THE MAINE VOTER

April-May, 1972

Due to an error a correction must be made in the April-May edition of the MAINE VOTER. The right-hand lower column on the front page ought to read as follows:

A NO vote will retain the November General Election Ballot in its present party column form,

Those in favor of changing to "Office-type" ballot say:

- requiring separate mark for each candidate assures more careful voting.
- encourages voter to judge merits of each candidate regardless of political party loyalty.
- encourages split ticket voting.
- prevents candidates of inferior calibre from winning on "coattails" of strong candidate at head of ticket.
- helps minority party candidates.

Those in favor of retaining present Party Column ballot say:

- party column form easily understood by voters, whereas office-type confuses them.
- less time is needed for voting; less time needed for counting.
