Studies at the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton, New Jersey. His work is concerned with European and European colonial history from the Renaissance to the eighteenth century. His recent work focuses on the impact of radical thought on the Enlightenment and on the emergence of modern ideas of democracy, equality, toleration, freedom of the press, and individual freedom. Professor Israel is the author of fifteen books and his most recent monographs include Revolutionary Ideas: An Intellectual History of the French Revolution from The Rights of Man to Robespierre (Princeton, 2014, 864 pp.); Democratic Enlightenment: Philosophy, Revolution, and Human Rights, 1750-1790 (Oxford, 2011, 1152 pp.); A Revolution of the Mind: Radical Enlightenment and the Intellectual Origins of Modern Democracy (Princeton, 2010, 296 pp.); Enlightenment Contested: Philosophy, Modernity, and the Emancipation of Man 1670-1752 (Oxford, 2006, 983 pp.); Diasporas Within a Diaspora: Jews, Crypto-Jews, and the World Maritime Empires (1540-1740), Vol. xxx of Brill's Series in Jewish Studies (Leiden, 2002, 613 pp.); Radical Enlightenment: Philosophy and the Making of Modernity, 1650-1750 (Oxford, 2001, 810 pp.); and Conflicts of Empires: Spain, the Low Countries and the Struggle for World Supremacy, 1585-1713 (London and Rio Grande, 1997, 420 pp.)

The History Department seeks funding to support its fall and spring symposia. Collectively, the seven speakers present a complex look at the ways in which individuals and communities negotiate to impact their worlds. They reveal the local human choices can influence human perspectives and identity.

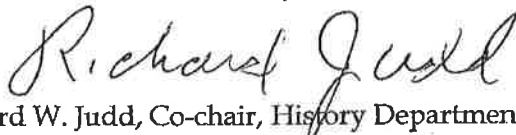

Thank you in advance for your time and consideration. We look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

Micah Pawling, Chair, History Department Symposium Committee

Assistant Professor of History and Native American Studies

Richard W. Judd, Co-chair, History Department Symposium Committee

McBride Professor of History
