Commencement Day, June 12, is the final closing date for the First Edition of Maine's beautiful and distinctive Commemorative Plates by Wedgwood. All orders received by that day will bear the unique backstamp that will definitely identify each plate as a "First"—a mark of real historic value, and a distinction never again available.

And now, for the first time, plates can be ordered in less than half-dozen lots. By special committee action, orders will now be accepted for one or two or any number of individual plates at a price of $1.50 for each plate, payable at the time of ordering. And these too will be First Edition until June 12.

Production of the initial run of the eight striking center designs of the Maine Plates will be ordered immediately after the closing date. Orders should be sent at once to the Alumni Office. And Commencement Comes Again

FRIDAY, June 9, to Monday, June 12, 1939, marks the sixty-eighth anniversary of Maine's first graduating class; this year Commencement days for 1939 will be marked in the minds of alumni particularly by the events of Saturday, June 10, officially designated as Alumni Day and set aside for business, the reunions, and the carefree fun of the old grads.

Featured by a program similar in general details to past years, the Alumni Association is planning for all returning alumni and in particular those members of the fifteen reunion classes ranging from 1889, the golden fiftieths, down to 1937, the two-year "babies" of the alumni list. Nineteen-fourteen which celebrates the Silver Jubilee in honor of their twenty-fifth anniversary, will, along with 1889, be in particular prominence in the day's activities. Other reunion classes are 1891, 1892, 1893, 1894, 1900, 1910, 1911, 1912, 1929, 1930, 1931, 1932.

The program this year is under the direction of the Commencement Committee with Harry Watson, '18, as chairman. Other members are: George Carlisle, '09, Albert K. Gardner, '10, William Schrumpf, '12, Howe Hall, '14, Mrs. Mary McClure, '29, Fred Lamoreau, '30, Mrs. Mabel Stewart, '31, Maynard Hincks, '32, and seniors Dana Drew and Mildred Watson.

Streamlined Meeting

Of particular interest this year is a step forward taken by the General Alumni Association in "streamlining" the annual business meeting of the Association. Instead of the long detailed reports and routine business of previous years, the meeting will eliminate most of the reports and will introduce a speaker who will bring before the Association some of the vital aspects of University life of today. This year's speaker, well known to generations of alumni, will be Arthur L. Deering, '16, Dean of Agriculture and Director of Maine's Agricultural Extension Service.

Other alumni who will be featured during the day's activities will include as marshal, Artie Abbott, of the class of 1914, from Rye, N. Y., and for honorary marshal, Eben R. Haggert, of the fifty-year group, 1889, from Baltimore, Md.

One of the leading attractions on the program of the evening banquet this year is going to be the toastmaster. The genial and well-known senior class president of 1914, Paul "Presxy" Monohon, of Newark, N. J., will hold the seat of honor and in his own inimitable way will introduce the speakers of the evening.

One of the leading names on the roster of speakers for the brief and interesting program of addresses at the Banquet will be that of alumus Governor Lewis O. Barrows, '16, still guiding the ship of state for Maine, who has been a familiar and welcome figure at alumni gatherings during his two terms in office. And all alumni at the Banquet will particularly appreciate the opportunity to join in a tribute to President Arthur A. Hauck in recognition of his completion this year of five years as President of Maine. In tribute and in appreciation for his leadership, his vision, and his ability which have been responsible for so much progress at the University in the short space of five years, alumni will unite to do him honor at the Alumni Banquet, Saturday, June 10.

Honoring Eighty-Nine

Members of the class of 1889, fifty years out, will receive special honor and recognition as they return to the old, familiar scenes for their Golden Reunion celebration. During the noon luncheon on Saturday, members of '89 will be the guests of honor and will receive certificates of "graduation" into the ranks of the Senior Alumni which includes all.

Names in the Library

The recent gift, mentioned elsewhere in this issue of sixty-three volumes of music to the University Library by Alumnus Gerald Marble, '17, of Skowhegan, is the latest name in a long list of names written into the history and growth of the Maine Library by donations of books, money, or other gifts. Sometimes at critical periods a small gift has been a most needful blessing; at other times, gifts have had value greater than monetary through rarity or special need. In all cases, gifts to the Library, now totaling many hundreds of items, have added to the facilities and the services of the University as a whole.

During the early, struggling years of the University, names of donors to the Library read in part like a Who's Who in the State. One of the well-known figures of the early days, whose consistent and unwavering friendship was one of the certain supports of the institution, was the Honorable Abner Coburn, one of the first presidents of the Board of Trustees, one-time Governor of the State, and for long a familiar veteran of the legislative halls, whose later bequest of $100,000 to the University was one of the institution's first benefactions. The gift of more than $1500 by Governor Coburn over a period of years was used almost entirely in providing much-needed books to help eke out the lean shelves of the Library. Probably one of the most widely known names written into the history of the Library through donation was that of the Honorable Hannibal Hamlin, United States Senator, vice president of the United States, and first president of the University Board of Trustees.

Other names among the early benefactors included that of Honorable C. B. Abbott, who presented over one hundred volumes in 1875, the estate of Rufus Dwinal, of Bangor, which provided for more than two hundred volumes, and the Honorable S. L. Boardman, of Augusta, one-time secretary of the Board of Agriculture for Maine and editor of a bibliography of agriculture. From the Trustees of the Bangor Public Library in 1877, nearly 1000 books were added to the growing store.

One of the great days of the Library, February 7, 1905, was the announcement of the gift by Mr. Andrew Carnegie, through the efforts of President Fellows, of $55,000 for the erection of a separate library building and furnishings, and soon the intellectual facilities of the University were housed in an attractive and, for the time being, adequate home in their own nook and corner of the campus.

Names of other donors more familiar to alumni down through the years include—presentation of the mathematical library of former president, Robert J. Aley, of more than seven hundred volumes, and the library of Professor H. M. Estabrooke of over five hundred literature and language books. Other faculty members have been generous in this respect. Prof. Alfred B. Aubert donated one hundred and thirty books of chemistry, Professor Welton Munson, three hundred and seventy volumes on horticulture; Prof. Andrew Raggio, three hundred twenty-five books on Spanish and Italian language and literature. From the estate of Mrs. Laura Hamlin, sister of Prof. George H. Hamlin, 73, came over three hundred volumes of German and French books.

Alumni, too, have recognized the needs of the Library during the years. More than one hundred volumes of engineering books were presented by Alumnus Nathan C. Grover, '90. The New York and General Alumni Association book fund was responsible for the most generous sum of nearly $1000 in 1922. In late years one of the largest acquisitions was that of the Clinton Cole Library from the estate of the late alumnus, Clinton L. Cole, '00, consisting of over six hundred volumes on marine subjects. One of the most interesting presentations to the Library was that made in 1903 by the University of Maine Scientific Society. This consisted of a complete set, one hundred and forty volumes, of a French scientific periodical dating from 1835.

Among alumni donations should not be overlooked the names of alumni authors who have given copies of their published works, usually with valuable autographs, to the University's book shelves. Among these are Mary Ellen Chase, '09, Dr. Edith Patch, (M.S., University Receives Three New Donations

The administration has recently announced the receipt of three new gifts to the University of equipment, library books, and money for music use.

A gift of $6,500 has just been received from the Carnegie Corporation of New York for further developing the music program of the University. Three years ago the Carnegie Corporation presented the University with a College Music Set which included an electric phonograph, records of the world's masterpieces, and many volumes on music. This music study material has been helpful in developing greater interest in the appreciation and study of music on the campus. The recent gift makes possible the development of plans for the further advancement of the University's music program, particularly with reference to instruction offered by members of the faculty of the Northern Conservatory of Music in Bangor.

From alumnus Ernest T. Walker, '11, of Plainfield, N. J., has been received for the Mechanical Engineering Department the gift of a Walker-Turner combination grinder and disc sander. The compact, double-duty equipment is part of the machinery line of the Walker-Turner Company of which alumnus Ernest Walker is president. It will be used in the Mechanical shops.

A unique present of sixty-three volumes of vocal and piano music masterpieces has been presented to the University Library by Gerald Marble, '17, from the estate of his sister, the late Harriett Marble. The gift from the estate of Miss Marble, who was for many years head of the vocal department of the University of the Philippines and later taught in public schools in the United States, includes several hundred songs of different kinds, operatic works, classical pieces by famous composers, children's songs and dances, and other selections. The volumes are both regularly bound books of musical collections and also many individual songs used by Miss Marble which she had bound while in the Philippines.

1910), Rachel Field, Hon. 38, and Joanna C. Colcord, '06. Other presentations of a different nature and of inestimable value through the passing years are various historical items dealing with early days of the University. Notable in this classification are many rare and interesting historical photographs given by Will R. Howard, '82.

Space forbids naming all the varied benefactors who have contributed to the growth of the University Library; their reward remains in the enduring contributions they have made to the intellectual opportunities of the University.
MAN OF THE AIR

JAMES M. EATON, of 1910, with the "M" standing for Morchere and a practical, shrewd English and Scotch ancestry which has helped him become Maine's leading commercial air-line alumnus, has been identified with American commercial aviation for twelve years. In that time he has made himself one of the recognized leaders in aviation organization and planning, and to his daring vision and practical application are credited the development of many vital aspects of the successful commercial passenger air service of this country. The steps to his present eminence in a new and highly competitive field have included the positions of General Traffic Manager of Pan-American Airways, President of Luddington Air Lines, and now Vice President of American Export Air Lines, Inc., the new flying branch of American Export Lines, a veteran merchant marine organization.

The planning of regular commercial trans-Atlantic air service to the Mediterranean, sponsored by American Export Lines under the development and direction of Alumnus Eaton, this year marks for the moment the highest pinnacle of success for this most air-minded graduate.

Out of the University of Maine in 1910 with a degree in Electrical Engineering, James M. Eaton cast his lot with the famous firm of Stone and Webster in the heyday of the construction industry. Characteristically, Engineer Eaton stayed with this job long enough to become thoroughly familiar and thoroughly successful but not quite long enough to become settled in routine. At the end of eleven years he packed up his slide rule, his log tables, a few clothes, and much experience, and stepped out of the construction game.

New Fields To Conquer

This was in 1921. There followed a few years when Mr. Eaton, then in his early thirties, organized a small merchandizing business. But routine buying and selling, small dealings in small articles, held no appeal for the expansive dreams of the driving and restless Eaton mind. What more natural then, to such a mind, than the appeal of the young, thriving, awkward, and most adolescent industry of them all, America's air lines.

The subject of air transportation was not a new idea to James Eaton; it has been said that he commented many years earlier on the difference in air traffic comfort and service between the American lines and those he had travelled in Europe. The idea was deeply rooted; it flourished and grew to a driving force which, in the space of a few years, set a pace on the Pan-American Lines over the Caribbean, Central America, and Southern United States which challenged all existing lines to a renovation of personnel, equipment, comfort, and service. Flights were scheduled with time-table regularity. Interconnecting train and bus services were geared into the air line system. Natty uniforms, better equipped and more attractive planes, new terminals in appropriate and colorful designs, a continual thoughtfulness for the passengers' safety, comfort, and enjoyment put Pan-American's air transport, through the vision and energy of James Eaton, on a new level for American flying.

Farther Fields

Once more Jim Eaton's trail breaks out of the planned and easy path. Leaving Pan-American to gather the fruits of his pioneering, he sponsored the Luddington Air Lines, operating passenger service between New York and Washington—one of the few commercial lines in the country attempting to operate without an air-mail contract. Once more a vision and a step forward. By cutting costs to the bone, by eliminating needless expenditures of all sorts, by establishing a regular continuous "every hour on the hour" service in direct competition with rail-road traffic, Luddington, offspring of innovator Eaton as president, set a new record of 75,000 passengers carried at profit in its first year without the supposedly necessary back-log of air-mail contracts. Eventually the Luddington Line was bought up by one of the larger airlines and Mr. Eaton, now a recognized executive leader in air transportation, looked for newer and broader opportunities.

The rapid development of plans for trans-Atlantic flying service presented a new attraction for the dynamic mind of Jim Eaton. As vice president of the American Export Air Lines, he began quietly and with careful preparation to work out details of a new service for American flying trade to the Mediterranean and Black Sea ports. American Export Lines, which have long been operating steamboat service to these ports, provided a golden opportunity for new developments. Having already a regular fleet of ocean boats in successful operation, the company could supplement this passenger and freight traffic with air-line service along known routes.

American Export is the first established steamship company in the North Atlantic trade to engage in transoceanic flying-boat operations. All resources of the twenty-year-old organization are being poured into the venturesome new adventure; and Jim Eaton, the University of Maine trained engineer, is the directing genius. Few companies and few men would have had the temerity to undertake a venture so extensive, and to compete with Pan-American, already surveying an established route to England. Jim Eaton, the man who had made Pan-American a leader in its field, has had no hesitation to undertake the task. Launched this year, the service will begin with two round trips per week carrying only mails and express for a period of more than a year in order to continue studies and test the details of the plan. Later, if successful, boats to carry forty or more passengers, in addition to the mail and express service, will be flown.

Back of this new adventure of the seas, America's second organized attempt to defeat the long and stormy Atlantic air miles, stands the strong, indomitable, and daring figure of Jim Eaton, Maine 1910. Seeing the record of his New York to Washington air service, his projected studies of other coast-line flights, and in particular his development of Pan-American's Caribbean service, the new venture over the wide spaces of the Atlantic is but a logical progression in the career of Jim Eaton. It all stems, perhaps, from the fact that he grew up near Calais, next door to the Atlantic where, through the restless tides of Quoddy Bay, the rocky coast of Maine looks out to sea. And it is not without significance that the ancestry of Jim Eaton, newest of a long race of pioneers, shows four generations of restless Maine Yankees who conquered the same ocean with sails long before flying boats were even a dream.

University Plans For Varied Summer Session

Under the direction of Professor Roy
M. Peterson, who for many years has served as director of the Summer Session, the University will again be host to teachers, educators, and other students at the annual summer session from July 5 to August 12. Combining a full program of undergraduate and graduate educational opportunities with lectures, talks, outings to scenic places in the vicinity, and ample facilities for recreation, the Maine Summer Session will again offer something for the taste of everyone.

The faculty this year will include fourteen visiting members, among whom will be Prof. Wilfred Hinton, of London, England, popular teacher at previous sessions; Carl W. Hasck, of Pennsylvania State College, widely known authority in economics; Paul S. Miller, principal of schools, East Orange, N. J., a leader in the educational field; and Fred B. Millett, of Wesleyan University and formerly the University of Chicago, in English. Courses will be offered in most of the regular departments of the Arts and Sciences College, in the departments of chemistry and chemical engineering in Technology, and in Home Economics in the College of Agriculture.
Work will be offered in school music this year through the co-operation of the Northern Conservatory of Music.

Among the recreational activities planned for the session will be a trip to Bar Harbor and Acadia National Park, the annual Summer Session picnic, various seacoast expeditions, a motor boat journey up Somes Sound, and the famous trip to Mt. Katahdin.

Fraternity Scholarship

The scholarship standing of social fraternities and sororities on the campus for the fall semester has been compiled by the Registrar's office. Alpha Gamma Rho, leading Phi Eta Kappa and Phi Kappa Sigma by a close margin, stands at the head of the list for the men's group. Phi Mu and Delta Delta Delta lead for the girls with a standing somewhat better than the fraternities.

Last month saw many students honored by election to membership in several national honorary fraternities in recognition of scholastic and other undergraduate accomplishments. Maine-founded general scholastic fraternity, Phi Kappa culty members for recognition. Phi Beta Kappa, traditional Arts and Sciences honorary organization, selected eight seniors and two juniors for members. The honorary engineering fraternity of Tau Beta Pi picked ten juniors from Technology. In Agriculture, Alpha Zeta selected twelve students and one faculty member.

Elected—
For the Maine Campus, weekly undergraduate newspaper, Charles Peirsie, of Bangor, a junior majoring in history, was elected editor-in-chief for the coming year. Other officers for the paper included Peter Skoulis, a sophomore, of Bangor, business manager, David Astor, a sophomore, of Portland, as sports editor; Rachel Kent, of Bangor, a junior, daughter of alumnus Benjamin Kent, ’12, was appointed associate editor. Other editorial board members elected are Joseph Ingham, of Concord, N H., son of Harold Ingham, ’15, news editor; Dorothy Shiro, of Bar Harbor, women’s news editor; Warren Randall, of Lewiston, managing editor, and Alma Hansen, of South Portland, society editor.

Maine Day—
The fifth annual Maine Day program featured campus work projects, a whirlwind election campaign, and a program of games and evening entertainments on May 2 and May 3. The program was again declared highly successful by all concerned and resulted in worthwhile campus improvement with plenty of fun and recreation. Following a preliminary campaign, the annual campus mayor was elected, Robert Coffin, ’40, of Brunswick, receiving the honor. Under the direction of faculty members and student committee members, students and professors worked together on varied campus projects during the morning. The afternoon program featured a County Fair festivities with games and races for men and women students, followed by a freshman baseball game against Higgins. Evening festivities concluded the program. Student groups presented various vaudeville features and the faculty combined their extensive talents in a comedy sketch.

Triumph—
With the four-night presentation of the Broadway hit comedy drama, “You Can’t Take It With You,” the Maine Masque closed the most extensive and varied season of its long and interesting career last month. The final play was in many ways a triumph of a triumphant season. Featuring Clark Kuney, a senior from Boston and a veteran Masque performer, in the role of Martin Vanderhof, junior Julia Warren, of Lubec, as Alice, Emily Hopkins, ’41, of Waterville, daughter of Bryant Hopkins, ’17, as Penelope Sycamore, were distinctive in the presentation. Others in the cast included Joseph Ingham, ’41, of Concord. N. H., son of Harold Ingham ’11; George Risman, ’41, of Roxbury, who starred in a comedy part; Ruth Trickey, ’40, of Pittsfield, as the dancer; Neil Sawyer, ’40, of Easton; and Barbara Ashworth, ’41, of Orono, daughter of Professor J. H. Ashworth.

Four plays presented by the Maine Masque this year included George Bernard Shaw’s “Heartbreak House,” a contemporary, social satire, “Roadside,” an experiment in realism with a sociological tinge, the world’s premiere of “Helen of Troy,” written by Joseph Miller, of the Public Speaking department, a blank verse psychological interpretation; and the current high comedy, fresh from Broadway. Performers, stage hands, technicians, scene designers, and, above all, director Herschel Brickeer, whose vision, patience, and ability are largely responsible for the success of the performances, have earned and received high praise for the year’s work. The successful season has set a new mark for the Masque to aim at in the future.

Plans Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the University of Maine Foundation will be held Saturday, June 10, for the purpose of transacting the business of the corporation, including the election of members and officers.

Mr. Stephen Wheatland, of Bangor, is president of the Foundation, of which Mr. Ralph Whittier is treasurer and Charles E. Crossland, secretary. Active members in addition to Messrs. Stewart, and Marcus L. Urann.

The Foundation was organized in 1934 to receive, hold, and manage gifts, bequests, and trust funds for the benefit of the University, and to assist in any way possible in increasing the financial resources of the University.

Fifteen Classes Plan
Alumni Day Reunions

Fifteen classes are scheduled to hold reunions during Commencement, June 9-12, of this year, with Alumni Day coming on Saturday, June 10.

To those of us who know Jack Magee as a Professor in the Economics Department and as a business man in Bangor, it was evident that his ceaseless practical energy and academic curiosity would result in such a fund of insurance information and ideas that one of these days it would be organized in textbook form. His textbook "General Insurance" was published in 1936 and met with such demand that a reprinting was soon necessary. This year has produced "Life Insurance" which promises to be a worthy companion to the general volume.

This text treats the institution of life insurance very broadly—covering 700 pages—and ranging from general concepts of social value and historical development through the science and practice of constructing and writing policies to such details as matters of trust and taxation. The outstanding feature is the unpretentious treatment of technical as well as general subjects, making the entire work a simple presentation which would appeal to the average college student, and guarantee a maximum retention from the pages studied.

The History Corner

The gay group of stalwart athletes pictured below has no affiliation with any penal institution, and, in spite of the uniforms, so far as is known no criminal records exist against them. They are, in fact, the Maine State College Baseball Club, winners of the Intercollegiate Pennant in 1895. In the days when Maine’s baseball field was a part of the great open spaces near where Aubert Hall now stands, these players made baseball history. The joyful memories of old timers will easily recall many of the faces and abilities of the group. For the information of younger alumni who never had the good fortune to see the M.S.C. Club of '95 in action, the stars pictured here have been tentatively identified as follows: back row, left to right—Gerard de Haseth, '95, first base; Joseph Randlette, '96, scorer; Isaac Calderwood, '95, manager; Harry Farrell, '96, third base; center row: E. J. Emery, '98, substitute; Perley Palmer, '96, catcher (capt.); George Bass, '97, pitcher; Louis J. Brann, '98, center field; front row: Walter Dolley, '98, short stop; W. A. Welch, '98, second base; Charles A. Frost, '95, left field. A. S. Cowan, '97, right fielder, did not get into this picture but was a member of the team.
WITH THE TEAMS

VARSITY BASEBALL
Northeastern 6—Maine 4

In the first game of the 1939 baseball season, Maine's untried varsity nine went down to final defeat by Northeastern University in Boston on April 27. Taking a 3-0 lead in the first inning, Maine looked strong as hits by seniors Ray Norton and "Shelly" Smith, of Bangor, combined with a walk for "Doc" Gerrish, of Lisbon Falls, and Northeastern errors to run over the first scores of the game. Changing pitchers, the home team tightened up and Maine was unable to score more than once in remaining innings. Pitching for Maine Art Chick, a senior from Mommouth, won the whole distance.

Rhode Island 7—Maine 3

The second game of the season went to Rhode Island State College at Kingston on April 28 after seven innings of listless baseball, finally called off on account of extreme cold. Senior Paul Browne, of Bethel, pitched the first three innings and allowed five hits for the seven Rhode Island runs. He was replaced by Alfred Mann, a sophomore from Raymond, who finished out the four remaining innings without difficulty.

Getting only four scattered hits, the Maine team was unable to cope with the home group who bunched their early hits and walks to establish a strong lead which was never threatened.

Connecticut 5—Maine 3
Connecticut 10—Maine 6

Two seven-inning games at Storrs on April 29 went to Connecticut to close Maine's early season New England trip. The first game, pitched by Art Chick, of Monmouth, was close through the fifth inning, Maine leading 3-1, when the home team picked up the lead. In the second game, senior Paul Browne, of Bethel, worked on the mound for Maine. Both teams showed poor fielding records and plenty of hits to bring in runs in every inning; Browne striking out seven gave up only eight hits but team errors lost the contest. Browne was credited with the only home run of the game.

Maine 7—Bates 4

In the first State Series opener for the University, Art Chick, senior twirler from Monmouth, worked hard to turn in the first win for Maine at Orono on May 2. Striking out five, giving four passes, and having the steadiness to work out of several bad spots, Chick looked good in defeating the Bates sticklers.

VARSITY TRACK

Maine 7 1/2—Springfield 5 5/6

The first outdoor track meet of the spring season left Coach Jenkins' squad runners and jumpers in a cloud of glory by a decisive victory over Springfield College at Springfield on April 29. High spot of the running events was a new mile record for the local track made by Don Smith, a junior of Easton. In the two mile run, Maine showed unexpected strength with Ken Blaisdell, of Ellsworth, and Dale Butterworth, of Franklin, Mass., both sophomores, tying for first and second positions, and Wentworth Mitchell, of West Newfield, a junior, in third position for a clean sweep. Three places were also taken by the Maine weight men in the hammer, with Stan Johnson, of Brunswick, and Bob Bennett, of Cransiton, R. I., both sophomores, taking first and second, and a junior, Ralph Smith, of Exeter, placing third.

Maine took nine of the fifteen events and placed two men in a four-way tie in the high jump. Senior Harold Dyer, of Gorham, and Don Smith were individual first-place winners, as Dyer took the shot put and discus, and Smith taking, in addition to the mile, the 880.

Right fielder Ken Clark, of Fort Fairfield, a senior, and sophomore Harvard Whitten, of Fort Kent, at third base with two hits each in timely spots. Maine started the game fast with three runs following singles by Clark and Whitten, a pass and an error. Again in the second, Maine Orono, at second, and Clark for a sacrifice.

Errors gave Maine one more in the fifth, and in the seventh the team scored a final tally by smart baseball. Gerrish, having hit for two bases, was sacrificed to third by Whitten and then teamed up with first baseman Craig on a perfect squeeze play.

A. D. T. Libby, '98, of East Orange, N. J., well known as a horseshoe expert and enthusiast, has declared himself in favor of the barnyard sport as an additional collegiate activity, and to sponsor the historic New England pastime, has generously donated a sum of money to be used in developing the plan.

At the present time indications are that a series of tournaments will be sponsored within each fraternity house and campus group and then winners will compete in a semi-final elimination. A special tournament will be held for interested off-campus men and the winner of this group will compete with the others.

At the annual meeting of the General Alumni Association at Commencement on June 10, consideration will be given to a proposed Life Membership Amendment to the Association's Constitution. Alumni are urged to attend this regular business meeting and to participate in the discussion, which will be included as the proposed amendment, which was submitted to the annual meeting in 1938. The suggested amendment reads as follows: "The life membership dues shall be $100, the principal amount to be kept intact, using only the income therefrom."

Commencement Comes Again

Registration during Saturday will be the basis of award of the Attendance Cups presented each year to classes having the highest percentage of attendance. Already word has been coming in from reunion classes and other sources that they are getting ready for a "bigger-and-better" kind of Commencement. Plans for class stunts and special get-together outings for class meetings and just for one grand old-fashioned good time are being made rapidly. Reservations are in order now and, to be sure of places at both luncheon and banquet on Saturday and for living accommodations, alumni are urged to write to the alumni office, 13 Fernald Hall, Campus, for reservations. Incidentally, again this year both luncheon and banquet tickets which have been reserved but not paid for will go back on sale two hours before the time of the event in order to insure seats for the greatest possible number of alumni.

And so June 10, Saturday, Alumni Day, is the big event for Maine men and women everywhere, and before you know it the great trek will commence back to the old campus to meet classmates and friends once more and join again in the fun and frolics and memories of Commencement.

Deaths

The death of Hugh McLellan Lewis, since 1908 Reference Librarian at Bowdoin College, occurred suddenly at his home on April 2. Mr. Lewis, who had been in failing health for several weeks, was seventy years of age. A native of Gorham, he was graduated from the University as a senior in 1893. For 14 years he engaged in his profession mostly in New York State, returning to Brunswick to accept a position in the Library. He was made Reference Librarian in 1927 and was widely known to faculty and students. Tribute to Mr. Lewis was paid by President Kenneth Sills, of Bowdoin, in chapel for his long and faithful period of service.

1897

The death of Charles H. Farnham in Shirley, Mass., on June 11, 1938, has been reported to the alumni office. A graduate in Civil Engineering, Mr. Farnham saw service in Cuba during the Spanish War and was later employed in Panama on the Canal survey. For a time he served as Civil Governor in the Philippines and later was employed on railroad survey work in China. During the latter part of his life he was Assistant Superintendent for the Industrial School for Boys in Shirley, Mass., until the time of his retirement through ill health.

Report of the death of Adelaide E. Flint, Santa Barbara, Calif., in March, 1937, has been made to the alumni office by her sister. No further details of her passing are known at this time.

The death by drowning of Edward Morton, of Springfield, Mass., occurred on March 25. The body of Mr. Morton was found on the beach at Biddeford Pool by a coastguardman. A graduate in 1909 in Agriculture, Mr. Morton had for several years been employed by the Federal Land Survey in Springfield and had previously served as a county extension agent for the Maine Extension Service.

The death of Joseph F. Burch, headmaster of the Thomas Gardner Grammar School in Biddeford occurred very suddenly on March 16. Apparently the victim of a heart attack, Mr. Burch, who was 54, died in his automobile on his way to school. A native of Waterford, Conn., Mr. Burch majored in Education at the University and taught at Farmington, Searsport, and Boothbay in Maine before entering the Boston School System in 1920.

1912

George L. Hosmer, of Martine, Calif., died on April 9 as a result of an accident while working at the Associated Oil Company refinery where he was employed. Associated for fifteen years with the oil company, he was supervising construction of a new steam plant when the accident occurred. Mr. Hosmer, fifty years old at the time of his death, had served for some time as superintendent of Maintenance and Construction. A graduate in mechanical engineering in 1912, he became associated with the oil industry shortly after his graduation. The accident was caused by a truck engaged in the construction which backed into Mr. Hosmer, injuring him fatally.

1920

The sudden death, in Boston, of Stuart F. Walker, of Livermore Falls, occurred on March 30. He had been employed by the Dakin Sporting Goods Company as a salesman. Mr. Walker's death, at the age of 39, terminated a varied and active career following his graduation from the University in 1912. He worked as a security salesman in Boston and Philadelphia, and had managed an insurance and real estate business in Livermore Falls.

Thirtyeth Anniversary

June will be here before you realize it, so make your arrangements now to meet your classmates on the campus Friday evening, June 9. If you have attended previous reunions, you will need no urging to come again. If you have not, take this opportunity to learn what you have missed.

Of course you will be welcome on the campus at any commencement, but you will never have another chance to see so many of your classmates. In the Alumni Directory, published last November, there were stars before the three names in the 1909 list. Already four more must be added.

Another glance at the Directory makes one wonder how Uncle Sam could do business if all Maine men attended commencement. Four members of 1909 are in Washington and several others in federal work elsewhere. Among the former is Harold R. Miller, who says the government refuses to let him leave. Doesnt that suggest the impracticality of a change of administration?

Walter Harvey has no such difficulties with his oil burners in Springfield, Massachusetts, and will be on hand for the reunion festivities.

A recent communication from Spin Kimball indicates that he will be with us if he can persuade the steamship company to hold up that Round-the-World Cruise for just a few days. There is a rumor that the white chief of a cannibal island in Captain Irving Johnson's pictures of the South Seas was really Spin.

Spivey Mayo and his family have recently visited the West Coast, spending several days in Denver with one of his sons. You may be sure that they will be back in Orono on June 9. By the way, Spivey has planned a very appropriate class ceremony for Saturday afternoon.

Its beauty and dignity will not permit describing it as a "stunt."

In our undergraduate days, co-education had not received the universal approval of the male element in the student body. We remember no decided objections by 1909 men, however, and it has been a great pleasure to have the girls at our reunions. We wish Cora Shaw Calvert every success in bringing them back this year.

As there will be no more issues of the Alumnus before commencement, this is the last of these reminders of the Reunion. Don't over-burden your memory, for it may not be as good as it was thirty years ago. Put a mark on the calendar now, one that will insure your arrival in Orono on the ninth of June.

We're on the air! Over WJZ every Wednesday at 8 p.m., and every Sunday over WTIC at 6:30 p.m., Master-Kraft Oil Burner sold by Harvey-Whipple, Inc., Springfield, Mass. Walter O. Harvey, president of the company, writes us of the broadcast hour. Incidentally, says Mr. Harvey, this is the fourth broadcasting contract that they had with the National Broadcasting Co.

Eliot Paul, author of The Life and Death of a Spanish Town, is now the author of a new book, The Stars and Stripes Forever. According to the New York Times Book Review of April 9, Mr. Paul tells the story of another town, an American town this time, with characters and scenes that he has known at first hand, in the strongest, most dramatic novel he has ever written.

Twenty-fifth Anniversary

Pharmacist Arthur G. Baldwin has business located at 768 Washington St. and residence at 644 Park St., in Stoughton, Mass.

Arthur W. Patterson was the moderator at Castine's town meeting in March. The Madawaska Training School alumni, faculty, and student body honored Principal Richard F. Crocker during the week of April 7 on the completion of twenty-five years as teacher and principal of the school. A representative of each class graduated in the last twenty-five years was present to honor Mr. Crocker. Two of his children are at present students at Maine—Richard, Jr., who is a senior, and Barbara Ellen, a junior.

Roland E. Stevens, of the Lincoln Junior high school, Portland, and former president of the Maine Teachers' Association, is to be a member of the summer session staff at Washington State Normal School in Machias.

"Better Pasture and Roughages" was the subject of a discussion led by Harold Shaw, of Sanford, during Farm and Home Week at the University.

Dr. Albert B. Ferguson recently published a new book which has been out but a few weeks—Roentgenological Pathology."

In the March issue we listed the chairman of our various committees, and I might say that very favorable reports are coming in from these committee chairmen, which indicates a grand get-together for 1914. Many of our classmates were in the war, scattered to the four points of the globe after the war, and have not had an opportunity to visit the campus since they were graduated in 1914. They are surely going to be surprised to see the improvements in our beautiful campus, and will probably get lost when they try to find the Mount Vernon house, better known as "The Coop."

Yours for Reunion,

No news last month, so no column. We’re doing better this month, however. Rutillus Allen is with the Dept. of Agriculture in Washington. His address is 1821 N. Rhodes St., Arlington, Virginia, and his official title is Agricultural Economist.

If you’re going to the World’s Fair this year, you’ll find Louis Soderburg right there in Flushing. He is president of the Colonial Wallpaper Co., Inc., with showrooms at 12 West 46th Street, New York, and 136-39 Roosevelt Avenue, Flushing.

J. Milton Harvey is a mechanical engineer with the T. W. Chapman & Sons plant in Old Town. He has recently been appointed an assistant district commissioner with the Boy Scouts.

We have received information that George Rose is nursery superintendent with the Corliss Brothers Nurseries, Inc. His home is at 25 County Street, Ipswich, Mass.

Haynes Wheeler is a pilot with the Boston and Maine Airways, Inc., at the East Boston Airport. He is living at 7 Vine Street, Winthrop, Mass.

- hope none of you people are forgetting that on June 10th we are all going to be back on Campus for our tenth reunion.

Bob Parks is chairman of the attendance committee and I’m going to quote a letter I had from him:

"Lou Kinney is serving on the committee as contact man to fix up rides or any other special arrangements. At Harmon is on the committee doing a job at whipping up enthusiasm in that quarter.

Larry Hobbs, our freshman president, is all interested and promises Lou he’ll try to be on hand."

With all that enthusiasm there’s no reason why the Class of 1929 can’t be on hand on the tenth for our tenth reunion.

We have already received one response to our first “broadside”. Reg Merrill, who is living in New Haven, is already making plans to come back. If he can make it from New Haven, those of us who are nearer ought to be able to follow his example.

See you in Orono.

Dear Classmates,

Let’s welcome our new ’31 baby first this month, Dudley Bishop Henderson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Henderson, arrived at Windsor, Conn.

Then our congratulations to “Wally” Harwood upon his engagement to Miss Sylvia S. Rowell, of Gorham, Conn. Miss Rowell is a talented violinist who has studied with David E. Fisher and attended the Eastern Music Camp three seasons. Some of you may remember her as Maine’s representative at the Major Bowes’ hour several years ago. At present she and Wally are both connected with the studio orchestra at WCSH.

The wedding bells are expected to ring early this summer.

More congratulations—and for some entirely different reason—go to Linwood Brocke who again, as director of athletics at Gorham Senior High School, this year won the Western Maine small schools basketball championship by beating Yav 11th 45-33.

Falleto, F. Wiswell is inspector, State Highway Commission, Bridge Division, Augusta. Like many of Colorado’s "highway men," he seems to be on the move, for he gives R.F.D. #8, South Brewer, Maine, for a permanent address.

Parker Spear is assistant cashier for the Traveler’s Insurance Co. in the Providence Trust Bldg. at 17th and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia, Pa.
Mildred McDonald is busy keeping house in Easton. Get your spruce housecleaning done, Mildred, or hasn’t spruce reached Aroostook yet? The Zone got together for a reunion by going back to campus for Farm and Home Week. Mabel Lancaster-Stewart spoke on “Pa’s Seed Flats,” and Stan interestingly discussed “Choice of Stacks and Trees.” Now there’ll be no speeches demanded from the rest of you. Don’t put out your old grey (blue or green will do as well) bonnet and we’ll see you soon. Mary C. Stiles 110 Revere St. Portland

It has just dawned on me that I have exactly half a day to get this column into the Alumni office so I’ll dash it off right now to you—I do mean YOU.

Last evening, Dorothy and John sat down to quite the grandest dinner they had ever had in Maine by none other than Mrs. Charles Reddick. Yes, we spent a very pleasant evening with Peg and Charles—the bridge game afterwards—well, I won’t go into that—for myself, I’ve always preferred Chinese checkers!

Murlar Holmes Maine, of 6 Cushman Street, Augusta, writes, that they shall always have the “latchstring” out for any Mainiacs, especially 337ers. Murlar says that William Knight is married and the Knights have one child. Bill is in the insurance business in Gardner.

Art Forrester, on a trip to the middle west last fall, dropped in on Mr. and Mrs. John Cunningham, 311 N. Trout Street, Dedham. Michigan. Johnny is a heating engineer for the Rudy Furnace Company. He took his Master’s Degree in heating engineering at the University of Illinois and worked for the Crane Company in Chicago before accepting his present position. Art said, though, it’s no longer news—it has not yet been reported in the Alumni—so here goes. Russ Shaw, our fine president, was married to Miss Nora Holbrook, a graduate nurse, a year ago last June. They are living at 76 William Street, Portland.

Hester McNair is living at 9 Oak Avenue, Norwalk. I hear that this year there are only twelve Supervisory Critic Teachers in Home Economics in Maine and Hester is one of them. This fact surely speaks well for Hester’s teaching ability.

“Bunny” Callaghan is still doing Home Demonstration work in Oxford County. She is living in South Paris.

Henry March is with the Eastern States Farmers’ Exchange—and he now holds the position of Assistant Plant Manager of the fertilizer division. His residence is 11 Harding Ave., Belmont, Massachusetts.

The Reverend Edwin W. Grilely, Jr., has resigned from St. Peter’s Protestant Episcopal Church in Johnston, R. I., to accept a call to the Church of the Good Shepard in Pawtucket. He will assume his new duties in September.

Jerome Comins was married to Miss Ada L. Kenyon, of New York, on March 5th. Mrs. Comins is a native of England but has been a resident of New York State for the past ten years. Jerome is employed as assistant manager in the offices of the United States Geological Survey. They will reside in New York.

Stan Prout, for the past four years advertising manager for Freese’s department store in Bangor, has accepted a position with the Montgomery Ward and Company in Burlington, Vermont.

Pete Talbot’s engagement to Miss Elinoi Rutherford, of Eastport, Maine, was recently announced. Miss Rutherford is a graduate of the Shedd Memorial High School and Washington State Normal School at Machias. "Pete" is chemist at the Brown Paper Mill Company at West Monroe, Louisiana. After their marriage in September, the couple will live in Monroe.

Tommy Desmond crushed through with some news this morning. It was beginning to think that he had forgotten all those beautiful promises he made to the Winchelsea last June at Class Reunion. He writes that he called on John Chandler in Round Brook, New Jersey. John is married and he is working for the Calico Chemical Company. Mr. and Mrs. "Bill" Thompson and baby are living in Water- town, Mass. Bill is a government draftsman located in the Boston office. Bob Ingraham and wife are still in Stoughton, Mass., where Bob is the chemist with the Meade Rubber Company.

Next Reunion, June, 1943

Dear '34ers,

Sorry to have missed you last month, but with moving three times in a month and the curse of State Boards hanging over me, I haven't been able to settle down. State Boards ended April 12 and I think I'm fairly permanently settled, so will try hard to report for May and June.

After vague rumors and third-hand information about Bruce Moyer's position, the card tells me he is a field worker in the State of Maine Division of Old Age Assistance, and his headquarters are now in Dover-Foxcroft.

Carlton Noyes is radio engineer for Travelers Broadcasting Service Corp., Station WTIC, Hartford, Conn. Jesse Wadleigh is inspecting engineer for Employers Liability Insurance company and is in Springfield, Mass. (or was the last I heard). People who hop from the Dominican Republic to Springfield, Mass., might be going most any place. Claire Sanders is a stenographer in the College of Technology at the University of Maine.

Please forgive me for such a meager column but there certainly must be a pile-up of news some place and now I can take time to ferret it out.

As for your reporter's little place in life, at the present it looks as though I'm destined to be a cell-counter. I'm a laboratory assistant in the Baptist Hospital and my best friend is my microscope.

I'll leave you with a promise of some news next time.

Hello, Everyone—

Another month has rolled around, and as we Maine dwellers begin to peep over the snowbanks, Warren Flagg writes from Hilo, Hawaii, and tells about warm water and sunshine. Warren is no longer with the tobacco company, but is now with the von Hamm Young Company, selling Packards.

Warren doesn't seem to think that we have much rain in New England in spite of the fact that we were sailing around in row boats a while ago. Not long ago 19-20 inches of rain fell in 18 hours one day in Hawaii, and all it caused was a "no school" signal to sound. Warren says to tell you that, in spite of the fact that he was writing on April 1st, he actually went skiing on Mauna Kea and Mauna Loa, two mountains not far from Hilo.

From San Francisco Elmer Randall writes me that he is enjoying the fair, and that by May first he will be enjoying the New York Fair. Sounds more than fair to me!

Carl Sawyer, '37, reports that Wally White and Elizabeth Sawyer White are living in Cambridge now. Wally is at Harvard doing research for the State Sanitation department. Jim Hanson is also attending Harvard, representing the State of Maine Sanitation Department.

Charlotte and Gene McMamary are visiting here in Biddeford for a few weeks. Gene is having vacations now from the clinic, so they had to come to Maine to really spend a vacation, as you all know.

This month Arthur Stubbs is reported with the Manhattan Rubber Mfg. Div. Raybestos Manhattan, Inc., where he is assistant comptroller, and Art is located in Passaic, N. J. Linwood Perkins is supervisor of the Muskingum, NYA project, New Philadelphia, Ohio. The project has 500 boys registered. Linwood was an engineer at Quoddy and then a co-ordinator of mathematics for the NYA. He taught for a semester and was a contact man and surveyor for the NYA in Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont. Later he became assistant director of Quoddy, but he has now been made director. Sounds like the ladder to success!

"Toddy" has appeared in the news lately, coaching Milo High Girls' Basketball team. Ruth's team is the champion team of Piscataqua County.

In Utica, N. Y., Eugene Jordan is specialty sales man for General Foods Sales Co., Inc.

And now for congratulations—a son, David, born January 16, 1939, to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wheeler—Donna Weymouth Wheeler—in Belfast, Maine.

Our felicitations to Ruth Rogers, whose engagement to Ralph L. Wadleigh has been announced. Ralph is assistant manager of GaulKauff's stores in Waterville.

Rumor has it that Al Sisco, teaching in Saugus, Mass., is engaged to—well, Al—the details?

And now I must tell you. The Board of Complaints has a report to make. So many of you haven't given us an inkling for ages of who is doing what—so before we're all called to the colors, let's hear from you all.

Dear '36ers,

My most difficult task since being elected secretary of the class of 1936 comes with the writing of this month's column. It is because I have to be the bearer of the news of the death of Rosemary Boardman, whom we all regarded as a good friend, as well as a classmate. I know you will all join with me in extending our most sincere sympathy to her family. With the permission of our president, John Sealey, I had a floral tribute sent to Dr. and Mrs. Boardman and James in behalf of the class.

Glen Torrey, who is now working for H. P. Hood, has been called to us twice lately and, as he had been up to Farm and Home Week, had several items of news for me.

He saw Malcolm Tilton, who is the proud father of a baby girl, Donna May, born March 7th.

John Dean, whom we haven't heard from since graduating, is living with his wife and son in Cambridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Norton Keene (Betty Jordan) were also at Maine during Farm and Home Week, had several items of news for me.

The engagement of Reunited Reed to Elizabeth Kelley, of Somerville, Mass., was announced March 1st. Miss Kelley is employed as a dental nurse by the Somerville Board of Health. Tom will receive his M.S. from M.I.T. and will then be employed in the laboratory of the U. S. Steel Corporation.

Dick Gaffney is Estate Sup't in Bonneville, N. Y.

Ruth Sylvester is taking a post-graduate course in Public Health Nursing at Simmons College.

Tom Ellin is a instructor in economics at Yale.

Richard Higgins' marriage to Marjorie Goode, of Bangor, took place April 15 at Forest Avenue Congregational Church in Bangor. Marjorie attended Maine for three years. Richard is general agent for the Union Mutual Life Ins. Co. and is located in Bangor. They are living at 472 Essex St., Bangor.

Agatha Kitarick is a student nurse at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, Boston, Mass.

Alfred Bux and George A. Clarke are both assistant managers for the W. T. Grant Co. Alfred is located in Stenkenville, Ohio, and George in Greensboro, N. C.

Phyl De Cormier is service representative for New England Tel. and Tel. and is located in Portland.

That's all 'til next month, folks.

Dear Classmates,

Another month and each one of us will be looking for everyone else in our class on the Maine campuses at our first reunion it hardly seems possible we've been out for two years, does it? The committees are working hard to make our reunion a success so we should all be on hand to congratulate them. "Boh" Oiler is chairman of the attendance committee—so, if you have any questions about that side of it your address is 22 Aberdeen Street, Newton Highlands, Mass. Norman Carlisle, chairman of the program committee, probably has his head full of dandy ideas to make our first get-together a huge success. I think you could reach him by writing to Bangor, Maine.

We have two engagements this month.

Tommy Houghton and Antoria Rosen, '39, are one of the happy couples. Tommy is Aroostook County administrator in charge of field work in the agricultural conservation program of the AAA.

Richard Plunter is engaged to be married to Harriet Barrett, of South Brewer. Dick is now employed as an electrical engineer for the General Electric Company in Schenectady, N. Y.

Congratulations and all good wishes to the four of you.

Frances Austin has been elected assistant teacher at Denmark High School. Frances will teach English, Ancient History, French, Latin, and will assist with dramatics and music.

Gardner Peterson graduated from Burbett College, in Boston, last June and has been working since then for American Sugar Refining Co., 120 Wall St., New York City. His residential address is 254 Decatur Avenue, New York City.

Jack Frost has been busy releasing a book of pencil sketches and descriptions called "Fancy This." It is of historical interest. Until June, Jack's doing

"USE SUMMERS FERTILIZER"

Whenever successful Farmers talk Fertilizer one hears, "You can't go wrong USING SUMMERS." "I USE SUMMERS and Play Safe." "The most for your FERTILIZER DOLLAR." "SQUARE TREATMENT." "GOOD SERVICE from an up-to-the-minute organization."

After TWENTY years of growth SUMMERS is now harvesting its crop of Good Will as these statements, gleaned from our two-year Radio program, testify.

Men tilling the soil for a livelihood, deal in REALITIES. The difference between a bumper Crop and the common, ordinary variety, is a REALITY of the first degree. Using the RIGHT Fertilizer is accepted as the best insurance for a maximum, low cost crop. This explains many of our Radio replies—"I USE SUMMERS and Play Safe."

Sincere Effort, Knowledge of Requirements, and Adequate Facilities have contributed to our GOOD WILL CROP. To these add an objective, constant for TWENTY years: To manufacture a Fertilizer whose plant food elements are derived from the finest QUALITY raw materials the World affords. For these good reasons Farmers have spoken so well of SUMMERS.

If you will let Results be your Guide, you, too, will USE SUMMERS.
