Biographical Note

Geddes Wilson Simpson was born in 1908 in Scranton, Pennsylvania and died in 2001. He received an A.B. in zoology from Bucknell University in 1929 and an A.M. in insect morphology from Cornell University in 1931. In 1935 he completed a Ph.D. in economic entomology at Cornell. In 1931 he joined the staff of the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Maine, and as a research entomologist he gained national recognition for his work on aphids, especially those affecting potatoes. In 1944 he was appointed associate entomologist and in 1952 was named professor of entomology, remaining in that position until his retirement in 1974. Upon his retirement he was awarded emeritus status and also began a part-time assignment with the Experiment Station as assistant to the director with responsibility for publications. For many years he was editor of the Potato Association of America's American Potato Journal. In 1975, Simpson was selected as the 56th Honorary Life Member of the Potato Association of America. Simpson also taught in the University of Maine's Honors Program.

In 2001, a Geddes W. Simpson Lecture Series Fund was established by the University of Maine Foundation with the support of the family of Simpson for speakers of prominence who have provided significant insight into the area where science and history intersect.

Scope and Contents

The records mainly contain textual information created and curated by Geddes W. Simpson who was a nationally known entomologist researcher for his work on aphids, especially those affecting potatoes, but there are also some photographs used as illustrations in research papers and of colleagues. The records cover his service to the University of Maine at Orono as a researcher and later director of the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station, professor of entomology, and as editor of the Potato Association of America's American Potato Journal.

The record series Papers contains various correspondence with colleagues regarding research and copies of research reports & publications related to Simpson's work at both the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station and as a professor of entomology.

The record series Subject Records mostly contain correspondence with colleagues both at the University of Maine and other academic institutions and research facilities related to Simpson's work at both the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station, a professor of entomology, and editor of the Potato Association of America's American Potato Journal.

The record series U.S. Department Of Agriculture Cooperation & Experiment Station Research Publications & Records mostly contains research reports and proofs of papers authored or co-authored by Simpson and correspondence regarding the submission and review of these papers to various publications. Most of these papers and reports relate to U.S. Department Of Agriculture supported research at the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station on the subject of controlling aphids on potatoes. There are also clippings of various articles and papers, incomplete runs of Extension Bulletin, Experiment Station Technical Bulletin, and the "Maine Farm Research" publication that feature papers and articles authored or co-authored by Simpson.

The record series Department Of Entomology Administrative & Historical Records contains copies of papers on the history of the University of Maine's Department Of Entomology, test papers, and various miscellaneous administrative material regarding the research and organization of the Department, its staffing and budgets.

The record series Potato Association Of America Records mostly contains correspondence regarding manuscripts of papers submitted to Geddes Simpson for review in his role as editor of the Potato Association of America's American Potato Journal. There are also copies of some of the manuscripts submitted. There is correspondence with presidents of the Association and copies of the Association's annual reports and publications.

The record series UMaine Honors Program Records contains material related to Simpson's tenure teaching in the Program includes: correspondence with colleagues, curriculum material, example student papers, and lists of students participating.

Arrangement

The Records Group is broken down intellectually into the following record series: 1. Papers, 2. Subject Records, 3. U.S. Department Of Agriculture Cooperation & Experiment Station Research Publications & Records, 4. Department Of Entomology Administrative & Historical Records, 5. Potato Association Of America Records, and 6. UMaine Honors Program Records.

Physically the Papers series is arranged chronologically by date of creation. The Subject Records series is arranged in alphabetical order by subject name. The series U.S. Department Of Agriculture Cooperation & Experiment Station Research Publications & Records, Department Of Entomology Administrative & Historical Records, and UMaine Honors Program Records are all arranged by subject. The series Potato Association Of America Records are mainly arranged chronologically by date of creation.

File names and dates were added and material was separated and divided into multiple sub-folders and grouped and merged with material on the same subject where necessary. Material was rehoused into archival quality storage.
