Coordinator enthusiastic about job: Women's services aid both men and women

Nancy McCallum
University of Maine

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.library.umaine.edu/social_justice

Part of the Feminist, Gender, and Sexuality Studies Commons, Gender Equity in Education Commons, Higher Education Commons, and the United States History Commons

Repository Citation
https://digitalcommons.library.umaine.edu/social_justice/393

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by DigitalCommons@UMaine. It has been accepted for inclusion in Social Justice: Diversity, Equity, & Inclusion by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@UMaine. For more information, please contact um.library.technical.services@maine.edu.
Coordinator enthusiastic about job

Women's services aid both men and women

by Nancy McCallum

The sign, printed on a small sheet of paper, says "Feminism is not a dirty word." The sign is in the office of Kay Marshall, the director of the Orono Adult Education program. Kay Marshall, director of the program, will be teaching an evening class on the topic of feminism.

"Feminism is not a dirty word," says Marshall. "It is just one of many ideas that women have expressed interest in starting groups;..."

---

Ellen Weissman

Weissman encourages anyone interested in belonging to one to get in touch with her.

Other plans include compiling a book about women scientists and mathematicians. The book would be modeled after a similar book published in Berkeley, Calif. Women from Maine, and possibly New England, would be interviewed, she said.

"There's a feeling just from the phrase 'women's center' that it's got to be radical. But it's not. It's just a place where women can gather and learn from each other. There are not very many opportunities in our society today for women to gather with other women," she said.

The center is in a working relationship to get programs going on campus, she said. She is aware of the misconceptions people have had of the women's center.

"There's a feeling just from the phrase 'women's center' that it's got to be radical. But it's not. It's just a place where women can gather and learn from each other. There are not very many opportunities in our society today for women to gather with other women," she said.

The center is in a working relationship to get programs going on campus, she said. She is aware of the misconceptions people have had of the women's center.

"There's a feeling just from the phrase 'women's center' that it's got to be radical. But it's not. It's just a place where women can gather and learn from each other. There are not very many opportunities in our society today for women to gather with other women," she said.

The center is in a working relationship to get programs going on campus, she said. She is aware of the misconceptions people have had of the women's center.

"There's a feeling just from the phrase 'women's center' that it's got to be radical. But it's not. It's just a place where women can gather and learn from each other. There are not very many opportunities in our society today for women to gather with other women," she said.

The center is in a working relationship to get programs going on campus, she said. She is aware of the misconceptions people have had of the women's center.

"There's a feeling just from the phrase 'women's center' that it's got to be radical. But it's not. It's just a place where women can gather and learn from each other. There are not very many opportunities in our society today for women to gather with other women," she said.

The center is in a working relationship to get programs going on campus, she said. She is aware of the misconceptions people have had of the women's center.

"There's a feeling just from the phrase 'women's center' that it's got to be radical. But it's not. It's just a place where women can gather and learn from each other. There are not very many opportunities in our society today for women to gather with other women," she said.

The center is in a working relationship to get programs going on campus, she said. She is aware of the misconceptions people have had of the women's center.

"There's a feeling just from the phrase 'women's center' that it's got to be radical. But it's not. It's just a place where women can gather and learn from each other. There are not very many opportunities in our society today for women to gather with other women," she said.

The center is in a working relationship to get programs going on campus, she said. She is aware of the misconceptions people have had of the women's center.

"There's a feeling just from the phrase 'women's center' that it's got to be radical. But it's not. It's just a place where women can gather and learn from each other. There are not very many opportunities in our society today for women to gather with other women," she said.

The center is in a working relationship to get programs going on campus, she said. She is aware of the misconceptions people have had of the women's center.

"There's a feeling just from the phrase 'women's center' that it's got to be radical. But it's not. It's just a place where women can gather and learn from each other. There are not very many opportunities in our society today for women to gather with other women," she said.

The center is in a working relationship to get programs going on campus, she said. She is aware of the misconceptions people have had of the women's center.

"There's a feeling just from the phrase 'women's center' that it's got to be radical. But it's not. It's just a place where women can gather and learn from each other. There are not very many opportunities in our society today for women to gather with other women," she said.

The center is in a working relationship to get programs going on campus, she said. She is aware of the misconceptions people have had of the women's center.

"There's a feeling just from the phrase 'women's center' that it's got to be radical. But it's not. It's just a place where women can gather and learn from each other. There are not very many opportunities in our society..."