Administrators cast an uneasy eye on the dorm complex, sum up the situation as ‘critical, but nebulous’.

Construction progress on the dormitory complex beyond Androscoggin Hall is drawing university administrators toward a decision on next year’s housing plans. There is some relative delay in delivery of materials, night shifts must be used to prevent on-time completion. In the event, the university will find itself lacking a dormitory if construction progresses according to schedule.

Director of Physical Plant Francis S. McGuire said that at least half of the total student accepted for residence in the new dormitory complex will have nowhere to go next September if construction is behind schedule. Others will have dormitories and quarters off campus or outside

Fielding delays worry upper officials

Possible construction delays worry upper officials. Administration progress on the three-dormitory complex behind Androscoiggin-Logan Hall is giving university administrators the “is it or isn’t it” experience. It was not decided until shortly before Christmas vacation. This surprise was not the fault of the entire complexity of the dorm complex.

It is in light of this concern, concern, architects, material suppliers, and university representatives met December 21 to expedite construction plans as much as possible. University officials are concerned that possible construction delays worry officials. Administration of materials and difficulty in finding labor were the big reasons for rising concern that the dorms won’t be finished on time to house 855 students next fall.

Mainer to address grads

General Gleszer to give advice to students on purpose, steadfastness

President Young's announcement of the speaker for mid-winter commencement has finalized plans for the January 21 event. Selected to speak at the University's 129th Commencement Exercises is Brigadier General Roland G. Gleszer, a Brewer native. The title of his address will be "To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."

General Gleszer, who graduated from Bangor High School in 1932, attended the University of Maine for three years before entering the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. In 1940 he graduated from West Point as a second lieutenant of infantry.

He is now stationed in Washington as director of management, Office, Comptroller of the Army.

The General assignments in the U.S. including Infantry School at Fort Benning, General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, General Gleszer assumed command of the Third Battalion, 29th Infantry Regiment, in protest in the European Theatre of Operations. In that he was involved to the General Staff of Headquarters U. S. Forces, Europe, returning to the U. S. in June, 1947, to the office of the Assistant Chief of Staff.

He was assigned as assistant chief of staff to Joint Task Force 5 which was active near the French Moriah Islands.

After graduation from the Armed Forces Staff College at Norfolk, Va., in 1953, General Gleszer went to South Korea as chief of the Army's area command on the Japan border.

He was assigned to speak at the University's 129th Commencement Exercises.

At Star, advancement is based on accomplishment and ability regardless of age.

Youth is an asset rather than a handicap in the retail business.

The President of our Bakery's Division is 24. In charge of our鱼Tail Division is a 21 year old boy from Market Street whose market experience is six months. He is our best fishmonger. This indicates that age is not a handicap in the retail business.

We are able to advance our bright young men rapidly for a very simple reason: competitive wages.

In 1937 Star was located in 2 states with one type of business, supermarkets. Today, the company's 107 locations are in 5 states with one type of business, supermarkets. This trend of growth will push sales over the one billion mark this year.

If you want the opportunity to develop your potential now, while you're young, there would be nothing like it to tell you. Schedule an interview through your Personnel Division. A job opportunity will be on campus Monday and Tuesday, January 9 and 10.

The four stringed instruments and the nimble fingers of their owners, comprise the most melodious faction of the Duke Quartet. The musical group of four brothers is the only string quartet of its kind, and will perform next Tuesday in the Memorial Gym. The group is notably accomplished; the brothers did not bond together until all had attained full membership in the Philadelphia Orchestra. Speech clinic held for high schools

The university is today hosting an Oral Interpretation Workshop for high school students. The Speech Department is sponsoring the program to help students develop the skills needed to succeed in college and beyond. The event is open to high school students of all levels, and the workshop will be held in the University of Maine's Memorial Gymnasium. The workshop will consist of three main parts: an introductory lecture by Dr. David R. Fink, dean of the University of Maine, a panel discussion featuring guest speakers, and a roundtable discussion where students can ask questions and interact with the panelists. The event will run from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and is free to all high school students.

Dear Dr. Young,

When attending the University of Maine (1947-1948), I thought that SDS was one of the few organizations on campus that seemed to be where the action was. They started the discussions on problems that were very close to my heart. When they tried to form a student senate, they were opposed by those who felt that the faculty and the administration were against it. But the faculty and the administration saw the need for a student voice and supported the idea. SDS was able to influence the administration and the faculty to change some policies, and that was a long time ago, and some things certainly have changed.

The campus is still a good place to study and learn, but SDS is no longer as influential as it once was. Today, SDS is no longer as influential as it once was.

Sincerely,

Arthur Johnson

Dear Dr. Young,

I am writing to urge you to reconsider your decision to cancel the student senate. SDS has been fighting for a student senate for many years, and we believe that it is time for the students to have a voice in the decision-making process. SDS has had a positive impact on the campus, and we believe that a student senate would only enhance that impact.

Sincerely,

Toni Rollefson

Dear Dr. Young,

I am writing to express my concern about the recent changes made to the campus rules. I understand that the administration is attempting to maintain security, but I believe that the changes are too extreme and will have a negative impact on the students.

Sincerely,

Evelyn Young President

if they care...

Women students may have the opportunity to do away with a traditional, but often necessitated, university registration—signing in and signing out. But, as in the case with all changes in women's roles, it will be up to the women themselves to initiate changes. But, according to AWS, this means showing interest and asking for it. Women students need to be aware that this is happening, and they should do a little reading on the career and ideals of that victorious friend of freedom, Nguyen Cao Ky, to understand the many changes that the Japanese have had to enjoy the modernity of these other demons. And don't forget, if the administration is determined to give students more say, it must involve the students in the decision-making process. Don't forget, if the administration is determined to give students more say, it must involve the students in the decision-making process.

John Ehlert

To the Editor:

Before the Christmas vacation, an editorial by Martha Libby appeared in the Campus criticizing the administration's failure to give the students a voice in the decision-making process. SDS has been fighting for a student senate for many years, and we believe that it is time for the students to have a voice in the decision-making process. SDS has had a positive impact on the campus, and we believe that a student senate would only enhance that impact.

It is our feeling that management once again has been guilty of unfair labor practices in the state of Maine. Although many of us are not student veterans, we feel that at this time it's the least we can do. Let your minds, students and faculty members, continue to be organized as Old Town Strike Local 1485 of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union. We will listen to both sides of the issue concerning the strike at Northside Shoe Co. in Pittfield. After conducting the matter if you feel that you'll support other students and faculty on picket lines in Old Town and Orono. Students for a Democratic Society.

Alternative

To the Editor:

Some students have chosen an alternative to fighting in Vietnam when other men, students and faculty members have emigrated to Canada. Although I have been forced to seek information on the Canadian Immigration laws. For this information, write to the Committee on Student Deprivations, c/o Historic Building Research, 325 Driessen Hall, 1421, University of Maine, Orono, Maine 04473.

Maine five shows class; Terry Carr gains honor

by Darrell French

While most University of Maine vacations were devoted to the last minutes of the season, many students were more interested in getting away from it all. Some flocked to warm, sunny spots to enjoy the Rumours, and others took the time to tour the beaches. The weather was just right for a change of scenery and a break from the usual routine.

Maine fans were treated to a taste of what is to come during the 1967-68 season. Terry Carr, a member of the Women's Basketball team, showed that she is one to look for in the future. Carr was named to the All-State team and is making a name for herself in the university basketball community.

W.A.A. to plan increased use of athletic facilities

The Women's Athletic Association was founded to promote and support women's athletics at the University of Maine. The association is open to all students, regardless of gender, and is dedicated to improving the quality of women's sports programs. The association sponsors teams in a variety of sports, including basketball, soccer, and track and field. The association also provides financial support to its teams and organizes events and tournaments to raise funds. The association is committed to ensuring equal opportunities for women in athletics and promoting a positive and inclusive environment for all athletes.

Westy resigns from coaching

By John A. Torrone

The dean of grid coaches in the Yankee Conference, Hal Westerman, resigned from his position last week to devote all his time as director of physical education to his chosen pursuit: coaching football.

Western will head the biggest athletic expansion program in the history of the university. The university will use $2 million dollars over the next three biennia for athletic facilities. The university will also sell the legislature on a $1 million dollars plan in the upcoming session.

Westerman states there is a demand of facilities in the following areas: skiing and swimming, with the hopeful acquisition of intercollegiate teams to these sports; handball, speech, gymnastics, wrestling, rowing, and indoor tennis facilities. He was in no position to promise anything to the present Memorial Gym or for the construction of a new building.

"We are so overcrowded that we can not offer the student what he deserves," explained Westerman. In addition, Westerman would like to see a combination athletic program. Westerman was in no position to promise anything to the present Memorial Gym or for the construction of a new building.

"In Inter-Fr, the need for long-range planning," Westerman said, of physical education and athletics becomes increasingly important. If demands for a director to carry two loads.
