Dear Mr.

The matter of Federal Estate and State Inheritance taxes has for some time caused me considerable anxiety. I could see that a substantial part of my estate would have to be liquidated upon my death, in order to pay these taxes.

It had not occurred to me that it would be a simple matter and more economical to provide the cash through life insurance. You pointed out that, if I took enough insurance to cover these taxes, my premiums would in effect pay the taxes, and that I am better able to do this, in comparatively small annual instalments from my current income, than my estate would be to pay the entire amount of the tax in one sum.

You also pointed out that my total premium payments might be far less than the amount of the taxes. In fact, if I died at an early date my taxes would be paid off at a cost to me equal to only a small fraction of the amount I now estimate would be due to the government.

I very much appreciate the service you have given me in this matter.

Cordially yours,

If you would like assistance or further information on life insurance to provide ready cash to pay estate and inheritance taxes, a New York Life representative will be glad to help you. You will place yourself under no obligation whatsoever. If you are not acquainted with a New York Life representative, write to the Home Office at the address below.

Many college men are selling life insurance to men who wish to provide in this way for their Federal Estate and State Inheritance Taxes. Such work in the field of selling might appeal to you or one of your friends. Upon request, the Company will be glad to send a copy of an informative 48-page book entitled "A Career as a Life Underwriter."

DEAN OF GRADUATE STUDY
ORONO, MAINE
SATURDAY, June 11, is the big red-letter day for alumni this year when young classes and old classes, alumni, alumnae from near and far will gather again at Orono once more for the activities of Alumni Day on the Commencement Program. Of course, the week-end activities really get under way on Friday with the Class Day exercises, the pageant presented by the All-Maine Women, the afternoon “At Home” of President Hauck and Mrs. Hauck, and in the evening, the Student Hop. All true alumni, however, really know that Saturday, their day, is the big day of the four. And this year, every possible effort is being made to have a program more enjoyable than ever. The Commencement Committee under the able chairmanship of Harry Watson ’18 is lining up the day’s events to provide something of interest to everyone.

Headliners

The list of “leading lights” for the various programs of the day is, in itself, an impressive one. Representing the 50-year class of 1888, returning for their Golden Reunion, Nathaniel E. Wilson, of Reno, Nevada, will serve as Honorary Marshal during the day’s events. Following the custom of recent years, the 50-year man farthest from the campus is selected for this honor. Mr. Wilson’s choice is particularly happy as he has for many years been prominent in business and civic affairs in his adopted state.

And as Marshal, the 25-year Class, 1913, offers as candidate, J. Larcom Ober, Vice President and General Manager of the Brunswick Pulp and Paper Company of Brunswick, Georgia.

For the noon Luncheon, Saturday, plans are being made to honor Dean George D. Chase, retiring this year as Dean of Graduate Study and Head of the Department of Classics. Entering the service of the University in 1905, Dean Chase will complete, this year, over thirty years of service to Maine. Also at this affair will be presented the “graduation” certificates to the members of 1888, the 50-year Class, officially welcoming them into the ranks of the Senior Alumni.

The climax of the day’s events will be as usual, the Alumni Banquet at 6:00. The reunion class of 1916 hopes to provide one of the leading speakers in Governor Lewis O. Barrows, who is planning, if possible, to address again the assembled alumni as chief executive of the state. From the Class of 1913, twenty-five years young, will come another of the headliners, Hon. Edward E. Chase, former member of the state legislature, President of the Board of Trustees, and President of the Maine Securities Corporation of Portland. And, of course, President Arthur Hauck of the University will again offer greetings and good will to the alumni, heartily returned by them on this, his fourth appearance before the gathered grads.

Fred D. Knight ’09, President of the Alumni Association, will preside over the Alumni Council Meeting, Friday, over the General Alumni Business Meeting, on Saturday, and at both the noon luncheon and the banquet. And for the toastmaster at the Alumni Banquet, who could be more appropriate than Prof. Charles F. Weston ’96, warmly remembered by forty classes of Maine men?

The events in general will follow much the outline of previous years, as may be seen from the tentative program accompanying this article. Again this year, for the alumnae a tea is being arranged on Saturday afternoon, during the time that alumni regale themselves with the sight of classmates and fellow alumni, challenging the seniors to a frosty contested baseball game.

The Senior Class has voted to hold the annual Commencement Ball on Thursday evening, June 9; tickets for this dance will be limited to seniors.

The details of the Class stunts are, as usual, in the hands of the reunion class officers, and are being kept a deep secret.

THE ANNALS OF 1913

"I would love to write an article about the Class of 1913 if I knew what to write, but twenty-five years is a long time; memory fails and the eyesight dims. All that I can recall now is that 1913 was the best, the brightest, the most able, the most popular, and the most successful class which ever graduated from the University." So writes Dick Huntington, of the Publicity Department of the American Hotel Association. Much can be forgiven a publicity man, anyhow, and if other classes rise up to dispute such sweeping statements, at least 1913 like all classes had reason to be proud and some grounds for such an opinion. Now, on the eve of their silver reunion, members of the class are thinking back more and more to the "good old days" and the good old fellows of the hey-day of 1913.

Some of the highlights of those days are touched upon by Mr. Huntington, in spite of his disclaimer of failing memory. He says, "We entered the University in the fall of 1909 under the regime of Prexy Fellows and soon after ran into the Great Strike. It all had to do with the abolishing of the fine old custom of the General Razoo. Younger classes wouldn't know, but the General Razoo was a fearful and wonderful thing. Imagine being tucked comfortably in bed only to hear the dread cry from outside of 'Freshmen all out!' You emerged on the lawn in your pajamas to find the entire sophomore class lined up in single file, legs well apart, and armed with heavy paddles. You crawled through—as rapidly as the Lord would let you—and, more often than not, at the end of the line was a fire hose which, while it cooled off the hot spot, was likely to keep you rolling some time."

"Anyway, the faculty decided to abolish this barbarous custom and, after 1913 had been the victim of one of these parties, suspended or expelled a number of sophomores. The two lower classes refused to go to classes. There were mass meetings on the athletic field with the band in attendance. It was finally settled by most of those suspended being taken back."

Classmates and contemporaries of the famous 1913 will pleasantly recall the names of such stalwarts as Cliff Chandler, of Portland, now Statistician with Bond and Goodwin, Oscar "Ted" Davis, senior class president, now with the Eastman Kodak Co. in Rochester, N. Y., Elson H. Bigelow, football star, Senior Skull, and general all-around campus leader, who has carried his artistic ability as displayed in the class Prism into business, as chief draftsman for the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corp. in Quincy, Mass. And Forrest B. Ames, editor of that Prism, editor of the Campus, Senior Skull, and member of Phi Kappa Phi, is now one of Bangor's leading physicians.

1913 is not yet forgotten in the ranks of the undergraduates, either, for several of the "boys" have sent their sons or daughters to Maine: Andrew J. Beck (Fred N. '38), Clifton E. Chandler (William H. '40), George C. Clarke (George A. '36), Edgar F. Corliss (Mary E. '40), George E. Gray (Earle E. '38), G. Harold Hamlin (George H. '41), John N. Hart (Gerald F. '38), Everett A. Kimball (Everett, Jr. '41), John Littlefield (Sarah W. '38 and John T. '40), Allan F. McAlary (Francis '36 and Betty '41), Mrs. Muriel Young (John T. Maine '40), and Ernest T. Savage (Elnora '40). Graduates of the Law School in the class have their chances too to "point with pride": Charles B. Adams, vice-president of the class, is now a Superior Court Judge of Vermont; Andrew J. Beck, of Washburn, one of the leaders in Aroostook County affairs, is now a member of the Governor's Council, and John B. Davis, of Haverhill, Mass., has made a name for himself and for '13 in the Massachusetts State Senate.

The famous class will be represented officially at the "doings" on Alumni Day by two members who have achieved success in different fields since their graduation. J. Larcom Ober, whom Mr. Huntington considers "practically ran the military department," and who was also on the Prism board, a member of Tau Beta Pi, president of the Rifle Club, and holder of other honors, will come from Brunswick, Georgia, where he is vice president and general manager of the Brunswick Pulp and Paper Co., to serve as Marshal for the day's events. Edward E. "Cy" Chase, of Portland, while in school a member of the dramatic club, class baseball player, and committee man, will be one of the leading speakers at the evening Banquet.

It is twenty-five years now since the day that 1913 stood up in cap and gown to become alumni; now the time is coming again for those members to gather for their Silver Jubilee and to sing again together the Stein Song on the campus at Orono. So members of '13, near and far, start packing your bags, because Alumni Day is June 11, and this is 1913's BIG TIME.

Philadelphians Take Lead

After trailing closely for two months, the alumni in the Philadelphia Association moved into first position in the percentage of its list who have paid alumni dues for this year to date. Ohioans have held tenaciously to the number one position and may succeed in regaining the leadership since the margin is so small.

The high ten associations are the same as last published with the exception of slight changes in position. They are as follows:

- Philadelphia 38.5 %
- Ohio 38.2
- Illinois 37.8
- Northeastern, N. Y. 34.4
- Missouri 34.2
- Minnesota 32.0
- Lehigh Valley 31.8
- Western Penn. 29.5
- Rhode Island 29.4
- Maryland 28.5
BASEBALL IN THE EARLY DAYS

By Will R. Howard '82

TRIving to trace existing conditions or institutions to the time and place of their origin has become one of our favorite indoor sports. Possibly this in-born desire to follow the trail of effects to their causes may account in part, at least, for the popularity of our modern mystery stories; but, be that as it may, it certainly is true that we do enjoy attempting to find out when and how present day activities started and who was in any way connected with their inception.

To satisfy the curiosity of any who may be interested to know something of the beginnings and early days of baseball on our Maine campus, the writer will endeavor to relate somewhat briefly the story of the genesis of the game at the Maine State College.

The boys and young men of our state first became acquainted with our national game, so-called, in the sixties and early seventies; so it is probable there were a few men in each of the early classes at our college who knew and played baseball; but it is doubtful if there were enough really good players in any four consecutive classes to form a nine which could make a creditable showing in competition with local or college teams. In fact, as late as 1878-1882 there were not more than ten men in college who were of "Varsity" caliber. Therefore, we are probably justified in concluding that baseball on our campus up to 1879 was entirely intramural.

First Diamond

Sometime in the seventies a parade, or drill ground, had been leveled off a little to the eastward of the location of Asbert Hall. Afterward a diamond was laid out on this ground where men of the seventies, and of later years, played baseball. The infield was of brickyard clay, as smooth and as hard as a floor, and maintained in that desirable condition by sweating freshmen under the supervision of easy-taking sophomores. The outfield was not so good. There was, in 1878, no other evidence that baseball had been known and played on the college campus. There were no uniforms to be seen, either complete or in part, among the belongings of the men already in college, and absolutely no baseball traditions.

In the fall of the above-named year, after the class of eighty-two had beaten the sophomores in a hazing scrap, and had found time and opportunity to take stock of themselves without molestation, it appeared that several members of the class were interested in baseball and could play a fairly good game. Among these was Gleason C. Snow. He had pitched a little and had become somewhat proficient in the art of curving the ball. This style of pitching was new in those days and Snow was the first exponent of it to appear on our campus. There was in the class of '81, one Benjamin Franklin ("Bennie") Murray, a backstop of no mean ability, and with this battery to build around we looked to the coming of the next spring, confident that we were going to have a real ball team.

But when the spring of '79 opened we soon realized that we couldn't run a baseball outfit without money. Accordingly, a baseball association was formed and the following officers elected: Charles S. Bickford '82, manager; A. T. Ingalls '81, secretary; Thomas W. Hine '82, treasurer; J. V. Gilley '83, collector. The directors were: Charles S. Bickford '82, C. H. Fogg '81, A. J. Keith '82, W. Flint '82, and W. R. Howard '82. This association was the father of the one which now controls our athletic activities.

Having provided a source of revenue, a first nine was formed, consisting of the following players: Murray '81, c.; Snow '82, p.; Moore '81, ss.; and Capt. Howard '82, 1b.; Keith '82, 2b.; Starbird '83, 3b.; Gould '82, if.; Brown '81, cf.; and Burleigh '84, rf. These men played in the first intercollegiate game in which a team representing our college took part. Afterward R. C. Patterson '84 and W. A. Berry '84 took the places of Brown and Starbird. Of the foregoing, Keith, Patterson, and Howard are living.

A little later our manager arranged a game with a nine made up of local players from Bangor. We won this first game to be played on our campus with a team from outside by a score of twenty-six to seven. Afterward we played this same team twice, winning by scores of twenty-five to seven and twenty-one to five.

The next year it was decided that our team should have uniforms. Assessments for this purpose on the members of the baseball association did not yield funds enough to pay for the suits, so each player bought his shoes and stockings. In the

The History of Secondary Education in Washington and Hancock Counties in Maine, by Edward Lyon Linscott '33. University of Maine Press, 1937. viii, 171 pages. $5.00. The Master's degree thesis of Edward Linscott, Superintendent of Schools at Bluehill, is a painstaking yet vivid and interesting study of the growth of the public secondary schools in Washington and Hancock Counties, tracing first the growth of academies from 1791 to 1909 and then the high schools from 1832 to 1909.

The thesis, prepared under the direction of Prof. Ava Chadbourne, of the School of Education, and presented in fulfillment of the requirements of the Master's Degree in Education awarded to Mr. Linscott in 1936, is one of several studies encouraged by the School of Education as these in the history of Maine's educational institutions.

Doctor Alexander C. Flick, State Historian of the State of New York, in commenting upon the thesis at the suggestion of Dr. Frank P. Graves, Commissioner of Education of the University of the State of New York, says in part: "In elaborating the evolution of secondary education in these two Maine counties, the author has used manuscript trustee minutes and town records, but has depended largely upon printed materials such as catalogues, town reports, newspapers, and local histories. These sources have been used with discrimination and effectiveness.

Comment also was received from Dr. Payson Smith, of the Graduate School of Education of Harvard University, on the clear way in which you have shown the transition of secondary education through its several stages, from the academy to the high school, and how you have indicated the various forces which have played upon secondary education and have, from time to time, modified it. I found it extremely interesting and attractive in the reading, and believe that others will be impressed with the straightforward and vivid presentation of the material."

Favorable statements also were received from Dr. E. W. Butterfield, Commissioner of Education of the State of Connecticut, and from Dr. C. C. Little, of Bar Harbor. Authorities seem agreed that Mr. Linscott has produced a work of great value in the study of the evolution and development of local educational institutions.

Alumnus Winfield Kimball, co-author of two of the outstanding trailer books published last year, writes from first-hand knowledge of his material. Full of practical, interesting facts and anecdotes, these two attractive volumes are "must" reading for the trailer or camping enthusiast. The first book concerns itself with ways and means of making touring—long or short—more enjoyable, less expensive, and easier on everyone. Based on the experiences gained from innumerable camping trips of many sorts, it aims to provide helpful suggestions on what to take, what not to take, how and where to camp, and other essentials of touring. The pleasures and rewards are ably treated in a general way while details of problems and questions confronting the average family are discussed with care. The second volume treats more specifically of uses of trailers themselves, including various possible business uses. Written with the hand and eye of the enthusiast, the book is replete with interest. It also deals specifically with types, sizes, and costs of trailers on the market, describes needed equipment for the tourist or the business man, and gives many practical suggestions for the family on tour.

These two volumes by Mr. Kimball and his co-authors would appear to be a most valuable as well as a highly entertaining addition to the literature of the modern automobile gypsy; if they seem to present an idealized picture of modern "camping out," the only reply of the author would probably be, "Try it and see."

Maine - Colby 7

Opening the season strongly at Water-ville in the annual exhibition game against Colby, Maine came from behind to push across a winning tally in the ninth inning. With Colby earning four and three tallies in the second and third on the offerings of pitchers John Harriman and Merrill Shea, Maine trailed 7 to 2 going into the fifth. Junior Paul Browne, of Bethel, then took over the mound assignment and for the rest of the game held the home team to two hits and no runs. Meanwhile, behind the hitting of Dwight Lord, of Camden, the Maine batters collected four in the fifth, one in the eighth, and in the ninth the winning tally.

Maine - New Hampshire 3

It took 14 innings to subdue the New Hampshire Wildcat at Durham on April 27 for the second game of the season, but thanks to the pitching of Co-Captain Ernie Reidman, of Auburn, and Paul Browne, of Bethel, and to the timely batting of Dwight Lord, of Camden, and Co-Captain Frank Tapley, of Robinson’s, the Maine squad took their first encounter of the annual New England trip.

The defensive play of the entire squad looked good, and the score stood one to one through to the fourteenth; Maine had taken a single tally in the fourth, New Hampshire in the seventh. However, in the fourteenth, things cracked wide open. New Hampshire first broke the deadlock, filling the bases but taking only two tallies from the situation, thanks to air-tight fielding and fine pitching. Then Maine opened with heavy artillery to pound two home pitchers from the mound.

Maine - Northeastern 3

Smart defensive ball playing and timely hitting in the pinches aided the effective relief pitching of Ernie Reidman, of Auburn, in fighting off a Northeastern University threat for eight innings at Boston, April 28; and in the ninth a final brace of runs started off by Reidman’s own smashing triple put the game nicely on ice. Junior Art Chick, of Monmouth, pitched the first seven innings for a 4-3 lead and turned the game over to Reidman in good shape; his successor proceeded to settle matters.

Maine 91 - Bates 3

Winning all but four first places out of fifteen events, the University’s strong track team piled up a heavy advantage against a game but outmatched field team at Orono on April 30. Forced indoors by the weather, the participants were slowed down by poor track conditions so that several expected record marks failed to materialize.

Sid Hurwitz, of Roxbury, Mass., stellar dash man, was the only double first place winner for the day, placing in the lead in the 100 and 200 yard dashes. High jump ace Bill McCarthy, of Rumford, winning at six feet two, just failed of a new college record at six feet three. The best race of the day was the half-mile run with John Jordan, of Fryeburg, fighting shoulder to shoulder with the Springfield man but finally being nosed out at the tape.

England trip at Kingston on April 29, as the Rhody Rams took advantage of numerous errors and numerous hits to pin the first defeat of the season on Maine. Errors, hereetofore conspicuous by their absence, plagued the Maine infield all day, and neither Paul Browne, of Bethel, Merrill Shea, of Whiton, nor Ken Clark, of Fort Fairfield, pitchers for the day, could stop the onslaught of the Rams.

Maine 5 - Bates 3

Maine won its first home game of the season against Bates at Orono on May 3 behind the superb pitching of senior Ernie Reidman, of Auburn. Striking out a total of thirteen men and allowing only five safe hits, Reidman had the game well in hand nearly all the way, although a determined garnet team fought hard for a win. The turning point in the game was the fifth inning when Maine, trailing by one run, put on a series of bunts. With catcher Phil Craig on first after a single, Fran Smith, football star from New Haven, placed a bunt on the third base line that the Bates pitcher threw wide to first; the first sacker, recovering, then tossed wild past the catcher allowing both Craig and Reidman to score. Doc Gerrish then beat out another bunt and scored for the third tally.

In the seventh, Smith again hit, a triple to left field; Reidman then won his own game by laying down a singling roller that scored Smith on the throw home.
The retirement of Dean George D. Chase from active service at the close of the current year has been announced from the President's office. Serving as Professor and Head of the Department of Classics since 1905, and as Dean of Graduate Study since the creation of that work as a separate administrative unit of the University in 1923, Dean Chase will complete this year thirty-three years of service to Maine.

Although serving as Head of the Department of Classics and teaching regular courses in Latin literature, language, and history, and occasional courses in Sanskrit and other languages as the demand arose, Dean Chase's most significant contribution has been in his constructive leadership of the graduate school. His vision, his scholarly integrity, and his interest in the studies and students of this unit of the University have been largely responsible for the establishment of the excellent reputation which the graduate school now enjoys.

As in the early history of many colleges, graduate degrees at Maine were at one time of small scholastic importance; unorganized and without established standards of measurement, graduate studies were generally of little or no higher grade than those for the undergraduate. No regular level of performance prevailed and standards fluctuated. Within a few years after Dean Chase's arrival in 1905 under President Fellows' administration, he was made chairman of the committee of the faculty in charge of graduate studies. Realizing the importance of the work and the responsibility of a state university to establish adequate and accredited graduate facilities, he set about instigating a complete reorganization of the work. As a result of his vision and leadership, Maine has for nearly thirty years been able to grant a fully accredited and universally recognized Master's degree.

Three things in particular stand out prominently in Dean Chase's career as concrete evidence of his constructive efforts for the improvement and enlargement of the graduate work. The establishment of the series of publications of scholastic studies and theses, known as the Maine Studies, was accomplished soon after his appointment to the position of Dean. Many of the Studies have been originally Master's degree theses thought worthy of wider circulation. A number of these have attracted very favorable attention from scholars throughout the country. The creation of this means of perpetuating and enlarging the circulation of Maine's best scholastic efforts was, to considerable extent, the result of Dean Chase's efforts.

By his efforts also graduate fellowships and scholarships have been established for outstanding students. Although still relatively few in number, these opportunities provide means for continued study and achievement for exceptional students who might otherwise never be enabled to undertake graduate work.

In research, also, Dean Chase's efforts have contributed to the creation of new and needed facilities. The establishment by the trustees of the Coe Research Fund in 1928 has provided opportunity for valuable faculty and graduate student investigations in many varied fields of activity.

A Glance Backward

Although George Chase has grown old in the service of Maine, his life has been full also of many other interests and accomplishments. A native of Dighton, Mass., he was graduated from Harvard in 1889 and received his M.A. degree in 1895 and his Ph.D. in 1897 from that institution. In 1927 the University of Maine awarded him the L.L.D. He spent one year at Leipzig as a travelling fellow in the study of Sanskrit. Before coming to Maine he taught Comparative Philology at Cornell and Latin at Wesleyan.

Throughout his life he has kept an active interest in his chosen field of comparative languages and several of his studies of dialects in New England and in Maine have been published. He has been an active member and officer of several learned societies, especially the American Dialect Society.

Of his three children, two are alumni of Maine, Elizabeth, in the Class of 1920, and George D., Jr., in the Class of 1925. By appointment of the Governor, he served, for five years, as the first Trial Justice in Orono, trying local cases of minor importance.

Now, at the age of seventy, he completes his years of active service as teacher and administrator. To his former undergraduate and graduate students he will be remembered as a fine scholar and an inspiring teacher. His sound and lasting contributions to the structure of the University will be long recognized. He has turned his energy and his keen mind with distinctive success to the task at hand and he has seen his efforts grow to accomplishment.
Campus Events

Tapped—
Nine University juniors received the highest non-scholastic honor that can be won by an undergraduate when they were named to membership in the Senior Skull Society, following the Junior Week assembly on April 29.

The following men were pledged: Robert Cullinan, of South Portland, a pre-medical student and varsity letterman in basketball; Thomas Dunleavy, of Portland; and Ross Gough, of South Portland, a major in Wildlife Conservation, is a leader on the varsity track team and was a Sophomore Owl. William McCarthy, of Rumford, state intercollegiate high-jump champion in track, and ski jumper in winter sports, was a Sophomore Owl and majors in agricultural economics. Dana Drew, of Patten, a major in agricultural economics, has won letters in football and basketball, a member of Alpha Zeta, Athletic Board, was secretary of the Sophomore Owls, and president of his freshman class. Herbert Leonard, of Thorndike, a major in dairy husbandry and member of Alpha Zeta, is a pole vaulter, received a Charles H. Hood scholarship and Waldo County Alumni scholarship, was a member of the Sophomore Owl Society. Paul Browne, of Bethel, a major in agricultural economics, a varsity baseball and football player, is president of his class and was a Sophomore Owl. Thomas Barker, of Vassalboro, is president of the Agricultural Club, belongs to Alpha Zeta, received a Charles H. Hood scholarship last year, and majors in animal husbandry. Bernard Robbins, of Gardiner, a major in biological chemistry, was center on the junior varsity football team, and played intramural basketball.

Award—
Three Honey Memorial Scholarships were awarded this spring at the University to needy and qualified students selected for scholastic attainment, character, and general promise. The students honored are Robert W. Doe '39, of Bingham, a major in the Pulp and Paper Department, William B. Page '39, of Sebago Lake, majoring in Civil Engineering, and Lawrence A. Philpott '38, of Patten, majoring in Electrical Engineering.

Peace—
"Which is the way to peace?" was the general subject of four talks by student speakers on Tuesday, April 19. The symposium, presented through the M.C.A. and representatives of sixteen different campus organizations, presented four different points of view: Philip Temple '39, of Hopedale, Mass., supported the question of international co-operation; Alice Lerner '38, of Melrose, Mass., discussed the merits of isolation; Richard Healy '38, of Augusta, supported the question of peace through preparedness; and the pacifist point of view was presented by Kenneth Brookes '38, of Rockville, Conn.

Rifery—
At the close of the season, the University R.O.T.C. rifle team tabulated a total of 60% wins in 55 competitions with leading colleges and universities throughout the country. Placing fifth out of fourteen teams in the First Corps Area and seventh in the National Hearst's trophy matches, the Maine group proved themselves consistently successful competitors. Individual honors also came to Richard Bohnson, a sophomore of Portland, who tied for high individual score in the Hearst's Trophy match within the First Corps Area, scoring 189 out of a possible 200 points. The team has been coached this year by Major Harry L. Henkle.

Elected—
Campus Mayor, elected during the annual fun-and-work program of Maine Day on May 4, was Fred Patterson '39, son of alumnus Judge Arthur W. Patterson '14, of Castine. Following the campaign and election, students and faculty participated in work projects, improving the campus and buildings, during the morning, and group games in the afternoon.

Honored—
The national honorary scholastic society, Phi Kappa Phi, honored 15 students and three faculty members by election last month. Founded at the University of Maine, the society recognizes scholastic ability in any field of endeavor. Those elected this year were: Frank H. Lathrop, entomologist in the Agricultural Experiment Station; Kenneth E. Miles, assistant professor of German; and George P. Steinbauer, assistant professor of Botany. Students elected were: seniors, Helen D. Abbott, of Portland; Sidney Alpert, of Bangor; Minnie B. Brown, of Waterville; Arthur L. Crouse, of Crouseville; Madeleine C. Davis, of Biddeford; Alton S. Ham, of Bangor; Frances F. Lannon, of Roslindale, Mass.; Alice M. Lerner, of Melrose, Mass.; Joseph H. Lewis, of Springfield; Arland R. Meade, of Auburn; Mary Helen Raye, of Eastport; Richard W. Raymond, of St. Albans, Vt.; James H. Siegel, of Bangor; Edith L. Thomas, of Skowhegan; and George L. Tsoulias, of Bangor.

Comedy—
The Italian classical farce entitled The Servant of Two Masters, was presented by the Maine Masque as the final performance of the year, April 26-27-28. The Italian drama, translated by senior Josephine Profta, of Bangor, was a clever farce involving intricate situations and centering around the double dealings of a servant. Leading parts were taken by Louis Thiobodeau, a junior from Rumford, who took the all-important part of Truffaldino, the servant; Faith Shesong, a senior of Portland as Clarice; Howard Goodwin, a senior of Brewer, as her father.

Congress—
A model Congress was arranged by debating teams from New England colleges at Kingston, R. I., on April 8, with the University of Maine taking second place behind Bates College in the competition. Teams of four men from the colleges presented various bills.

Open House—
The annual program of Open House, displaying processes and equipment of the College of Technology, the department of Home Economics, and this year, for the first time, the department of Physics of the Arts and Sciences College, was held Saturday afternoon and evening, April 23. Invitations sent most of the high schools in the state encouraged keen interest among the secondary students and the registrations for the afternoon and evening were exceptionally good. Four hundred and twelve high school students from forty-three schools registered and over nine hundred other visitors, making a total registration of 1,329.
Local Associations

Northeastern New York Alumni gathered at the Holland Inn, Schenectady, on March 21 for a dinner meeting with Dean Edward J. Allen, of the Arts and Sciences College, as guest speaker. Dean Allen's outline of educational policies and developments at the University was of great interest to the twenty-four alumni and friends present; following the formal talk, Dean Allen discussed present economic problems and answered numerous questions. Officers elected were: President, Milton F. Kent '30; secretary and treasurer, Winslow L. Jones '30; vice president, Conan A. Priest '22; Roger Castle '21, and Everett G. Ham '16.

Missouri Alumni welcomed Alumni Secretary Charles Crossland to their dinner meeting on March 28. Moving pictures of campus activities were shown and Mr. Crossland presented latest campus news. During the business meeting Harold A. Richards '13 was elected president and Mrs. Richards' secretary and treasurer of the association.

Western New York Alumni welcomed Dean Allen to Buffalo on March 23 when twelve gathered at the Buffalo Consistory to hear his talk on the Universities' educational plans and policies and additional comment and discussion on present economic questions.

Pittsburgh Alumni held its spring meeting on March 25 at the College Club. The dinner meeting brought together a total of thirty alumni and guests to meet Dean Allen of the Arts College. Considerable discussion followed his talk and alumni questioned him freely regarding University affairs and current economic questions.

Detroit (Mich.) Alumni recorded the biggest attendance in their history when thirty-three alumni and guests gathered at the Women's City Club on March 25 to welcome Alumni Secretary Charles Crossland. After a talk on recent campus and alumni developments, moving pictures of campus events were shown. During the preliminary business meeting officers were elected as follows for the year: President, Frank E. Watts '01; vice president, Walter Chase '10; secretary, Ruth C. Thomas '23; treasurer, Charles M. Poor '19.

1917 Leads Honor Roll

The June issue of the Alumni will publish again the "Honor Roll" of dues payers, carrying the names of those who have paid dues for the last three consecutive years or longer. When the count was made on April 30, the Class of 1917 was leading in the number of its members whose names are on the Honor Roll. The margin is so small, however, that their position is far from secure, indeed may be but temporary. The race with 1910 has been close all the year but for the first time '17 has moved ahead. 1925 and 1929 have shown the greatest gain. These classes have moved up from eleventh and fifteenth positions, respectively, where they stood in early March.

The five leading classes are:

1917 — 55
1910 — 54
1911 — 50
1916 — 49
1925 — 46
1929 — 46

Ohio Alumni held its annual dinner at Stouffers Restaurant in Cleveland on March 24 and at the Alms Hotel in Cincinnati on March 29. At Cleveland forty-two were present to welcome the guests of the evening, Hon. Harold H. Burton, Mayor of Cleveland, and Mrs. Burton, Dr. Edward J. Allen, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and Mrs. F. H. Stebenz, wife of Foreign Scene Columnist of the Cleveland Press. Valuable and enjoyable talks were presented by the guests. During the business meeting Allen M. Knowles '04 was elected president, Herbert A. Knowles '07 vice president for Cleveland, William E. Reynolds '17 vice president for Cincinnati, and George E. Power '28, secretary-treasurer. At Cincinnati on the 29th, twelve were present to welcome Alumni Secretary Charles Crossland as guest speaker. William Reynolds, newly-elected vice president, presided at the meeting.

Portland Alumni held their annual spring luncheon for the undergraduates at the Columbia Hotel on April 2. Seventy-five attended, including alumnae, friends, and undergraduates. Mrs. Hamlyn Robbins '19 acted as toastmistress. President Dorothy Findlay gave a welcome to the undergraduates and short talks on student activities were presented by Helen Wormwood '41, Ramona Hinckes '40, Charlotte Hemmes '39, and Mary Wright '38. Following the talks, a fashion show was presented through the courtesy of William Filene & Sons, with several Maine girls as models.

Connecticut Alumni welcomed Dean Paul Cloke, of the College of Technology, and Alumni Secretary Charles Crossland to Hartford on April 12. Sixty alumni and friends turned out to hear latest campus news and see moving pictures of campus events. At the business meeting the following officers were elected for the year: President, Richard Clark '27; vice president, Henry Conklin '34; secretary-treasurer, Donald Henderson '31.

Our first intercollegiate game was played with Colby at Orono in 1880. We made one run in the first inning and held Colby’s veteran team scoreless until the sixth; but at that stage of the game one of our fielders misjudged a fly and our inexperienced players, already under a rather severe strain, grew somewhat nervous. When we finally managed to retire the side, the score was six to one in Colby’s favor and remained so to the end. Later we played a creditable game with Colby at Waterville, losing by a score of four to three.

In 1880, Bates came to Orono twice and won both games by decisive scores, but the next year we scored our first victory over another college team by beating Bates at Lewiston, fifteen to five. The day after this game we played Bowdoin at Brunswick and were easy losers.

In those days, in this state at least, coaches were unknown; nor did we take any thought of keeping in condition. During a game each player, whether at bat or in the field, determined for himself how and when he should try to hit the ball or how he should field it when opportunity offered. Neither did we have mitts, gloves, or chest protectors. Our catcher wore a mask and sometimes tried to protect his hands by wearing an old pair of buckskin gloves with the ends of the fingers removed and the palms padded with grass or whatever came handy. He always found that while the gloves added to his comfort, they impaired his efficiency, so he would soon discard them and catch barehanded. Baseball and bats were expensive then, as now, and the latter, as carried in stock at “The Village Pharmacy” or by Mr. Solomon Gee, were unsatisfactory as to “hang” and wont to break. In an attempt to get a satisfactory article, Keith ’82 had a bat turned by hand in Old Town. It was of cherry and very serviceable. We used it in the game we won from Bates at Lewiston. Reed ’82 carved his class numerals on it, and our second baseman is steadied by it in the picture accompanying. The bat may now be seen in one of the cases in the Trophy Room in the Memorial Gymnasium. It is regrettable that some individual, lacking in reverence and aided by a bucksaw, shortened it by five or six inches.

In 1881, we lost our catcher by graduation, and as there was no one left in college to take his place, it was not possible to arrange games during the next academic year. It was not long, however, before successors of this pioneer team were winning Maine intercollegiate championships, and since then it has been no unusual thing for the State Pennant to be brought to our campus by victorious teams.

Commencement Program

until the moment of performance, but there is no doubt that they will be amusing, they always are.

Registration during either Friday or Saturday will be the basis of judging the winners of the attendance cups for classes having the highest percentage of registrations. The general expenses fee, charged at the time of registration, entitles the alumnus and his immediate family to attend all the events of the week end except, of course, the Luncheon and Banquet. It also helps the Association to pay for the many incidental expenses of the program. This year, in order to guarantee seats at both Luncheon and Banquet for the greatest possible number of alumni, unpaid reservations of Luncheon or Banquet tickets will be placed on sale again two hours before the scheduled time of the program. This plan, which is designed to assure seats to alumni at these meals up to the entire capacity of the hall, makes it doubly important that alumni reserve these tickets early and either pay for them in advance or be sure that they are obtained well before the “dead line” two hours in advance of the program time.

We urge all alumni who plan to come back to Commencement to write in early for rooms and to reserve luncheon and banquet tickets at the same time.

From Reno, Nevada, Nathaniel E. Wilson ’88 will serve as Honorary Marshal for the Alumni Day activities.

Alumni and Faculty Publications
presses of the University of Maine Press.
The green-covered magazine, described as "An Historical Review of New England Life and Letters," contains for this March, 1938, issue seven articles of general interest and a number of book reviews. Published as the name indicates, quarterly, the magazine aims to print interpretations or studies of high scholastic level, contributing to the body of historical and literary material on New England's past and present. Carefully edited and presented, the Quarterly gives ample promise under its new management of continuing to maintain its former high level of excellence.

The appearance of a new novel by Miss Chase has come to be an event in the book world, and already Dawn in Lyonesse, though a much lighter work than its predecessors, is recorded as occupying fifth place among the current best sellers in fiction. The new book is, like This England, a product of the author's recent two-year sojourn in Great Britain. Much impressed with the scenery of the Devon and Cornwall coast, from which the first settlement of Maine chiefly came, she has chosen that as her setting. The story concerns a seaman's girl whose imagination has been awakened by chance remarks of a young American archeologist upon whom she waits at an inn. Herself a person of restrained emotion and narrow experience, she looks forward to trepidation to her marriage with a young fisherman who she fears will not be able to share in her new-found enthusiasms. Her death by drowning brings her less sorrow than gladness when she learns that he has already achieved them, even at the cost to her of his Tristan-like unfaithfulness with one of her friends. Passages from a prose Tristan legend are interwoven with the narrative as a sort of recurrent refrain. The book may be described as a psychological romance with stress upon the emotional development of the heroine and the effect upon her of the scenery, weather, and atmosphere of the Devonshire coast.

Head, Department of English

The Maine Club of Auburn met at the Elm Hotel on April 13 with fourteen members present. Captain John Hardy, Officers' Reserve Corps, was the guest speaker of the evening, talking on the subject of chemical warfare. Frank Linnell '29 was elected president of the club and John L. McCobb '25, secretary.

Deaths
Frank Allen Spratt, for years a well-known educator in Rhode Island, died at his home in Wickford, in that state, at the age of 79. A native of Hermon, Maine, he attended the University of Maine for one year with the class of 1880, graduating later from Trinity.

Serving for several years in various school positions in Maine, he became principal of Hampden Academy in 1886 and of Dexter High School in 1890. In 1892 he was employed in Rhode Island where later he served as principal in Providence schools. Since his retirement a few years ago he has been living at Wickford.

1893
Notice of the death of John M. Webster, of La Mesa, Calif., on October 17, 1935, has just reached the alumni office. For some years a resident of Vancouver, B. C., Mr. Webster had been living prior to his death with his mother and sister in California.

1906
Victim of an automobile accident, Lincoln Crowell, for more than twenty years State Fire Warden for the Cape Cod district, had resided for many years in Sandwich, Mass. A native of Boston, Mr. Crowell, after graduating from the University, took graduate work at Yale in forestry, and studied later in Germany. He was one of the leaders in establishing a state forest on Cape Cod. A recognized authority on forestation, Mr. Crowell had been consulted on many projects and was the author of considerable writing on the subject. He is said to have been one of the founders of the University of Maine Forestry School. His death was caused by a railroad train striking his automobile at Brewster, Mass., as Mr. Crowell was on his way to visit a CCC camp nearby.

1908
Notice of the death of Ralph Huston Preble, of Portland, in May, 1937, has been received by the alumni office. For many years a native of Portland and a member of the firm of Preble and Shaw at Commercial Street in that city, Mr. Preble was well known as a business man and citizen of Portland.

1915
John Wynne Burke, of South Portland, for some time food and drug inspector of the State of Maine, died at his home on June 15, 1937. A graduate from the pharmaceutical course, Mr. Burke attended the University from 1913 to 1915. He was a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and resided for many years at South Portland.

1922
The death of Mrs. Helen Downes Merrill, of Westfield, Mass., occurred very suddenly on April 1 this year at her home. A native of Winterton, Mrs. Merrill graduated from the University in 1922 and was for many years a resident of Westfield. Her sister, Mrs. Frances Downes Parr, is also a graduate of the University in the class of 1911. She is now residing at Mansfield, Ohio.

J. Raymond Dubee, 16L, prominent attorney of Cranton, R. I., was recently elected president and publisher of the Cranton Herald. He took over the duties of publisher on May 1. Mr. Dubee is prominent in local affairs, holding high office in many representative organizations. He has been practicing law since May, 1917.

A member of the Houlton Elks Bowling team is A. L. Robinson. This team, this past winter, won top prize at the Aroostook County Winter Carnival at Presque Isle and is considered "one of the best pin picking groups in the state." Mr. Robinson was the high man in the Caribou tournament of 1936. The Elks' team has been Eastern Maine tourney champs since 1936.

Attention Class of 1916:
By the time this notice goes to press and is read by all of those interested in this Class Reunion, it will only be a matter of a few weeks before we gather once more at Orono, and this will be my last opportunity to contact you through the pages of The Maine Alumnus. Therefore, in order to give you an idea what to look forward to for the remainder of the month, let me lay out a tentative program for our Reunion:

Friday, June 10, afternoon—Golf Tournament at the Penobscot Valley Country Club

Friday, June 10, evening—Social Dinner at the Penobscot Valley Country Club Saturday, June 11, 9 A.M.—Class Business meeting, Room 11, Coburn Hall.

The rest of the day will be tied in with the general program arranged for Alumni Day.

Sunday, June 12—Class outing, the time and place to be decided at a later date.

Monday, June 13, 9:30 A.M.—Commencement Exercises.

You will receive within a few days another letter from the committee giving all the final details and at the same time you will be included a return card for you to fill out and send back to make it possible for your committee to make their final arrangements.

During the past month I have contacted personally as many of the committee as I possibly could, and I find the same old urge among everybody to get back once more and renew old acquaintances. Letters that I have received state the same desire so that I feel confident that this reunion is going to be the best one that 1916 has ever had.

Just read over the following list of those that have already signified their intentions to be present and if your name isn't there, write over the blank once more and see if you can't scrape up the necessary finances to make the trip this year.

Here is the list of those to be present:
Van Ames, Lew Barrows, Roger Bell, Doris Currier Treat, Fred Curtis, Arthur Davis, Mike Driscoll, Gabby Eder, Bill Faulkner, Charlie Folsom, Everett Ham, Maynard Jordan, Ote Law-ry, Speed Lewis, Shorty Loring, Bill Mackin, Bob Moore, Arno Nickerson, Frank O'Rourke, Shorty Peabody, Lawrence Philbrick, Rip Rendall, Fred Robie, Madeline Robinson Herlihy, Dick Silver, Ike Webber, Russ Bartlett, Cal Fox, Jim Hardy, Thayer Hersey, Jack Lecock, Lella McAvoy Banks, Currier Waymouth, Ray Whitney, Brooks Brown.

There are 35 that are going to try to be here in June and as I look over the list of other members that have not spoken as yet, I can't help feeling that when the time comes you will see 20 or 30 more added to that list because here is a chance to have a reunion with the Governor, Secretary of State, Attorney General of Maine—all from the same class—1916. How about it, will I be seeing you in June?

Word has been received of the sudden death of Edwin Kneeland in Pennsylvania. Ed, a native of Princeton, Maine, has been a successful teacher since graduation, having taught in high schools in New Castle, Virginia, and Pennsylvania. He received his Master’s degree from Columbia University in 1927. One of the members of the class who served overseas during the World War, Ed will be remembered as an outstanding student in his undergraduate days. He was a member of Phi Eta Kappa fraternity. This is the ninth death that has occurred in the ranks of 1923 graduates. Adrian Ashley’s death in 1924 was followed in 1925 by that of Rudolph Nisson, in 1927 by George D. Smith, in 1929 by Clarence Goddard, and in 1931 by Nina Stanchfield who met accidental death, in 1932 by Russell Leighton, in 1935 by Rachel Kincade, killed in an auto-mobile accident in Wyoming, and in 1935 by Willard Sawyer. In addition to this number, eighteen non-graduate members of the class have passed away.

Donald O’Reagan, who graduated from Georgetown Law School in 1924, the youngest member of his class, has an-nounced his candidacy for State Senator in the primaries. After graduation from Georgetown, O’Reagan was Special As-sistant to the United States Attorney and has since been Judge of the Caribou Municipal Court.

Hermon S. Silverman is manager of General’s Automotive store at Calais, Maine and is located at 175 Maine Street of that city.

Benjamin Griffith is an M.D. in Presque Isle—a new son arrived recently at the Griffith’s home—that makes two prospects for Mr. Maine’s college from Ben’s home—both boys.

Your secretary saw Frank Hussey in Presque Isle a few weeks ago. Probably you have heard that Francis and Serena Wood Hussey (1927) have three sons and one daughter. Frank told me that he saw “Chick” Hussey in spring. Chick is the head of the History Department and Track Coach at Lower Merion Senior High School in Ardmore, Penna., and has one son.

Harland Ladd, of Milos, is Head Scoutmaster of the Scooter’s Training School conducted in Piscataquis County, April 13, 20, and 27.

Your Secretary has been assistant Home Economist for the Maine Experi-ment Station during the past month, standardizing recipes for the use of potato starch flour in food. Two weeks were spent in Aroostook County attempt-ing to collect recipes using this product. Recipes are being standardized for the Surplus Commodities Commission’s pur-chase of 20 carloads of potato starch flour in Aroostook County to be given to relief. The standardizing is being done at Merrill Hall Equipment laboratory by your secretary.

Dear Classmates:

Did I ever have a grand letter from Chick Trask last month—one day late for the April issue—but good news keeps and I pass it on now.

Chick said that a recent annual meeting of the society of American Foresters held at Syracuse, N. Y., last December, and the New England meeting in Springfield, Mass., last month were regular class reunions. It seems that “Al” Best, “Cy” Winch, George Turner, Art Sanford, “Gramp” Nutting, and Chick held a regular get-together. “Al” Best is with the Soil Conservation Service in New York State. “Cy” Winch is with the State of Connecticut, in the forestry depart-ment, of course, and Clyde notes that he is not only adding to his knowledge and experience but to his waistline as well. George Turner is at Burlington, Vermont, as Extension Forester for the State of Vermont, and “Gramp” Nutting is still at Oroon as Extension Forester for the State. On Art Sanford information was lacking.

The two questions asked at any reunion, reports Chick, are “What are you doing?” and “Are you married?” To the first he answers: United States Forest Service, at present assigned to Green Mountain National Forest with headquarters at Rutland, Vermont. Technical work on timber management on the Forest Supervisor’s Staff. To the latter question: “No”—and as to Why? “They have me there.” Round up the crowd in 1940 and bring them along. Chick. Thank you for the letter and I hope you will send another next spring.

Frederick Harris' address is given as 218 Bloom St., Hot Springs, Ark. Can't you write and tell us "What" and "Are you?"

I talked with Izzy O'Connor's father the other day (Mrs. Charles Coughlin, of Logan, West Virginia, now-a-days) and learned that she is expected for a visit soon. Izzy has a young son, Charles Proper, that I hope to interview.

Dashing through the yellow's after Farm and Home Week closed I ran into a huddle of Extension workers—among them
Hortense Welch and Ruth Leman. Ruth is spending the night with me Friday and I should get some news from her.

Eleanor Ford is at home at 145 Chamberlain St., Brewer, and I tried to check on Bee Myers (Mrs. Joseph Kolton)' through her, but Eleanor like myself hasn't answered all her mail so all I gleaned was that Bee is living in Maple-ton and has a year old son.

And did you ever interview a lawyer—by telephone? I called Stern, Stern and Stern—Lawyers and by the process of elimination I got by two brothers and finally found Harry. I had noticed that he was best man at his brother's wedding and thought he might be practicing up.

The answer was NO! Someone should do something about any man that thinks he is woman-proof. Candidates apply at know that Harry is co-author with the late Charles H. Bartlett of two law books that have had favorable acceptance by the profession? The first "Maine Digest, Facts, and Law, Vol. 114-123 Maine Reports, Inclusive" and the second "Maine

Digest Facts and Law, Vol. 124-133

What's happened to everyone? My news is minus this month, although I do owe thanks to Dick Blanchard for a nice letter telling of the arrival of Kenneth Fred on January 19. Dick is in South Paris, where he is doing Extension work in Oxford County. In between times his daughter, Lois, who is two and a half, and a farm in Cumberland manage to keep time busy. Thanks for the letter, Dick, I do wish a few of the rest of you would remember I "asked for it."

Dear Classmates:

Well, have you begun to pack your bags for the Alumni Weekend? I do hope that many of you can find it possible to be there.

We start off this month's news with an engagement—that of Miss Kathryn Nel Griffith, of Montgomery County, Baltimore, Md., to William Doane. Miss Griffith is a graduate of the Union Memorial School for Nurses and is related to many old Maryland families. The wedding will take place May 14 at the bride-elect's home. Bill is engaged in business in Baltimore.

John Banks is a 1st Lieutenant on C.C. duty with the 173rd Co. in Torrington, Conn.

Frederick B. Romero is a medical student in Chicago, Ill. He sends his address as 1804 W. Congress St.

Miriam Hanaburg was graduated from the Mass. General Hospital in Oct., 1936, and is now doing special nursing. Her residence is 9 Revere St., Boston, Mass.

Lucia Umbrey Churchill is living in Yazoo and teaching at the Orono Nursery School. She has a son, Philip, aged 3½, and Patricia Diane, 1 year. You must be a busy person, Lucia.

Edith Deane Spear has certainly done her bit for this month's column—imagine it—a letter of five pages! It surely did warm the "cockles of my heart." I'll send you all the "highlights" of it. It seems (just doesn't this begin like a real piece of gossip?) that three years ago this coming June 18, Ethne Worcester was married to Arthur Farnham. They have a daughter, Sally (Sarah Eleanor). Mr. Farnham is employed as a mechanic in Boston. They are living at 23 Congress Street in that city. Mary Randall Leeman is living at 1131 Forest Avenue, Portland. Last June Elizabeth Davis became the bride of Warren L. Dudley, of Mapleton. They are living in Mapleton now. Edith writes that Edmund Daggett and his wife are now settled in their home in North Anson. Edmund is associated with his father in the confectionery business and is also an agent for Radios. Phyllis Harding (Mrs. Edward Kelley) is 10 Hillcrest Road, Springfield, Penn., where Mr. Kelley is doing research work. Edith says that she manages to keep busy most of the time with her housekeeping duties and in community affairs—also in assisting at the Library. She went to the last Farm and Home Week at the University as a Foods Project Leader from Somerset County, and this is her remark, "I never realized before what such a program offered to the women of the State." Sometimes, I guess that we all need to turn a thoughtful backward glance at the things we took so much for granted, to fully appreciate the real work that our Alma Mater has done and is doing. There were many classmates present at the Farm and Home Week meetings and from all I can gather there were plenty of good old "bull" sessions. Evelyn Mills, Home Demonstration Agent in Hancock County, with another Home Demonstration Agent gave a splendid talk and demonstration on the "Family Wash Rooms." bunny Callaghan and Betty Tryon gave an "unusual and most interesting demonstration" on "Kitchen Arrangement." Bunny is now Demonstration Agent in Oxford County and Edith is in Franklin County with headquarters in Farmington. Last summer, Betty and Bunny attended Summer School at Cornell. Alicia Tracy was present also—I believe Edith thought that she was engaged in research of some kind at Augusta. Not very definite I'm sure, but perhaps if I have some of you doing terrible things, you will take the trouble to send me the correction. I know that the Class of 1933 will wish to express its deepest sympathy to Blanche Henry in the recent death of her father, due to pneumonia. Our thoughts are with you at this time, Blanche.

Gee, Edith, was that a wonderful newsy letter and thanks so very much.

Dot Findlay also did a good deed this month and sent us lots of news from Portland environs. Dot is librarian at the Nathan and Henry B. Cleaves Law Library at the Cumberland County Court House, Portland. Winona Harrison is in Dover-Purcell and lucky enough to be sent on the Old Age Assistance. Margaret "Peg" Humphrey is dietitian at the South Portland High School. Doris also was busy in summer, and is in charge of the Old Tavern Butter-milk Bar near Yarmouth. Sounds mighty refreshing, Peg! Priscilla Bell Bunker took an active part on the luncheon committee for the Portland Club of University of Maine Women which was held April 2. Margaret is living with A. Couzens, Jr. (Helen Findlay) are mother and dad for Lyman A. Couzens, Jr., born Feb. 17. I wish that you would "Walter Winchell" around for me in Portland and keep me posted. Thanks so much for this letter.

Now, classmates, you see just what two letters will add to the column. Please, won't some of the rest of you "take heed"?

Hopefuly,

Next Reunion, June, 1938

I've just been addressing cards to find out who is going to reunion, and after watching several perfectly good penny postcards by writing on the wrong side, I've decided it's time to stop—but then, why write postcards anyway when we know that everyone this side of the ocean will surely be there. By the looks of the thin little envelope I received from the Alumni office this month I guess I'd better write more postcards. I didn't know the recession invaded the territory of Alumni News but so it seems. Recession or no recession "The Mall" will go through to Red Gulch and even though it be but a handshake in thought, here it is. Even Cupid is taking a vacation with one of your conquests in the month of April, it must have been that cold spell, but he did save us from complete oblivion—and here he comes—Coleman married March 14 to Evelyne Williams of Bangor. Mrs. Randall graduated from Maine School of Commerce, Coleman's assistant county agent of Penobscot County, and the Randalls are living at 34 Brimmer Street, Brewer.

John Venskus is engaged to Lucille Anne Rankin, of Rockland. Lucille is a senior at the University of Maine this year. John is employed as a safety engineer for the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company with headquarters in Portland. "Tom Hersey and Alice Colburn were married March 23 in Bangor. They are living at 26 Plaisted Street in Bangor. Last but not least of the spring romances is Henry Conklin and Mary Griffin who announced their engagement March 27. Miss Griffin graduated from Cono College for women and Henry is a master at Cheate School in Connecticut. It looks like a June wedding. Freddy Hinton is one of those fortunate who are lucky enough to be sent to California by the company. Oh, why couldn't I have been an insurance man or an auditor or something? It's so refreshing, that travels around and sees the world.

By the paper I see what wonderful work Lillian Wall is doing as director of the Pine Tree Society for Crippled Children. She has just been conducting an Easter Seal sale. This society fills in the program for crippled children, doing work which is not within the set-up of the federal and state agencies. A great deal of good work is being done.

I am so sorry I have no more news this time but I just haven't had time to go "Winchelling" this month. I'm going back to Boston next week. If any of you have any news that you just have to tell me, I'll be at the old address. We saw Rudy the other day and when he played the Stein Song we nearly burst with pride—he still sings it as though he means it, and boy, what it does to your old heartstrings.

See you soon.

Dear Classmates:

"In the Spring a Young Man's Fancy," etc., I guess there's no need for me to continue that saying, but just what are you "young men" and women thinking this Spring? Of course, the beautiful springs which you spent for four years at Maine. Wouldn't you like to spend another spring there, or would three or four days do? All this is leading up to the fact that June is a particularly lovely month at Maine and the Class of 1936 is having a reunion in June, therefore, well, draw your own conclusion.

You'll be able to see all your friends in your own class, and also those of '33, '34, and '35. Personally, I'm pretty much excited about the whole thing!

1936 and 1879

Lead in Dues Payments

The class of 1936 still is well ahead of all other classes in the number who have paid alumni dues for this year. They have been heading for the 100 mark, a figure which no class has reached for nearly a decade. 1917-ers have a comfortable margin in second position but the others of the leaders are bunched. 1911 has moved up, while '33 has dropped a peg or two. The six classes with the highest number of dues payers are:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Year</th>
<th>Percentage</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1936</td>
<td>187</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1917</td>
<td>186</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1910</td>
<td>185</td>

<tr>
<td>1911</td>
<td>184</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1935</td>
<td>183</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1933</td>
<td>182</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Measured in terms of percentage, 1879 is "tops." This class and 1885 are most always up front. Here's the standing of the leaders in this division:

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1879</td>
<td>60.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1885</td>
<td>57.1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1857</td>
<td>50.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1894</td>
<td>46.1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1896</td>
<td>41.9</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
"When I was firing on this division, we sure had to shovel between here and Middletown. It took muscle then to run an engine. Look at those fellows — just enjoying the breeze. If you want to be an engineer, you're a lucky boy to be growing up now."

On railroads, as in all industry, electricity is taking heavy loads from tired backs. More traffic is handled more easily. Electric travel is faster, cleaner and quieter. The new electrified lines and Diesel-electrics are bringing back the old thrill of going places.

In production jobs of every kind, modern motor-driven machinery lets workers use their heads instead of their backs and arms. Electricity does the heavy hauling and lifting. With its tireless help, men produce more and earn more in fewer hours.

Westinghouse has spent its entire fifty-two years in helping to electrify America. Nearly every job in America's industries and homes has become easier as a result. Electricity, through many Westinghouse applications, has multiplied man's power to produce wealth — and to enjoy it.

"Guess I was born THIRTY YEARS too soon, Billy!"
