A Tribute to a Retiring President

President, 1969-1971

General Alumni Association

University of Maine at Orono

June 12, 1971

read by Ralph L. ("Woody") Hodgkins, Jr. '59 at the annual meeting of the General Alumni Association.

For many men retirement consists of rest, relaxation, and self-indulgence. We see this pattern developing every day. During the past seven years, however, those of us active in the Alumni Council have watched a man do anything but follow this pattern. The man who is retiring as your General Alumni Association President, retired in 1961 from an active and successful career in all areas of education—from high school teacher, athletic coach to Assistant Commissioner of Education, Division of Business and Finance for the State of New Jersey.

Upon retirement from his chosen profession, he promptly went to work for the University of Maine and the citizens of Maine as a volunteer.

In 1965, while the General Alumni Association searched for a man to take the job of Assistant Executive Director, Ken Woodbury volunteered to work full time in that capacity. And did he work! So well, in fact, that the following year he was named as Chairman of the Annual Alumni Fund Committee and for two years guided its activities to new record highs in giving and improved organization.

In 1967 he was elected First Vice President of the Association and in 1969 was elected President. Having joined the Council in 1966, he now completes his seventh year as Maine's most active alumnus.

In addition to work with the Orono organization, he is past president of the Cumberland County Alumni Association, a past member of the Black Bear Award Committee, and was presented the Block "M" Award in 1966 for his outstanding service to the University of Maine and the General Alumni Association. Those of us who have worked with and for Ken in the Alumni Association know — and you should know — that he has made a great impact on your Alumni Association. We are enjoying a relationship with the University and with our alumni which I think is better than ever before, and much of the success of the Association in recent years is due to Ken's thoughtful, firm and aggressive leadership.

Those of us who follow Ken as your alumni officers have a very firm, sound foundation which he has prepared for us to build upon, and as I present this University of Maine chair to our retiring President, Ken Woodbury, I hope you will all join me in a standing ovation in recognition of his devotion to our Alma Mater.

Reunion 1971

For service to the University of Maine through the General Alumni Association, from his graduation through to the present time, through the ranks as vice president of the Boston Area Alumni Association, as a member of the Alumni Council, as vice chairman of the annual alumni fund, as chairman of the drive, and as first vice president and then president of the General Alumni Association, Carl A. Whitman '35 was presented the 1971 Pine Tree Alumni Service Emblem Award by Kenneth F. Woodbury '24, president of the association, at the Saturday night banquet, June 12, highlighting this closing event of a memorable reunion weekend.

About a thousand alumni, wives, and friends turned out for Reunion—1971. The weather was ideal. In an atmosphere of easy relaxation those who came back mingled with those who had stayed on, and today's students and those of many yesterdays became acquainted in claiming their common heritage.

Reunion activities began Friday evening with class dinners for 1911, 1917, the fifty-year class of 1921, the twenty-five-year class of 1946, classes of five-year intervals through 1966, and the newest one of all, 1969.

The 1921 class celebration featured many surprises. A Block "M" was awarded to Wesley C.

Plumer for his "constant zeal for the welfare of this school." An aerial map was presented to Stanley Campbell, the class member who came from the farthest distance—South Gate, California. And the class honored its secretary, Mrs. Stormont Josselyn (Emilie Kritter) with a special award, a gold "M" on an ebony base, inscribed to her from the Class of 1921 and presented by Roger C. Castle. President Winthrop C. Libby '32 addressed the class, saying, "College age young men and women are the most misunderstood age in our society." He explained that students' life styles have changed because the life styles of society have changed. "Basically, I feel proud of the students. They have never let me down." President Libby received a surprise gift from the class of 1921, a check for $2,100 to use "with no strings attached" at his discretion for the university.

On Friday night all the classes together relaxed at a cabaret-style entertainment in the Memorial Gymnasium, with Professor Waldo M. ("Mac") Libbey '44 as master of ceremonies. A German band, a skit, a magician, a barbershop quartet, and solos were spaced by sing-alongs, with Dick Snare '33 at the organ, alumni joining in on old, not-so-old, and popular songs.

Class meetings were held Saturday morning, and at the luncheon President Kenneth Woodbury welcomed the full gathering of alumni. A high point of the occasion was Dr. Lore A. Rogers '96 appearing before the alumni to accept the 1908 Cup, the gift to the reunion class of the 19th century having the largest percentage of its members registered. His proud speech of acceptance was greeted with thunderous applause. Dr. Rogers, for whom Rogers Hall is named, was the oldest alumnus present at reunion. Mr. (and Mrs.) Arthur E. Silver '02 were introduced, and Mr. (and Mrs.) William F. Sampson '05, as the second and third oldest alumni present.

GAA President Kenneth Woodbury honored the retiring faculty members at the luncheon on behalf of the association, with Executive Director Donald M. Stewart '35 citing the contributions each had made to the university: Mrs. Florence E. Dinsmore, presidential secretary emerita; Dr. Richard E. Durst, professor emeritus of chemical engineering; Dr. A. Douglas Glanville, professor emeritus of psychology; Dr. Matthew E. Highlands '28, professor emeritus of food science; Miss Autice Jardine '53, assistant professor of education; Dr. Norris O. Johnson, Maine Bankers Association professor of finance; Albert D. Nutting '27, director emeritus, school of forest resources; Dr. Carl Porter-Shirley, professor of education; Horace A. Pratt '30, testing engineer emeritus;

Wesley C. Plumer '21 presents Class of 1921 gift of $2,100 to President Winthrop C. Libby '32.

Dr. Lore A. Rogers '96 receives the 1908 Cup from GAA President Kenneth F. Woodbury '24.

Charles L. Puffer '32, lecturer in education and continuing education coordinator; Miss Mary F. Reed '29, assistant university librarian emerita; Samuel Sezak '31, professor of physical education and intramural director; Dr. Mark R. Shibles, dean emeritus of education and professor emeritus of education; Dr. J. Franklin Witter, professor emeritus of animal pathology; and Dr. Stefan R. Zieminski, professor emeritus of chemical engineering. Dr. Lyle C. Jenness, who retired in 1966 to become executive secretary of the Pulp and Paper Foundation, was brought back for the occasion to be given special recognition, this being the year when the new chemical engineering building will be dedicated as Lyle C. Jenness Hall.

The members of the Class of 1921 then came forward individually to receive fifty-year certificates from President Libby, much as they must have come forward to receive their diplomas from President Robert Judson Aley fifty years ago.

The GAA annual meeting was held immediately after the luncheon. New officers were elected for two-year terms: president, Albert M. Parker '28 of Port Washington, N. Y.; vice president, Ralph L. Hodgkins, Jr. '59 of Auburn; second vice president, Mrs. John Ness '32 of Augusta; treasurer, Herbert A. Leonard '39 of Orono; and clerk, Mrs. Allan G. Stewart '62 of Brunswick. Council members elected for three-year terms were: Kenneth F. Woodbury '24, Mrs. Lewis B. Paine, II '50, Waldo M. Libbey '44, John F. Wilson '33, Dennis P. Hogan '71, Leland F. Carter '42, Mrs. Alan Merritt '59, Raymond R. Couture '51, John R. Dyer '41, Mrs. Vincent Poeppelmeier '40, Carl R. Toothaker '39, and Mrs. John J. Turbyne '34. Willard C. Farnham '60 was elected to the athletic council for a new three-year term.

President Kenneth Woodbury thanked Ralph L. ("Woody") Hodgkins '59 for his three-year service as chairman of the annual alumni fund.

Dr. Lawrence Cutler '28 addresses the audience at the dedication of Mark R. Shibles Hall.

Under his leadership the annual alumni gift grew from $140,000 in 1969 to $165,000 this year.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Hodgkins, on behalf of the General Alumni Association, presented to retiring president, Kenneth F. Woodbury, a University of Maine chair, voicing the appreciation of the alumni for his outstanding leadership for the past ten years, the last two as president of the association.

In the afternoon Mark R. Shibles Hall was dedicated at an outdoor ceremony. Professor George T. Davis presided, and among those addressing the guests was GAA President Kenneth F. Woodbury '24, who brought "greetings to Mark Shibles from all of our alumni and especially from the Class of 1959—for he is an adopted member of that Class." The speaker, Dr. Warren G. Hill, chancellor for higher education for the State of Connecticut, spoke of Dean Shibles as "a gentleman, a philosopher, a visionary, a friend, and above all, an educator."

Class gifts were presented at the alumni banquet on Saturday night. Howard Bowen '24 led the alumni in singing the University Hymn, with Dick Snare '33 at the piano. Attendance cups were given, the 20th Century Cup to the class with the largest percentage of its members registered, to the class of 1921, with 31.6 percent registered; and the 1924 Cup to the class of the last thirty years which has the largest percentage of its members registered, to 1941, with 7.5 percent registered. Joseph ("Joe") A. McCusker '17 then sang the Band Song, which he had composed, to the great enjoyment of the audience.

President Libby then presented the check for the Distinguished Maine Professor Award, which had been announced at Commencement, to Assistant Professor of Botany Douglas Alfred Gelinas. At the request of the General Alumni Association the process of selection had been refined this year by a committee appointed by the president of the university, and new guidelines approved by the Alumni Council. This is the ninth year the General Alumni Association has provided funds for this $1,500 award, and it is the first year the award has been granted to a member of the college of life sciences and agriculture.

Retiring Dean Mark R. Shibles was the speaker at the banquet, describing the "Legacy of the University" as "a rich inheritance. It will last us a lifetime." He described the parts of this legacy as 1) the magnitude of the educational task, 2) stately mansions to serve educational needs, and 3) creativity, innovation, and change.

Howard Bowen '24 led the singing of the Stein Song, which concluded the official activities of the reunion weekend. Sunday special class outings were arranged, winding up a beautiful weekend for all.

Even the casual observer would say that President Kenneth F. Woodbury of the General Alumni Association had reached his stated goal in a model weekend, when he said, "If I didn't accomplish anything else, I hope that we can bring the faculty, the alumni, and the students of this institution closer together. I think we are moving in this direction."

Excerpts from speech by DEAN MARK R. SHIBLES

Higher education at Orono has done an impressive job of meeting the quantitative needs of students. It has consistently handled more and more students with a continuous decrease in numbers of staff and other resources.

Higher education in the 70s must re-define its goals, reconstruct its curriculum, and remodel its instructional program. It must not undertake to serve all the needs of all men.

It can best serve its students if it remains close to its central purpose, that of developing man's intellect. It is the mission of this institution to develop scholars, competent researchers, intelligent business men and well educated teachers.

From this institution must emerge graduates who have perspective and vision which will enable them to become creators of a better world rather than precision parts of an existing order.

Dr. Douglas A. Gelinas
Distinguished Maine
Professor

COMMENCEMENT

*Commencement speaker,
Bill Moyers*

Beverly J. Anderson, class secretary, and Cynthia (Miller) Russell, class treasurer, prepare for commencement.

President Winthrop C. Libby '32 congratulates Dean Mark R. Shibles as he receives his honorary degree.

President Winthrop C. Libby '32 told the graduating seniors at the 142nd commencement of the University of Maine at Orono that "improvement in the quality of our ordinary lives comes. . . as the result of the many small commitments that men and women make to themselves, to each other, and to their children." Though Senior Class President Gregory C. Stevens, former White House Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers and President Libby each spoke of "the harsh realities of the times" from a different perspective, each drew essentially this conclusion of the necessity for individual responsibility.

Mr. Stevens spoke of the "crisis in which our society rejects the very people it honors," citing unemployment as the most acute problem facing the graduating seniors. "Among the thousand of us who have registered with our office of career planning and placement, a mere two hundred of us have found employment."

He spoke of skills learned in college that are not now needed in the job market. But he affirmed the qualities of life that his class has learned from their total college experience, and urged his fellow classmates to offer these to society. "We have learned, we have had to, something very fundamental at this institution. We have learned to live with those around us. . . . Possibly then, we have more to offer our society than merely highly developed skill, . . . not the knowledge . . . so little in demand, but the qualities we have found here, the qualities that will always be in great demand." He suggests that the need for this year's graduates "exists not in a wealthy white suburb, but in places less wealthy, less white, less suburban. . . . Let us not be the graduates who were thrust into making a contribution and refused."

Mr. Moyers, the commencement speaker, highlighted today's problems of overpopulation, poverty, and inequitable distribution of the world's resources. He spoke of the nations of the world spending $200 billion for military security, twenty-five times what they spend for economic and social development—the equivalent, he said, of the University of Maine spending twenty times as much on its security force as it does on its faculty. "Against this backdrop I ask you to consider the priorities of the world's richest nations. . . . Like any one of her people, America can be sometimes noble and sometimes wretched, and at any given moment the country is up for grabs—it can go either way. . . . I have only a simple, rather obvious, perhaps even slightly naive thing to say, and that is the direction America goes will be decided by each of us. A nation can be no more truthful than each of us, or honest, or generous, or worthy. A nation is really the whole of its parts. It is you and me."

In giving his charge to the graduates, President Libby stressed their responsibility to society. "No one need tell anyone that if this earth exists in 1996 man may be fortunate. Existence is a shared goal of all men, yet sheer existence is not enough. . . . It seems reasonable to expect that improvement will come in our highly sophisticated society largely through the political process. Young adults must become involved in this process at all levels—the community, the state and the nation."

The commencement exercises, rained out of the athletic field for the second year in a row, were held in two sections in the Memorial Gymnasium: the college of arts and sciences, and life sciences and agriculture in the morning, at which time three honorary degrees were conferred; and the colleges of business administration, education, and technology in the afternoon, when the final honorary degree was conferred.

Dr. Lawrence M. Cutler, chairman of the board of trustees, presented to President Libby Roger Howell, Jr., "distinguished educator, scholar, and president of Bowdoin College," for the honorary degree of doctor of humane letters; H. Marston Morse, "distinguished mathematician and professor of mathematics at the Institute for Advanced Study," for the honorary degree of doctor of science; Karl Sax, "distinguished plant geneticist and biologist," for the honorary degree of doctor of science; and Mark R. Shibles, "distinguished educator and respected dean of our college of education," for the honorary degree of doctor of pedagogy.

Vice President James M. Clark announced that the Distinguished Professor Award is granted this year to Assistant Professor of Botany Douglas Alfred Gelinis. Professor Gelinis holds a B. S. degree in Education from Fitchburg State College. He received his master's and doctor's degrees from Purdue University and joined the University of Maine faculty in 1968. In his citation Vice President Clark said, "He is probably best known among students for introducing a radically different method of instruction in the basic course offered by his department, as well as the whimsical humor and outrageous potpourri of musical selections that appear on the instructional tapes. He has worked effectively with the faculty committee members from the college of life sciences and agriculture to improve undergraduate education. He has published in scientific and professional journals and last month was encouraged in his scholarly pursuits by the award of a National Science Foundation research grant for work in plant genetics."

The dean of each college presented his candidates as a group for their respective degrees. There were over 1,100 candidates for undergraduate degrees, 132 for master's degrees, and nine doctoral candidates. In addition, 10 certificates of advanced study and 17 in the five-year pulp and paper course were given. Retaining in capsule form the more personal flavor of smaller graduation exercises of former years, President Libby presented diploma folders individually to the class officers: President Gregory Stevens, Vice President Wayne Cote, Secretary Beverly Anderson, Treasurer Cynthia Russell; and to the valedictorian, Michael Steeves, and salutatorian, Harmony Hill.

Dean of the Graduate School Franklin P. Eggert presented for the doctor of education degree June Louise Drowne, Clyde H. Folsom, Jr., and Bruce Herbert Thurlow; and for the doctor of philosophy degree in physics Frank F. Doran, and in plant science Silas Stanley Hagar.

Class Day ceremonies were held on June 2, with seniors in informal dress gathering on the mall in the afternoon to hear the guest speaker, Mort Sahl. The program was concluded by George H. Crosby, registrar, who gave his traditional witty directions for commencement procedures, getting longer and louder laughs in the last five minutes than Mr. Sahl got in a half an hour.

At the Bangor commencement exercises on June 2, 160 two-year seniors were candidates for associate degrees. President Winthrop C. Libby presided, and Dr. John E. Beckley, director of the University of Maine at Bangor, welcomed the audience. Dr. Searle F. Charles, executive officer of Connecticut's System of Regional Community Colleges, gave the commencement address, in which he described the flexibility of community colleges in serving the educational needs of residents as being a major advantage. A community college, more accessible to the people, can better serve many of the interests of the people.

A highlight of the commencement at the University of Maine at Augusta on June 6 was the dedication of its new campus. President-elect Lloyd J. Jewett '56 presided, and 44 associate degrees were conferred. The atmosphere for this fifth commencement was informal, the graduating seniors having elected to break with tradition and not wear caps and gowns. The commencement speaker, Richard C. Richardson, Jr., president of Northampton County Area Community College, Bethlehem, Pa., said that the institution they were dedicating was committed to the concept of extending the advantages of higher education to everyone.

Distinguished Service Awards were presented to Francis T. Finnegan, vice chairman of the board of directors of Depositors Corporation and Depositors Trust Company, and to State Senator Bennett Katz, who were cited for their many contributions to the growth and progress of the Augusta campus.

CC The SECOND INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON CALORIMETRY AND THERMODYNAMICS was held at UMO in mid-July. Some 150 scientists participated from the United States, Russia, Great Britain, Canada, Japan, New Zealand, Australia, Israel, India, Italy, France, the Netherlands, Belgium, Sweden, Romania, and Germany.

CC The possibility of university-initiated research that SMALL COMPANIES themselves cannot afford was one of the ideas discussed by some twelve small independent Maine companies involved in the manufacture of electrical or electronic products at a Seminar Day at UMO in June. The purpose of the program, which included presentations by representatives of each company, was to introduce these small companies to the resources of the university and to each other, in order to increase the chances for cooperation among them.

CC HOWARD A. KEYO, director of public information and central services at UMO was honored in the spring by the New England District American College Public Relations Association. He received the Eleanor R. Collier award, presented annually for "outstanding service to higher education."

CC THE 12TH PULP AND PAPER SUMMER INSTITUTE, sponsored by the chemical engineering department of UMO and the University of Maine Pulp and Paper Foundation, was held at UMO June 20 to July 2, providing two weeks of intensive training in paper technology for 49 men and one woman from 32 companies in 13 states and Canada. Dr. Edward Bobalek, Gottesman professor and head of the chemical engineering department, was the director.

CC JAMES A. HARMON '40, director of admissions, has been elected president, and EVELYN TAYLOR, associate registrar, has been elected treasurer of the New England Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers.

CC Dr. Oscar Auerbach, a nationally known research scientist, particularly in the field of lung cancer, spoke at UMO this summer at a three week WORKSHOP ON DRUGS, ALCOHOL, TOBACCO, AND ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH.

CC Certificates were awarded to 35 Maine law enforcement officers at the end of a five-day INSTITUTE IN LAW ENFORCEMENT MANAGEMENT at UMO in June, sponsored by the Maine Law Enforcement Council of the Maine Municipal Association and the UMO Bureau of Public Administration.

CC Registrations for SUMMER SESSION COURSES had reached beyond the 4,000 mark by July 1: 1,173 in the first three week session, 273 in the first six-week session, 362 in the second three week session, 1,505 in the middle six week session, 97 in the third six-week session and 246 in the last three-week session. One hundred eighty four signed up for evening courses, 73 for special courses, and 20 for courses at Deer Isle in Natural Science Education (Coastal).

CC A course, a workshop, and an evening of PSYCHODRAMA were offered during the Summer Session by Dr. Doris Twitchell Allen '23, University of Cincinnati psychology faculty member.

CC Professor Matthew McNeary, head of the department of general engineering at UMO, received the DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARD from the Engineering Design Graphics Division of the American Society of Engineering Education at the U. S. Naval Academy in June.

CC The National Science Foundation awarded 97 grants to college and university students for their FIRST STUDENT ORIGINATED STUDIES PROGRAM this summer. A UMO student project to make "an evaluation of the environmental effects of residential patterns on four recreation-oriented Maine lakes" was chosen from among 560 applicants and awarded $13,220.

CC DR. WILLIAM JEFFREY, professor of history, has been elected chairman of the UMO Council of Colleges, the faculty governing body, for the academic year 1971-1972.

CC Thirty-one HIGH SCHOOL JUNIORS were selected for a special three-week program in chemical engineering at UMO this summer. Each student received a scholarship covering academic costs and board and room. The University of Maine Pulp and Paper Foundation appropriated $12,000 for the program, which it co-sponsored with the UMO chemical engineering department.

CC Approximately 3,480 school children, prospective college students, and groups of adults visited UMO between October and June of this academic year. EIGHTY-NINE DIFFERENT GROUPS came to view campus life, compared to 74 groups last year.

CC The FIRST UMO STUDENT FILM FESTIVAL was held on May 24, showing films made in a special seminar taught by Assistant Professor of Art Michael Lewis.

CC Designed for basic assessor training, a BASIC COURSE IN PROPERTY TAX ADMINISTRATION, part of a series prepared by the Bureau of Public Administration at UMO, is being aired over the Maine Educational Television Network this summer, as a joint project by the Bureau of Public Administration, the Maine Association of Assessing Officers, and the State Bureau of Taxation.

CC Maine high schools sent 500 junior boys to the 24th annual DIRIGO BOYS STATE at UMO, a week of intensive study of the workings of state and local government.

CC The HERSCHEL L. BRICKER ACHIEVEMENT AWARD a new award of the Maine Masque, was granted at the annual banquet to James Emery of Bangor. The new award recognizes outstanding academic achievement, general achievement of high order within the theatre production program and/or some particular contribution to the program. Eligibility also requires an accumulative average of 3.0.

CC The 13th ANNUAL MATHEMATICS INSTITUTE is being held at UMO this summer, sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

CC Outlined in the 1970 Annual Report of the Experiment Station, just published by the university, are more than 100 RESEARCH PROJECTS currently under way at the Life Sciences and Agriculture Experiment Station of UMO aimed at environmental and economic growth and development in the State of Maine.

CC Donald Johanos directed the PITTSBURGH SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA this spring at UMO, with pianist Lorin Hollander as guest soloist, as part of the University Concert Series.

CC Associate Professor Edwin L. Giddings '33 is serving as acting director of the UMO SCHOOL OF FOREST RESOURCES from July 1, 1971, until the arrival on March 14, 1972, of Dr. Fred B. Knight '49, currently professor of forestry at the University of Michigan, who has been named director of the school.

IN MEMORIAM

1899 LEONARD HARRIS FORD, 92, of East Eddington on April 12, 1971, in Bangor. A native of East Eddington, he was principal of Hampden Academy in 1900 and became superintendent of schools in Eddington in 1901. He received his M.D. degree from the Maine School of Medicine at Bowdoin College in 1906. After an internship at Eastern Maine General Hospital in 1906-'07 he opened his office in East Eddington. Born in Portland, he had been a graduate student at the University of New Hampshire since September, 1970. Following his graduation, he was employed for six months at the Trane Air Conditioning Company in Lacrosse, Wisc., before entering the U.S. Navy, where he served as a Lieutenant (jg). He was a veteran of Vietnam. Survivors: parents, his paternal grandmother, several aunts, uncles, nephews and cousins.

1971 JEROLD ROBERT PERRY, 22, of Hartford, Conn., on April 18, 1971, shortly after being in an automobile accident near Hartford. Born in Lewiston, he would have received his degree in education from the University of Maine in June. He was practicing teaching at Old Town. Survivors: parents, brother, maternal grandmother and paternal grandmother.

FACULTY

VICTOR HALFORD COFFIN. See obituary class of 1931.

FERDINAND HENRY STEINMETZ, of Union Springs, N.Y., on May 13, 1971, in Auburn, N.Y. Professor-emeritus of botany, he had been a member of the University of Maine faculty for 32 years, serving as professor of botany, head of the department of botany and entomology, chairman of graduate study in the College of Agriculture, and associate agronomist at the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station. Born in Edwardsville, Ill., he received his B.S. degree in agronomy from Illinois University in 1915, his M.S. degree in 1921 and his Ph.D. degree in 1926 from the University of Minnesota, and an honorary doctor of pedagogy degree from Eastern Illinois State College in 1949. He was a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society of Plant Physiologists, the American Phytopathological Society, the Botanical Society of America, the New England Botanical Club, Alpha Zeta, Gamma Sigma Delta, Phi Kappa Phi, Sigma Xi, and had served as president of the Josselyn Botanical Society of Maine. Author of many publications, he was an expert on plant diseases. Survivors: wife, two daughters, one brother, two sisters, and nine grandchildren.

CLASS NOTES

MR. FREDERICK J. SIMMONS

12 Glen Ridge Parkway
Montclair, New Jersey 07042

'06 Elmer J. Burnham, LL.B., in response to your class secretary's letter, writes, "When I entered the class in 1903 . . . I was the youngest member of the Class, which consisted of twenty-one at the time of graduation, and so at eighty-five I am the only surviving member. At the time I entered, the Law School was located in a business block in Bangor and was under the supervision of Dean Walz whose ability and personality endeared him to all of the students. We also had some able instructors including Edgar M. Simpson, George Webster, later Superior Court Judge, and General Charles Hamlin, son of Vice-President Hannibal Hamlin. I roomed with Charles Moore, who was Center on the foot-ball team which gave me contact with the activities at Orono. Practically all of the members of my class with whom I have had contact have had successful careers in the Law. I started practice at Fort Kent in 1907 but stayed only one year returning to Kittery in 1908 where I have had an office ever since. In 1909 I was married to Mabel Guptill of Scarborough which I consider the smartest move I ever made. We have had pleasant and fairly successful careers together. We both have served in the Legislature from Kittery at times. We have two children, a daughter and a son. I have engaged in various civic activities in Kittery over the years, having been Treasurer of the Public Library for fifty-seven years, Superintendent of Schools in the early years, a Trustee of the Water District for forty-three years and a Selectman. Am still in active practice." And one may add to the record of the 29 entering Law Class in 1903, 21 graduated in 1906, and nine of these became Municipal Judges, namely, William Franklin Ball, Judge at Milo, later Secretary of the State of Maine 1917-1927; Frederick E. Doyle, Judge at Millinocket; Percy A. Hastey, Judge at Dexter; Joseph A. Laliberte, Judge at Houlton, Albert Y. Locke, Judge at Farmington, then the youngest in state; George W. Pike, 35 years Judge at Lisbon, N.H.; Lucius B. Sweet, Judge at Sanford; William M. Warren, Judge of Penobscot County Court; Oscar H. Dunham, Assistant Attorney General of Maine—Listed in "Who's Who in America." The most academically decorated of the Law Class was James Adams Colby, who held degrees of B.A., M.A. from Trinity, LL.B. Maine, Ph.D. Louvain (Belgium), LL.D. Oglethorpe, and L.H.D. Vanderbilt University Theological Seminary.

'07 Few people in Belfast know that Captain Albert W. Stevens, quite a famous classmate of 1907, spent his boyhood days in Belfast. In 1939 Albert gave Frank Twombly and wife an enlarged photograph of himself. After Frank's death she sent it to your class secretary and asked it be placed where it would receive publicity. Inasmuch as the University of Maine had a large oil painting of Captain Stevens, I have offered the photograph to the Belfast Free Library, where it will remind Belfast that this was his birthplace and was where he graduated from the High School in the class of 1903. He died in California in 1949.

The class extend their sympathy to Mrs. Albert Rounds on the death of her husband on March 21.

Gladys (Beale) Ellingson, Teton Rest Home, Choteau, Mont., was in a coma for three days in December but survived. Says she is now in a wheelchair. She can stand on her feet but cannot walk as she has no balance. Said it was hard to give up her home in Fairfield, 15 miles from the Home, but lots of her friends come to see her.

A short letter from Erwin Hussey, Springfield, Mass., saying that he and wife survived the winter and that the time was coming soon when he would not be able to write a readable letter. He has been in good health but his wife had a short illness and he had the job of running the house and getting the meals during it.

MR. JAMES A. GANNETT
166 Main Street
Orono, Maine 04473

'08 The passing of another member of the class is reported in this issue of "The Maine Alumnus," a member of the College of Law alumni, Harry B. Greeley, of Hampden. Harry had been retired from active work for some time.

A wonderful thing, the telephone! The other evening I dialed George Fogg, one of our four graduates from the Two-Year Course in Agriculture. I reached George at the home of his daughter in Otter Creek where he is living, following his recent return from the hospital. In spite of his physical condition he sounded alert while we discussed our respective ailments as old age approaches. George retired from his Raleigh Route several months ago.

Members of 1908 who live in the South or go to Florida for the winter missed out on some records for snowfall and cold weather which we, who stayed home in New England, enjoyed to the full! The snowfall of 14 1/2 inches was a record for the Portland area. In easily understood data, our driveway at 166 had to be plowed out 16 times last winter as against seven times the year before.

An optimistic letter from Elon Brown of Norway deserves to be printed in full, if space permitted. Elon wrote in part, "Got the announcements for Commencement at U. of M. but will not be able to come this year as I have given up the long drives alone as the cars are so thick and all are in such a hurry. I always enjoy the week especially the Alumni Breakfast with all you good old friends. Yes, I am still going strong and working at the store as usual. Been with L. M. Longley & Son for 30 years now. Have a nice garden, early stuff all up. Peas, Lettuce, Radishes, Turnips, Beets, Potatoes, Parsnips and Cabbage. I love a garden. As one man has said 'Man is nearer God in a garden than any place on earth'. Have been very well all these years, 88 winters and 87 summers. Try to live by the Good Book. Life has always been good to me and I have enjoyed my work and friends." Thanks, Elon.

'09 I hear from Walter Harvey occasionally. He is now trying to recruit a few classmates to join him in Orono for Commencement and Reunion.

With great sadness I record the death of Mrs. Jesse H. Mason (Mollie) on May 4. For the class I extend deepest sympathy to Jess and his family.

The Knights are moving through their late eighties with their usual unsteady pace.

'10 Nice letter from Ernie Lamb - He and Polly had just returned from California where they had visited Dave who had returned from Vietnam after 10 months as a war reporter. Dave is now associated with the Los Angeles Times. It pleases all of us that he is back safely.

Phil Simonton is our best correspondent, he wrote in March that nine of his High School Class of 18 are still living and that (imagine) six of them correspond. Am sure that you in 1910 know what I am thinking.

Zelma has improved quite a bit down here but we both look forward to June when we trek to Boothbay Harbor. Friends - big trout - Clayton Lake - Wow!

MR. GEORGE D. BEARCE

'11 The officers and some members of the 1911 Class made the special decision to hold their 60th Reunion, and letters were sent to all of the living Classmates that the Reunion would be held at the University in Orono on the evening of Friday June 11, 1971.

A group of about 16 gathered with their wives and enjoyed a fine dinner at the Inn and talked over old times as well as current affairs at the University and other events. The members who came were A. B. "Rick" Richardson, N.Y.C. & Rockland, Class Pres, Nelson E. "Nemo" Smith from Sarasota, Fla.; Albert Verrill of Westbrook, Ernest T. Walker, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. and Mirror Lake, N.H.; Parker Cooper, Albion, Albert Conley, Freeport, Ben B. Whitney, Bangor, and George D. "Bruce" Bearce, sec'y. Bucksport.

The evening was enjoyed by all, and letters were read and reports given from a number of our Classmates who could not come because of the distance to travel and other reasons.

We were glad to hear from Don Oak of Tulsa, Okla., and I talked to L.J. "Dutch" Wertheim of Ormond Beach, Fla., and he does not travel far. Oliver Holmes plans to come to Maine but cannot make it until late in June as he had an operation. We stopped to see George A. "Gap" Phillips in Groton, Conn., and he has other plans. Also Forrest Kingsbury and Louis Geery could not make it.

'12 Walter Hanson, retired from the hardware business which he started in 1914. Son, Fred '41 is carrying on the business. Forced by urban renewal to move to a new location, Walter says the move proved to be very beneficial. Although he misses his business friends, he keeps busy at home, at his summer home in Brooklin on the coast and at his camp "out East." Arthur A. Hammond retired in 1967 after 50 years in the shoe business as a manufacturer and salesman. He attended Maine for a short time and then graduated with a Ph.D. degree from Columbia University. In good health for a man of 83, he says he keeps busy on an eight-acre farm which he purchased at retirement. He hopes to get to Maine more often. Clarence J. Dunlap taught school and was a school superintendent before realizing his ambition to become a doctor. He got an M.D. from Boston University in 1926, and in 1927 started practice in Kingfield. "Theoretically, I retired several years ago, but still see patients," he writes. He has two children, four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. His hobby is genealogy, and his ancestry includes William Brewster, the leader of the Mayflower band which came to America in 1620. William E. Hebard retired in 1958 after 33 years in the teaching field as principal and superintendent of schools. Thirteen years with the American Optical Company followed this. He plans to attend our 1971 alumni activities. Harlan H. Sweetser says that he is in pretty good health, but with activities somewhat restricted because of a heart condition. He retired in 1965 as county highway engineer for Cumberland County, following 27 years of service. Charles Tartre says he and his wife are pampered too much with three married children and nine grandchildren, but they like it! Ralph J. Flint, East Hiram, retired after construction jobs and 20 years in a surveying business he built up. He has two sons, two daughters, 13 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Warren Savary has been busy renovating a house he purchased. Color photography is his hobby and he was formerly very active in the Photographic Society of America. His specialty is nature photography.

'14 By now you may have read that the Class of 1914 is back in the old ball game with an ancient pitcher, "Bid" recalled from the Bow, N.H., Bush League. And we need some hits to stay in the game. Singles will do if you cannot make a grand slam. Don't wait for your "obit". If you do, you won't hear the cheers from the bleachers or smell the flowers.

I live on a farm in the town of Bow, N.H., now a bedroom town for the city of Concord. Drive out sometime when you are in New Hampshire.

'15 In the early spring Ross Varney wrote saying that while listening to the Metropolitan Opera broadcast of "La Boheme", with Dorothy Kirsten, prima donna, he heard an announcer say that Madame Kirsten was celebrating her 25th year in grand opera and that she started her musical career with the help and encouragement of J. Diddy Doyle, a New York journalist. Checking with Rosemary (Brennan) Doyle now living in Castro Valley, California, I learned that it was really her husband and our classmate. Rosemary wrote that Diddy had helped launch many musicians on their careers but were not as appreciative as Mme. Kirsten, who had expressed her appreciation to her, Diddy's widow. Thanks, Ross, for the suggestion.

A letter from Jedediah Earle Weeks tells us that he has returned from Korea, where for many years he had served as chief engineer consultant to the Korean Federal Government Economic Commission as a United States government worker. Retiring from that position in 1962, he was employed by the Korean Railroad until early this year. His counseling service in Korea, although mostly technical, also called for work along spiritual, social, and economic lines. He plans to devote his time in Galveston, Texas, where he is residing, to pastoral counseling in hospitals and homes. In his opinion there would be

'18 The news is all from a letter from Ernest J. Turner in Delaware. Bursitis in a hip may spoil his golf game. Ernest called on Roger Hill in Plaistow, N.H., and found him doing well, but taking it easy. He had a bunch of heart throbs a few years ago. Frank Libby, in Michigan, also has to go easy. Voyle (Red) Abbott has not been heard from recently. Writer's cramp or disability? Or Florida inertia?

'20 Verne Beverly, your President, writes that Stan Currier and his wife called on him. Stan usually visits Sarasota as he is an avid baseball fan. Henry and Grace Butler were in that area and called—found no one at home so left a note. It would be wise to telephone ahead, says Verne. It was good to hear that "Jackie" Eleanor Jackson got to the North shore Alumni dinner and enjoyed meeting Don Stewart and the speaker who gave her transportation to the dinner.

June 27 will find me heading for Maine and my cottage at Contention Cove in Surry. Do drop in if you can or write me news of yourself or our classmates. Send your notes to me for the next issue at RFD #3, Surry Road, Ellsworth, Maine 04605, through August.

'21 Gardner French—retired in '63 after 43 years with N.E. 1 and T. Have three cottages at Spruce Head Island which I rent—also rent two wharfs to lobster companies. Really enjoy life: mowing lawns, hoeing gardens, cutting wood, carpentering. One son, two grands! Verna Norton—retired '61 after 42 years teaching—had much to enjoy: travelling, study, working with young people. Now just a homebody: books, magazines, T.V., music, sponsoring a neighborhood club started by my mother more than 60 years ago, also superintend our Sunday School which she also started, plant three big gardens. Am well and strong. George Burgess—have 20 hives of bees—plant 1/4-acre of glads—have workshop where 'Prof' Dave's schooling in woodwork comes in handy. From the farm I sell the hay standing. Last year I took part in 12 old car parades. I have a Champion Model T. Harry Greenleaf—left Portland for Mobile Manor, Ft. Myers, in November Caribbean Cruise in March. Home in May for our 50th. Walter Hatch—still active and working from my law offices in Wells—no thought of retiring! Arthur Chapman—officially retired as of January, '71, spent five weeks in St. Thomas. Before leaving I split a quarter cord of fireplace wood, so you can see I'm still in fair condition for which I am duly thankful, and also the fact I can be at reunion.

J. Fred Tingley—retired in '66 after 28 years as Town Clerk and Treasurer at Millinocket. Am recovering from broken hip so doubt if I'll get to reunion. Greetings to all my classmates. Ernest D. Ober—celebrated 77th birthday in November—a retired poultry farmer—in Pennsylvania for over 40 years. Four children—four grands. Ralph Ranger—we spend our winters at Crosswinds Mobile Home Court, St. Petersburg, where there are 43 other Maine people (four U of M couples). Sold our home in Fairfield and moved to Kennebec River in Skowhegan on Route 201. Welcome to all Maine friends. Robert J. Cohen—my past years of 'break-neck speed' have slowed down to a possible 'sprained ankle jog'. My 71st birthday finds me with all my faculties minus some teeth and hair. Squash, tennis, and grandchildren represent my prime interests, however, business has a habit of interfering. The 50th anniversary of '21 is one in which I most definitely want to be a participant. My check for Class Fund enclosed.

"Class in Session," short courses in current events, are offered to patients at the Manchester, N.H., V.A. Hospital to help them 'catch up on what is going on in the world outside.' Volunteer Ma Jordan, who taught at Central High School for many years, is conducting the class. She is a member of the D.A.R. Leon Marshall—retired from extension service, 4-H club work, '65—until last November did milk testing for butter fat. Now free to trim wildly spreading multiflora rose hedges or attend a reunion (with wife and eldest daughter). Had a month touring Florida from top to bottom, east to west, camping in state parks, visiting friends and staying in motels—enjoyed every minute even though fish weren't very cooperative.

Now that our 50th Reunion is a matter of delightful history, your committee wishes to thank all of you who helped in so many ways to make the weekend memorable. Your many letters and telephone calls to classmates were in large part responsible for the record attendance.

Again our warmest appreciation for this 1921 teamwork!

'22 One event, the death of Everett K. Mansfield, has left us mourning one of the most friendly men to graduate from our university. He was a Maine man from top to bottom, and whenever possible hired Maine graduates and purchased supplies from Maine men from his various executive positions in the paper industry. He was a real friend at the university.

An announcement in the Lewiston Sun dated February 2, 1971, related a forthcoming lecture before the Stanton Bird Club in Auburn by Charles Leslie Eastman about his hobby in retirement: Maine flora. He is a county agent emeritus and has worked with Albert Nutting, '27, Commissioner of Forestry, and with Roger Clapp, head of the agricultural department at the university. From this experience in our great outdoors, few people could be better qualified to lecture on a subject of such universal interest. He was to discuss the innumerable conditions under which 32 classifications of flowers would grow as well as indicate the shrubbery used for floral background. Thanks to the Charles Eastmans in our lives, we can in retirement grasp a limited amount of pleasure from this land by improving the landscape with trees, green grass and flowers.

'23 Dr. Doris (Twitchell) Allen has been named one of the Women of the Year in Cincinnati, Ohio. Doris, who is known for her work in psychodrama, is an adjunct professor of psychology at the University of Cincinnati, where she established the first course in psychodrama. UMO is the first university to offer psychodrama for credit during a summer session, and Doris returns to the campus each summer to teach the course. Her efforts to promote peace, particularly her work with children, were outlined in an "Enquirer" article about her selection. As the founder of Children's International Summer Villages, begun in Cincinnati in 1951, Doris and her organization have brought together 7,000 children from around the world. Elizabeth Harkness writes from Lincolnville: "Each winter I live with my cousin, Margaretta (Warren) Thurlow '36, and neither wind nor weather has kept me from hiking one to three miles each day to keep the bird feeders filled at my house a half mile away, often using snowshoes. As I go along the road flocks of friendly chickadees are a great pleasure as they take sunflower seeds from my hand." Harriet (Weatherbee) True writes from Florida: "Since retiring from teaching for the fourth time, I have done a little substituting but spent much more time with my hobbies and clubs. I have offices in P.E.O., D.A.R. and D.A.C. At the West Palm Beach Convention of the Daughters of American Colonists I served as State Chaplain. We enjoyed Florida and have a good time watching the Red Sox games. I hope our Maine friends will look us up if they come to Winter Haven." Fred M. Wren writes from 3651 Imperial Gardens Drive, St. Ann, Missouri: "I have an extra copy of the 1923 Prism which I picked up in a secondhand bookstore. If anyone is interested in it, please contact me."

There's no news this month except the passing of four of our classmates. Recent deaths include Edward Samuel Finks, Willard Walker Spear, Albion King Wallace (obituaries in April/May issue) and Morton C. Whitcomb. The Class of '24 extends sympathy to loving survivors of these fellow classmates.

Nature's eternal blessing, Lady Spring, has come to Maine, and we are absorbing the beauty of the fresh green leaves, early flowering bulbs and melodious songs of the colorful migrant birds.

If any of you come our way this summer, drop in to see us. It seems as though we are almost the only people who are not going to Europe this season.

Class "prexy" Bob Haskell, also president of the Bangor Hydro-Electric Company, has been elected to the board of directors of Diamond International Corporation. "Bob" is also president and director of the Maine Electric Power Company. "Bob", a former governor of the State of Maine, attended the opening of the 105th Legislature in Augusta. Four '25ers attended the Chi Omega Alumnae outing at Green Lake. Elizabeth Lawler, Rubena Pressey, Alice Bunker Dowd and your secretary "Lawler", retired from the post office at Southwest Harbor, is "busier than ever." "Al" Repshaw, Lafayette, La., is another retiree. We hope he will get back to Maine at reunion time to tell us of his experiences in Egypt as a teacher at the university. "Zeke" Dwelley, veteran director of Allagash canoe trips, was the main speaker for the Telstar Boosters, Telstar High School, Bethel, in May. "Zeke" is one of the most widely known men in Maine sports and outdoor life. Verner Robinson, retired from educational work, in Waltham, Mass., scoots back and forth to Lubec, where he is "fixing to retire." We hope he will get back to the University of Maine for alumni events. Hope (Norwood) Bannister just returned from a trip to Spain, Portugal and Morocco, writes "If you want a fascinating, but strenuous, trip, do take this. Morocco is like being in another world."

Spofford Giddings, executive vice president of Central Maine Power Company, retired May 1 after more than 43 years with the company. He will continue to serve on the CMP board of directors, to which he was elected in 1963. Giddings joined CMP in January, 1928. A U. of M. engineering graduate, he was an assistant engineer with the Maine Public Utilities Commission before coming to CMP. He was an engineer in the operating department at the general office until January, 1929, when he was made assistant to the operating engineer. In 1933 he went to Gardiner as district superintendent and in 1936 was made assistant manager of the northern division at Waterville. He served as northern division manager from 1946 until 1962, when he was named a vice president and manager of division operations. He was elected executive vice president by the board of directors in January, 1966. He is a director and vice president of the Kennebec Federal Savings and Loan Association, a corporator of the Waterville Savings Bank, a director and executive committee member of the Waterville Area Industrial Development Corporation and a member of the University of Maine Foundation. A past president and trustee of the Kennebec Water District, he also served as a trustee of Coburn Classical Institute. He has been active in the Chamber of Commerce, Community Chest, hospital, Red Cross, Boys Club and Boy Scouts. He is married to the former Frances "Snow" Fuller '28. They have a son, a daughter, and four grandchildren.

Austin H. Wilkins, Maine Forest Commissioner, was the recipient of the National U.S. Forest Service forest fire control award for 1971. The award is presented each year to a professional forester who has exemplified himself by outstanding performance in the field of forest fire control.

A named scholarship fund of $10,000 has been given by George R. Wallace in honor of D. Dick Uong, who was associated with the Fitchburg Paper Company for 39 years until his retirement in 1965. "Dick" is a charter member of the Pulp and Paper Foundation of which he was a director 1956-58.

In 1955 he made a gift of $1,000 to the university for a fund to be loaned to foreign students, especially any from China.

Our sympathies to Wallace H. Elliott, his son and grandchildren upon the death of Mrs. Marie A. Elliott, who died unexpectedly at her home on March 23.

More responses to our Class Agent letter. If we haven't heard from you and you can't find the questionnaire—write anyway. Kenneth S. Field has retired after 29 years with Ebasco. A registered professional engineer in New York and in Texas, Ken was a Fellow of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and other outstanding engineering organizations. His work has carried him all over the U.S. and South America, and in the near future we hope to learn of his retirement plans. Both the Worcester Sunday Telegram and the G.R.A. Reporter (Governmental Research Association) have honored John H. Mahoney with write-ups covering his 40 years with the Worcester Taxpayers Association, 39 of them as executive director. Retirement plans are tentatively set for October 1, 1971. John has a son, daughter and six grandchildren. Showcase Cinemas, West Springfield, Mass., is exhibiting paintings by Abba Colburn Fernald. She describes her work as "expressionism with a modern touch." Lewis (Jack) Carpenter has retired from International G.E. and now relaxes by "consulting, traveling, gardening, making maple syrup, raising Christmas trees, taking pictures, fishing, and rounds out the week as an active church trustee and choir member." Sure a busy retirement! Jack has five children and nine grands. Seldon J. Pearce retired in '65 and follows the same course of relaxation, substituting square dancing and bowling for the Christmas trees and maple syrup. Seldon travels extensively and is "covering the face of the globe." He has two married daughters and five grandchildren. June through September usually finds him on the west shore of Lake Cobosseecon, Winthrop.

Our sympathy to Jane and Donna on the death of their father, Wilson James. "Jake" was president of Wight's Sporting Goods Company. Always a member of our local reunion planning committee, his help will be greatly missed. While out at Bangor High School working on the AAUW Community Theater Project, I ran into Christine MacLaughlin Roberts and we replayed a few field hockey games. Chris teaches math at the high school under the Model Schools Program and "loves it." No plans for retirement, but when she does she plans to travel. Doris Rideout Huestis says grandmothering for six, plus bridge and golf keep her busy, and six months of her year are spent in Scottsdale, Arizona. Richard Clark retired from G.E. in June, 1968, and now divides his seasons between De Bary, Fla. and Rutland, Vt. Dick has two sons and a daughter, Louise (Clark) Ellis '63. This month Dick plans to have cataracts removed so he will be able to "see all" at our reunion in '72. The Websters will be thinking of you, Dick—Danny is temporarily grounded after the same operation. George Dow wrote that he and Myrtle were able to get up to the big open house retirement party and reception for Leone (Dakin '26) and Al Nutting in the Forestry Bldg. As you all know, the building was named for Al. The previous week Phi Mu Delta fraternity honored him at a dinner attended by 150. Al has been the fraternity's alumni advisor since 1931. Besides a collection of bound letters from friends and colleagues, he was presented with a chainsaw and snow blower for use on the Nutting's farm at Otisfield. Our best wishes to Al and Leone.

A letter from Doris ("Bunny" Spencer) Libbey '27, told of the sudden death April 28 of Eleanor (Fitzherbert) Shaw (Mrs. Richard A.) Eleanor received her master's degree from Maine in 1942. "Bunny" mentions that she had no children. Her husband survives. Our sympathy to him.

While in Plymouth, N. H., recently visiting my son, Dr. Eldwin, Jr. '53, I met a woman from Laconia, N. H., who was a friend of the Elmer Kelsos.

'29 Norman C. "Bricky" Winch is a mail clerk for the U.S. Government Highway post office, running between Bangor and Portland. "Bricky" has been associated with this federal agency for 34 years. He and his wife, Madalene, who were married on November 6, 1936, and reside on Kaler Street, Winterport, have one daughter, two sons and eight grandchildren. The "Miss Reliable" of our class, Mary Reed, who has been associated with the University of Maine

Library since 1930, is retiring in June. Mary plans to spend her time gardening and putting around her home at 48 Pierce Street, Orono, and she loves to travel. For a starter, Mary is planning to take a trip to Alaska this summer. Stanley G. "Doc" Winch retired in August, 1970, after having spent 34 years in the aircraft engine division of The Curtis Wright Corporation. Prior to this "Doc" spent four years as a pilot in the U.S. Air Corps. He and Mrs. Winch have two children, a married son employed by R.C.A. as an electrical engineer, and a daughter who is working on her master's degree under a scholarship. The Winches expect their first grandchild in May, 1971. Their winter address is a mobile home at 41 Silk Oak, 3018 U.S. 19 N., Clearwater, Fla., while they spend their summers in a cottage on Lovell Lake, Sanbornville, N.H. 03872. Roger C. "Shag" Wilkins, chairman and chief executive officer of the Travelers Corporation, who received a fine writup in the April - May, 1971, "Maine Alumnus," has made the headlines again. It was reported in the March 29, 1971, Hartford Connecticut "Times" that "Shag" has been nominated to the Board of Directors of United Aircraft Corporation. The "Springfield Shopper," a Bellows Falls, Vt., weekly newspaper, reported in its issue of April 8, 1971, that Frank Armstrong, assistant forester with the University of Vermont's Agricultural Experiment Station, who is perfecting a linear programming system to increase forest productivity by letting a computer plan harvest schedules, has found an enthusiastic advocate for his experiment in Curtis M. Hutchins, "a University of Maine Forestry graduate and Chairman of the Board of the Dead River Company, Bangor, Maine."

'30 The spring issue of "To Dagma," AOH magazine, showed a fine picture of Dorothy Mayo Morris as she sponsored a new chapter of AOH on the SIU campus, where Dot's husband, Delyte, is the president. Franklin "Prexy" Pearce, a member of the Malden (Mass.) Housing Authority board for almost 20 years, has been elected chairman of the board. He is also operator of a real estate and insurance agency with offices at 6 Pleasant St. Norwood Mansur was elected commander of Fitzgerald-Cummings Post, American Legion, in Augusta at the recent annual meeting. At the end of the school year I am retiring from many years of teaching. In July my husband and I plan to leave on a trip to the Canadian Northwest and California. We will return in August to attend our son's wedding. Then we look forward to traveling when and if we feel like it.

We hope it will be a pleasant summer for all of you.

'32 Mrs. Lloyd Crockett (Louise Washburn) dietitian and cook at the MacDowell Colony, was a recent speaker at the Supper Club in Peterborough, N.H. A member and past vice president of the Peterborough Garden Club, she spoke on "Thoughts of Spring Gardening." Raymond A. Hunter of Augusta, maintenance engineer in the operating department, Central Maine Power Company, recently observed his 35th anniversary with the company. He is married to the former Hazel Marguerite Trask. They have two daughters and a son. President Winthrop Libby was the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Northern Connecticut Alumni Association. He discussed university activities and the university's aim to meet the changing needs and requirements of the university student of the '70s.

We extend our deepest sympathy to Dr. Frank S. Carbone of Beverly, Mass., in the death of his wife, Audrey, on February 6.

'33 Sharing the attics and back bedrooms at Orono our freshman year really did something for us! I was saved this month by my freshman roommate!

Luthera (Burton) Dawson edits training materials in the Internal Revenue Service in Washington. She has two sons, both married, and a grandson. Her twin brother, Leroy (Cy), retired in December after 38 years at government service. We join Luthera in warning him that he should start planning on Orono for our 40th reunion! Luthera is talking of turning in her red pencil for retirement life in Maine, "having first spent my retirement check on several pairs of long johns!" Luthera's address is 6102 Central Avenue, Capital Heights, Md. 20027.

'33 has added yet another first! Harold Doe has 60 years at continuous service in the Bangor Symphony Orchestra! This is believed to be a record in the entire history of the American Symphony Orchestra League! In addition to the Symphony he 'helps out' the Colby Community Orchestra, Forest Studio Orchestra at Hancock, and the University Orchestra! Music is a viable hobby, not his profession. His main work has been as a teacher of English, although he has instructed in music, too. He notes that he was from the first a violinist, but went into the symphony in the second violin section, then switched to the first, spending 17 years as concertmaster. Congratulations to Harold Doe as a fine musician and person.

Have a wonderful summer, and get me lots of news!

'34 I received a letter from Claire Sanders, who has stepped down as alumna advisor to Delta Zeta sorority after twenty-plus years. The local chapter gave a tea last fall in her honor and presented her with a gift. Thanks for the letter, Claire, and the clipping about Lillian Wall. Lillian, of West Broadway, Bangor, has been named "Life Member" of the American Speech and Hearing Association in Washington, D. C. She organized the first speech therapy classes for elementary school children in Bangor in 1962. She developed the first class for handicapped children in Maine at the Mary Snow School, Bangor, in 1935 and saw the program through there until 1961. She also established the first camp for crippled children in Maine at Northport in 1941, and was president of the International Council for Exceptional Children in 1940. She attended Nasson College, Bangor Theological Seminary, the University of Michigan, and Syracuse University. She received her bachelor's degree in psychology from the University of Maine and later received the M.A. degree in special education. I am sure that the class will join me in saying "Well done, Lillian." You have certainly dedicated your life to a most needed section of the educational field. I always admired your spunk and courage as a student, and I certainly feel that these qualities have remained steadfastly by you through the years.

Wayne S. Rich, Box 391, Concord, N. H., has retired. He had served as president of the New England Numismatic Association for 1970 and as chairman of the 26th annual convention, the first to be held in New Hampshire and the most successful financially of any held yet. I understand that he still does appraising of coins and stamps for banks, estates, etc., and does some dealing in coins and stamps. Did I hear that your coin collection was appraised a 25,000 coin collection? I heard that Wayne picked 2333 bushels of apples last fall, and that this was the most of anyone in a crew of thirty, mostly young folks in their twenties. It surely sounds as if Wayne had retired in good form and is still leading a most active life. Congratulations to you.

Dwight L. Somers retired last December after 27 years with Somers Thin Strip, Inc., an operating group of Olin's Brass Division, and a leading manufacturer of thin-gauge copper and brass alloy strip as well as nickel, titanium and stainless steel products. A native of Waterbury, Conn., he attended Crosby High School and received a B.S. degree in mechanical engineering at Maine. He moved to Pennsylvania in 1934 to become draftsman and industrial engineer with Hygrade-Sylvania Corporation. In 1940 he returned to Waterbury as chief engineer for Somers Brass Company and, following two years service with the U.S. Navy, he became plant engineer for Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., Warren, Pa. Appointed secretary of Somers Brass in 1949, he held that post until 1967 when he was appointed vice president for engineering of Somers Thin Strip, Inc., following acquisition of the company by Olin. In January, 1969, he was appointed executive vice president and treasurer, and three months later he was named president. He is a member of the executive committee and past chairman of the Mad River District of the Mattatuck Council of the Boy Scouts of America, a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers, the American Ordnance Association, and the American Society for Metals. He plans to continue his residence in Waterbury.

My humble apologies for my lapse in class notes. Last year I lost six close members of my family including my brother and his wife who had lived with me for the past two and a half years, my stepmother, a stepbrother, and two cousins. Last June, due to a cut in school appropriations, I lost my position as guidance counselor at Rumford. I realize this is no excuse, but I was exceedingly busy trying to find another position and making necessary adjustments. During the summer I worked as a beauty consultant for Fashion Two Twenty. This year I have worked as a resource person for Indian Education.

Two ads in "Downeast" magazine by classmates give clues to their present fields of interest: Georgia Weisendanger of Winthrop has a real estate ad, and Mildred (Dolliver) Chapman has an ad for her Harbourside Inn at Northeast Harbor.

Read in the paper that Alice (Crowell) Lord, Portland, had a house warming, unfortunately not the social type but a fire. Luckily no one was injured, but there was considerable damage.

Congratulations to Fred E. Winch, Jr., Professor of Natural Resources at the N. Y. State College of Agriculture, Cornell University, who is this year's recipient of the Heiberg Award of the New York State Forest Owners Association. Professor Winch was honored in Syracuse for his "contributions to the general welfare of forestry and conservation." As an extension forester, he is responsible for the development of forest resources for wood products, recreation and water resources. A native of Massachusetts, Fred went from U of M to Cornell for his M.S. in 1937. In addition to his positions in this country, he has studied forestry management and multiple use of land in Germany, Switzerland, Austria and Italy.

'38 Henry Lowe and wife, Iris '39, are now living in Kenya. He is serving as general manager of Agricultural Finance Corporation. Charles S. Russell, chemical engineer, formerly production manager of S.D. Warren Company, a division of Scott Paper Company at Westbrook, has been promoted to manager of services and has been transferred to Muskegon, Mich. In the same company, at the Westbrook mill, Alger P. (Jack) Reynolds, Jr., (master's degree in pulp and paper technology) was promoted from assistant superintendent to superintendent of coating. Fred Andrews, (BS degree in chemical engineering) has been named technical director at the Androscoggin Mill of International Paper Company. Fred is married to the former Pauline McCarthy of Livermore Falls. They have two children and are living in Chisholm. Miss Josephine Profta was awarded the "M" Award in behalf of the Southern Penobscot Alumnae. Serving as ways and means chairman, Josephine at Christmas time helped with its annual Christmas dessert-auction. The auction proceeds provide scholarships for needy and deserving students at the University of Maine. June (Clement) Bowman was married in August to Dr. Lucian H. Scammon of Hollis Center.

Notes about class members from Miriam (Hilton) Coffin (Mrs. John W.), 10209 Montgomery Avenue, Kensington, Md 20795. She is "currently president of the Montgomery County, Md., Alumnae Chapter of Phi Mu, as well as State Recommendations Chairman and Chapter Rec. Chairman. One of the chapter members is Cora (Sharon) Leukart, who lives in Washington, D.C., and works for the Health, Education and Welfare Department in Bethesda. (The Chapter Secretary is also from U. of M., Julie Ledien St. Clair '44)." In May Miriam visited Raymond and Ruth (Seavey) McGinley in Old Town, had a dinner-visit with Mary (Frost) Waterhouse in Mexico (Me.) and afternoon tea with Althea (Millett) Brown in Dover, Mass. (Mary Frost was divorced from Arthur Grogan and married Norwood Waterhouse about two years ago.) Mary is in charge of the school cafeteria program in the Rumford school system. Ruth McGinley works part-time at the Old Town Public Library. Miriam and Althea are homemakers only. Eloise (Hutchinson) Meyers teaches at Old Town High School. Mabel (Mayhew) Couper lives in Kensington, Md. Her daughter, Barbara, is a senior at UMO this year. Son Frank graduated from Dartmouth in '68 and is in the Coast Guard Service in the Pacific. Miriam says that she, Ruth and Althea each have two grandchildren!

Yours truly is looking forward to 1971-72 as the new King Lion for our very active and fun-loving Bangor Lions Club. We meet every Wednesday noon at the Red Lion.

'40 Greetings from Manila. Today we are having our first major typhoon alert of this season, but I don't think it will develop into a big one. Manila has really just recovered from Yoling, the disastrous typhoon we had in November. In fact, we just had the last hole in our roof patched.

Life continues to be very exciting for us. In April we started off on another trip which combined business for Art with pleasure for me. Our first stop, which was vacation for both of us, was Bali, truly the island Paradise. No description can do justice to the beauty and exotic lushness of Bali. We spent four days basking on the beach, touring the island, enjoying the Balinese dances, and shopping. The culture of Bali is unique. It is Hindu, although most of Indonesia is Muslim, and has over ten thousand Hindu temples. We were there during one of the Hindu festivals and everything was beautifully decorated. We were intrigued by the religious processions of beautiful Balinese carrying fruit offerings on their heads. Our next stop was Djakarta. Our visit was a short one but we did have an opportunity to drive into the mountains and see some of the huge tea plantations. I was surprised to learn that Indonesia is the sixth biggest country in the world.

Singapore was our next port of call. The A.D.B. annual meetings were held there this year, so we had an opportunity to see many friends, old and new. An active program was planned for the wives while the husbands worked, and we had a chance to sight-see and shop. Singapore is a shopper's paradise, much like Hong Kong but smaller. Every minute of our week was filled from early morning to late night with luncheons, cocktail parties, receptions, dinners, and even breakfast meetings for Art.

We flew from Singapore to Kuala Lumpur where we were guests of the Malaysian government for a few days. K.L. is a beautiful city that blends ancient and modern cultures. We visited rubber plantations, tin mines, the new seaport, and were greatly impressed by the progress that is going on in this developing country.

Our travels in Southeast Asia are proving to be most interesting and educational. I had very little knowledge of the cultures of these countries and find them fascinating. But most of all I like the people. Every place we go we are meeting wonderful people who are making us feel welcome and at home. They have been most eager to introduce us to their countries and to open their homes to us and have treated us with great warmth and generosity.

My next trip will be to Maine by way of Korea and Japan. So maybe I'll see some of you in August.

'42 "When Mainers get together they usually have some good fun and we're going to tonight." So announced former Governor John Reed, president of the Maine State Society, Washington, D.C., at their spring meeting. John then presented Don Taverner '43 who proceeded to hilariously entertain his audience. Further proof that the "Mayor" has not lost his touch, the next night he was scheduled to speak to the American Academy of Radio and Television in Hollywood. Olive '43 and Don live in Virginia. John was recently reappointed Chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board by President Nixon.

'44 One night last November Dick Fuller was asked to take a flying trip, literally and figuratively, to India as herdsman for 35 young bulls and 65 heifers being sent there by Heifer Project, Inc., a nationwide nonprofit, nonsectarian organization for sending livestock to underdeveloped countries. These 100 cattle were donated principally by church and 4-H groups in Maine, other New England states, and Ohio. Dick is giving talks with slides to all interested groups in the Portland area. (It's a very rewarding work—I went to Mexico with a couple of goats and a group of teenagers in 1963.) Dick and his wife, the former Mrs. Marion Hays, attended the Quebec Winter Carnival and have recently taken trips to Squaw Mountain (where they met Jack Savage of Brewer and Al Smaha '45 of Bangor skiing) and to New Brunswick by way of Washington County Met with Lester and Audrey Gross in Camden, saw Ruth (Blaisdell) Silsby in Ellsworth and Ethel (Fenderson) Kelley '45 in Calais, where she works on the Calais newspaper. On the return they spent some time with Treston '42 and Priscilla Bubar and with Ivan '45, and Mabel Bubar. Marion has a married daughter working at the Maine Medical Center, and a son in the U.S. Army. Dick has one daughter, studying fashion merchandising at Bryant-Stratton in Boston, and two sons, both attending U.M. Portland

Colonel Fleetwood Pride, Jr., has assumed command of the U.S. Air Force's 504th Tactical Air Support Group Cam Ranh Bay Air Base in Vietnam. He was in military service during World War II and has been on active duty continually since being called into service again in 1951 as a member of the Maine National Guard. He has served with the Alaskan Air Command, Aerospace Defense Command, USAFE, Tactical Air Command, at USAF Headquarters, and at the Pentagon; he is scheduled for reassignment at Sembach AB, Germany, later this year. '45 Barkley H. Goodrich has recently been elected assistant vice president of Bancroft and Martin, Inc. Barkley will be manager of the Leeds plant in charge of sales, manufacturing and engineering of concrete products. "Bob" Chase's son "Danny" has been accepted at UMO for the fall semester, '71. He will enter the College of Engineering.

Had a nice letter from Norma (MacKenney) Peterson. The weekend after our 25th her son "Rob" was graduated from Dartmouth and commissioned an Ensign in the Navy. Norma and her husband flew to the West Coast in August for a week with "Rob" before he shipped out for Southeast Asian waters. Talk about it being a small world, Sally (Lockett) Taylor taught the Petersons' daughter "Pam" at Connecticut College in New London. Norma did not make the connection until she saw Sally and started talking to her at reunion. To make the coincidence even more amusing, it seems "Pam" had dated Sally's son Roy.

We people in Maine have been watching with pride the pitching excellence of Jim Chaplin. Jim has had an excellent season for UMO. Jim is the son of classmate Joe and "Giny" (Tufts '46) Chaplin. Tom S. Boerke has received a promotion. He has been appointed marketing manager, paper machine division, at Rice Barton Corporation, 65 Tainter St. Worcester, Mass. Tom has spent more than 20 years in sales and marketing in the pulp and paper industry. He has been with Manchester Machine Company, Middletown, Ohio.

Harriet (Daws) Cousins has served as the chairman for the Bangor-Brewer Tuberculosis and Health Association Christmas Seals Sales. The association recently presented furniture for the newly redecorated solarium area at the Eastern Maine Medical Center. Harriet also finds time to take an active part with the YWCA as a member of the executive board. Carolyn (Bradley) Russell has been appointed head dietitian at the Mercy Hospital, Portland. She had also moved to Scarborough, from Portland. As a resident of Scarborough myself, I am sure she will find it a beautiful place. I am pleased to have "Dottie" (Currier) & Bob Dutton's daughter "Pam" join me at the hospital this summer. "Pam" is a foods and nutrition major at UMO.

'47 Harry Allen, M.D., 107 Bird Street, Needham, Mass., Associate Regional Health Director for Community Health Service for the U.S. Public Health Service, Boston, Massachusetts, graduated in May from the Advanced Management Program of the Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration, in a ceremony at the Baker Library. He had been studying at the Business School since February 7. Grover B. MacLaughlin, who has served as Principal of Orono High School since September, 1951, retired January 22 after serving as principal for more than 19 years. Mr. MacLaughlin, who has been an educator in Maine schools since 1930, plans to continue his education. This time it will be in the field of electronics. He will enter the Northern Vocational Training Institute at Presque Isle in January. Mr. MacLaughlin spent several weeks on an Eastern European Study Mission in April, 1969. The mission was under the direction of the National Association of Secondary School Principals. He has served as president of the Maine Teachers' Association and has been a member of the executive committee of the New England Secondary School Principals' Association as well as a director of the NEA. He will continue to maintain his Orono residence. His wife, Eleanor, is a teacher in the public schools in Bangor.

'48 Marjorie Bragdon Eisenberg writes that she and Yair (Jerry) live in Palo Alto, Calif., with Beth and Becky, both in high school, "good students and, more important, good kids." Jerry is designing the Bay Area Rapid Transit and has also worked on similar projects for Caracas, Boston, and Hawaii. Last summer the family had a marvelous trip: first to Maine, then on to Israel, to visit family, sightsee, and soak up the beauty, history and heritage of that country. Marge said they see Janice (Scales) and Dave Cates '50 often. He now works for the medical clinic in Visalia, where they live, and Jan works in the Junior High Library. The older of their two girls is at Foothill Junior College nearby.

Patricia "Pat" Costello lives in Arlington, Va., with her brother, Bill '43. She is teaching school still and has helped bring up Bill's son, Danny, who is now in the U.S. Marines, following in his Dad's footsteps.

From the University of Mississippi, we learn more of Dr. Wilbrod St. Amand, elected their Outstanding Teacher of 1970. He is also an active research scientist, primarily interested in radiation cytogenetics, and is studying the effect of radiation on cells and inherited traits. He is interested in mouse genetics, changing chromosomal makeup using radiation as a tool, and searching for insights into basic genetic mechanisms.

You and Me. Should Get Together

The Maine Department of Economic Development is engaged in a project to attract talented "Maine People" back to the State—people who would like to live and work here. It is especially interested in successful persons with considerable financial resources, including owners of businesses, corporation officers, top and middle management men, marketing or sales executives, investors, financiers, bankers, insurance executives, and so forth. Likewise, it is interested in scientists, engineers, chemists, inventors, medical professionals, and technologists capable of guiding, directing, or supporting firms engaged in technical manufacturing or services.

The Department hopes to assist in any way it can—by supplying technical or business information about Maine, through referrals to government or non-government experts on Maine, by supplying data on State, Federal, or private sources of capital, etcetera.

It is hoped that some of these "Maine People" might move existing operations to this State, while others might combine forces with other Maine people to form permanent establishments here.

The Maine People Program has shown early success with over 250 positive out-of-state responses to date. As a direct result of the project, several new businesses are in the process of being formed, and at least two major U.S. companies are investigating possible plant locations in Maine.

Dear Classmates,
'50 Think positive, then write me. I am interested in you, we are all interested in you. So write me, and it will be printed.

Elaine (Lockhart) Brown has had a commercial pilot's license for three years and flies the family plane around Nevada and California. Attorney Brown also flies. Son number two won the "Best of all Skiers" trophy over 1,400 children, grades 5 to 9. Son number one and daughter are also excellent skiers. By the way, "Sue (Dartnell) Hodge stopped for a visit, the daughters swapped horse stories. Now that's fun news. Thanks, Elaine Willard Nisbet, Jr., Waltham, Mass., was in Korea at the same time as was I (1950). Will tells me that as of January 1 he was promoted to district manager for the traffic department of the New England Telephone Company moving from a Boston office. Congratulations! Will, when we get together, we will have to exchange family stories, too.

And now,—news clippings.

Merle Johnston, Presque Isle, is now manager of the New York Mercantile Exchange. (Have you moved from Ft. Fairfield, Merle?) Francis C. Carmichael, Mary Joanne, and five children live in Niskayuna, N. Y. Frank (who joined G.E. in 1951) is now manager of manufacturing for G.E. Motor and Generator Operation, Schenectady, N. Y. Bryant L. Hopkins, Jr., Auburn, Mass., has joined the Marcmont Corporation, Saco, but will be field engineer out of Harvey, Ill. Send me some family news, Bryant. Richard Dean McKuskie has been appointed assistant county supervisor, F.H.A., Dover-Foxcroft. Lowell H. Osgood, while coach at UM-Fort Kent, coached Greenville to the Eastern Class M championship in 1954. Son, Gary, as a coach in Presque Isle, repeated a title feat: PI over Lawrence 74-59. Donald E. Chick, Dover, N. H. city manager, was recently described in a 4,000 word news clipping that inferred that Don was doing a great job, but talked too much. On that latter point, I think the reporter was writing about himself. How about a rebuttal, Don? And while you're at it, tell me about yourself and family. Except for working night and day for eight years as city manager, what else have you been doing?

What about the craze that's sweeping the country? "Dare to be Great!" Sounds like the "in" thing. I dare you to get your name in print (this column).

'54 I enjoyed chatting with some 80 Maine alums, husbands and friends at the May 13th meeting of the Northern Kennebec Alumni Association in Waterville. Mr. James Harmon, Mr. Paul Chretien and Miss Mary Beth Piel barnstormed and created a delightful and informative evening! Although I didn't spot any '54ers I did talk with Tish Knight's parents (Elizabeth Hopkins '54). The Knights will be traveling via camper to the West Coast this summer with their two children.

Alfred Leo has been appointed assistant to the national field manager of Johnson and Johnson's Patient Care Division. Al and his family live at 11 Granville Way, Basking Ridge, N.J. The Rev. Peter Gowing has been named professor at large of the Southeast Asia Graduate School of Theology of the United Church of Christ. For this new position he will not only continue to do much traveling by motorcycle but also will fly to off shore islands. Before going overseas, Peter was a parish minister in the Maine towns of Phillips, North Berwick and Ellsworth Falls. Earl Hayford, master's degree '54, has been re-elected to the Winthrop School Committee. Earl is currently serving as a Major, Staff Logistics Officer of the Maine Air National Guard. He has over 16 years of educational experience in instruction, administration, supervision and counseling at Manchester, the Job Corps, Pine Cap, and the Industrial Accident Commission. Earl, his wife and five children reside in Winthrop. John McKay has been elected Chairman of the School Board in Bangor. Barbara has a master's degree in speech and hearing therapy from Boston University and has done advance graduate work at the University of New Hampshire. If you are driving past 336 Pleasant Street, Laconia, don't be surprised to see the Reeds whiz out the driveway on their new Schwinn tandem followed by John, 11, Mark, 9, and Jen, 8. They could be on the way to the tennis courts or the lake to fish and swim. In August, they will be in Maine for Willis' 20th class reunion at Orono High School. Reg Bowden is arranging the get together. Dr. Franklin Manzer presented a paper on the use of aerial color photography to map the distribution of marine algae in the Montsweag Bay area at the third biennial workshop in color aerial photography at the University of Florida, Gainesville, in early March. He is a professor of plant pathology at UMO (Remember those botany labs, Frank?) Our congratulations to Roland Dubay who became the new city manager of Montpelier, Vermont, on May 24. During the past 16 years, he has served four municipalities—Orington, Winthrop, Lebanon, N.H. (1962-1968) and Belfast (1968-1971)—as manager and thus moved to the Capital City with experience developed entirely in northern New England. We are always looking for YOUR news!

"Have just arrived at Orono . . ."

Excerpts from letters by Merton R. Lovett '06 (dec'd), written while he was a student at the University of Maine, to his mother, and to Margaret, who was later to become his wife. These are being shared with The Maine Alumnus through the courtesy of his son, Robert W. Lovett of Beverly, Mass.

(At the time these letters were written spelling and punctuation differed frequently from that in common usage today. They are printed here as they were written to preserve the original flavor of the period.)

Freshman year, 1902-1903

Sept. 14. Have just arrived at Orono after a rather rough and tedious passage. . . . I came as near as possible to being sea-sick last night but "all's well that ends well." . . . There were 14 Me. men on the boat so you see I was not lonesome.

Sept. 17. . . The extent of my purchases up to date are a bed, matrass, spring, desk, desk chair, chefanoir all new. Second-handed pair window curtains, oil stove and iron, dust pan and broom, bay rum and tin dish. . . At present I am using couch money to buy books. Why did Papa forget to send the check to the treasurer. It has got me in trouble. I cannot become a student until I pay at least a month's bill.

Sept. 18. . . hazing. We are only Freshmen, lambs for the slaughter. . . If you do receive the contents of the water pail when entering the hall, find your beds thrown down the elevator well, . . have to parade in your night shirts, . . speechify and sing and. . cease wearing your derby and putting your hands in your pockets, take it philosophically—its best—I try to but its hard.

The greatest event. . . was the shirt-tail parade. About a hundred freshmen were turned out in their airy uniform, but. . the freshmen started resistance and a free fight. In five minutes there was not a freshman in the line—all had escaped. . . Most of us had to regret the loss of our night-shirts, but the fun more than paid for that.

Sept. 29. . . I paid athletic due of $5.00 last Friday. Over $1000. was raised at a mass meeting of students and faculty that day. The money goes to pay athletic expenses. Everybody realizes that the future depends upon athletics to a large extent. A college reputation brings the students and after they are here the teachers do the rest. Maine is growing on account of this reputation, colleges without it are loosing ground.

Oct. 6. There are altogether 151 Freshmen. . . five of these are girls, "co-ads" or "chickens" as they are called but although much talked about they are seldom seen.

Have you heard of a peanut "drunk", probably not? Well that is the funny name given in college nomenclature to a gorge on that arid fruit. We had one up in 302 last week. Someone furnished a peck of peanuts and eight of us fellows did the rest.

Oct. 20. Yesterday we had a glorious time here and in Bangor. Our football team beat that of Tufts quite badly, and we had to celebrate. So at least 300 of us marched through the streets of Bangor waking the people up with our cheering. After the march and after supper we all went to the theatre. The whole middle section had been reserved and Maine men filled the house. Between the acts we cheered and sang our college songs.

Dec. 13. . . A week of zero weather, frozen limbs and bursted water pipes. So Tuesday morning when it was 32° below no one was surprised to see scholars standing over oil stoves, thawing damaged ears, or to find that there would be no lessons, on account of frozen steam pipes. . . .

Now I am going to show you that Maine is governed by the students and for the students. Last week we all signed a petition to have the Christmas vacation prolonged until Jan. 5 and it was granted. Hurrah!

ΣAE House

Feb. 8. What a stir! What a "hurly-burly", what a change of schedule, what hunger! and all because the Maine legislature chose to visit our college last Friday. With their wives and friends, two hundred strong, they invaded our little kingdom, monopolized our rooms and ate our little dinner. Legislators to the right, legislators to the left, legislators in front and legislators behind, asking impossible questions, and like the farmers, which many are, saying and doing commical things. But since mankind is undeniably selfish, we put our best foot forward and urged upon them the fact that we needed a $60,000 appropriation. Will we get it?

Mar. 23. . Since I had an attack of grip I stayed at home and took medicine. I had enough of that, aconite, salts, quinine, pills and hot lemonade.

Mar. 26. . The doctor will cost me $3.00. I have paid .85¢ for medicine. I am feeling pretty well now. . . .

Apr. 23. . Perhaps I had better give the expenses of the week. Paid: 25¢ for haircut, 2.15 for laundry, 25¢ for candy, 1.25 for freshman banquet, 50 cents for ticket to entertainment. . . .

Apr. 30. . You asked me if girls ever visited Oak Hall. No they don't, unless we should have a dance. I am sure that we should be very surprised to see a young lady here at any other time. . . .

May 7. . I have taken up drill again and it is not altogether pleasant. It not only means listening to the band, and performing delightful evolutions; but putting on a suffocating suit of clothes and a high collar; running over fields and hills at a double quick; tossing an eight pound gun about; doing guard and walking generally as if you had a check rein on and a six inch plank fastened to the small of your back. . . .

Sophomore year, 1903-1904

Sept. 17. . Already plans are on foot to get out posters, by Sunday, bearing the Freshmen's commandments, Thou shalt not smoke; Thou shalt not wear stiff hats—etc.

Some think that the Freshmen travelled a very hard and narrow path this morning. The path led up to the chapel door and was lined with Sophomores armed with clubs, who assisted the new men into chapel very materially.

Junior year, 1904-1905

Sept. 16. . I would have come quicker had I been tagged and sent as freight, however slow freight transportation may be reputed to be. For you see my boat arrived in Bangor 24 hours late. From Wed until Friday. It seemed an eon of time, but long as it was I did not have time to become an acclimated sailor, in other words I didn't get my "sea legs" on. Still in my misery I had company for even sailors were sick and were willing to admit that there was a "powerful heavy sea" . . . And my appetite, I soon lost that—also my lunch. Still as Raymond said by not being hungry we were fooling the steamboat company who were selling meals for 75¢. At Rockland we left for an hour our crazy cradle. . . and enjoyed ourselves ashore. At nine last evening we reached Belfast, where the Captain who must have lost his nerve in the storm declared that he was going to stop until daylight. We let him have his way naturally and, thinking a stateroom unsufferable, tramped the streets of the sleepy town until midnight. . . explored our new house which is still in the hands of painters. . . I think it the nicest frat house on the campus.

Oct. 17. . Thursday evening I gave my time to my history teacher Miss Colvin. In her den at the "hen coop" she has many little attractions which draw her students. I'm glad I take history when with classmates I am treated to fudge & welsh rabbit. . . While we are in a comfortable state of mind after several helpings of confection, she assigns us several days of library or other work. Our meeting will be semi-weekly and during the season we will study the Russian-Japanese War and its conditions. The paper which I must prepare for our second meeting is on Russian modes of government. Sounds interesting does it not? . . . We are members of what is known as Miss Colvin's "chocolate class".

Sept. 24. . the annual YMCA reception. Dan was there too, also his sister, who is one of the 13 new co-eds. You see there is an unlucky number of them and the boys say they hope all will end by dropping out. . . . By the way, I must buy our winter supply of coal. Could you find out what I ought to pay for soft coal.

Oct. 3. . The last few days of this week Bangor will hold its annual music festival. People come hundreds of miles to attend it. The best singers in the country are secured. Last year Mme. Nordica was the leading attraction. This year it is Mme. Eames. I am telling you, for I have secured a position as usher. Other college fellows have them also. Thursday night I will hear Lohengrin . . . One evening I shall let Dan have my place. We have to wear dress-suits. . .

ON CAMPUS

UMO PRESIDENTS AND ALUMNI RECEIVE HONORARY DEGREES

Honorary doctor of laws degrees were conferred upon President Winthrop C. Libby '32 by Colby College and upon former President Lloyd H. Elliott, president of George Washington University, by Georgetown University, at their recent commencements.

Also receiving honorary doctor of laws degrees were the Honorable Edward M. Curran '25, a former chief judge of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, from Georgetown University Law Center; and Dr. Mark R. Shedd '50, superintendent of the Philadelphia school system, from Bates College. Professor Harold E. Bowie '28, retired chairman of the mathematics department at American International College, received an honorary doctor of science degree from American International College.

PHI KAPPA PHI DIAMOND JUBILEE

The national honor society of Phi Kappa Phi, which was founded at the University of Maine in 1897, will hold its national convention on the Orono campus August 15-18 to celebrate its diamond jubilee. All Phi Kappa Phi alumni are cordially invited and may write to Mrs. Judith Hakola, 8 Charles Place, Orono, Maine 04473, for information and programs.

Originally a local honor society established to reward high scholarship among undergraduates, the organization has grown to international proportions with 128 chapters stretching from Maine to the Philippines. Unlike Phi Beta Kappa, the older honorary society that honors undergraduates pursuing only the bachelor of arts degree, Phi Kappa Phi is available only to colleges and universities that offer more than one kind of degree. Phi Kappa Phi now honors undergraduates, graduate students, and outstanding faculty members. Since 1932 it has awarded more than $250,000 in national graduate fellowships. These are in addition to awards and prizes offered by local chapters.

NEWS OF OTHER CAMPUSES OF U. M.

Honorary degrees were awarded by the University of Maine at several campuses around the state at their June commencement exercises. In addition to those at Orono, honorary degrees were awarded at Fort Kent to retiring President Joseph M. Fox; at Portland-Gorham to naval historian Robert Albion, Congresswoman Shirley A. Chisholm (D-N. Y.), community leader E. Grosvenor Plowman, and syndicated columnist Carl T. Rowan; at Machias to Federal Maritime Commissioner James V. Day; and at Presque Isle to former Cornell University President James A. Perkins.

A new president has been named to the Fort Kent campus. Dr. Richard J. Spath, 48, who received his B. A. from John Carroll University in Cleveland, Ohio, and his M. S. and Ph.D. from St. Louis University, was president of St. Francis College, Biddeford, before assuming his new duties on July 1.

A 16-person committee was appointed in late May by Chancellor Donald R. MacNeil to study the status of women at the university. The committee represents all eight campuses and includes faculty, administrators, classified personnel, and students. The study will center on equal opportunities for women, and will include the identification of areas of unequal opportunity and recommendations for university-wide policies and innovative programs to assure equal opportunity for women.

JUNE TRUSTEES MEETING

Action taken by the board of trustees at its June 9th meeting at the University of Maine at Presque Isle included:

The authorization of tuition waiver for persons over 65 wishing to take undergraduate courses on a non-credit basis. This is a renewal of a program in effect since 1968 and an extension to the entire university system.

A policy statement on appearances before the board of trustees. "The board of trustees welcomes communications from any party on matters of interest to the University of Maine." The procedure is to present the request in writing through the chancellor at least ten days prior to a scheduled board meeting, identifying the person or group making the request and stating the purpose. The petitioner will be advised by the clerk of the decision of the chairman, including time, date, place and format if the request is granted.

Election of chairman and vice chairman. Dr. Lawrence Cutler and Mrs. Jean Sampson were re-elected, respectively.

Approval of M. S. program in oceanography at the Darling Center and at Orono, and of an associate degree program in mental health technology at UMB, to begin in the fall if possible. Approval was conditional on the finding of necessary funds within the present resources of the university budget.

Acceptance of gifts and grants of more than $32,876 for UMO. Among these were a General Alumni Association gift of $1,000 for the Ronald B. Levinson Philosophy Library, and $3,565 for class loan funds, scholarship funds, and building funds from the GAA; $5,000 from the Northern Chemical Industries, Inc., to be added to the James E. Totman Scholarship Fund; $500 from Associated Women Students and $750 from the Class of 1974 for the ONWARD fund; and $13,287.85 from the Estate of William H. Boardman to be added to the William H. Boardman Scholarship Fund. A number of collections of books, art work, and electrical engineering equipment, collectively worth thousands of dollars, were also accepted by the board.

BOOKS

John M. Romanyshyn, Social Welfare: Charity to Justice. New York: Random House, 1971.

This month Random House has published Social Welfare: Charity to Justice, by John M. Romanyshyn, with the assistance of his wife, Annie L. Romanyshyn. Mr. Romanyshyn is Margaret Payson Professor of Social Welfare at the University of Maine at Portland-Gorham.

He was known to many student generations at Orono as the faculty member teaching social welfare and social work, and more recently as the director of this sequence at the Portland campus. Yet the Romanyshyns' book is not a text; nor is it an edited collection of the writings of others. Rather, it is an extended essay that brilliantly describes and analyzes both the origins and nature of individual and social dysfunction in our technological society, and the institutional and philosophical constraints which have shaped our responses. That there are critical deficits both in our willingness and ability to respond with quantitative and qualitative adequacy to these maladies is a central premise of this book. The author informs the reader that "My approach is guided by the ethic of indignation and disciplined . . . by the principle of inquiry"—explaining that by "indignation" is meant a refusal to mindlessly "adjust" to conditions as they are, and the commitment to wholesome social change.

Much of the book is an informative review of the social needs and social welfare policy issues attendant to life in our industrial society. Social welfare is an ambiguous concept, but is illuminated by the author's examination of its more precise implications. Always the discussion is enhanced by Professor Romanyshyn's scholarship, and, more especially, by his own perceptions which permit us to understand when he says that " . . . (public) dependency is a political issue, not a social problem", and, again, that "We are coming to realize that we are being overwhelmed by the human costs of our existing social system".

But he does not leave us with a statement of the dilemma. Without any concession in the intellectual rigor that marks the entire book, or surrender to a "foolish optimism" that occasionally suffuses the humanists among us, Professor Romanyshyn examines both the hazards and the hopes inherent in the concept of social welfare as social development, sharing his convictions in the glory of man and in man's place at the center of society.

Stanley F. Wass, Associate Professor of Social Welfare, UMO

Carl C. Osgood, Fatigue Design. New York, John Wiley and Sons, 1970.

This work would come under the general classification of Applied Mechanics known as the Mechanics of Solids, in which solids are considered to be plastics which yield. Mr Osgood describes an up-to-date way to design Oliver Wendell Holmes' One-Horse-Shay which had a trouble-free lifetime of 100 years and then collapsed in a heap.

There are four chapters in the book. The first chapter, the introduction, defines the scope, the level, and the limitations of the subject as viewed by Mr. Osgood. The second chapter includes some characteristics of the design approach, including damage and failure criteria, safe-life and fail-safe designs, factors of safety vs. reliability, and minimum weight. The third chapter is devoted to the prediction of fatigue life and a fourth, entitled general factors, has mostly to do with materials. A large number of the modern alloys are considered, and in addition, various types of plastics, concrete, glass, and ceramics are treated. Residual stresses and surface treatments are also included. The book has 497 pages of text, plus 394 references, plus a comprehensive subject index.

Mr. Osgood was born in Ellsworth and received the bachelor's degree from the University of Maine, mechanical engineering, in 1938 and the M. S. in 1943. In 1951 he obtained the M. S. degree in metallurgy from the University of Pennsylvania. He has been engaged by the Maine Central Railroad, the University of Maine, the Boston Naval Shipyard, the University of Vermont, and the University of Pennsylvania. He is presently with the Radio Corporation of America as a member of the Technical Advisory staff of the Astro-Electronics Division.

LETTERS

A LETTER TO THE PRESIDENT

Dear Mr. Libby,

Our son, Scott Gregory has just finished his first year of college (and such an important year in anyone's life!). His mother and I couldn't be more grateful to you for the supremely high quality academic and social atmosphere you have created for your students.

Concerned parents all over the country are praying for the right college placement of their sons and daughters. In years past it seems to have been pretty much a matter of decision based on academic programs and such but as you so well know the decision is much more complex now.

Scott is a living chamber of commerce for the University of Maine. He is happy, fulfilled and visibly concerned and interested in so many fine areas. Obviously we give him much of the credit but you and your school deserve a very strong second place ribbon!

You have our most sincere gratitude.

Yours very truly,

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Gregory

ALUMNI NEWS

NEW GUIDELINES FOR SELECTION OF DISTINGUISHED MAINE PROFESSOR

At the request of the General Alumni Association a committee was appointed this winter by President Winthrop C. Libby '32 to develop a set of guidelines for selecting the professor to be honored with the Distinguished Maine Professor Award. These guidelines, which included a new nomination procedure, the formation of a selection committee, and a set of criteria, were approved at the February meeting of the Alumni Council.

At the time of student senate elections a ballot is now provided listing criteria for the award. Students are instructed to write in the name of the professor they deem most worthy.

Then the selection committee, composed of four students each from the five colleges (one from each class), who have been appointed by the deans of the colleges in consultation with the student/faculty advisory committee, reduce the number of names of the top vote-getters to seven percent of the full-time faculty in each college. Professional records are then made available on these candidates and used for evaluation against the criteria until a majority vote is reached by the selection committee.

The criteria are 1) that the professor must have taught at least three years at the University of Maine at Orono including the year of the award, and 2) that the award be given for the professor's respect for, and devotion to, education and his students; for the professor's teaching effectiveness; and for his professional and scholarly accomplishments.

YOUNG ALUMNA FINDS HEROIN CACHE

On April 5, 22-year-old Lynn Pelletier '70, a customs agent at Port Newark since last July, discovered 96 pounds of pure heroin in a Volkswagen camper bus being shipped from France to the United States. She was given a special service award by the Commissioner of Customs at the New York Customs House. A federal grand jury indicted a 48-year-old Parisian on charges of smuggling the heroin into the United States.

Being a customs agent is usually a man's job. Miss Pelletier is among the first female customs agents to be employed at Port Newark, where only about one in 50 is a woman.

A major in anthropology at UMO, Miss Pelletier enjoys working with people and feels that her education gave her an excellent background for her work, which she describes as "people-oriented." Her only other unusual find on the job was a boa constrictor on a girl leaving the United States.

FIRST WOMAN PRESIDENT

At the April 3rd meeting of the North Shore Alumni Association Mrs. Chester (Marian Davis) Cooper '32 was elected president, the first woman president of a University of Maine alumni association.

Attending the University of Maine was a tradition for the ladies in Mrs. Cooper's family: her mother, Mary (Knight) Davis, and her mother's twin sister, Martha (Knight) Anderson, were in the class of 1909, and her own sister, Helen (Davis) Sublett, was in the class of 1937.

GAA officers newly elected: Mrs. Edith (Talbot '32) Ness, second vice president; Albert M. Parker '28, president; Ralph L. Hodgkins, Jr. '59, vice president; Mrs. Mildred (Simpson '62) Stewart, clerk; Herbert A. Leonard '39, treasurer.

Paul J. Dowe '48, president of the Auburn-Lewiston Association, presents a color TV to President and Mrs. Winthrop C. Libby '32 from the members at a joint meeting with the Androscoggin Valley Alumnae on April 28.

Myron W. Zimmerman '50 receives Block "M" Award from President Kenneth Woodbury '23.

Marion Cooper has held many positions of leadership, beginning with the presidency of Delta Delta Delta sorority during her senior year at Maine. A teacher before her marriage, she became president of the Chicopee (Mass.) PTA before returning to teaching when her children were older. She then became director of District 7 of the Massachusetts Congress of Parents and Teachers. Later she became president of the Ashland Teachers Association, and from 1969 to 1971 she has been president of the Wenham Teachers Association.

Looking towards the coming year, Mrs. Cooper said, "In becoming president of the Alumni Association, my main hope is that we will be able to arouse a deeper interest in the fellowship of the North Shore residents who share the experience and bonds of Maine college days."

NEWEST ALUMNI ELECT OFFICERS

The Class of 1971 elected new officers on Class Day, June 2: Dennis Hogan, president; Paul Michaud, vice president; Rebecca Clifford, secretary; and Cynthia (Miller) Russell, treasurer.

NOMINATIONS REQUESTED

Nominations are now being received by GAA President Albert M. Parker '28 at the Alumni Center for Black Bear Awards and for the Alumni Career Award.

The purpose of the Black Bear Award is the recognition and appreciation of outstanding service promoting university spirit. The award bears the legend, "for devotion and loyalty to the high traditions of the University of Maine."

The Career Award is given to an alumnus who has revealed the quality of the educational excellence of the University of Maine at Orono by his or her outstanding record in professional, business, civic or other public service.

Recipients will be honored at Homecoming, October 16.

LOCAL ASSOCIATION NEWS

April 15, CHICAGO. Twenty Chicago area alumni met at the Wilmette home of Ken and Barbara Seaman. After a buffet dinner Dr. Charles Major of the Orono faculty showed slides and told about the university as it is today and its plans for the future. Those within hearing distance of Ken Vaughn '21 enjoyed his anecdotes of Maine as it used to be. Ken attended his 50th reunion this year. He has been a faithful attendant at all Chicago area alumni meetings.

CAREY - LINGLEY MEMORIAL

The dedication of the Carey-Lingley Memorial on May 6, 1971, as part of the Annual ROTC Review and Awards Ceremony, marked the enduring interest of a devoted group of alumni of the University of Maine at Orono in the purposes and program of the First Maine Cadet Brigade of the Reserve Officer Training Corps. The project originated as a plan conceived by Alfred B. Lingley '20 of Cranston, R. I., to honor the late Henry T. Carey '22 for his life-long interest in the Armed Forces and the University of Maine. Friends of Mr. Lingley made additional contributions to the project to honor Mr. Lingley for his devotion to the same ideals. Myron W. Zimmerman '50 and the current members of the Black Bear Club of Rhode Island were instrumental in bringing the campaign for this memorial project to a successful conclusion.

The four-part memorial included the presentation to the Cadet Brigade of a full set of United States ceremonial flags, portraits of Mr. Carey and of Mr. Lingley, commemorative bronze plaques to be displayed with the portraits, and the redecoration of the office of the Commanding Officer.

Henry T. Carey, who died on October 28, 1969, was the son of a Lieutenant Colonel in the Coast Artillery Corps. During World War I he had been commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Coast Artillery Corps at Fortress Monroe, Norfolk, Va. He was a business leader in Jersey, where he had served as president of the Boys Club. He had maintained summer residences in Camden and in Portland, Maine, where he was born on April 1, 1898. Mr. Carey was a member of the Council and served as president of the General Alumni Association from 1957 to 1959 and as president of the New York City Alumni. Although remaining in the background, he had a record of liberal backing of university programs. He was associated with and supported Mr. Lingley in many of his university endeavors. They had been close personal friends since serving together in the Cadet Corps of Portland High School.

Alfred B. Lingley served as a member of the Alumni Council beginning in 1941 and was elected president of the General Alumni Association for 1949 to 1951. While he was president, the Black Bear Awards and the Alumni Silver Sabre Awards were established. Subsequently given a Black Bear Award and later the Alumni Association's highest award, the Alumni Service Emblem Award, he was the first alumnus to be honored with both awards. He was president of the Rhode Island Alumni Association and a founder and the first president of the Black Bear Club of Rhode Island, the forerunner of other similar clubs in Portland and Boston. He was active in establishing the Pershing Rifles. Rhode Island exceeded its quotas when he was chairman of the campaigns in support of the alumni gymnasium, the library, and the Memorial Union. Chairman of the committee which established the Benjamin F. Kent Scholarship, he is also the donor of a scholarship established in 1952. Sailing as a sport was brought to Maine when he spearheaded a campaign to provide dinghies. He was chairman of the committee which established the university carillon, now in Alumni Hall, in honor of Rear Admiral Frank W. Fenno. He was the Rhode Island chairman for the drive which raised $25,000 for scholarships for children of the men who perished on the U.S.S. Thresher. A Seaman Second Class in World War I, he was awarded in 1966 the U.S. Navy Meritorious Public Service Citation "for his many major contributions to the United States Navy in the New England area."

Col. George E. Fell, professor of military science, SGM Ervin Salley, D. Robert Burt (son-in-law of Mr. Carey), and Alfred B. Lingley '20 view the portrait of Henry T. Carey '22 at the dedication ceremony.

SPORTS

During Reunion Weekend alumni tour new swimming pool, due to open late summer.

1970-71 SPORTS ROUNDUP

The 1970-71 college year was an eventful one for the intercollegiate athletic and allied (physical education, recreation) programs at the University of Maine's Orono campus.

The varsity sports team had improved records over the year before, outstanding freshman athletes became eligible for the first time to participate on varsity squads except in basketball and football, and the new swimming, wrestling, and gymnastics facilities neared completion.

In addition, University Trustees approved the concept of an athletic scholarship program based on the student's computed financial need. It was further stipulated that such a program would have to be financed by alumni and friends of the University's athletic program. The Graduate M Club is currently considering methods of raising income for this purpose.

Six of the varsity teams had winning seasons and while no Yankee Conference championships were claimed, four State Series titles were won in soccer, basketball, baseball, and golf. The rifle team finished second in the annual New England tournament.

The varsity golf team paced the field with a 16-3-1 record, followed by baseball (16-12), soccer (7-2-3), rifle (9-3), spring track (3-0) and winter track (4-1). Other dual records were: cross country, 2-5; football, 3-5; basketball, 8-16; wrestling, 2-6-1; and tennis, 2-6.

Individually, one UMO athlete, golfer Don Morse, qualified for the national NCAA tournament.

Athletic Director Hal Westerman received recognition for his leadership in intercollegiate athletics by being named chairman of the Yankee Conference, as well as being selected as a director of the New England College Athletic Conference and a member of the Eastern College Athletic Conference's Executive Committee.

Head Trainer, Wesley D. Jordan, received national recognition by being selected to serve as trainer for the United States team in the Pan American Games which will take place this summer in Colombia, South America.

Nearly all of Maine's head coaches were active during the year in various service contributions to the state, serving as speakers at high school and community youth banquets, conducting clinics and taking active roles in regional and national coaches' associations.

A late-breaking development which will have considerable influence on Maine's athletic fortunes was the announcement by President Winthrop C. Libby in late May that the presidents of the Yankee Conference schools had extended invitations to Holy Cross College and Boston University to become members of the league. Both accepted and will become active playing members in all sports as soon as workable schedules can be adopted by the Athletic Directors. The Yankee Conference was established in 1947 and has consisted of the six New England state universities until this time. Maine alumni groups in eastern and central Massachusetts should enjoy seeing more of Maine's teams as they travel to Boston and Worcester to take on new scheduling commitments.

THE LIBRARY WANTS

For Special Collections:

Wartime letters—World War I, II, Korean War, Vietnam War. (We have no letters in our collection from anyone serving in these wars.)

Any such items would be valuable for study and research, several letters from the same person particularly so. And if letters from and to a serviceman are available these would be even more valuable.
