Biographical / Historical

In 1988, under Dale W. Lick's tenure as University of Maine president, the University went through a reorganization which resulted in the College of Life Sciences and Agriculture being disbanded and the creation of a College of Food, Agriculture & Applied Sciences and College of Sciences. The College of Sciences was officially established on July 1, 1989 under the leadership of Dean Dagmar Cronn. In the College of Sciences were the departments of Chemistry, Geological Sciences, Physics and Astronomy, Plant Biology and Pathology, Biochemistry, Microbiology and Molecular Biology, Zoology, Mathematics, Oceanography, and Computer Science.

Dean Conn departed the College of Sciences in June 1997 and on July 1, 1997 the College closed with the individual department moving to the new, combined colleges, in particular the College of Natural Sciences, Forestry, and Agriculture.
