THE JOHN MARSHALL OAK FUND

JOHN MARSHALL OAK was graduated from the University in 1873. He was one of the founders of the General Alumni Association and served that organization as president. He was long active in alumni affairs; he was the first subscriber—and a generous one—to the Memorial Fund. He was a trustee of the University for seven years.

Mr. Oak's interests in the University were broad. His faith in its future was strong. His roots ran deep into the life of the institution. His life and service to the University will remain a lasting inspiration.

As a final expression of his devotion to Maine and his desire to see it advance, Mr. Oak left a bequest of $1,500, a generous gift in proportion to his means. Thus the name of John Marshall Oak, prominent in University history for several decades, will live on through the years, in the lives of countless students who will benefit from his thoughtfulness. There are many opportunities to be helpful to the University in a large or small way. The President of the University will be pleased to discuss possible gifts or bequests to the University with interested alumni and friends.

Front Cover: The main entrance of Fernald Hall. This building was the second built on the campus, in 1870; it now houses the Book Store, the offices of the General Alumni Association, the Placement Bureau, the Health Service, and several offices and class-rooms of the College of Technology.

On The Campus This Month

The Dean's List of honor students for the fall semester, released by Registrar James Gannett this month, lists a total of 183 students for all four divisions of the University. 153 of these are from Maine, 30 from outside the state.

In the comparative scholarship lists compiled from last spring's ranks, Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity led all others by an average of 3.01; Phi Eta Kappa was second, 2.557; Lambda Chi Alpha third, 2.465; in the Sororities, Pi Beta Phi led the list with 2.79, with Alpha Omicron Pi second, 2.73; and Delta Zeta third, 2.70. The average of the University as a whole was 2.398.

Twenty men from the University put the name of Maine at the top of the list in marksmanship this summer. After winning the Fort Devens trophy at the annual summer camp, the Maine group placed second for the entire continent of North America, competing against 168 universities. As a result, in the six-man Corps Area team selected at Fort Devens to compete in national matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, Maine sent five men, who took first, second, third, fourth, and sixth places. Special distinction went to Alton Bell, of Dennysville, team captain. The group was coached by Major Victor Huskea of the University Military Department.

Maine's prestige in dairy cattle judging was maintained this month when a University group placed second among teams from ten northeastern states at the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass. Cornell University was the only team able to improve on the Maine score. Professor Howe Hall, of the College of Agriculture, coached the team.

In the annual intercollegiate writing contest between Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont held last May, Maine placed second to New Hampshire by scoring 13½ points to New Hampshire's 16½. Vermont failed to place. The contest covers three divisions, short-story, essay, and poetry. Edwin Costrell, of Bangor, a junior, won first place in the essay division; George B. Weatherbee '37 participated in a triple tie for first place in the poetry contest.

Four senior girls, accompanied by Miss Marion Rogers '31, of the Physical Education Department, attended a Hockey Camp for a week at Mt. Pocono in Pennsylvania this month for intensive study of hockey and lacrosse plays, strategy, and theory.

BIGGER and better" is the slogan for the 1936, Sixth Annual Alumni Homecoming on October 30 and 31 this year. A program embracing nearly every phase of University life—athletic, social, academic—is being offered which should be of interest to every alumnus, starting Friday, October 30, with the State Interscholastic Cross Country run at 2 30, continuing through Friday evening and Saturday morning, the program will be climaxed by the annual Alumni Faculty noon Luncheon in Memorial Gymnasium, followed by the varsity football game against Colby.

A weekend full of enjoyment, interest, and excitement is promised. Headline speakers for the weekend include Governor Brann '98, Governor-elect Barrows

Guest of Honor

"Wally" this year completes fifteen years of service to Maine as trainer of Maine teams, Professor of Physical Education, and Director of Maine's admirable system of Intramural Athletics, his record from the start has been one of constant and unfailing popularity, friendliness, and encouragement. His work at the University has given Maine a fine system of Intramural sports for the participation and healthful enjoyment of about five hundred students annually; his knowledge and skill in training have given Maine's varsity and freshman athletic squads a reputation for taking hard knocks and liking it; above all his personal interest in every man, and his humorous, friendly, and wise remarks as he rubs, bandages, bakes, and tapes the many bumps and bruises of his innumerable official family, have given him an individual place in the hearts of Maine men everywhere. This year, at the Alumni-Faculty Luncheon, we will pay tribute as Guest of Honor to "Wally" for all that he has done and all that he has been for Maine during his fifteen years here.

Other Guests

We are especially proud to claim among the guests at the annual Luncheon this year two alumni who have by popular choice been given high honor and grave responsibility in the life of the state, Governor Brann, completing his second term as chief executive of Maine, and Governor-elect Lewis O. Barrows, who succeeds him in that office in January. Into the capable hands of these alumni the people of Maine have confidently placed the good and the growth of Maine. It is a signal honor to the University that an alumnus shall succeed an alumnus in this place of honor and responsibility.

A further matter of pride for Maine men is the record of Maine athletes in the United States Olympic teams. We give honor this year to Maine's four Olympic participants. Carl Ring '25 and Edmund "Rip" Black '30 were chosen for the 1928 Olympic games and represented the USA in the hurdle races and the hammer throw, Ring progressed to the semi-finals where he was nosed out in the finish by the final point winners. Black participated in the final competition of the hammer throw and placed third for the world, scoring for the USA and Maine. In the 1936 games, Donald Favor '34, in the hammer throw, and Clarence Keegan '36, as a member of the baseball team, travelled abroad. Favor placed for Maine once more by taking sixth place in his event. Keegan participated in the exhibition games of the trips and distinguished himself for his fielding and hitting.

Speaker

To pay tribute to the Guest of Honor and to these prominent athletes, Coach Chester A. Jenkins will be one of the leading speakers on the program. Having coached Maine's successful cross country and track teams for several years, none is better qualified than he to speak with knowledge of the performances of Maine's Olympic participants, and his daily personal contact with "Wally" has given him ample opportunity to learn and appreciate the qualities of the man to whom he will pay tribute.

Service Emblem

A main feature of the Luncheon will again be the award of the Alumni Service Emblem, the "Pine Tree 'M,'" by George S. Williams '05, President of the General Alumni Association, to some alumnus in recognition of distinctive service to the University and the Alumni Association. Who the seventh winner of this honor will be, will not be disclosed until the moment of presentation; he will follow in the footsteps of William McC. Sawyer '01, last year's recipient, and Harry Sutton '09, Hosea Buck '93, C. Parker Crowell '98, Edward E. Chase '13, and Allen W. Stephens '99, previous recipients.

Other Events

Other features on the two-day program include a mammoth football rally in the Alumni Memorial Friday evening, followed by a meeting of the 'M' Club under the leadership of President Royal G. Higgins '17. Don Favor '34 will be featured as a special speaker at the meeting, describing his Olympic trip last summer. The evening will be concluded with a stag dance in the hall of the Alumni Memorial.

Saturday morning will provide an opportunity for all alumni to visit classes and meet old and new "Profs" in their native haunts. This year an unusually large number of new faculty members are eager to make the acquaintance of alumni, and all the older ones you so well remember are looking forward to meeting and greeting their former students.

In addition during the morning there will be a football game between the freshmen and Bridgton; the Yearlings are fielding a powerful, aggressive, and smart team this year and it will be a game worth watching. Another athletic aspect will be provided when the alumnae meet the undergraduate girls in their annual field hockey tilt at ten on the girls' athletic field.

The afternoon of the big day will be well filled by the Luncheon at noon in the Alumni Memorial, terminating in plenty of time to get to the field for the varsity football game, Maine vs. Colby. And a good game it promises to be, with Maine out to make up for last year's defeat, and Colby bringing a team that is experienced and ambitious. During the half the varsity cross country team will fight it out against the Colby harriers.

A tea dance at 4:00 in Alumni Hall will give further opportunities for a social good time, and in the evening many fraternities are planning special reunion programs for their returning brothers.

The Committee in charge of Homecoming this year is as follows: Prof. R. R. Drummond '05, chairman; Prof. Weston S. Evans '18; T. S. Curtis '23; Winthrop C. Libby '32; Marion Rogers '30; Albert D. Nutting '27, and Alton Bell '37.

We Advise

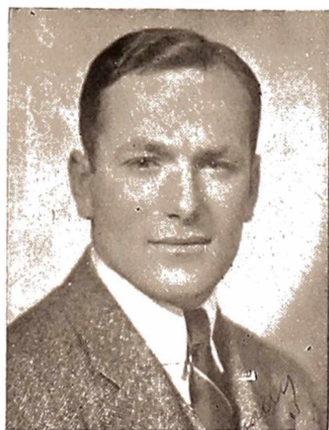

We advise for your peace of mind that you make early reservations if you plan to be among those participating in the noon Luncheon; caterer's provisions can stretch only so far, and last minute arrivals have been known to be disappointed. The feed this year is being put on for the first time by the University under the capable direction of Bill Wells '31 and for the charge of seventy-five cents an ample and satisfying luncheon is promised.

We advise, for your convenience, that if driving, you make use of the parking space near the Alumni Memorial which will be available all day Saturday and is conveniently situated.

We advise, for your interest, a visit to the new dormitory under construction to replace Oak Hall.

We advise, above all, that you come early and stay late to the fun, frolics, and friendliness of the Sixth Alumni Homecoming on October 30 and 31.

A Saga of the University of Maine Campus

by Pearl Vinal Vincent '96

THE forces that create us pass away whether they are parents or books and we are left at last to recreate our own minds. So it is memory softens as we recall glowing sunsets on the cool reaches of the Stillwater river, and the old Maine campus dreaming in the moonlight.

Through the curiously colored prism of traditional history, the writer's recreative mind dips into the measureless past and brings to light an ancient Indian trail that once slipped by Wingate Hall through the site of the residence of President Hauck, and onward to the "carry" at "Slough Gundy."

It was an evening of stillness and brown shadows, yet the forest trail was plain with its marks of white men, marks of moccasin, imprints of deer, cattle, and the trail of rabbit and hound. A beaten path filled with whispers of mighty things to happen.

Came the swift rhythm of flying feet and a Tarratine express dashed down the trail that led through the now University of Maine campus to the brink of the Stillwater River, site of the Sigma Chi fraternity house. Kneeling, he hurriedly built a signal fire, and watched it mount thin and high, tremble, burn red against the stars, then die in the darkness.

Still watching he gazed westward where another flame reddened the hills, and saw another fire answering fire. The watcher knew his work was done, and turning, sped homeward through darkness possessed of stars.

The sun fell through a silver screen of birches on the dark flowering of the Stillwater River, where, on its brink, was a grassy square. Here and there a buttercup patched the grass with gold, or a wild rose unfurled its petals to the wind.

Here, in response to the signal lights of the eve before, were assembled members of the Tarratine Tribe, who, with their chieftain, "Orono," were met in secret council before a strange new epoch of personal power yet to come.

The circle of waiting Redmen grew tense as Chief Orono arose and stepped into the foreground. Tall and stately, with fair hair, blue eyes that were both intelligent and benign. Wearing a suit of white doeskin, thrums on sleeves, skirt, and leggings. The entire costume beautifully embroidered with beads of violet, purple and orange. A bonnet of glossy heron's feathers crested his stately head, and he looked the grand specimen of a warrior.

"My children," he said in sonorous tones, "the great Spirit gave us freely of all things. Our white brothers tell us they came to the Indians' country to enjoy liberty and life. The great Sagamore (King George III) is coming to bind them in chains, to kill them. We must fight him. We will stand on the same ground with them. For should he bind them in bonds, next he will treat us as bears. Indian liberties and lands his proud spirit will tear away from them. Help his ill-treated sons. They will return good for good and the law of love will run through the hearts of their children and ours when we are dead. Look down the stream of life! Look up to the great Spirit! Be kind, be brave, be free—then, are the Indians 'Sons of Glory!'"

Fired by Chief Orono's sentiment the Tarratines not only applauded but swore fealty to the cause he espoused.

The forest seemed hushed, when the sound of bugles and roll of drums blew over the silence. Soon the waiting Redmen saw a column of English soldiers emerging from the trail, the sunlight glinting on scarlet coats and glistening muskets. The Tories came to rest on the grassy plot already occupied by the Sagamore Orono and his tribesmen.

The ceremonies began with the kindling of the council fires, a rite that had been handed down through unknown centuries of Indian usage. Black smoke was wafted over the Redmen who stood motionless as the birches where the council fires burned.

Resplendent in scarlet and gold uniform, an English officer came forward. Addressing the Tarratines in unctuous tones he stressed the advantage gained in joining forces with the British Crown, offering the Tarratines huge bribes in money, land, food, and clothing. His voice took on a persuasive note as he added, "I have brought your brothers of the Long House as hostages of truth."

In response to his call, "Mohawk," "Cayuga," "Iroquois," each Sagamore, magnificent in beaded buckskin, their feathered bonnets streaming high, advanced with open palm outstretched in grave salutation of assent.

Softly then the officer questioned, "Tarratines?"

"No," Orono sprang forward with arms outspread as if to protect his tribesmen from such heresy. Again, "NO," his voice thundered, "My Tarratines are for PEACE."

Turning, he uttered the one word "KOUE." "Go." And like leaves that scatter before the wind his Redmen disappeared into the green wall of forests behind them.

The commanding British officer turned his astonished gaze upon a fellow officer "Egad!" he exclaimed "The British Crown is defied by a half breed Sagamore and a handful of ragged Redskins." All precedent was smashed by this simple utterance.

Two weeks later, just after the battle of Bunker Hill, Chief Orono with three of his colleagues as a deputation of the Penobscot Indians, arrived in Watertown, Massachusetts, and tendered their services to the Provincial Congress held there on June 21, 1775.

The leaves were already beginning to spread a crimson carpet for October's lovely feet, and through the trodden forest trail, now wide enough for a team to pass, came forest rangers, riflemen, courier-de-bois. A far cry in the shadows—"Express-ho! I pass!" and an army express sped down the trail through the campus yellow moccasins, coonskin cap, green thrums blowing in the wind.

Unseen—on either hand—were "flankers," Tarratine runners, guarding with their own lives the express who carried dispatches for our Colonial activities.

Some Figures About 1940

With a grand total of 49 sons and daughters of alumni, the highest number ever recorded, the class of 1940 enters the University well fortified with Maine ties and traditions. One hundred ninety freshman students have some relations who are alumni, and three of them have the benefit of two generations of Maine history; these are William H. Chandler, of Portland, with Clifton Chandler '13, father, and Heywood S. French '86, grandfather; John Littlefield, of Brewer, with John Littlefield '13, father, and again John Littlefield '89, grandfather; and Pemberton Southard, of Augusta, with Frank E. Southard '10, father, and Frank E. Southard '76, grandfather.

Four freshmen have both parents alumni: Perry Bean (Perry A. '07 and Jennie Brown '10), Suzanne LaPoiné (Edmund '18 and Mildred Perry '17); John Mames (Esca A. '14 and Muriel Young Ames '13); William Wright (Harold W. '10 and Mildred Prentiss '11).

The class of 1913 has the largest representation, five fathers and one mother.

The most related freshman of the class is Myer Alpert, of Bangor, who boasts ten alumni relatives—three brothers, a sister, and six cousins; close behind him comes Clement Philbrook, of Littleton, with father and eight cousins.

New Hampshire Will Choose

H. Styles Bridges '18

"Fight the cause of the under dog" is one of the maxims of the Governor of New Hampshire. It may be because he has known what the under dog feels like and because he has proven what the under dog can do.

When he left the farm at West Pembroke, Maine, to attend the University of Maine, in 1916, Styles Bridges had already known responsibility, struggle, difficulties, and hardship ever since the death of his father when Styles was nine years old. Hard work and ambition were the coat of arms he inherited. He came to the University with hope, energy, and no money, but that did not stop him. He worked at the dairy barns before dawn and after dark; he lived in what is known as "Hungry Hollow," boarding himself; he saved, worked, studied, and occasionally played for two full and vital years. The certificate he received in 1918 was earned through hard work, perseverance, and an unquenchable ambition.

Following his University career, he entered the World War, then taught school for a time, then joined the extension faculty of the University of Maine, and later of the University of New Hampshire. His ability became recognized through the state and his popularity grew with it. He became Executive Secretary of the Farm Bureau Federation of New Hampshire. In 1924 his political ability, energy, and appetite for hard work were utilized in the campaign of 1924 which elected Governor John G. Winant. Again in 1928 he directed the successful campaign of Governor Tobey. He was an important member of the Republican State Committee.

"Too young, too liberal, too poor," old line politicians said of him as his name began to come up as a possibility for Governor. But Styles Bridges had seen a lot of opposition during his life, and in 1934 his ability was approved by the people of New Hampshire in no uncertain way when he carried the state for the Republicans in the face of unprecedented Democratic strength by nearly 2,500 votes. Typically, his platform was one of the most liberal and constructive ever presented by his party in the state.

His Governorship, too, has been marked by crises demanding all the background of hard work, acumen, and energy built up during his early years. He has become during it a national figure mentioned this year as a Vice Presidential possibility. The farm boy has earned his way, the underdog has become a leader of men, respected, admired, and loved.

New Hampshire voters of both parties will cast their ballots for Maine men next month when they name their new U. S. Senator H. Styles Bridges '18, present Governor of New Hampshire, and William N. Rogers '16, U. S. Representative from New Hampshire's first district, will oppose one another at the polls for the Senatorial election.

This almost unique situation is a matter of interest and pride to a'ummi, two Maine men of proven ability and integrity have received the approval of the people of our neighboring state. We present here brief records of what they have done.

HON. H. STYLES BRIDGES '18

HON. WILLIAM N. ROGERS '16

William N. Rogers '16

Sanbornville, New Hampshire, is mighty proud of its native son, "Bill" Rogers; they began to be proud of him when he was captain of the Brewster Academy, Wolboro, N. H., football team of 1909, and they kept right on when he was one of the finest guards that ever wore green for Dartmouth, during his undergraduate years there in 1911, 1912, and 1913.

When he went way off to Bangor, Maine, in 1915, to attend the Law School of the University of Maine, the folks back in Sanbornville still heard of him occasionally. He was coaching the Bangor High School football team and making it a first class outfit, he was also getting his law degree, which was duly received in 1916.

Coaching did not take all his time. He was assistant editor and editor of the Law Review, his scholarship brought him membership in Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary scholastic society. While in Bangor he registered and voted for the first time—the Democratic ticket—and began to take an active interest in things political.

He was admitted to the New Hampshire bar the same year he graduated from the University of Maine.

On his return to New Hampshire he practiced law in Concord and Rochester; his friends back home began to hear of him more and more often as a keen, fair, lawyer with a habit of winning cases; they heard of him again within a year when in 1917 he served his first term in the State House of Representatives. This place and this popularity he held for three successive terms, then in 1922 at the age of thirty, he swept into the U. S. House of Representatives by a large majority.

The people of Sanbornville are still proud of "Bill" Rogers, he has now served three terms in the United States Congress where he has become known as a rare, but effective speaker with something worth saying when he does speak. He has been chairman of the Aviation sub-committee and a member of the committee on Foreign Affairs. He has been, and is, a busy man. The people of Sanbornville see him occasionally, when his work allows, "farming it" on the family acres in the little home town or meet him on a hunting or fishing trip. He is "our Bill" to them and they declare him one mighty fine fellow. In one of his early campaign speeches, he spoke a keynote phrase that still holds good for this forthright, sincere, and capable Yankee lawmaker. He said, "I will find my own way."

Board of Trustees Presents Financial Report

by Hon. E. E. Chase, President, Board of Trustees

THE financial condition of the University of Maine has reached a point where due regard of our obligations and responsibilities requires the Board of Trustees to report to the people of the State concerning the critical situation and the reasons therefor.

In 1929 the legislature passed the Mill Tax Act, allocating to the University an amount equal to one mill on the assessed valuation of the State. The purpose of this Act was to put the University upon a definite financial basis, and thereby to make it possible for the Trustees to adopt and carry out a long term policy. For three years the University received the full Mill Tax appropriation. During this period, there was paid and retired the $120,000 remainder of the debt incurred during the war years; several important buildings were erected; and some of the older buildings were remodelled and repaired. In 1932, on account of the serious condition of the State Government, the University returned to the State $50,000. In 1933 although the Mill Tax law was unchanged, the full amount was not appropriated by the legislature, and again in 1935 the legislature failed to appropriate the full amount. The total amount which the University has returned to the State or failed to receive from the State during the period between July, 1932, and July, 1936 is $508,588, and during the fiscal year, July, 1936-July, 1937, the receipts from the State will be $110,558 less than the Mill Tax would provide.

In the meantime, during this period of reduced appropriations the financial condition of the University has grown worse steadily. Reserves for construction and repairs which had been accumulating during the three years of operation while the Mill Tax Act was in full force and effect, have been exhausted. Working capital has been reduced to the vanishing point. As far as working capital is concerned, the liabilities of the University now exceed its assets, and the June 30, 1936, Balance Sheet shows a deficit. During September it was necessary to finance operations by loans, and it is expected that it will be necessary to borrow from time to time during the year.

At the beginning of the fiscal year, July, 1935, to July, 1936, the Trustees were unable to prepare a balanced budget. Fortunately, unexpected income from the Federal Government and other minor items of income produced an excess of receipts over actual expenditures. However, the destruction of Oak Hall by fire made necessary the construction of a new dormitory for men. Oak Hall, an old building housing men, was insured for $40,000, while the dormitory now under construction will probably cost about $120,000 to build and equip. A reserve has been set up for this construction; but except for the insurance money there are no funds available, except by borrowing, to pay for the new dormitory. With the approval of the Governor and Council, the Trustees expect to borrow $75,000 for this purpose. The current year's expected income affords no prospect of funds for repayment of this loan, except by cutting the educational budget.

The Board of Trustees is not trying to increase the size of the University, either in plant or number of students. Our policy is to provide educational facilities of high quality in essential departments, with special emphasis upon those lines indicated by Maine's natural resources and economic activities. Two very important courses, which require better equipment in order to receive the best rating in professional standing, are forestry and pulp and paper. The estimate of expenditure for buildings and equipment needed to bring these departments up to the desired standing is $200,000. The department of chemistry is in a similar situation with respect to professional rating in chemical engineering, and a substantial outlay for remodelling its building appears necessary. There is urgent need for a women's dormitory, to replace the Mount Vernon house which was destroyed by fire, and a second must be built as soon as possible. Several buildings require extensive repairs. An infirmary should be built as

VARSITY FOOTBALL

Maine 0—Rhode Island 7

The first game of the season opened inauspiciously when Rhode Island's aggressive, light-footed squad took over an inexperienced and very much over-anxious Maine eleven 7-0. For the first half of the game, two of Rhode Island's backs, Mudge and Albanese, ran away with the game, sweeping around and through the Maine defenses almost at will. In a very few minutes after the opening of the game, Rhode Island had piled up 55 yards in 9 plays for the touchdown. From that point on, Maine's defense improved until the last of the game Rhode Island was unable to penetrate at all.

On the other hand, Maine's attack was uncertain, poorly directed and very weak in interference. Quarterback Fran Smith showed real ability in broken field running and particularly in flipping accurate, flat passes to Hamlin, Elliott or Williams. Elliott also toted the ball some and Red Mallett, a sophomore, showed some very good line bucking.

Columbia 34—Maine 0

A tricky, hard-running, powerful Columbia University team took the measure of the Maine men at New York October 3, but not without plenty of spirited opposition and more than one threat to their goal line. Maine played a vastly improved soon as possible. All of these things could have been provided, if the University had received the full amount of the Mill Tax during the past three years and the current year.

The Board of Trustees believes that the time has come when the people of Maine, through their representatives in the legislature, should express definitely their intentions with respect to the University of Maine. We perceive no advantage to anyone in further postponement or delay. Having exhausted available resources, we cannot continue upon the present basis without being obliged to impair seriously the quality of the instruction and the equipment. We believe that it is time to face the problem, and to decide the future policy of the University. Only the people, through the legislature, can do this. The Trustees recommend that the Mill Tax appropriation be renewed immediately.

style of football as compared with the Saturday before. With Elliott, "Red" Mallett, and Fran Smith starring in the backfield and the whole line working well, twice the Bears drove deep into Columbia territory by effective running plays and especially by deceptive, accurate passes.

Although stoppepd at last, once on the 24-yard line and once on the 13, Maine threw a real scare into the big Columbia outfit and played, altogether, on both attack and defense a creditable, courageous, and brainy game of football.

Maine 27—New Hampshire 6

After battling evenly for the first half of the game at Durham on October 10, Maine, the under-dog in all pre-game picking, took to the air and filled the new Lewis Stadium full of accurate, bewildering passes that left the raging Wildcats fuddled and gasping on the short end of the most lop-sided New Hampshire score Maine has accumulated in several years. With Fran Smith throwing the ball where

VARSITY CROSS COUNTRY

Maine 28—New Hampshire 28

The 1936 cross country season for Maine was inaugurated at New Hampshire on October 10. Although having only two weeks of practice and running over an entirely strange course, Maine tied the home runners by placing Bill Hunnewell and Ralph Clifford in a tie for first place, 400 yards ahead of a bunched group of New Hampshire men. According to Coach Jenkins, the squad showed very definite promise but was heavily handicapped by lack of practice.

The first cross country honors of the year went to the freshman harriers when on October 5 three picked teams defeated Lee Academy, Old Town High, and Orono High. A perfect score was turned in for the first squad against Lee, 15-49; Old Town took first place in its race although losing finally 22-35.

the receivers, Hamlin and Elliott, were planning to be, this duo of speedy ground-gainers picked them out of the air on the dead run time and again to loaf easily to the goal line to score standing up.

Three times in the last quarter Smith's beautiful passes allowed Elliott and Hamlin to score on single plays of 30 and 50 yards in length. Much credit, also, however, must be given the linemen, who time and again broke up a determined, tricky, and powerful N. H. running attack. With a brilliant goal-line stand on the one-foot line in the first half and continual fine play by Dewey Proctor, Ernie Reidman at guard, Wally Gleason, tackle, and Pat Hutchings, stalwart center, and others of the line, Maine's defense was almost impenetrable after New Hampshire's score.

Maine 21—Lowell Textile 0

In a sea of mud and driving rain on October 17, Maine had little difficulty in subduing an inexperienced and not too strong Lowell Textile team. Although handicapped by terrible weather conditions, Maine used runs and deceptive passes freely to bewilder the Massachusetts boys.

Several long run backs of kicks by Elliott and Peterson, and flashy lateral passes with Elliott on the receiving end and Smith throwing, accounted for many of the gains. The Maine line played excellent defensive football and many of the substitutes showed considerable promise.

WITH THE LOCAL ASSOCIATIONS

The Portland Alumnae

held their first meeting of the season on October 1 at the Lafayette Hotel. After a short business meeting during which plans were made for the year, a social evening led by "Peg" Merrill Pratt, was enjoyed by the members. Hostesses were: Helen Findlay Cousens, Winona Harrison, and Dorothy Findlay.

Doctor of Laws

PRESIDENT ARTHUR A. HAUCK

Announcement has just been made of the award of the Honorary Degree of LL.D. to President Hauck by Lafayette College, Oct. 16. President Hauck was formerly Dean at Lafayette. Complete details of the presentation will be reported in our next issue.

The Northern Ohio Alumni gathered at Fell Lake on October 4 for their annual fall picnic. A real Maine "visit" was thoroughly enjoyed by all members attending as well as their wives and families. The entire affair was informal, with no regular business meeting.

The Missouri Alumni

met on October 7 at the home of Professor and Mrs. E. O. Sweetser to welcome Professor Benjamin Kent '12 of the University, and Albert Anderson '09, of Portland. During a brief meeting arrangements were made for raising money for the scholarship fund.

Schedule of Alumni Meetings

- Oct 29 Maine Alumni Teachers' Assn—5 30 p.m., in the United Baptist Church, Main St, Lewiston
- Nov. 4 Oxford County—Rumford Pres. A. A. Hauck, guest of honor
- 4 Western Mass.—12 15, University Club, 1341 Main St, Springfield
- 5 White Mt.—Androscoggin Valley Country Club, Shelburne, N. H.—Dinner 7 00 p.m. Pres. A. A. Hauck, guest of honor
- 5 Portland Club—Lafayette Hotel 8 00 p.m.
- 7 Philadelphia Alumni Association—1 00 p.m. Electrical Bureau Restaurant, 6th floor, Architects Bldg., Philadelphia held their first meeting of the year on October 13. Plans were made for fall meetings and officers were elected for the coming year as follows: Marlborough Packard, president; D. W. MacLean, vice-president; C. H. Goldsmith, secretary; B. G. Hoose, treasurer.

The White Mountain Alumni

The New York Alumni

attended the Columbia-Maine game on October 3 in large and enthusiastic numbers. After the game the Association put on a dinner and dance at the Hotel McAlpin in honor of the visiting Maine men. A most enjoyable time was reported by the large number attending and a real old-time welcome was given the team.

Knox County Alumni Establish Scholarship

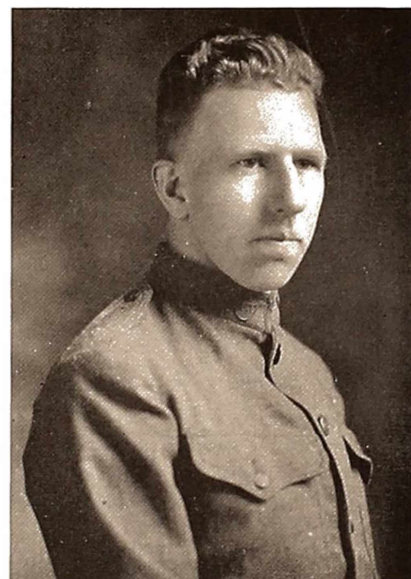

Knox County Alumni have joined the ranks of the associations giving an annual scholarship at the University. The first award, of seventy-five dollars, is to be made for the present year.

This club was foresighted in the manner which was used to raise the fund. Miss Ruth E. Draper, of New York City and Dark Harbor, who ranks foremost in the world as a character portrayal, gave a benefit performance which netted the Scholarship Fund a fine sum both for this year's scholarship and also a nest egg around which to build.

New Scholarship Fund Honors Former Student

The name of Philip Randall Hathorne, a graduate of the University, class of 1923, who was drowned in 1929, has been memorialized and written into the University history by the establishment of a scholarship fund of $7,000 which bears his name. This fund has been given by his parents, Mrs. Carrie E. Hathorne, of Woolwich, and the late David F. Hathorne, who left a bequest of $5,000 which has just been announced by Dr. Hauck.

Under the terms of the will of Mr. Hathorne, a successful engineer and farmer who died last February, there was created a fund which was to be known as the Philip R. Hathorne Scholarship Fund, the income of which was to be used to help needy students who are studying the civil engineering course, with preference to be given to the natives of Maine. Mrs. Hathorne, desiring also to share in the memorial to her son, has added $2,000 which is to become a part of and used in the same manner as the fund created by her husband.

Philip Hathorne came to the University from Woolwich, entering in 1919 following his graduation from Morse High School in Bath. During his undergraduate days he participated in track athletics and was active in the professional engineering society. After graduation he went into the west where he spent several years on various engineering projects which took him to different points, including Alaska. He returned to the east in 1928 to become a civil engineer with the International Paper Company. It was while engaged on an engineering project for that company that he was drowned in June, 1929, at Fort Kent.

ALUMNI PERSONALS

DEATHS

John D. Blagden, native of Carmel and for many years a well-known meteorologist in the Weather Bureau office, died on July 2 at his home in Memphis, Tennessee. Mr. Blagden, one of the few surviving members of the class of 1886, which celebrated its fiftieth class reunion this year, spent most of his life in the Weather Bureau, studying various phases of meteorology. While engaged in this work, Mr. Blagden was employed in Galveston, Texas, during the famous hurricane of 1900. At the time of his death he was working to complete a compilation of weather data over a period of fifty years which he planned to publish as a book.

Mr. Blagden had been employed at Wood's Hole, Mass., Rochester, New York, Cape Hatteras, North Carolina, as well as in Texas and Tennessee. His death came very suddenly. He leaves a wife, two daughters, and two sons.

Frank G. Gould died at his home in Orono on August 8 at the age of 63 after an illness of a few weeks. Mr. Gould, a Civil Engineering graduate, was engaged early in his career on the construction of the Pennsylvania railroad station in New York City. Later he entered business and for twenty-five years had been associated with his brother in the Rimes Co., of Bangor.

He was a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity, the University Club, of Boston, and the Penobscot Valley Country Club, of Bangor. He was widely known and respected as a business man and a friend among the people of Bangor and Orono. He was always interested in University and alumni affairs and maintained active contacts on the campus throughout his life.

DeForest H. Perkins, of West Paris, widely known as an educator in the state, died at the age of 63 on the seventh of August in the State Street Hospital, Portland, as a result of an operation.

Mr. Perkins, a native of Brooksville, began his teaching career in Aroostook County at the age of 18. After four years of teaching he attended the University, graduating in 1900. He took graduate work in the University of Chicago, obtaining a degree of Bachelor of Law, and took further law study at Indiana University.

Returning to Maine he taught in many parts of the state and was for six years principal of Skowhegan High School and was district superintendent of Skowhegan and Madison. In 1911 he became superintendent of schools in Portland, seven years later he resigned to become executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and later he became manager of the Congress Square Hotel.

As a result of a grade crossing accident at Waterville, Gerald C. Duplisea, of Houlton, was killed on August 20. Mr. Duplisea had been field engineer with the WPA and recently promoted to Augusta from Presque Isle. He was a member of the Theta Chi fraternity.

Next Reunion, June, 1941

Versatile Roy L. Fernald, possessor of many college degrees and '23's most agile politician, was re-elected state senator from Waldo County in the September election. Mr. Fernald has both privately and publicly announced his intention to run for governor in 1940. Perhaps at our nineteenth reunion, 1923 will have one of its number sitting in the banquet hall as chief executive for the state.

Another name to emerge successfully from the September ballot is that of Harold F. Blackwood, attorney, of Machias, now Judge of Probate for Washington County. Another feather was also acquired at the Convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars meeting in Rockland last June, the subject having been elected Judge Advocate of the organization for the state of Maine. Mr. Blackwood received his degree from Boston University, 1926, and is a member of the firm of Campbell and Blackwood, Donworth Building, Machias, Maine. Blackwood, as you may suspect, came to us by way of legacy, as did a number of service men. He was in France from July, 1918, to July, 1919, and, as a member of the American School Detachment, attended the University of Poitiers, France.

The following quote from a letter received from Myrtie Bean Deeling is good enough to pass along. As an aside in her questionnaire she wrote, "If I put anything in the space following 'Creative Work' it would read something like this: an average of something like 300 jars of canned goods produced each year. The subject of my advanced professional and technical study is 'How to Bring up Children,' degree acquired, MAMA, and 'How to Stretch the Dollars,' degree acquired is a slight degree of efficiency."

Married in Proctor, Vermont, Frank M. Small and Rebecca R. Norton, University of Vermont, 1928, and until her marriage County Club Agent of the Vermont Extension Service. Mr. Small is employed by the Maine Department of Agriculture.

With the state Teachers' Convention in the offing the conscientious members of the teaching profession in the state will be found in attendance in Lewiston. So let us remind you that according to our latest data, the questionnaire, there may be seen Clifton M. Hamm, principal of Norridgewock High School, Roland Wilkins, principal of Weld High School, and Margaret Tibbetts on the faculty of Rickert Classical Institute.

And let us remind you that to date we are in receipt of only some 25 answers to those questionnaires, out of a possible 175.

Dear Folks:

You really shouldn't have any news this month, for only one letter came in response to my plea. However, I'll send along the few bits that I've gathered.

A son, David Jay, was born July 14, 1936, to Mr. and Mrs. Virgil C. Smith. Virgil resides in Woodland, Maine, and from the letterhead I assume that he's with the St. Croix Paper Company.

Hello, Everybody,

Helen Benner has assumed her new duties as teacher of English in Winslow High School.

Harold E. Bowie is an instructor in Mathematics at the University this year and is living at 25 Broadway, Orono.

John Caldwell is now Educational Adviser of the 159th Co. CCC at Patten, Me.

Frederick B. Chandler is studying for his doctor's degree in the Dept. of Plant Pathology, University of Maryland, College Park, Maryland.

Ralph Hill is studying for his doctor's degree at Columbia University.

Dave Fuller says, "I don't know if this is news, but I attended the Harvard Tercentenary Celebration this fall."

Mary Levine is now Mrs. Ralph Webster and is living at 11 Robinson St., Gardiner, Maine.

Mrs. Hal C. Bunker, of Willimantic, Connecticut, announced the marriage of her daughter, Miss Miriam S. Bunker, to Delbert L. Moody, July 18, in All Soul's Congregational Church in Bangor. Mrs. Moody was graduated from Bangor High School in 1923 and from Mt. Holyoke College in 1927. For the past eight years she has been a faculty member of Windham High School, Willimantic, Conn., teaching civics and government. Delbert received his doctor's degree from Iowa State College and for the past two years has been superintendent of the forestry division of the CCC at Alfred, where he and his bride will make their home.

I suppose you all read of Matthew "Doc" Highlands' promotion from instructor to Assistant Professor of Bacteriology at the University.

The marriage of Miss Mildred J. Austin, of Lawrence, Mass., and Arthur Kelley, of Jonesport, was solemnized recently in the Immanuel Baptist Church in Portland. Miss Kelley attended the Lowell Teachers' College and has studied music and art at LaSalle Seminary. She has taught in Mass. for several years. "Kel" is a United States Army engineer.

No doubt you all remember Lydia Douglas, even though she left us to graduate with a later class. She was awarded a Pi Beta Phi scholarship and is doing graduate study at the University.

Mrs. Laura Pedder, English teacher at Patten Academy, was one of those taking an active part in the annual Aroostook County Teachers' Convention held at Caribou. Mrs. Pedder's topic was "Target in the Teaching of Literature."

Dot Steward Sayward, of Guilford, was elected treasurer of the Maine Pi Beta Phi Alumnae Association at the convention held at Belgrade Lakes in July.

Linwood "Joc" Snider is working on a government project on Cape Cod and maintains a residence at 92 Summer St., Everett, Mass.

Please send some news of yourselves—this means everybody!

Dear Classmates

Our congratulations this month go to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Arey, on the arrival of a son, James Arthur, on September 23.

Jessie Ashworth is teaching in the department of history at Westminster College at New Wilmington, Pa. Besides teaching, Jessie expects to finish work on her Ph.D. this year.

"Pokey" Hammond is in the Portland office of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of N. Y. Their office is at 415 Congress St.

At a recent meeting of the Maine Municipal Judge's Association, Charlie Hurley was elected to the Executive Committee. We recall that our class year book prophesied that "Charlie is our coming lawyer."

"Reggie" Merrill, salesman for Pozzy and Harrocks Food Products Brokers, has been transferred from their Portland office to Boston, with headquarters at 126 State St. He is residing at 90 St. Mary's St., Boston.

Worth Noyes, who last year was mathematics instructor and athletic coach at Patten Academy, has been promoted this year to principal. He is still interested in athletics, introducing cross country, winter sports, and track to their athletic program for this year.

Fred Stewart is Senior Pay Clerk of the United States Treasury Department, with headquarters at 79 Exchange St., in Portland, Maine. He is residing at 168 Neal St., Portland.

Miss Ethel Dow, of Houlton, became the bride of "Jerry" Strout on August 25. Mrs. Strout is a graduate of Aroostook State Normal School and has been teaching in Houlton Junior High School. Jerry is now employed by the Bangor and Aroostook Railroad as superintendent of bridges and buildings. They are residing at 39 Franklin St., Houlton.

Don Tracy has been promoted from agency field supervisor of the N. E. territory of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. with headquarters in New York City, to manager of the Calais district of the company.

Miriam Anderson this year is one of the faculty of Newport High School, Newport, Maine.

Bienna Blaisdell is at Higgins Classical Institute, Charleston, Maine, teaching foreign languages. This past summer she was studying at Middlebury French School, Middlebury, Vermont.

George Crimmins accepted an appointment to the Brunswick High School faculty this fall where he will coach basketball and baseball, also assisting with the football team. The past six years he has been athletic coach at Aroostook Central Institute, Mars Hill, where he was eminently successful with his basketball and baseball teams.

Leonard Freeman, of No. Windham, who has been connected with the Sebago Lake Garage, has joined the sales organization of the Forest City Motor Co.

At the convention of the Maine Phi Beta Phi alumnae held at Belgrade Lakes last July, Hazel Sawyer was elected president of the association and Sarah Pike Gleason was chosen to serve as chairman of publicity.

On September 6 Ruth Grossman and Samuel Mirkin were married in West Hartford, Conn. The ceremony took place at the home of Mr. Mirkin's mother and was most attractive in all details. Ruth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grossman, of Brewer. The past few years she has been teaching in the public schools of Everett, Mass. Mr. Mirkin was graduated from Connecticut College of Pharmacy and is employed as a registered pharmacist in Hartford. They are living at 49 Bretton Road, West Hartford.

Fred Lamoreau, who has been mathematics instructor at University of Maine, is doing graduate work this year at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

At the National Convention of Phi Mu Delta held the first of September at Penn. State College, Horace Bell '28 and Franklin Larrabee were elected to the executive board.

Another attractive wedding ceremony was that of Miss Helen Sargent, of Sargentville, Maine, and Horace Means on June 27. Mrs. Means graduated from Castine Normal School and has taught for several years in Andover, Mass. Horace is a salesman with the New England Dressed Meat and Wool Co., in Boston.

Jack Moran is back again as sports commentator for a Bangor newspaper.

Dorothy Mayo Morris (Mrs. D. W.) is now in Kansas City, Missouri, 5519 Garfield St.

Anthony D. Pelletier, physician and surgeon, has opened an office in Lewiston at 10 Hammond St., where he also resides with Mrs. Pelletier, Barbara Hunt '31.

Ralph Perkins is teaching in the Junior High School in New Canaan, Conn. He previously taught mathematics in the high school in Newtown, Conn. He and Miss Emily Leahy, of Newton, were married last June 13th, and he also writes that he would be very happy to have a call from any of the class any time.

Your secretary and George Albert "Bud" Ramsdell met up with one another in Bath recently. He is with Proctor and Gamble, and previous to last January was in Providence, I believe.

Announcement was made the last of August of the engagement of Miss Rozilla Burrowes Morton, of Capisc St., Portland, to Lewis Pollard Roberts, of Dover-Foxcroft. Miss Morton is a graduate of Deering High School and the Wheelock School in Boston. Mr. Roberts is connected with the U. of M. Extension Service as county agent of Piscataquis Co.

Ruth M. Taylor is Junior Assistant Librarian in the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. She is living at 2025 I St. N.W.

At the annual convention of Knox County Teachers' Association in Rockland the last of September Katherine Veazie was elected secretary-treasurer. Kay is sixth grade teacher in the McLain Bldg., in Rockland.

On July 26 at a lovely wedding ceremony in St. Mary's Episcopal Church in Springfield, Vermont, Vivian Veysey became the bride of Wendell Seale. Vivian has been teaching in North Braintree, and has attended summer school at the University of Vermont and the last three seasons had been enrolled at the Fletcher Farms Educational Institute in Proctorsville, Vt. Mr. Seale is a graduate of Springfield High School and is employed at the Wellwood Furniture Company, Springfield.

Last May Asa Wasgatt opened the Bay Meadow Tourists' Cabins at Salisbury Cove, about a fifteen minute drive from Bar Harbor. They are fine new cabins modern in every detail. "The comfortable place to stop while in Bar Harbor." (All free advertising, Asa, to make up for my not calling in again to see you. I liked Mrs. Wasgatt very much.)

School. He's been spending his summers working for his M.A. at Columbia.

Hazel Sawyer was elected president of Maine Pi Beta Phi Alumnae Association at the convention held at Belgrade Lakes in July.

John Branch is teaching in Masardis High School.

I had a nice letter from Mary McLoon this week telling me of her marriage August 5th to Philip Rand '30. The wedding took place in Zion Episcopal Church, Douglaston, Long Island, New York City. Mary was a private tutor in New York City for about three and one-half years and then had a grand trip through the West Indies before her marriage. She and Phil are at home at 22 Chapel St., Augusta.

Willard Farris is a student engineer with the U. S. Engineers Flood Control Survey in Nashua, N. H. He's living at 4 Auburn St.

"Duke" Hargreaves is still soldiering. This summer he passed the exams for a captaincy in the U. S. Army Reserve Corps.

Ed Greeley has been appointed district supervisor of the National Youth Administration projects in Bangor and Presque Isle. The projects seem to deal with athletic education and supervised recreation.

Allen Savage is assistant manager of Montgomery Ward's store in Durham, N. C. He's living at 2541 Chapel Hill Rd.

"Glo" Wadleigh Brigham and her hubby are living at 10 Grand St., Portland. "Ott" is now working for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and Glo's decided she's taught school long enough.

Charles Roberts is assistant manager of the Personal Finance Company in Augusta with headquarters at 241 Water St.

Dave Barker continues his dramatic career by appearing in the juvenile lead of "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," a comedy presented by faculty players for the benefit of the Bangor High School Debate Club. Clarine Coffin '32 is playing the lead.

I wish you all might read the sport editorial from the August 7th Bangor News in regard to Sam Sezak. It tells lots of nice things as well as lots of interesting things. For instance, did you know that Sam never missed a day's practice in all the time he was out for football? That must be a record hard to equal! As a further P.S. to my last month's news item about Sam, I want to add that he and Tommy are at home at 52 Center St., Fairhaven, and from all I hear very much at home to Maine folks.

September 14 Lewis Roberts and Rozila Burrowes Morton were married at the home of the bride's parents on Capisic St., Portland. Mr. and Mrs. are at home in Dover-Foxcroft.

Basil Vaughan is to be working out of Augusta this fall. For the U. S. Engineers, Basil?

September 20 Muriel Harris Sampson became the bride of Ray Bradstreet. Mrs. Bradstreet is a graduate of Miss Wheelock's Kindergarten School and for four years studied under Professor Branch of the Worcester Art Academy. She has taught in Bangor for the past five years and is to continue teaching in the first grade of the Abraham Lincoln school. Ray is on the Brewer High School faculty. He and the Mrs. are living at 50 Norfolk St., Bangor.

Johnny Cutler, too, was married this summer to Laura Graham, of Bangor, on September 13. A year ago Johnny joined the faculty of Ohio State University where he is now an assistant instructor in English and is also studying for his Ph.D.

There ends the news for this month. I'd so like to hear from some of the "forgotten men and women" of 1931. Please do let me hear from you.

Next Reunion, June, 1938

Dear Class:

The amount of news last month fairly swept me off my feet and left me panting for breath but since then I've had a chance to recuperate and start once again sorting us all out and putting us where we belong. The fortune-teller told me I was going to be a nurse some day so that gives me hope and makes me believe I'm true to my horoscope—because nearly one year is gone and your correspondent is still following the Lady of the Lamp. But then, you probably don't believe in horoscopes anyway, so let's get down to the truths of life.

Remember that "babe in the woods," Darrell Brown?—the girl who liked the woods so well she wouldn't come out of them—well, she has decided to come out at last. She is leaving Norway, where she taught last year, and is going to teach in Arlington, Mass., in the Brackett School.

Mary Russell has given up canning for the public and has taken on a one-man job. She was married July 15 to Francis Merchant, of Rockland. Mr. Merchant attended N.Y.U. and M.I.T. They will live in Camden in the winter and Lincolnville Beach in the summer which all sounds sort of swell.

Hester Carter and Pauline Budge are both teaching in Bucksport, Hester teaching mathematics and French and Polly teaching Home Economics.

Kenneth Cleaves is Civil Engineer in Acadia National Park—just another lucky forester. Stuart Deane is also in the National Park Service but he is in Camden. He is engineering draftsman for the Recreational Demonstration Project. Now as Maine becomes more and more beautiful we'll know who to thank.

Hope Clark was married August 15. In reading of Hope's marriage I also discovered some of the interesting things she has been doing since she left us. Hope studied sculpture in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and for one year studied with William Zorack at the Art Students League. She has worked in the studio of the Spanish sculptor, Jose de Crest, teaching drawing and sculpture during the past year. She is a member of the Art Students League and the Society of Independent Artists, and if that isn't success, what is? Hope and her husband, Mr. George Spater, sailed on the Isle de France for a month's honeymoon in Germany, Austria, and Italy, and on their return will make their home in New York.

Ruth Hamor has profited by returning home. She is hostess superintendent of Costello Home, the guest house of the Polytechnic Institute in San German, Puerto Rico. Ruth writes that she is enjoying her work tremendously, and can you blame her?—just being there would be enough for me.

Millard Dow is now working as lineman for the Central Vermont Public Service Corporation and is located in Rutland.

Merle Hildreth is principal of the Waldoboro Junior High in Milford, Maine. I wonder if he's applying all the psychology he learned at Maine. And speaking of school, Lubec High has a new coach and sub-master this year in the person of Orville Guptill.

Harold Perkins was married Sept. 14 to Lilhan Gonyer. Harold is working for the New York Life Insurance Co. They will live on Pierce St. in Orono.

Leland Libby is working in the Shoe Factory in Freeport, Maine.

I just get to thinking everyone in our class must be married when I read of someone else I have missed. Charlotte Quimby was married Sept. 13 to Frederick Stuart, of Bar Harbor. Mr. Stuart is emploied by the J. H. Butterfield Co. The Stuarts will be at home at the Cheney bungalow on Bowles Ave.

Jim Jackson and Betty were in Beverly Sept. 12 to attend the wedding of Gordon Richardson to Gertrude Black, of Beverly. Ed Fields was there. Ed has the unique position of selling glass bottles for a concern in N. Y. I don't know whether they're full bottles or empty. Herb Roy-lance was there too. He is a chemical engineer in N. J. Otto Pasanen is now the proud father of Glenn Stuart Pasanen. Otto is chief-of-party in an engineering survey in Fitchburg. Jud Lord is planning soon to open an office of osteopathy. Gordon, the groom, is employed in the City Engineer's department in Beverly.

Jim Jackson is now at M.I.T., taking an advanced course in Sanitary Engineering and he says he knows what it means to study now. He also is going to learn how to make Maine even a better place in which to live.

Another of our globe-trotters is Bob Russ. Bob has recently been promoted to the position of Special Representative of the Group Dept. of the Conn. General Insurance Co., and his work takes him thither and yon. Not long ago he was in Erie, Pa., and while there bumped into Johnny Wilson and Elmer Randall. Johnny is employed by the Hammermill Paper Co., and that's not all—he has a young son, William, born in Dec., 1935. Elmer Randall is working for Stone & Webster installing machinery in the Hammermill Paper Co.

Just one more wedding and I'm going to sign off and catch a few winks of sleep—and what could be a better finale to any story than the wedding of Cliff Ladd and Mary Small. They were married in Sept. in the New York manner—in the Little Church Around the Corner—and I know they'll live happily ever after. The thrill of the month was Maine's victory over New Hampshire. I wonder how many of you lucky bums saw it.

Life is full of surprises and I never was more certain of anything than Roger Hetler living his life for the W. T. Grant store but now I find that he is Kellogg Sales Co. specialty man and is living in Portland. But that's what gives us news.

Howard Knight is county supervisor for the Rural Resettlement Administration in Richmond, Maine—and that's not all—Howard and Ruth now are proud parents and he will have more supervising than ever to do. To cap it all, our president is a family man now. I suppose there will be no more class reunions for a while now with all these people so busy. Phil and Dot are probably teaching the little one the Stein Song by now—which reminds me I don't know whether the Knight and Parsons babies are boys or girls. Will someone please help a lady in distress and put me wise?

Still more—Jan Winton and Genie Austin have added to their responsibilities. Jan has a baby girl—Jane Williamson—born in August, and Genie has a boy—Richard Kermit Dorr, also born in August.

"Prony" (Wilbur Pronovost) sent me a nice newsy letter from Iowa City, Iowa, where he is a graduate assistant in Dramatic Art. Iowa seems well removed from Maine, but Prony has met quite a delegation of U. of M. grads, so he spends his time reminiscing between sets.

The State of Maine takes the lead this month in placements. Noel Currie is employed as a State Inspector of Markets; Otis Hanson is now Junior Engineer in the Maine Public Service Company. Both Otis and Noel are stationed in what they term the "spud" country—none other than Presque Isle. In Portland are Harold Lord, who is with the American Oil Co., Isabel Freeman, a Home Lighting Specialist with the Cumberland County Power and Light Company, and Lester Diamon, the manager of the Diamon Brothers wholesale and retail grocery store.

And in New Hampshire, Lew Kyer has been appointed to the faculty of the University of N. H. to teach Zoology.

The U. S. and State Depts. certainly have done well by the class of '35. Frank Blaisdell is a Lieut. in the 1124th Co. CCC in Bridgton, Maine, Woodrow Page is District Sanitary Engineer for the state in Dover-Foxcroft, Maine, and Don Stone is a civil engineer doing topographic mapping for Flood Control and is stationed in South Paris.

A few more recruits for the school departments. "Winnie" Coburn is teaching Home Economics at Monmouth Academy; Anne MacLellan is teaching French and is Physical Director at Norway High School, and Ruth Miller is teaching primary grades in Newport.

It seems a most opportune time for people to announce that they have secured positions in the south! The least they should do is think of us poor Northerners who will begin to congeal anytime now. Don Pedersen is with the Elk Paper Manufacturing Co., in Childs, Maryland. Beryl Warner is going to Orleans, Louisiana, to teach English and literature in Gilbert Academy.

The classes of '33 and '34 used to boast of their little Maine campus in New York but I think we can make our contribution. Wallace Lord is stationed in Hornell, N. Y., as an engineer in the Flood Control, and by the way, Wallace has just announced his engagement to Mildred Poland '34. Louis Morrison is with the R. C. A. Communication at Rocky Point, Long Island. Nat Birchall, now Mrs. Lawrence D. Luey, is living in Bayside, N. Y.—so at alumni meetings the '35-ers will certainly be numbered among those present.

Speaking of "My Home Where the Buffaloes Roam," Bob Bucknam is the only one of the foresters who is reported as not lost on the range! Bob is at Elk Ranger Station, Elk Mountain, Wyoming, as Assistant District Forest Ranger in the U. S. Forest Service.

From points north, south and east—news comes that Elmer Randall is Power House Mechanic for Stone and Webster in Erie, Pa. Francis Shea is a core-boring inspector in Brattleboro, Vt., and Max Turner is in the Dept. of Pomology at the Mass. State College in Amherst. Clara Hodsdon is with the Wienn Bros. & Co. as bookkeeper and cashier in Bangor.

Dear Classmates:

Thanks to everyone who answered my appeal for letters. As soon as I have the opportunity I'll try to answer them personally, but until then please accept this as your answer.

One of the letters which I received was from Louise Steeves. She is teaching at Berwick Academy, So. Berwick, Maine. Except for having to chase frogs around the Biology Lab, she seems to be enjoying herself.

I saw Rog Levenson in Bangor last week-end. He inquired for Libby Philbrooks' address and I promised to put it in this month's letter. It is 3710 Winthrop Ave., Chicago, Ill. The name is now Elizabeth Philbrook Ingraham. She and Carl were married September 5 in Chicago. Best of luck to you both.

Boston must have some fatal attraction for '36-ers, because several of the girls are there this winter. Helen Buker is attending the Boston School of Occupational Therapy, Tedie Gardner at the Women's Industrial Union, Beth Schiro at the Prince School of Merchandising and Kay Wormwood at Miss Wheelock's School of Kindergarten. That almost calls for a reunion doesn't it?

Ann Elhasson is located in Auburn, teaching in the Junior High. She and Marie Archer are able to be together now and then. Marie is a Laboratory Technician in the Central Maine General Hospital in Lewiston.

Eddie Webster is travelling for the Haskell Implement and Seed Co. in Lewiston. His travels take him up through Monmouth where he usually sees Win Coburn who is teaching Home Economics in Monmouth Academy.

Raymond Powell is assistant manager of the Milk Plant Dept. of H. P. Hood & Sons, Springfield, Mass.

Chester Smith is a graduate assistant in the Dept. of Agricultural Economics and Farm Management at Massachusetts State College.

Bill Jones is employed by the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Co., New York. Rena Allen is teaching at Anson Academy, North Anson, Maine.

Gin Nelson is at Falmouth High and I do hope, Gin, that you don't have to walk as far as or as fast as you did when you were practice teaching.

Al Campbell is teaching at Coburn Classical Institute, Waterville, Leonore Dorr at Rangeley High, Myron Collette at Mexico High, and Mary Perry at Orono High. Remember, Mary, you are no longer a student there—no more strikes!

Eleanor Delaney is teaching in Mechanic Falls, and Beth Giddings is an assistant Zoology and Chemistry teacher at Westbrook Junior College.

We have a few aviators among our ranks too. Vinney Hathorne, Rog Hutchins, John Adams, and Doug Parker are all training at Pensacola, Florida.

How long should a Man's legs be?

*Lincoln had a good answer.
"Long enough," he drawled,
"to reach from his body to the ground."*

THAT seems like a good rule to apply to a business. It ought to be big enough to do the job it is intended to do.

Have you ever thought about the size of a company—what makes it big or small?

It isn't the directors and it isn't the stockholders—but the public. No business grows, and keeps on growing, unless it meets the people's needs and renders a worthwhile service at a fair price.

The Bell System has developed along those lines for over fifty years. It has grown as the nation has grown. It has to be big to provide efficient, adequate telephone service to 127,000,000 people.
