The Maine Historical Society Quarterly is published at 170
Stevens Hall, University of Maine at Orono, Orono, Maine
04469, and is received by 2015 members and 135 libraries.

Manuscripts relating to any aspect of Maine history are invited.
Submissions should reflect original, previously unpublished research done according to acceptable scholarly standards and should not exceed six thousand words. Style and footnotes should be in conformity with A Manual of Style, published by the University of Chicago Press.

The authors of all manuscripts published in the Quarterly become eligible to receive the James Phinney Baxter Award of $100.00. Established to promote excellence in the research and writing of Maine history, the Baxter Award is presented at the discretion of the Editorial Board to the author of the best article appearing in the Quarterly during the volume-year.

The Maine Historical Society assumes no responsibility for the opinions and interpretations expressed by its contributors.

The articles appearing in the Quarterly are abstracted in Historical Abstracts and America: History and Life, published by the American Bibliographic Center.

COVER PHOTO: A photograph of the Simpson Brothers of Saco, taken over a hundred years ago and now part of the York Institute collection in Saco, represents the tremendous wealth of graphic and documentary information available to historical researchers in Maine. This issue of the Quarterly is dedicated to those who, over the last few years, have helped bring Maine history to life through published books and articles. A virtual renaissance in historical writing has paved the way for a variety of new perspectives on commercial, cultural, and social life in the state. On page 43, for instance, Joel W. Eastman reviews Cities on the Saco, by Taylor H. Conrad.
