Until after the Revolution social distinctions in Portland followed the pattern established in England. The Quality were ministers, judges, governors, and those persons of wealth who had large landholdings. Their houses were larger and finer, and they had slaves or indentured servants to perform household tasks and work in the fields. Their clothes were mostly imported from England, as were household furnishings. Willis says that the cocked hat, the bush wig and the red cloak were envied marks of distinction in early Portland.

Men's coats were made with long cuffs reaching to the elbows and low collars. They were long and full-skirted, fastened with brass or silver buttons. Elaborately embroidered vests had long pocket flaps, also embroidered. Linen shirts had either linen or fine lace ruffles at throat and wrists. Buckskin breeches or scarlet breeches had brass or silver knee buckles. Low, square-toed shoes and silken or ribbed hose completed the costume. Face masks were carried in winter for protection against wind and cold, by women and the younger dandies.

The trappings of social rank were always donned by "The Quality" for social occasions with elaborately curled and powdered wigs to top off the display. At business, more serviceable clothes and plain queue wigs were worn.

The wigs were as expensive as the clothes and had to be replaced about as often. Portland's own Parson Smith wrote: "August, 1765, had a new wig and clothes." Again in 1769, another rich wig and hat. Mr. Deane's famous diary tells us that in 1766 a wig cost sixteen pounds, seventeen shillings and sixpence.

Men's and even children's heads were shaved to accommodate the heavy wigs. For comfort's sake at night and when at home, the wigs were removed and turbans of silk or wool substituted to protect shaven heads from drafts — which explains why contemporary portraits always show men with either a wig, turban or hat covering the head.

An interesting note is that in 1771 three silversmiths, Paul Little, John Butler and Joseph Ingraham, were busy in Portland making knee and shoe buckles and brass buffons.

THEIR GOLDEN REUNION

NINETY-TWO men and women entered the University in the fall of 1897 as the Class of 1901. The upper-classmen considered them a large class and a fortunate class. Fortunate, because that fall saw the completion of Alumni Field and the "cinder track," the lack of which had for some years been a burning issue with the students. An appropriation of $500.00 from the Trustees added to alumni funds made the field possible. The old barn connected to the commons had also been remodeled into "an apology for a gymnasium," according to The Cadet, "complete with a shower bath."

Some of these new freshmen studied in a "model classroom" in Fernald Hall which had been made during the summer. This room was formerly the old chapel. The Cadet was faced with a debt of $224.50 and it is apparent that no freshman escaped subscribing to the college paper.

The new blouses of the Coburn Cadets "with fly front and upright collar was without equal on any college campus" although the swords were termed "pumpkin stabbers" and entirely unsatisfactory to the cadets.

The Class of 1901 was fortunate indeed to see the baseball team defeat Colby in three straight games at the Bangor Fair although the balloon ascensions occasionally stopped the games. Too, it was in the fall of 1897 that the first football game was played with a Massachusetts team with Maine defeating MIT 14-0 in Bangor.

The twenty-odd members of the Class of 1901 returning for their fiftieth reunion in June will recall these and many other interesting events of those days. It is expected that this class will make a new high in the number attending a golden reunion. Forty-seven members of the class are still living although distance or health will prevent many from coming to Orono June 15-17.

For Henry H. Leonard, class president, it will be a return to native soil for he was born in Orono. Now living in South Shaftsbury, Vermont, Prexy Leonard retired in 1948 from his position as president of the American Machine and Foundry Co. A director of the Marine Midland Trust Company of New York, Mr. Leonard has had a busy and distinguished life which accords him a listing in Who's Who.

Coming up from Sarasota, Florida, where he has just purchased a new home, is Fred L. Martin, the energetic class secretary. For more than a year Mr. Martin has been urging his classmates to make this reunion a big one. Alumnus Martin was for many years connected with the bus transportation business and since his retirement has been spending the winters in the south and the summers in New Hampshire.

Herbert H. Leonard '01

Another member of the class who has retired from business life is Charles H. Pritham of Upper Darby, Pa. He was for several years Director of Laboratories at the U. S. Frankford Arsenal in Philadelphia where he was responsible for many outstanding developments in the Ordnance field.

Several members of the class are living in Maine. Percy Keller of Camden has a wide circle of friends in Maine having been an engineer for the state for several years and on May first retired as Camden Town Manager after nineteen years in that post.

Commencement will hold special significance this year for Robert W. Linn of Dover-Foxcroft. Mary is a prominent member of the senior class. Poor health will undoubtedly keep Henry P. Hoyt from coming down from Easton for this reunion. For several years he has been operating High Acres potato farm, in partnership with John '41. A daughter, Louise (Mrs. Joseph Findlen), was a graduate of the Class of 1943.

Ernest C. Butler is a well-known lawyer in Maine and has long practiced in Skowhegan. He is one of the few living members of the Law School group of the class.

Dr. Clifford D. Harvey is now Professor Emeritus of surgery of the Boston University School of Medicine. He has had a distinguished career in medicine and is one of the better-known doctors in the Bay State. His home is in Brookline, Mass.

A few years ago Clement Whittier retired from his post as treasurer of the Ohio Electric Manufacturing Company and returned to Maine. He now lives in Searsport and during the winters travels extensively.

Space does not permit the notes on all members of the class nor have the biographical information sheets been returned by all. However, it will be with pride that the University and alumni will honor these members celebrating their golden reunion on June 16 at the alumni reunion.

CANADIAN CONFERENCE

The University's first general conference on Canadian-American Affairs brought to the campus on April 19 and 20 visitors from many parts of the United States and Canada. Co-sponsored by the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace, the Conference was intended to promote among the University faculty and student body and the Maine community in general a better knowledge and understanding of the position of Canada and the United States as friends and neighbors in a world where international friendship has become vitally important. The Conference also provided an opportunity for an exchange of ideas and discussion of common problems in a number of areas of Canadian-American relations.

The Conference opened with a University Assembly on April 19. In the principal address, Escott Reid, Canada's Deputy Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, speaking on the topic "Canada and the United States, Neighbors and Allies," stressed the need for friendship and co-operation between the two countries, and emphasized the contribution both could make toward preserving world peace.

The afternoon meetings of the Conference were held as open forum or panel discussions. Of particular interest was the meeting on "Canada, the United States, and World Affairs." Professor Edgar McInnis of the University of Toronto, one of Canada's leading authorities on international relations, recently returned from an Institute of Pacific Relations Conference in New Delhi, India, gave a balanced and realistic review of Canada's world position, its problems and dangers.

The second speaker, Professor Nathaniel

Peffer of Columbia, well-known author and specialist in Far Eastern affairs, devoted much of his discussion to a critical analysis of the Far Eastern policy of the United States, differing sharply with many current views on the subject. Professor Robert M. York of the Department of History and Government acted as chairman of this meeting.

In a second forum discussion, on "Canadian-American Economic Problems," A. F. W. Plumptre, Head of the Economics Division of Canada's External Affairs Department, outlined some of the areas of agreement and disagreement in the basic economic policies of the two countries.

Dean Mark R. Shibles of the School of Education presided at the forum on "Canadian Education." F. E. MacDiarmid, Director and Chief Superintendent of Education in New Brunswick, and R. J. Love, Professor of Education and Director of the Summer School at the University of New Brunswick, presented different aspects of Canada's educational system. Payson Smith (H '08), Professor Emeritus of Education at the University, discussed some of the ways in which some of the same problems had been handled in the United States. Philip A. Annas, Associate Deputy Commissioner of Education for Maine, and Thomas C. King, Associate Professor of Education at the University, assisted.

The meeting on "Canadian-American Agricultural Relations," with Dean Arthur L. Deering ('12) presiding, covered the occasionally conflicting agricultural policies of the two countries. On the panel of speakers were Francis A. Flood, Agricultural Attache, United States Embassy, Ottawa, S. Claude Hudson, Principal Economist of the Canadian

Department of Agriculture, J. K. Galbraith, Professor of Economics at Harvard University, and Clifford McIntire '30, Assistant General Manager of the Maine Potato Growers, Inc.

After the Conference dinner, at which President Arthur A. Hauck welcomed speakers and guests to the University, came the last general session of the Conference, on "Canadian-American Defense Problems."

The second day of the Conference was devoted to informal discussions and class meetings. A number of the visitors spoke to University classes, and Professor J. K. Galbraith met with a faculty group to discuss problems of price control. Others attending the Conference visited classes or administrative offices in their special fields.

One of the features of the Conference was a program of exhibits arranged by Professor Vincent Hartgen of the Art Department. An exhibition of Canadian art, first of its kind to be held at the University, included 15 watercolors and oil paintings by some of Canada's leading artists, loaned by the National Gallery of Canada, and 60 prints by members of the Canadian Society of Etchers and Engravers. Also on exhibition were photographs of Canadian scenes, donated to the University's Department of History and Government by the Canadian Department of External Affairs, and a selection of recent books on Canada arranged by the Library staff.

Throughout the Conference less formal meetings of members of the University faculty and representative students, speakers, and guests helped to promote the exchange of ideas which was one of the major objectives of the meetings. In addition to those attending from the University and near-by communities, the Conference brought to the campus many visitors with special interests in the fields covered. These included three Maritime College presidents and the heads of a number of Maine's teacher's colleges and junior colleges, representatives from the social science departments of Maine and Massachusetts colleges, of civil defense organizations, of the State Government and of a number of Agricultural organizations.

A BOY'S DREAM TRIP

by Russ Meade '51

Russell E. Meade '51, Auburn, has made the trip with the St. Croix Voyageurs. An outstanding student, Meade is a member of Sigma Chi Fraternity. He is a member of the General Senate, President of the Interfraternity Council and Class Historian. He has also served as president of his fraternity, manager of Cross-Country, editor of the Freshman Handbook, Class president, member of the Men's Senate and a member of the Student-Faculty Committee on social affairs.

"In canvas by day—under canvas by night," is a phrase which well describes the healthful summers planned for energetic boys by Henry "Hank" Small '24 and Linwood "Zeke" Dwelley '25. They are the sponsors of the "St Croix Voyageurs" who, each summer, tour the watersheds of the Allagash, St John, and Penobscot Rivers through that part of Maine which respects only a canoe as means of travel.

During the winter months, when not going over food lists and planning the next summer's trip, "Zeke" teaches and directs winter sports at Edward Little High School in Auburn while Hank is director of athletics at Morse High in Bath. They are both former members of the Maine Forest Service and have been fishing and hunting the woods of Maine under "Class A" guides licenses for years. It has been said that they are "a bit woods queer" for who else would "know no better" than to leave the comforts of home created by their primary vocation to battle the black flies, canoe loads, and white water at a time in life when a man should be placing a higher value on comfort. But no one is predicting that these two will ever be able to stay away from a canoe until crutches or wheel chair take over.

The St Croix Voyageurs gained its name from being first organized to carry boys on the Machias and St. Croix Rivers in Down East Maine. The shift to the North Woods came in 1938 when the energetic crew was looking for new territory to paddle and fish. Now the old time woodsmen and fire wardens of the Allagash region look forward each summer to the line of bright green canoes and "Uncle Hank" who leaves each back woods resident a few bits of canned goods that "fancify" their diet.

Most of the counselor-guides working with Hank and Zeke have been Maine men who have had some river experience themselves. Doug Marston and Dick Dwelley '51 have spent a few summers with the Voyageurs and Don Spear '52 is currently number three man.

The boys who take the trip are all of high school age and come from all parts of the Northeast. The trip provides experience that is not to be found in other vacation activities. There is a definite program of training which includes use of the "setting pole," loading the canoe, tree identification, a little geology, and camping practices such as cooking and pot washing. Their everyday life is filled with fishing, hiking, swimming, wild life photography and canoe travel.

Two boys and duffle in each canoe are charged as a responsible unit. The going is a bit uncertain at first for that twenty-foot White Old Town canoe just doesn't seem to know what to do by itself and it takes the boys a few days to discover what results can be obtained from their paddle manipulations. It is soft and easy going where the current floats the canoe along at a pleasant rate. But where the speed of the river quickens and dark rocks cause the blue waters to churn white and frothy in the sun, the boy in the stern grabs up that long cumbersome pole that is used to keep the canoe from swinging broadside to the current or smashing against a boulder. Action picks up to a strenuous pace as tricky currents make the canoe jump and quiver amid the swirl and foam. A smashed canoe means abandoning food supplies and extra men in another canoe.

SUMMER SESSION

THE Summer Session, under the direction of Dean Mark Shibles, is attracting wide attention. An unequalled opportunity to study under an excellent faculty and yet amid the incomparable beauty of the campus is bidding an increasing number of students away from the metropolitan areas.

Nearly 175 courses covering subjects ranging from art to speech, will be offered at this year's annual Summer Session, which will extend from July 2 to August 10. Dean Mark R. Shibles is the director of the session.

Fifty-three visiting and 51 resident faculty members will teach.

Over 60 courses in elementary and secondary education will be offered for school administrators and teachers.

Besides the regular courses, 16 special three-week courses will also be given. Thirteen of the three-week courses will be offered from July 2 to July 20 and will cover the following subjects:

Unitary Teaching, Teaching Social Studies in the Elementary School, School Plant and Maintenance, Principles of Geography, Teaching Music in the Elementary School, Child Development, Special Problems in Practical Nurse Education, Organization and Administration of School of Practical Nursing, Techniques of Supervisory Home Economics, The Mature Mind, Teaching of Speech, and Social Problems.

Three additional three-week courses will be given from July 23 to August 10 as follows: Unitary Teaching, Rural Education, and Intercultural Education.

Three special conferences are scheduled. A Parent-Teachers leadership Institute will be held from July 25-27, Reading Conference, July 25-26, Business Education Conference, August 1-2.

A series of 16 lectures by noted national educators will be offered during the Summer Session. The speakers and the dates on which they will be at the University are as follows: Dr. Galen Jones, director of the Division of Secondary Education, United States Office of Education, July 6; Dr. Alice Keliher, professor of education at New York University, July 9; Dr. Thomas Hopkins, professor of education and a curriculum specialist at the Horace Mann-Lincoln Institute for School Experimentation at Columbia University, July 16;

Dr. Stephen Corey, executive officer of the Horace Mann-Lincoln Institute for School Experimentation at Teachers College, Columbia University, July 20; Dr. Wellesley Foshay, professor of education at Teachers College, Columbia University, July 24; Dr. Paul Witty, professor of education and Director of the Psycho-Educational Clinic at Northwestern University, July 25.

Dr. Roma Gans, professor of education at Teachers College, Columbia University, July 30; Dr. Jean Betzner, professor of education at Teachers College, Columbia University, August 3; Dr. James Umstadtd, professor of education at the University of Texas, August 6.

Summer Session students have such a wide selection of week-end trips to the coastal spots, mountains, summer theatre, and state of Maine tours that many of them find the Session all too short. A full recreational and social program on campus is designed to give a happy combination of study and play.

Nor is the cultural aspect overlooked for musical programs, visiting lecturers, and art exhibits are also scheduled. The 1951 Summer Session promises a new high in the selection of courses and visiting faculty members. This excellent program under Dean Shibles is annually adding to the prestige of the University.

"The Summer Session is designed to meet the needs of educators, regularly enrolled college students, and those who seek cultural and professional growth in specific fields," according to Dean Shibles.

"Teachers, counselors, supervisors, and school administrators will find that the six-week period of study provides an unusual opportunity for professional improvement," he said.

"Regularly enrolled students of the University of Maine and other institutions likewise find an opportunity to make up work they have missed during the regular school year or to secure additional credits in anticipation of their individual needs."

"Adults not engaged in formal study or teaching who desire to attend the session for general cultural purposes may do so," he added.

Registration for the regular six-week session and the first group of three-week courses will take place in Memorial Gymnasium on Monday, July 2, from 8 a.m. to 12 and 1:30 to 4:00 p.m. (See back cover for additional information.)

Coach Bill Kenyon Dies

"Bill" Kenyon, long a familiar name and personality to University of Maine students and alumni, died on May 6 following a long period of poor health. He had retired from coaching in 1949. He came to the University of Maine in 1926 having been coach of football, baseball, and basketball at Georgetown University from 1923 to 1925. During his early years at Maine he was freshman football, baseball, and basketball coach. From 1936 to 1941 he was head basketball coach and from 1934 to 1949, head baseball coach. During the years of World War II, he served as head coach of football, baseball, and basketball.

A native of Manchester, N. H., "Bill" completed his secondary school education at the high school in that city and at Allen Military School in West Newton, Mass. He then went on to Georgetown University in Washington, D. C., where he was an outstanding athlete and the winner of many undergraduate awards in football, baseball, and basketball.

In the years just following his graduation from college he played some professional ball—both football and baseball, but he then decided that he wanted to be in the college field of ball. During his years at Maine, he used to spend the summers managing semi-pro baseball teams throughout Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and New York, however.

As a man and as a coach he was loved and admired by all. His years of devoted service to the University will long be remembered.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Ida Kenyon, of Orono, a son, Cpl. William C., Jr., USMC, Point Nueces, Calif., and a brother, Thomas, of Manchester, N. H.

Dean Ashley Campbell, the "new" Dean of the College of Technology, visited several alumni clubs last month. These spring meetings were well attended giving Dean Campbell an opportunity to gain a fine impression of the spirit of Maine alumni.

Boston alumni met at the Hotel Beaconsfield for their annual dinner and dance on April 19. President Bentley S. Hutchins '24 was present and because of laryngitis turned the meeting over to George Smith '45, chairman of the dinner. About 100 attended the dinner.

About 70 Southwestern Connecticut alumni were present at a meeting in Bridgeport the following Monday to greet Dean Campbell. J. Edward DeCoursey '34, president, ably assisted by Mrs. DeCoursey (Alice Dyer '34), was responsible for the meeting.

Ray M. Carter '17, Glenbrook, Connecticut, succeeded DeCoursey as president with Carleton G. Smith '24 of New Haven and Mrs. Newcomb Bassett (Elizabeth Wilhelm '35) of West Haven, vice president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, the other officers.

This alumni group is fast increasing in numbers as industry in the area seeks more and more Maine men and women.

Maryland alumni met in Baltimore with Dean Campbell on April 22. About 30 were present to hear the Dean discuss the impacts of the draft deferment policy for college students on higher education. Dr. Lewis S. Libby, Jr. '41, is president of the Maryland alumni.

On April 23 the Western Pennsylvania held their annual spring meeting in Pittsburgh with Dean Campbell as speaker. Elwood Additon '38 was the retiring president with Cuyler S. Poor '27 elected to succeed him. Kendall R. Powers '48 was named vice president and Ralph R. Parkman '26 was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The group voted to increase their annual $50 scholarship to $75, taking into consid-

Nearly 150 alumni were present when Dr. Hauck addressed the combined meeting of the Maine Club of Auburn-Lewiston and the Androscoggin Alumnae in April.

The Maine Club is the most active of the local alumni clubs with their monthly meetings having large turn-outs. The alumnae group, organized last fall, is showing grand spirit and shows promise of becoming one of the most active alumnae groups.

Miss Dorothy Holbrook '20, Palmerton, Pa., was elected president of the Lehigh Valley Alumni at the meeting in Bethlehem on April 27. She succeeds Frank S. Beale '21. Harold T. Pierce '29 of Allentown was elected to fill Miss Holbrook's place as secretary.

Dean Campbell was present to discuss University affairs.

Dean Campbell ended his tour of Alumni Clubs at Philadelphia when he met with the Eastern Pennsylvania Alumni at the Harvard Club. About forty were present.

Alumni in the Philadelphia area are planning their annual June picnic although a definite date has not yet been reported.

On April 26, the monthly luncheon was held at Leed's Restaurant, South Broad Street near Samson, Philadelphia. These are held on the last Thursday of each month and alumni visiting the city are cordially invited to these informal luncheons.

Western Massachusetts alumni held their spring meeting in Springfield on April 23. John Sealey, Jr. '36, Alumni Secretary, was the speaker pinch-hitting for Charles E. Crossland '17, Director of Student and Public Relations, who was unavoidably detained at the University.

Sumner H. Lull '38 was elected treasurer of the Club. Thirty-eight were present. Stanwood R. Searles '34, president, was in charge of the meeting.

Central New York alumni, meeting at Drumlum's Country Club in Syracuse, elected Henry Gabe '42 president to succeed John Ranks '43, who has been called back to active duty USNR, in San Francisco on June 1.

A picnic for Sunday, June 24, is planned by this group and also a program of regular meetings beginning in the fall.

Prof. John Stewart '27 met with Michigan alumni at the home of Vernon Bryant '26 and Mrs. Bryant (Helen Page '28) in Birmingham on April 28. One of the largest groups in recent years was present.

Carl F. Ingraham '36, Birmingham, is the new president of the club with George P. Hitchings '37, Ypsilanti, vice president, Maxwell K. Murphy '30, Detroit, treasurer, and Miss Thelma Richards, Orono native and for many years associated with the alumni office, re-elected secretary.

Dr. Esther McGinnis, formerly of the Home Economics department and now with the Merrill-Palmer School, Detroit, was a guest at the meeting.

The active Portland Club of University of Maine Women met on May 3 at Howard Johnson's (Bob Parks '29) in Portland.

The club again gave their scholarship and also the Portland Alumnae Watch to be awarded at Commencement.

The following slate of officers were elected for the coming year: President: Mrs. Robert Colomy, vice president: Agnes Walsh; recording secretary: Mrs. Roland Wirths; corresponding secretary: Mrs. Carlton Crossland; treasurer: Mrs. Maxwell Carter; auditors: Mrs. Dale Butterworth, Mrs. William Chandler; program chairman: Mrs. E. Palmer Ingalls, Jr.; membership chairman: Mrs. Floyd Beecher.

Mrs. Clifford Blake (Dora B. West '41) is the retiring president.

During the spring holidays the club entertained the undergraduate co-eds at a spring style-show and tea, a party which did much to promote alumni relations with the undergraduates.

Boston Alumnae held their annual dinner and business meeting at the Hotel Beaconsfield on May 1.

About 25 alumnae attended and heard Mrs. Lucy (Farrington) Sheive '27 present a program called "Market Basket."

The annual review of the ROTC drew a large audience to Alumni Field. Part of the official party is shown on the cover and are (left to right) Col. L. W. Gopfert, Chief of the Maine Military District, Lt. Col. William Summers, P. M. S. & T. at the University, Alfred B. Lingley '20, Col. E. H. Metzger, First Army, Boston, and Cadet Colonel George W. Hayden '51. As part of the review a thrilling exhibition was put on by a student officers drill team which drew applause from the stands.

It was generally agreed, though an official report has not yet been received, that the review and day long inspection showed the excellence of the University ROTC.

Several members of the Alumni Council attended the review and were later guests of Dr. Hauck at a luncheon honoring the inspecting party.

The group voted additional funds for the University Loan Fund available to "women of high scholastic standing who have completed at least two years of college work."

Plans for the fall program were discussed. Boston alumnae will undoubtedly step up their activities during the next year.

Mrs. Mary-Hale (Sutton) Furman '38 succeeds Mrs. Jose (Savage) Cuetara '42 as president. Other officers are: vice president, Venora Stinchfield Dow '39, recording secretary, Virginia Harvey '45, corresponding secretary, Eleanor Ward Rheinlander '42, treasurer, Mary Hempstead Hemman '43, program chairman, Virginia May Mansfield '42, adviser, Barbara Savage Cuetara '42.

The largest alumni club group of the year gathered in Auburn on April 24 to greet Dr. and Mrs. Hauck. About 150 alumni of the Maine Club of Auburn-Lewiston and the Alumnae Club of the same towns were present at the joint meeting of the two clubs.

John L. McCobb '25, president of the Maine Club, presided. Miss Eleanor Hansen '50, president of the recently organized Alumnae Club, spoke briefly at the meeting.

Dr. Hauck discussed some of the current problems at the University and also the Selective Service Aptitude tests. Commenting on the latter Dr. Hauck said: "While I realize the so-called 'cut-off' tests are the best answer the Federal Government has found to a manpower problem which has developed over many years, I do not want our colleges and universities to be considered as refuges for youths desiring to get out of military service." He continued "Every youth physically able should serve his country."

F. Owen Stephens '17 has been president of the Maine Club during the year with veteran secretary John McCobb succeeding him. Robert Schoppe '38 is the new secretary.

The annual spring meeting will take place at Harold Cooper's camp at Thompson Lake on May 24. The usual lobster supper will be the highlight of this informal get-together.

TWO-YEAR GRADUATES

Twenty-three two-year agricultural students received their certificates on May 4. This was the first time that formal graduation exercises have been held for the two-year group.

The exercises were held in the Little Theatre with President Hauck presiding.

Alumni Trustee Harold J. Shaw '14 of Sanford was the speaker. He chose as his subject "Modern Agriculture—an Opportunity and a Challenge."

The graduates were guests at an alumni dinner in Balentine Hall. Mr. George E. Lord, associate director of the Extension service and a member of the Executive Committee of the Alumni Council, extended greetings to the graduates from the alumni.

John Sealey, Jr., Alumni Secretary, was the speaker.

Mr. Shaw told of the many changes that have taken place in agriculture in the last century and he predicted that many equally significant changes will take place in the years to come.

"As we look back," he said, "we find that a century ago it took one half of our population to produce food and fibre for themselves and the other half of the population

"Today there are 21 people in our country for each person working on a farm. This great change in the number of people engaged in farming presents a tremendous challenge," he said.

Mr. Shaw called attention to the many opportunities that are open to young men in the field of agriculture and said that these opportunities are equal to those in industry.

"Probably the greatest challenge which confronts the youth of today," he said, "is to have an understanding of leadership and the power of organization."

He said he felt that public relations in agriculture "is one of our weakest points."

"We have done far too little to develop our public relations. Our future in great part depends upon the development in the field," he said, and called on the young farmers to aid in this endeavor. President Arthur A. Hauck presided at the ceremonies. The prayer was given by the Rev. Charles E. O'Connor, director of the Student Religious Association. Associate Dean Winthrop C. Libby, of the College of Agriculture, assisted with the presentation of certificates.

Receiving degrees were:

Wounded

When Dick Spencer graduated in 1949 he had a two-year research fellowship at Utah College with plans for getting his Master's degree this past February. By that time he had already spent almost five months in rugged campaigning in Korea and had been twice decorated for gallantry.

His first award was the Bronze Star for action near Pyongyang. For action at Hungnam just before Christmas he was awarded the Silver Star, the third highest award of the Army.

On March 3 he was wounded and flown to Walter Reed Hospital early this month. Dick feels that his "luck ran out. I didn't duck fast enough and got a slug in the right elbow." The shattered nerve centers are now slowly responding to treatment. His wife (Barbara Davidson '50) is now in Washington with him while he is in the hospital.

The citation accompanying the Silver Star award read in part "... with a high degree of skillful leadership, Lt. Spencer directed the redeployment of his light machine guns and other weapons and successfully drove off the enemy. Through-out this entire action, Lt. Spencer ex-posed himself to heavy small arms and automatic weapon fire ... rallying and spurring his men on to greater achieve-ments. By his heroic and calm handling of this grave situation he so inspired his troops that a complete route of the enemy in front of his platoon resulted."

Richard A. Spencer '50 (left) and Howard E. Spencer, Jr. '45 ('49) met in Tokyo in February for the first time in several months. Brother Richard was at that time assigned to Co. I, 32nd Infantry in Korea while Howard is still with the Ryukus Com-mand in Okinawa.

Now in Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C., Richard was flown there after being wounded in action on the Korean front.

ACT ENABLES MED SCHOOL

In April Governor Payne signed a bill giving the University the authority—but not the money—to establish a medical college. This enabling legislation has received the attention of previous legislatures but it has not been until this year that it has received favorable action.

The bill was sponsored by the Maine Medical College with the consent but not the participation of the Board of Trustees. Its passage is a delayed tribute to the late Dr. Edward L. Herlihy '18 of Bangor who worked tirelessly for its passage in previous years.

There is no possibility that the Medical College will be established in the near future mainly because of lack of finances. The Bangor Daily News editorially viewed the situation in part this way:

"No one is naive enough to believe that a College of Medicine would not mean highly important money. So important, in fact, that under Maine's current fiscal condition—the Legislature is still trying to bridge a $10-million gap between budget and appropriations—the establishment of a college of medicine appears visionary. The primary outlay would be enormous, what with buildings and equipment. From that point on, while the cost would probably be less than expected, it would still be appreciable. We have prominent specialists in the immediate area who could lecture on a part-time basis. But no full-time faculty member worth his salt could be lured for less than $15,000 annually, and it would be worse than useless to establish such a college unless it could be ranked among the best in the business.

"But the Legislature must have had some such long-range program in mind even to consider waiving objections to the project—although on a 'when and if' basis. Otherwise it would have reported with a flat 'no,' or 'inexpedient.' Hard-headed realists, they seldom give a meaningless sympathetic nod.

"Even so, the Legislature had to start somewhere in an effort to regain the ground lost in the early 1920's (Ed. note: The year Bowdoin discontinued its Maine Medical School). Starts are customarily made at the beginning if they are to be effective, and this was no exception. Authorization for the course was necessarily the first step before others could follow in their logical sequence.

"The initial step has been taken.

"The next step is the important one, and since it involves vast sums of money it probably lies in the imponderable future.

"How imponderable is anybody's guess."

Dream Trip

"Uncle Hank" is boss cook. His mastery with the open fire and reflector oven makes such things as birthday cakes and lemon meringue pies commonplace to the St. Croix campsite. Usually, before the summer is over, each boy has a chance to try his hand at biscuit-making. The results are not always the same but sooner or later the young cooks remember that the rule is one of soda and two of cream-of-tartar.

The "Skipper," as Mr. Dwelley is called on the river, is a baked bean specialist that shuns the can opener and trying pan in favor of dry beans and a hole in the ground. One night at Fagle Lake I watched the Skipper bury a huge pot of beans amid glowing coals and hot rocks. The next evening, the table set and all the accessories prepared, we all stood wondering around the bean hole while the Skipper probed with the shovel for the main dish of the meal. He finally contacted the bale of the pot and with the caution of a jewel cutter, he wiped the dirt and ashes away from the container. Here, his confidence seemed to leave him and he mulled over happenings that might have made the beans taste other than predicted. Too much molasses, perhaps.

The Skipper lifted the pot out onto the grass and stood up. Eleven hungry boys stared at the pot. Trying not to expect too much, I pried up the lid and swung it free. There they lay, superb in their gleaming brownness and sending up fragrances that made us keep our eyes upon the notched semi-circle of pork that lent its juiciness to the bowl of plenty. The Skipper had had no cause to worry for hastily dipped fingers proved that his bean hole beans were beans that were beans.

The itinerary of the trip varies somewhat each summer in order to take advantage of varying water conditions which will influence the trout fishing and the navigability of the streams. For instance, following a wet June, there is no better trout fishing in the U. S. than the upper waters of the St. John River, whereas a dry June causes the St. John to go down to such an extent that navigation is difficult even in a canoe.

Seasons when it seems unwise to run the upper St. John, the Voyageurs usually put their canoes into the west branch or the Penobscot, at Northeast Carry, and paddle down to Lobster Lake, a distance of about five miles. The next lap is to Chesuncook Lake and from there the trip takes in Caumogomac Lake, Round Pond and then, by portage, to Allagash Lake. Down Allagash Stream the canoes go and then to Chamberlain and Eagle Lakes and then down to Churchill Dam which was once the center of an active lumbering community but is now merely a ghost town with two fire wardens its only residents.

The final campfire is held at St. Francis where the rugged young Voyageurs gather for steaks and a rehash of the trip which includes a lot of laughs as well as good fellowship and outdoor living. They have travelled nearly three hundred miles by canoe but they are not glad the trip is over. Good times and trials, bugs, rain, rocks, controversies and laughter; food, fish, sunshine, and beautiful country; game sighted, long days, tired backs and soft bed rolls. They have experienced all these and more too, and the lessons learned as well as the stirring memories always ready for revival will be a part of each boy for the rest of his life.

So, congratulations to Zeke Dwelley and Hank Small for maintaining such an active interest in their outdoor work, and three big Moosetown cheers for the St. Croix Voyageurs, boy conquerors of the white water country.

(Ed. note: Alumni may secure more detailed information about this year's seven-week's trip of the St. Croix Voyageurs by writing to Mr. Dwelley, 6 Summit St., Auburn, Maine.)

The Alumni Sabre is to be awarded annually to the outstanding military student based on his military leadership, scholastic record and military bearing and aptitude.

Cadet Colonel Hayden also received the Association of the United States Army Medal for being the "outstanding anti-aircraft artillery cadet." Hayden plans to make a career of the Army.

JOSEPH WILLIAM RANDLETTE
The death of Joseph W. Randlette of Richmond, Maine, occurred in April. He was superintendent of the Richmond Water Works and a former fire chief of that town. Mr. Randlette had been active in many town affairs during his life time—selectman, member of School Board, Town Clerk. Going farther afield he served as Sagadahoc County Commissioner, and also as trial justice of that county for a number of years. He was a former chairman of the state Republican Committee. In fraternal bodies he was a member of Odd Fellows, member of masonic bodies, O.E.S., Oldest Past Grand of local Lodge I.O.O.F., Oldest Past Master, and Past Patron of local Masonic lodge and O.E.S. He was a past president of the Richmond Lions Club and was one of the organizers of this group. During his college days he was a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Alberta Randlette, and a son, Howard, of the class of '23.

ARTHUR LEONARD SPARROW
Arthur L. Sparrow died on April 12, 1951, after a short illness. He was a resident of Orleans, Mass., and well-known throughout the Cape Cod area as one of the "old guard" and as a surveyor, which was the nature of his business. Mr. Sparrow was a recognized authority on Land Court petitions for registrations. During his lifetime he took an active part in town affairs having been a selectman for 15 years, chairman of Orleans Planning Board, president of the Cape Cod Chamber of Commerce, a director of the Cape Cod Trust Company and a trustee of the Cape Cod Five Cents Savings Bank. He was a member of the Boston Society of Civil Engineers, the Cape Cod Society of Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors, the Universal Lodge A.F. and A.M. of Orleans, and of the Universalist Church. He is survived by his widow Beula Eldredge Sparrow, two sons, Kenrick '35 and Eldredge, two grandsons and two granddaughters.

WILLIAM JOSEPH CORRIGAN
Sudden death came to William J. Corrigan of Millinocket on May 20, 1951. He was associated with the Millinocket Foundry and Machine Co. and had been its manager for the past ten years. Prior to that he had been a druggist in Caribou and in Bangor. Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Julia McGoff of Millinocket, a brother Edward J. of Calais, and several nieces and nephews, including Mrs. Margaret Fraser Feeney '26 of Orono. Mr. Corrigan was a member of Theta Chi fraternity.

Personals from the CLASSES

GEORGE LOUIS FINDLEN. It has been presumed that George L. Findlen is dead since he has been missing with no trace found since March 3 in the wilderness of the Mooseluck area in northern Maine. He and a friend, Elwood Rasmussen of Caribou, had gone on an ice fishing jaunt to Lake Millimagassett southwest of The Oxbow. An extensive search was made in March and again after the ice went out in late April, but no trace could be found of the missing men or their plane. Mr. Findlen was manager of his father's extensive potato farms in Ft. Fairfield. He had previously been a teacher of agriculture at Newport and at Van Buren High Schools. He was a member of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity.

1944

HAROLD RAYMOND DOW. Capt. Harold R. Dow was instantly killed in a B-50 bomber crash at El Paso, Texas, on April 17, 1951. He was stationed at Biggs Field as a radar operator, and was in the regular Army Air Corps. A brother, James F. Dow, who was killed in an airplane crash in 1940, was posthumously honored by having Dow Field in Bangor named after him. A sister, Gloria (now Mrs. D. William Pelletier), was a member of the class of 1949. Capt. Dow was a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

DARRYL VALDEMAR BEISEL
Darryl V. Beisel was killed in a logging accident at St. Aurelie, Quebec, on April 5, 1951. He was working for the International Logging Corporation. His home was at 429 Coal St., Lehigh, Pa. During his college career, he was center on the Varsity Football team and participated in Intramural Wrestling. He received his letter in football.

Bob is with us and trying to get into the movies. Dick (his twin brother) is with Aetna Life Insurance in Detroit. He was rooming with George Potter's son for awhile. I have bought a ranch house entirely surrounded by flowers, located at the base of some mountains. A grand location! Will miss you all in June." Warren Preble (Address: 1697 Veranada Ave., Altadena.) Mr. Preble is still with Home Life Insurance Co.

Bill Feeney, after ten years of active duty with the Army of Occupation Forces in Japan, has returned to college. He is majoring in Public Management and says he has not worked so hard in thirty years. Anyone looking for a good town manager contact Bill, June 1951. He and his wife, the former Peg Fraser '26, are living at 5 Mill St., Orono.

1923 Mrs. Norman Torrey (Toni Gould) 9 Poplar St., Bangor

Isn't it interesting how varied are the pursuits of our classmates... and how scattered their residences! Here in Maine Harold F. Blackwood is Principal of Pembroke High School and Judge of Probate of Washington County. He resides in West Pembroke. While David Gross is also in the Educational Profession he is a teacher at the New Utrecht High School in Brooklyn, N. Y. His home is at 270 Parkside Ave., that city.

Clifford Anderson is in the poultry farming business in New Sweden, Maine, and Lyman C. Bryant is raising the cranberries to go with them down on Cape Cod. He is treasurer of the Chipaway Corp. and lives on Chapel Lane, East Wareham, Mass.

Among our Engineers Donald F. Alexander is chief electrical engineer for the Frigidaire Division of the General Motors Corp. and resides at 66 W. Peach Orchard Rd., Dayton 9, Ohio, and Philip

D. Davis is a resident engineer for the Erie Railroad Co. and is at home at 157 W. Pultney St., Corning, N. Y.

I'm sorry so many of you have incapacitated right arms. It would be so nice if you could only use them to write your class secretary!

1924 Mrs. Clarence C. Little (Beatrice Johnson) Box 558, Bar Harbor

I have a few items from the Alumni Office.

Edith L. Beckett is librarian for the Calais Free Library. She is also a clerk in the law office of Thomas S. Bridges in that city. Her residence is 109 Union St.

Carl L. Beal is currently living at Edward Rd., R.F.D. #4, Troy, N. Y. He is Director of Research and Development in the Tape Division of Behr-Manning Corporation of Troy.

Philip A. Harriman is a school administrator associated with the Wilbur Cross High School in New Haven, Conn. He lives at 49 Livingston St., that city.

Bryan E. Ross owns and operates a sporting goods and auto accessories store in Old Town and lives at 59 Brunswick St. there.

Paul J. Stella is a District Manager of a business concern and lives at 304 Walden St., Cambridge, Mass.

I attended Farm and Home Week on campus and am compelled to tell you that the Maine campus has certainly evolved since we were there. It is perfectly beautiful and the New Library and Plant Science Buildings are a joy to behold. Even the old edifices we inhabited look as though they would last many more years—they are all so well kept. One gets the feeling that there are some pretty fine people at the controls on campus. The programs of Farm and Home Week were so intriguing that one's only regret was that she didn't have more than one pair of eyes and ears.

Another pleasant experience for your secretary consisted of visiting West Hall to see the room her daughter will occupy at the College come next September. "Prexy" and I are thrilled that she wants nothing more on earth than to attend our University.

And now for the same old song—like a Greek chorus—Send In Some Personals—please!

25th Reunion, June 15-17, 1951

Even though the final reunion letter, with the reservation slip for you to send back, hasn't yet reached you, the list of class members coming back for our 25th is growing every day. Since the last issue of The Alumnus the following have been heard from:

Ed Stanton, M.D., writes from New York, "It is a long way and a bad month for me, but if I don't get to our 25th, I don't know when I shall do it. Bill Bailey and I are coming up together and for you.

it's HOOD'S
ICE CREAM

I have written for reservations for the four of us."

Fred Marshall says, "Please put my name down for the reunion June 15, 16, 17. I have contacted all 1926 Phi Gams and have had pretty good results." So we'll be looking for a good delegation of 1926 Phi Gams back!

A card from Edna and Ed Coffin says, "We'll be there. Our son graduates, so we have a two-fold reason for returning. Be seeing you!"

Norman Stilphen wrote on May 18, "I am planning to be present."

Alfred "Bud" Stevens sent word through Wally Elliott that he would be with us.

"Zeke" Dwelley has a son graduating so he will be here for some reunion events.

Our two-star General, Major General George R. Acheson, is coming for reunion, and will be a feature speaker at the Alumni Banquet.

Pearl Graffam is on campus and will join us for part of the events if not all of them. Many others have said they hope to make it but aren't sure yet.

We'll be looking for word from a lot more of you with the reservation blanks going out and the date of reunion actually getting very near! Let's hear from you and make this 25th one of the best that has ever been celebrated on the Maine campus!

1927 Miss Marion Cooper
230 State St., Augusta

Thanks to activities of some Maine members of the Class of 1927 that were rewarded by newspaper mention, I have a few items for you this month.

Neil S. Bishop of Stockton Springs, who is grand chancellor of the Grand Lodge of Maine, Knights of Pythias, presided at the organization's 79th annual convention in Portland in April.

Daphne Winslow Merrill of Fryeburg is first vice president of the Maine Business and Professional Women's Club and served as toastmistress at the dinner meeting of the spring State Board meeting in Bangor, April 7. Robert Haskell, State Senator from Penobscot County and a member of the class of 1925, was the speaker.

Evelyn Farris Knowles (Mrs. Jerome) of Northeast Harbor is on the committee making plans for the Home Demonstration Week program to be presented in Hancock County on May 1.

Farm and Home Week, that annual "See and Hear" program at the University every spring, had several '27ites on the program. They were Al Nutting, Ed Johnson, Edith O'Connor Thaxter, Lucy Farrington Sheive, and John Snell.

The Alumni Office says: H. Russell Beatty is professor of engineering at Pratt Institute and his home address is Somerville Road, Bedminster, N. J.

Ed Engle, who is with the Celanese Corporation in New York City, lives at 1 Kathryn Place, Bergenfield, N. J.

1928 Miss Mary A. McGuire
University of Bridgeport,
Bridgeport, Conn.

At last—a letter! To Representative Dave Fuller, many thanks for news of several members of '28, and for an engaging account of his wrestling with the State budget on the Legislative Judiciary Committee. Dave frequently sees Representative Emery Dickey, County Commissioner Russell (Buck) Foster (one of the Commissioners of Kennebec County), and Chief of State Police Francis McCabe. Also he saw recently at Southwest Harbor Lawrence Getchell, who is connected with the Bar Harbor Motor Company and the Southwest Harbor Motor Company.

To Carroll Osgood, an apology for the belated correction of an error regarding him in this column last spring. (His letter of correction was mislaid because of my shifting summer address—sorry.) Carroll is Secretary of the Travelers Insurance Company in Hartford, Conn. His residence is at 8 Sunnyslope Drive, West Hartford.

Clarence M. Flint is Research Director for the American Newspaper Publishers Association of New York City. His residence address is Lawrence Farms South, Chappaqua, N. Y.

Harry R. Hartman is chief engineer for Witco Chemical Co. in Chicago, Ill. His home is at 72 Chestnut Ave., Clarendon Hills, Ill.

Just one more issue of The Alumnus before the end of this college year. How about a line or two from you for inclusion in the last issue?

Clayton Totman is now a full colonel in the Marine Corps. Congratulations! Clayton's wife was photographed recently pinning the silver eagle on his shoulders at Quantico, Va. Clayton is officer in charge of testing and education section at that base. He was commissioned a Lt. in the Marine Corps in 1935. During the early part of his career he spent three years in China and served during the early part of World War II in Alaska and later with the amphibious corps in the South Pacific theater, including Tarawa. Clayton's home was in Greenfield, Maine, and like all state of Mainers, he goes back often for vacations.

William Butler, formerly of Belfast, is with the Salem China Co. of Salem, Ohio. Bill is New England representative and his home address is Little River Cottage, Waldo (Belfast), Maine.

Mrs. Rhona (Gray) Dearborn is at home at 145 Sunnydale Rd., Bridgeport, Conn. Rhona has two children, Robert and George.

Sumner Hancock had quite an experience recently, when he and his wife (Betty Homans '39) and four-year-old son, Douglas, came back from a vacation that had lasted a couple of months in Florida. Sumner's home in Casco had burned to the ground the night before he returned. And his car was "only about eight inches high" when he saw the ruins. Fortunately no one was hurt in the fire, and Sumner and family have gone to live with his mother temporarily. Sumner, as you know, is treasurer of the M. S. Hancock Inc., lumber mill. Wish we could help, Sumner. Even lumber isn't enough to replace "home" and a one hundred year old house. Glad that you are all safe, though.

Until next month—and do let us hear from you!

1936 Mrs. Edwin P. Webster, Jr.
(Phyllis Hamilton)

15th Reunion, June 15-17, 1951

Franklin Holmes was recently promoted to the rank of Lt. Col. at the Augsburg Military Post in Germany. He joined the army in 1937 as a private, served as instructor in the Signal School at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., from 1937 to 1941 when he was commissioned a 2nd Lt. in the Officers Reserve Corps. During World War II he served in the China, Burma, India theater where he was assigned to the Chinese Army. Franklin and his wife (Clara Hodgdon '35) and two children are residing in Augsburg.

Carleton L. Taylor, Jr., is Chief Engineer with the Marbon Corp., manufacturers of Styrene resins and rubber adhesives in Gary, Indiana. His address is 2349 Vandenberg St., East Gary, Ind.

Carolyn (Currier) Lombardi was recently elected president of the Bangor District Nursing Association.

Leonore (Dorr) Wiley's address is 6738 Coldwater Canyon, N. Hollywood, Calif.

John Dawson is a partner in George Dawson & Co., Accountants of Boston. His address is 67 Bright St., Waltham, Mass.

Lawrence Cote is an engineer with the Planning Div., State Highway Commission, Augusta.

Rena Allen is a Home Economics teacher at Stearns High in Millinocket. Recently there was a write-up in the Bangor News with pictures of Rena conducting classes in adult education.

If anyone goes to see the picture A Yank in Korea, keep in mind that the story was written by Leo Lieberman. Leo is certainly doing big things.

Remember we have our 15th (ugh) reunion in June. Be sure to come back. "It's later than you think!"

1937 Miss Nancy Woods
342 W. Freemason St.,
Norfolk, Va.

First of all names and addresses. Ernest Lowell Dinmore is a salesman for the New York Metropolitan area, Long Island, and nearby counties of New York and Connecticut. He is associated with Bowey's, Inc., of 771 Bedford Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., and his residence address is 255-42 74th Ave., Glen Oaks, N. Y.

During my Easter Holiday I ran up to New York and Washington for a few days. Had I known that Louise Averill Svendsen (Mrs. Thoralf) was living at 2713 Porter St., N. W., Washington, I should have given her a call. But the word has just now reached me of this change of name and address.

Winslow B. Smith, who always loved airplanes, has really made a dream come true since he is a Civil Aeronautics Administrator for CAA airports covering New England. His business address is 2200 Custom House, Boston. His residence is 54 Brook St., Scituate, Mass. Happy landings, Winslow!

Helen D. Sublett (Mrs. Carl) dropped us a line from 237 Carson's Lane in Bristol, Tenn.

"Phyl!" Phillips (Mrs. H. D. Bemiss, Jr.) is the busy wife of a teacher and the happy mother of three children. Stephen Dana is 4 and twins Phyllis Ann and Priscilla Andrea are two years old. The address of the Bemiss family is 67 Bayview Ave., in picturesque Ellsworth, Maine.

George R. Trimble, Jr., is a neighbor of mine up yonder in the hills of West Virginia. He is a forester with the Northeastern Forest Experiment Station and is living in Parsons, W. Va.

Next month I have a grand letter from Les Smith with lots of news about our friends. So look forward to that!

1938 Mrs. Roland M. Wirths
(Mary Deering)
1079 Ocean Ave., Portland

Francis Jones has been named by Director Michael DiSalle to a high post in the Office of Price Stabilization on March 21. Fran will be acting chief of the fruit and vegetable branch for six months. He is one of 23 men appointed directors on DiSalle's advisory staff. He has been an economist for O.P.A. and the Department of Agriculture. He and his family of three children have been living in LeSueur, Minn., for several years and will continue to make their permanent home there.

Gordon Raymond telephoned to say that he is to reside in Portland and will be working for the Kraft people. He is staying temporarily with the Arthur Blacks, parents of the Black twins, Ken and Ernie, Ruby, Eleanor, Barbara (Lancaster) and the two boys will move down as soon as Gordon locates a home. (Ed Note: Found! 17 Rudman Rd.)

Haddonfield, N. J.

The Pancoast family is now enjoying (?) the Florida rains while on vacation, thank you. And I do mean rains. We had a fine trip down, though, and saw some beautiful country. Only sorry that we couldn't stop to visit with the few '45ers who live slightly off our route. Thought of the Healeys (Barb Smiley) and Venettes (Ken) as we drove through their territory, anyway.

We did see one car with a U of M. sticker while coming across the Pennsylv. N. J., Feiry, but didn't get a chance to talk to the two fellows driving.

The latest word from Waterville says that Charles Gilman is to leave soon on a scientific expedition around the world. More details are promised for next month.

THE UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

AN INVITATION

The University of Maine extends a cordial invitation to teachers, school administrators, and regularly enrolled college students to participate in a program of summer study.

Ivy-covered buildings, walks shaded by evergreens and stately elms, provide a beautiful setting.

The pleasant environment of picturesque Maine offers excellent surroundings for study and recreation during a delightful season of the year.

UNIVERSITY of MAINE SUMMER SESSION

The Summer Session is designed to meet the needs of educators, regularly enrolled college students, and those who seek cultural and professional growth in specific fields. Teachers, councilors, supervisors, and school administrators will find that this six-week period of study provides an unusual opportunity for professional improvement. Regularly enrolled students of the University of Maine and other institutions likewise find an opportunity to make up work they have missed during the regular school year or to secure additional credits in anticipation of their individual needs. Adults not engaged in formal study or teaching who desire to attend the Session for general cultural purposes may do so.

The broad program of educational offerings during the Session would be quite incomplete without varied opportunities for recreation and social activities.

Accomplished artists and outstanding lecturers are brought to the campus under the direction of a faculty committee.

The facilities of the Summer Session are open to both men and women. The requirements for admission are in general the same as those for the other sessions of the University. Students are expected to have completed a standard high school course or its equivalent as a minimum preparation. No entrance examinations are required. Transcripts of work previously done are necessary only when the student plans to become a candidate for a degree at the University of Maine. Regularly enrolled students at the University of Maine must confer with their respective Dean.

For additional information write to Mark R. Shibles, Director, Summer Session, University of Maine, Orono, Maine.
