Biographical / Historical

The Dean of Men reported to the Director of Student Services (and Registrar) and was later part of the Student Affairs Office. The dean was responsible for student housing and discipline and oversaw the many male student groups on campus including fraternities. There was also a dean of women who had similar responsibilities for female students. Part of the role of dean of men was to also chair the University of Maine Health Service and Athletic Board.

The majority of the records (Boxes 1-9) were created during the tenure of Dean Lambert Seymour Corbett who was dean from 1929-1945. Corbett first came to the University of Maine in 1913 as a professor in the Animal Industry Department, a department he would later chair until 1939. Corbett died in office on February 8, 1945. In 1947 the men's dormitory Corbett Hall was named in honor of Corbett.

In 1945 California native Elton Ewart "Tad" Wieman was appointed as Corbett's full time successor. Wieman who started at the University in 1946 was also the director of physical education and athletics. Wieman resigned from the University of Maine in 1951 to go the University of Denver. Wieman would receive many awards and honors including being inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame. Wieman died on December 26, 1971 at the age of 75.

In 1951, Wieman was succeeded by Maine native John Emmons Stewart. Stewart had joined the University of Maine in 1928 as an associate professor in mathematics. Stewart retired from the University of Maine in June 1969 with emeritus status. The former Stewart Dining Commons was named in honor of Stewart. Much of the content of Box 10 is from during the tenures of Wieman and Stewart.

In 1970, the offices of dean of men and women were combined into the office of the dean of students.
