PREFACE

The State of Maine Association is the pioneer State society of California. It was organized in Oakland, California, April 6th, 1878, for the purpose of promoting good fellowship and social intercourse among the residents of California who formerly resided in the State of Maine.

During the thirty-five years of its existence the association has never failed to keep up its organization and to meet in annual reunion. At this time, when so many new State organizations are being formed, we point with pride to our record of long continued activity.

In publishing the second volume of the Historical Bulletin, we take the opportunity to urge upon all former residents of the State of Maine, into whose hands it may fall, the importance of uniting with the association at once.

We now have about five hundred members, residing principally in the bay cities of San Francisco, Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley. It is estimated that not less than twenty-five hundred former residents of the State of Maine reside in those cities. We especially invite these residents to join the association. We propose to advertise the great Panama-Pacific International Exposition in which the bay cities are so deeply interested.

It is our desire to publish and distribute a complete directory of all residents of California who formerly resided in the State of Maine, for the benefit of the large number of Maine visitors who are expected to attend the exposition. The co-operation and financial assistance of all former residents of Maine, residing in this vicinity, will be required to carry out these plans and to maintain headquarters which we hope to establish on the exposition grounds.

We hope that the Legislature of the State of Maine will make appropriation for a suitable exhibit at the exposition, which it has not yet done. The eyes of the world are upon California and it behooves us, as loyal citizens of the State of our adoption, to do all in our power that this great undertaking may be an eminently success, to the honor of the people of Maine and to the glory of California.

The membership fee in the association, including one year's dues, is only $1.00. Upon payment of this fee, a membership card will be issued entitling the holder to all the privileges of the association, including a copy of the bulletin, and notice of all meetings.

The thirty-fifth annual reunion and picnic will be held at Shell Mound Park, Oakland, Saturday, June 7th, 1913, to which all Maine people and their friends are cordially invited. A dinner, consisting of pork and beans, brown bread and coffee, will be served at 12 o'clock sharp, and will be followed by a literary and musical program, games and dancing. Monthly socials will be given by the association during the year, and an annual mid-winter banquet will be served at the appropriate season.

We respectfully request that the Secretary of this association be notified of all errors and omissions in this bulletin, and that additional names be forwarded at once. It is our intention to include in future publications, the place of birth as well as the present residence. In sending in names this should not be omitted.

The present headquarters of the association is Room 507, Foxcroft Building, No. 68 Post Street, San Francisco, where all communications should be addressed.
STATE OF MAINE

There has been much speculation concerning the origin of the name "Maine," as applied to the largest New England State. The most probable theory, however, is that it arose from the custom of the early settlers to apply that name to the "main"-land to distinguish it from the numerous islands along the coast.

The first permanent settlement was probably made in Maine about the year 1623 by the English at Pemaquid. In 1622 the tract of land between the Merrimac and Kennebec Rivers was granted by the Council of Plymouth to Captain John Mason, and Sir Ferdinando Gorges. These gentlemen subsequently divided their grants, and Gorges, who can really be called the founder of Maine, retained what is now the extreme southwestern part of the State. It is in this territory that he established the first chartered city in America, in the year 1641. This city, which is the modern town of York, was called by him Georgiana. A little later, in about the year 1677, all the right of Gorges was purchased by the Massachusetts Bay Colony for 1250 pounds sterling.

Maine, up to March 15th, 1820, was a part of the State of Massachusetts, but on that date it was admitted to the Union as a separate State having substantially its present boundaries.

Maine enjoys the distinction of being the largest of the New England States, having a gross area of 33,040 square miles. Its extreme breadth is 205 miles, and its extreme length 235 miles. The total land area is 29,895 square miles. It has sixteen counties, of which Aroostook is the largest and Sagadahoc the smallest. Its population now numbers 742,371. The shortest distance between the northeastern and the southwestern extremities of the Coast is only 225 miles, but on account of the projection, and indentations, its coastline measures 2500 miles, and shelters many deep water and well-protected harbors.

The first railroad in the State was completed in 1836, and extended from Bangor to Old Town, twelve miles. Now, however, she has a railway mileage of 2,106 miles, which includes a very complete system of electric railroads.

Maine has twenty cities, of which Portland is the largest, and Augusta is its capital. Besides these, there are twenty-one incorporated villages.

The five large rivers of Maine form one of the chief assets of the State. They all rise at great elevations, and furnish an immense water power, available for industrial purposes. One well-known expert has estimated the water-fall in Maine to be 1,229,300,000,000 cubic feet equal to 2,656,300 horsepower.

During the Revolutionary War, many soldiers from Maine saw active service, and a whole regiment was present at the Battle of Bunker Hill. The remnants of two tribes of Indians still exist in the State, one living at Old Town, and the other on the shores of the Passamaquoddy Bay, and the St. Croix River.

Maine has a great number of summer resorts, and on account of its cool and refreshing summer climate, entertains more summer visitors than any other State in the Union. Its picturesque coast is thickly dotted with islands. Its 1,600 inland lakes, and wide expanses of forest, well protected by up-to-date fish and game laws, afford to the sportsman a great attraction during the open season.
Maine furnishes an example to her sister States in the matter of common school education. In the number of its citizens that are able to read and write, it stands in the front ranks. It has three normal schools for the training of common and grammar school teachers. In proportion to its inhabitants, it has more academies and preparatory schools than any other State in the Union. It has four colleges which confer the degree of A. B.—Bowdoin, Colby, Bates, and University of Maine, and one medical school, and one law school. With its system of education, it not only affords the residents of the State exceptional opportunities for learning, but also many from other places, including countries of South America and West Indies.

The principal industries of Maine are manufacturing, fishing, lumbering, and the harvesting of ice. Agriculture is not as extensive as in many other States of the Union, on account of the ruggedness of the climate, and the scarcity of soil in the highlands.

William King was the first Governor of Maine, and William T. Haines is the present incumbent. Maine was the first State to enact a prohibitory law. It was amended from time to time until finally it declared the manufacture of intoxicating liquors and their sales except for medicinal and mechanical purposes, and for art, forever prohibited. The law, however, has been grossly violated, and there has been a strong movement for a repeal of it, but at a recent election the prohibitory law was upheld by a very small majority.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, the famous poet, was born at Portland, Maine, in 1807, entered Bowdoin College at the age of 14, and was graduated in the famous class of 1825, which included Nathaniel Hawthorne and other persons well known in literature.

Lillian Nordica Norton, the great operatic singer, was born near Farmington, Maine, in 1856.

Thomas Brackett Reed, the famous speaker of the House of Representatives for so many years, was born at Portland, Maine, in 1839. He resigned from the office of representative in 1899, at which time he again took up the practice of law, but only lived a short while.

James G. Blaine, although reared in Maine, and claiming that State for his residence, was born at West Brownsville, Penn., June 30th, 1830, and died at Washington, D. C., January 27, 1893. He has been called by many the greatest American statesman of his time. In politics he was a Republican, and was a member of the House of Representatives from Maine from 1863 to 1876. From 1869 to 1875 he occupied the position of Speaker of the House. In 1876, he was elected United States Senator, and served in that capacity until 1881, at which time he was appointed Secretary of State. In 1884, he was the unsuccessful candidate of the Republican party for President. In 1889, he was again appointed Secretary of State under President Harrison. He wrote the work entitled "Twenty Years in Congress."

Hannibal Hamlin was born in Paris, Maine, August 27, 1809, and died on the fourth of July 1891. He was one of America's foremost statesmen. He was a member of Congress from Maine from 1843 to 1847, and in 1848, he was elected United States Senator and served in that capacity until 1857, when he became Governor of Maine. He was again elected United States Senator, and served until 1861, at which time he was elected Vice-President, which office he held during Lincoln's first term. He was again elected United States Senator in 1869, and served in that capacity until 1881, at which time he was appointed United States Minister to Spain. Mr. Hamlin was originally a Democrat, but differed from his party on the question of slavery, and joined the Republican ranks about 1855.
THE STATE OF MAINE

The State of Maine is an irregular knob on the northeast corner of the map of the United States. It is surrounded by Canada on the north and east, the Atlantic Ocean on the south and the Boston and Maine Railroad on the west, so escape is almost impossible.

Maine is a rough rugged country, full of rough, rugged names, such as "Androscoggin," "Aroostook," "Damariscotta," and "Molechunkemunk." It has been settled for about 250 years, but in spite of this, very few Maine farms have been entirely unbouldered as yet. The first crop off the Maine farm is a stone house, and the next few crops are stone barns, stone fences, stone well curbs, stone sheep houses and stone walks. The stone boat is a familiar and useful craft throughout the State and has hauled enough rocks off the Maine farms in the last century to hide the pyramids under the billions of tons of glacial drift.

The climate of Maine is dry by a very small majority, and is automatically refrigerated throughout the greater part of the year. It gets through snowing in Maine in the spring just in time to cloud up and prepare for the first fall flurry. The population of the State is about 750,000 people, most of whom are huddled together in the extreme southern section for warmth's sake. Owing to the climate, it is hard to raise much of anything in Maine except hotel prices. The seacoast of Maine resembles a piece of Battenberg lace, and is profusely speckled with summer hotels. In the spring, the Maine hotel keeper takes a room which would rent for $1.25 a month during the winter and by judiciously mixing it with climate, manages to raise the price to $7.00 a day by July. Besides hotel prices, Maine raises hay, potatoes, pine trees and statesmen. The entire north end of the State is a shaggy growth of timber. This section, however, is being rapidly barbered by the lumber interests. Maine statesmen are of the finest brand, and when a Maine man goes to Congress he usually remains there until death doth him part. The climate of his home State undoubtedly accounts for the tenacity with which the Maine statesman clings to Washington. For many years Maine was one of the vested interests of the Republican party, but it recently went Democratic with some emphasis, and nowadays when the old-fashioned Maine farmer gets out in the morning he looks over to the west to see if the sun has changed its habits, too.

Later—Maine has again returned to the Republican fold.

Do you remember a little village, Jim,
Nestled down among the hills,
The brook a-running through it
And the dells above its din?
The sawmill on the hillside,
The grist mill just beyond;
Farther down the shingle null;
With its long and shady pond;
A deep hole near the gateway
Where only swimmers dared to go,
Where we splashed about when school was

Some forty years ago?

Do you remember the smell of sawdust
From the noisy, dancing saw,
The log that hitched so slow along,
Wet from the slippery saw,
Where we watched for the miller's daughter,
Some forty years ago.

Do you remember that same old grist mill
Where the farmers for miles around,
Some afoot and some a-horseback,
Came to get their grindstone?
The enormous wheel that turned the stones
That ground the wheat so fine,
The wicked machine that cracked the cobs,
And a finger or two of mine?
Do you remember the girl who told it to
When the rocks were hid with snow,
We used to slide down belly-bunt,
Some forty years ago.

Do you remember the old red school house
And the tricks we used to play
On the pedagogues we didn't like
(Not you, wasn't I)?
The lickers that we should have had—
That is, I've often thought—
Our numbered by considerable.
The ones we really got,
Do you remember snapping spitballs
That and aned the teacher so.
And who was lick'd for doing it,
Some forty years ago?

Do you remember a peculiar way we had
Of bending up a pin,
To make the point stand upward
Towards the boy whose pancy were thin?
Do you remember his awful war-whoop
That made the children stare,
While we appeared as much surprised
As any scholar there?
But just as soon as school was out
The offender had run,
What he could do with fists and heels,
Some forty years ago.

Did you ever have a stone bruise
On the middle of your brow?
On the other foot a damaged toe?
Then you know how good they feel,
Did you ever have a boil or two,
Arranged in such a way
That the softest seat you'd flat refuse
And stand around all day?
Some think boys are free from care,
But they never stubbed their toe,
When throwing rocks at bull-frogs.
Some forty years ago.

Do you remember the sheep with crooked horns
That used to knock us down,
And keep us down, till help arrived.
Flat on the mossy ground?
Do you remember that awful hornet
Whose business end was white?
No hornet, wasp or bumblebee
Was a fiercer foe to fight.
Did you ever spoil a straw hat
Waving it in and fro
To keep the angry bees away,
Some forty years ago.

Do you remember the choke-cherries
That grew along the wall?
What a puckering up they gave us!
But we swallowed stones and all,
Green apples, too, we didn't spare.
But they soon wound up our frolic;
You'll remember that, I guess,
Being twisted up with colic.
What enormous appetites we had!
Some never seemed to know!
That cholera-morbus laid for boys
Some forty years ago.

Do you remember the solemn doctor
With his saddlebags and pills?
That he rolled up while we waited,
His jugal, speciose and squills?
How he'd cup you for a fever,
And blister you for sprains,
And physic you and vomit you
For all other aches and pains.
The smell he carried with him
But increased our awful woe;
We'd get well for fear he'd come again,
Some forty years ago.

But old grandma, heaven bless her,
Always knew just what to do;
With burdock leaves and sassafras,
She was sure to pull us through;
With catnip tea and thoroughwort,
And a cup of hovey-garbage,
She'd beat the doctor every time,
Fixing children up, you bet.
Her drug store was in the attic,
Where, flanging in a row,
Were herbs for all disorders,
Some forty years ago.

Did you ever attend a spelling school,
And remember your terrible fright
When you thought you got a word
Wrong, and had to stand up?
“May I see you home tonight?”
Then see her walk off with the other chap,
Like him who these lines has writen
When the sun rose on the sea.
Did you ever recover from the awful shock
If the girl gave you the mitten?
But, if she consented, what could you find
To talk of, while playing the beau,
And lay about, thinking it over,
Some forty years ago.

Do you remember, when the war broke out,
And the call for volunteers
To protect our glorious Union
From the Southern ruffians,
The marching of the soldiers,
And the uniforms they wore,
And the call of Father Abraham
For a hundred thousand more;
How we started off for Washington
To fight the country's foe.
Along with gray-haired veterans,
Some forty years ago.

Do you remember when the boys came back
In their faded suits of blue?
Many with suit and empty sleeves,
And many were missing, too.
Beardless boys had grown to men,
Scarcely known by forty or him.
For Johnny came marching home again
With whiskers on his chin.
Do you remember the loads of the caissons
Bore.
And musical sad and slow,
The last salute, then taps, good-bye,
Some forty years ago.

HON. WILLIAM T. HAINES
Governor of Maine

William T. Haines was born on a farm in the town of Levant, in Penobscot County, in 1854. Mr. Haines comes of one of those pioneer Maine families whose only inheritance was the God-fearing, truth-loving and courageous character of generations of ancestors. His boyhood was spent on the farm, where during the spring and summer he assisted his father in tilling the soil, but when winter came, with his dinner pail in one hand and his books in the other he trudged along the rough road and through deep snows to the little old schoolhouse at the cross-roads, where the foundation of his education was laid. Having outgrown the little district school he entered East Corinth Academy for a time and from this well-known academy he went to the University of Maine, from which institution he was afterwards graduated.

Mr. Haines acquired his law education at the Albany Law School, from which he received his diploma in 1878, after which he commenced to practice law in the town of Oakland, Maine. In about a year however, after this, he moved to Waterville, where he has resided ever since, and where he has built up a large practice of law.

Mr. Haines married when a young man and the partner whom he then chose for life has always been a wise counselor to him in times of perplexity. This union has been blessed by three children, one son and two daughters.

Mr. Haines has served the State in many capacities. He has represented his city in both houses of the Legislature. At one time he was County Attorney for Kennebec County and afterwards he was Attorney General of the State, and as a fitting climax to his political achievements thus far he was elected Governor of his native state after a hard fought contest in September, 1912.

He not only has been a successful lawyer, but a successful business man in all the enterprises he has undertaken, which are many. He believes in the future of his State and his counsel and advice is often sought by the trustees of many of the educational institutions in Maine. He is prominent in freemasonry, being a member of St. Omar Commandery, and Kora Temple of the Mystic Shrine.

Dr. Ira Barker Dalziel—Born in Exeter, Penobscot County, Maine, December 19th, 1857, Dr. Dalziel came to California in 1889, and early identified himself with the horse industry of his adopted State. He was one of six public-spirited citizens who promoted and raised $20,000 to assist in building the Stadium in Golden Gate Park, which is now considered one of the greatest attractions of the park. He is a director of the Park Amateur Driving Club, a member of the San Francisco Driving Club, the California Driving Club, and the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders' Association. For several years past he has been a director of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and a member of the Stable and Carriage Owners' Association. He is also an honorary member of the Pacific States Veterinary Medical Association, and ex-secretary of the California State Veterinary Medical Association. Dr. Dalziel has always taken an active part in the advancement of veterinary surgery and dentistry, and it has constantly been his aim to elevate the standing of the profession. He is a prominent and enthusiastic member of the State of Maine Association of California, being the originator and first publisher of the Historical Bulletin. He is optimistic of the future of California in general, and the city of San Francisco in particular, and neglects no opportunity to advertise his faith to the world.

Mrs. Dalziel, though not a native of Maine, is also an active worker in the association.

Miles Wilson McIntosh comes of good old New England stock. His great-grandfather, Jeremiah McIntosh, was a resident of Dorchester, Massachusetts, marched on the alarm of April 19th, 1775, and took part in the battle of Lexington. His father, Elisha McIntosh, served in the Army of the Potomac and was wounded in the battle of the Wilderness.

Mr. McIntosh was born in Milo, Piscataquis County, Maine, September 27th, 1866, being one of a family of eight children. He worked upon the farm, was educated during the summer seasons, and attended the public schools and taught school winters; was superintendent of schools, Brownville, Maine, for three years; read law with the late Honorable A. G. LeBroke, of salad practice of the law in Maine, he voted to the bar at Dover, Maine, in 1899; was elected County Attorney for Piscataquis County in 1890, and re-elected in 1892 and 1894; came to California in 1895, where he has since engaged in the general practice of the law in San Francisco. His offices are now in the First National Bank Building.

Mr. McIntosh is an ex-president of the State of Maine Association of California, a member of the California Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, and of California Commandery No. 1, Knights Templar. He married Netta C. Lawrence, a native of California, in 1900.

Nelson Page was born in Winterport, Waldo, Maine, in 1854; comes of the earliest Puritan stock of the seventeenth century, on both sides of the family. His boyhood days until a young man of 19 were spent on a farm in his native town. The next eight years he was a mariner, and sailed from "Greenland's icy mountains to India's coral strand, from Saghalien's rockbound shores to pearl islands of southern seas," at the end of which he landed in California; being in sympathy with the country and climate, decided to quit the sea. The first thing he did was to start railroading. That was in 1882; has been in the same business ever since, and is now holding a responsible position and is well satisfied to remain in California. In 1887, he married a native daughter of San Francisco, from the early Puritan stock, her family having come from Massachusetts. Their home has been in Oakland, California, twenty-four years.

Charles E. Wilson—When one begins to count up the grand old men of the San Francisco Bar who have won great reputations as lawyers, and notwithstanding that years are crowding over them, are still in active practice, with intellects keen and bright as ever—there are but very few left—among them would surely figure the name of Charles Edward Wilson. Born in Bradford, Maine, September 11th, 1839, he received his early education in the schools there and was preparing for college when the war broke out. Joining the Second Maine Cavalry, he remained with it all through the life of the regiment until it was mustered out. The war over, he read law in Bangor, Maine, in the office of his cousin, Franklin A. Wilson, was admitted to the bar in his native state in 1867, and came to San Francisco in the fall of that year and has practiced law ever since. He has never sought office, though many times approached and requested to run for a judgeship; he has always declined the honor and continued to practice his profession from the same high standpoint. An old member of the State of Maine Association of California, Charles Edward Wilson is as great a State of Maine as he is a lawyer. He is still in active practice, with offices in the Mills Building of San Francisco.
HEALD COLLEGES

History of a Pioneer Educational Institution That Has Rendered Valuable Service to the People of This Coast.

Nearly fifty years ago, or, to be accurate, forty-nine years ago in October, there came to San Francisco a young man who was destined to do a great work in the development of business on the Pacific Coast. This youth, then barely past his majority, was Edward Payson Heald, the subject of this sketch. Young Heald came from Maine, the home of a sturdy and progressive race. His ideals were high, and he started upon his career with much energy and with an aim single to the accomplishment of a great work. How well his work has been performed is evidenced by the results of his fifty years of faithful service to the young people of the Pacific Coast to whom he has given the advantage of a business training, which in many instances has proved the foundation of fortune.

Scores of colleges have come and gone since the establishment of the Heald College in 1863, but the institution established by Mr. Heald has been continuously identified with the development of this city and State. It has the quality of the Tennysonian brook. The long years of service, beset by the vicissitudes attendant on the development of the business of the Western Coast, is an interesting narrative in itself. Surmounting all difficulties, overcoming all obstacles, Mr. Heald persisted in the task, which in a large measure was a labor of love, and his college today is a monument that will long endure as testimony of his worth and of his fidelity to high principles.

It was in October, 1863, that Heald's Business College was established in San Francisco. Not one of the gentler sex attended the institution until it had been in operation for over ten years. Men of mature years came to its doors with one thought in mind: to prepare for business. The profession of shorthand writing was unknown in the early days of the College; and as not until long “after the war” did women make any attempt to take a place in commercial circles, the stern sex was alone represented in this institution of learning. Heald's College, built upon a firm foundation of devotion to its pupils, immediately won recognition for its high standards, for its development not only of the mind, but of the qualities essential to the highest success in business life. For forty years it has held undisputed supremacy in its particular line of endeavor. Not until the great earthquake of 1906 was its progressive and successful career in any wise interrupted, but during the trying days following that great disaster, the College rose out of the ashes, and opened the way for achievement far greater than ever before.

The undaunted leader, Heald, immediately evolved plans for greater work by planning to place a “Heald Education” within the reach of all ambitious young people on the Pacific Coast. He immediately surrounded himself with a half dozen enthusiastic young educators, who were to forge the Heald Chain of Colleges, each one of which was to partake of the same general characteristics that made for the great success of the parent college.

Heald Colleges were opened respectively in Oakland, Stockton, Fresno, San Jose, Santa Cruz, Los Angeles, Long Beach, Riverside, Chico, Sacramento, and Reno, Nevada, each manned by principals and teachers who represent a standard of business training that is being placed higher and higher to meet the demands of progressive business. Forty thousand young men and women have gone forth into business to vindicate the quality of Heald training that has made a "Heald Education" the standard by which all other commercial training is being measured.

Mr. Heald is also a well known horse breeder and President of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders' Association, and an active member of the State of Maine Association.
BIOGRAPHY

Edwin Hazen Black—Born on the bank of the Caratunk Falls, Embden, Maine, in 1847. Passed his boyhood days disobeying his parents and other innocent amusements. At the age of fifteen he formed a combination with Abraham Lincoln to crush the Rebellion, and succeeded. This was his first and about his last successful venture.

In 1867 he dodges his way through the noble Red Men to California.

Here he met a young lady from Maine, who has provided for him ever since. In dodging creditors he ranks second to none, and he is used to advantage by collection agencies in breaking in new collectors.

Among his most brilliant failures was his visit to Alaska, the automobile business, and raising prunes and—other things.

This obituary he has written himself, and can be believed or not, according to the mental condition of the reader.

Clive A. Brown, President of the Pioneer Salt Company—Born at Searsmont, near Belfast, on the Penobscot River, as many years ago as the picture in this issue indicates. He early acquired a roving spirit on account of being the son of a Methodist minister under the old rules when the clergy was required to seek a new residence every three years. Consequently he emigrated to California as soon as his father and mother would permit him to leave home. Arrived in San Francisco in 1885, and has been here twenty-eight years. Look at the picture again and figure it out. Married a California girl and is raising two "Native Sons" for future presidents. If they were suffragettes they might have a better chance. Has done fairly well in this country. Thinks Maine a good State in which to be born, and California a good place to live. Belongs to many fraternal organizations; has "held on to the rope," and has always tried to "make his salt." Hopes many Maine sons will follow his example and give a population of one million to San Francisco in 1915.

Henry Lysander Corson—Was born in Canaan, Maine, July 26th, 1870. He received his early education in the common schools of his native town, after which he attended East Corinth Academy and Higgins Classical Institute. In 1898, he was graduated from Colby College with degree of A. B. For the next two years he read law in the office of Senator Charles F. Johnson, of Waterville, and was admitted to practice in Maine in summer of 1900. The changes from California drew him Westward in 1901, and shortly after arriving he was married to Eva Carolyn Shorey, of Oakland, the daughter of Albert and Harriet J. Shorey, both of whom emigrated from California. Mr. Corson has continued in the practice of his profession in San Francisco. He is a Democrat. While in college he was a member of Zeta Psi Fraternity. He is now identified with the Knights Templars, Maccabees, Druids, and Loyal Order of Moose. Mr. Corson has three brothers and one sister, who are residents of California.

A. N. Grant—Mr. Grant, the genial President of the State of Maine Association, was born in Oldtown, Penobscot County, Maine. His boyhood days were spent in Oldtown, Atkinson and Medford.

In October, 1859, he came to California by way of the Isthmus of Panama, making the voyage on the Pacific side in the ill-fated steamer, Golden Gate, which was burned at sea a few years afterwards.

Since coming to California, Mr. Grant has made his home in San Francisco, and has engaged in several business enterprises in this city. In 1872 he entered into the hay and grain business, which he followed until 1905, when he retired from active business.

He has been a member of Yerba Buena Lodge of Odd Fellows since 1861, and is Past Grand Protector of the Knights and Ladies of Honor.

Mr. Grant and his estimable wife, who, by the way, is not a native of Maine, are regular attendants at all meets of the State Association, and have frequently entertained the members of the Association at their magnificent home in Cherry Street.

Ralph L. Hathorn—Born at Fairfield, Somerset County, Maine, in 1870, of old Colonial stock. He came to California with his parents when seven years old, and attended the public schools of San Francisco. He graduated from the University of California in 1893, and from the Harvard Law School in 1897. Returning to California, he was admitted to the bar, and has since been engaged in the general practice of the law in San Francisco.

His acknowledged ability and strict integrity have won for him an enviable reputation in his profession.

Mr. Hathorn has for years been active in public affairs, and has devoted much time and energy in fighting for clean politics and good government.

In 1911, at the solicitation of his friends, he was induced to run for the office of District Attorney in the City and County of San Francisco, and received the endorsement of the Republican, Democratic and Good Government League organizations. He received 33,479 votes, lacking only 1,579 votes of being elected.
BIOGRAPHY

Mr. Hathorn is a member of the Union League Club and an active member in many fraternal orders, being Past Commander of California Commandery No. 1, Knights Templar.

He is happily married, has two sons, and resides in San Francisco.

William Hatch Wharff, the well-known Berkeley architect and builder, was born in Guilford, Maine, in 1836. He was educated in the public schools and at Foxcroft Academy, graduating therefrom in 1858. He studied building and architecture in Maine and Massachusetts. Coming to California 36 years ago, Mr. Wharff has practiced his profession in San Francisco 25 years, and the last 11 years in Berkeley. The splendid new Masonic Temple in Berkeley is the latest specimen of his work, and not only a magnificent ornament to the city, but a perpetual monument to his talents and experience.

Mr. Wharff is one of the Past Presidents of the Association, and for several years served faithfully in the capacity of secretary, and has always been an enthusiastic and loyal supporter of any issue that would be of benefit to the Association and its members.

Dr. E. H. Benjamin—I was born some days ago in Maine, of poor and honest parents. My dear mother was a woman; my father a doctor. Maine got too swell for me, so I packed up my kit and walked to little California, and have tramped over the State on different missions, mostly trying to remedy the failings of nature, and just trying to make an honest living. So far have failed.

BEANS

BY E. H. BLACK

We have met today in honor
Of the good old Pine Tree State,
To talk in reminisced days
Here beside the Golden Gate.
While other able speakers
Picture old familiar scenes,
If you'll promise not to shoot me,
I'll confine my rhyme to beans.

There are many people present
Who can recognize a bean
When the bag is standing open;
But many I have seen,
Although they seem to know enough
To avoid the falling rain,
They cannot cook the little bean
Like the women raised in Maine.

I can sympathize with sufferers
Before me here today;
I can understand the reason
Why their heads are bald or gray.
Dyspepsia and disappointment
Have disarranged their spleens,
From living around in restaurants
And eating parboiled beans.

The beans we get in restaurants
Are parboiled just enough
To prepare them for the oven;
They are clean and white and tough;
And, to add insult to injury,
Or whatever else it means,
They FRY a slice of bacon
And serve it with the beans.

There is no fruit or vegetable,
Nor article of food,
That by the great majority
Is so little understood;
And not half a dozen people
Upon this earth so green,
Outside of old New England,
Know how to cook a bean.

Some say to youthful appetites
Is greatly due the blame;
Others think our taste is blunted,
That the beans are just the same.

If they'll call some Sunday morning,
Where I hang my coat and hat,
My wife will serve them pork and beans
That will knock such theories flat.

I want to give a recipe
For baking pork and beans,
Well known to women raised in Maine
Before they reach their teens.

There are many other methods
To make them fit to eat,
But what I want to emphasize,
The principal thing is HEAT.

Every Saturday, when we were boys,
It used to be our stent
To heat the big brick oven,
And our half holiday was spent
Feeding it with cordwood;
But we never would complain,
For we knew a feast was coming
Sunday morning down in Maine.

I remember the big, round table
Which, turned up, would make a chair;
The bean pot in the center,
And the eager faces there;
The crispy pork was first removed,
Then crackly, brown and hot,
The first few spoonfuls on the top
The children always got.

The rest was sweet and juicy,
'They were not white and tough;
They would not grow if planted,
And we never got enough.
Such pork and beans and brown bread
We shall never see again,
Unless the girl we married,
Or her mother, came from Maine.

Salted, crisp, cucumber pickles,
Pumpkin pie and suet cake,
Home-made cheese, sage mixed in it,
None but down-East women make.
A corner piece of Johnny-cake,
Souse and dandelion greens,
Apple sauce and hasty pudding,
We devoured with the beans.

Coffee made from crusts of brown bread
(Not too strong for children's nerves),
Turnovers and twisted doughnuts,
Apple dumplings and preserves,
Toasted brown bread, both sides buttered,
Which would nearly burst our jeans;
But we'd pass our plate to mother
For a spoonful more of beans.

We piled them round a stake to dry
When we pulled them in the fall,
Hauled them in the ox-cart,
Knotted cedar, stakes and all,
Thrashed them on the big barn floor,
Winnowed them on a windy day,
Spread a sheet to catch the beans in,
And the shaft would blow away.

The old brick oven and fireplace
Are but memories of the past;
The boys who used to swing the flail
Are disappearing fast.
I'll tell you how the girls we knew,
Whose faces here are seen,
Just as their mothers taught them,
Proceed to cook a bean.

Two quarts of beans and four of water,
Set together overnight;
On the stove in the early morning,
Bring them to a boil is right.
Turn off all the surplus water,
Put them in the pot to bake,
Insert two pounds of good salt pork,
Through the rind cross-cuttings make.

Beans just even with the rind,
Cover them with water hot,
Then a tablespoon of salt,
And in the oven place the pot.
Each three hours you must add,
During twelve of steady heat,
Water hot, about a quart,
Then they're fit for kings to eat.

The more you use the earthen pot,
The better the beans will be;
Half a cup of black molasses
Makes them better still for me.
And when you warm them over,
Or fry them in a pan,
They're good enough for you and me
Or any other man.
