Contenders rise during search

by Pat MaGroin

The vice president of student affairs, Bomb U. Ashito, said today that the staff of the Maine Compost has been unanimously chosen as the first recipient of the now-annual Janet Cook Memorial award for shoddy journalism.

The Compost deserved it. They worked hard and long for the honor, Ashito said.

The award was given to the paper for its expose on the whereabouts of Aldo Moro, among other stories too numerous to mention, he said.

"The way in which they made up the story, well, every quote was either wrong or misquoted, I have to admit that," he said. "It was downright biased.

Stiff Overt, reporter on the Moro case, was ecstatic over the announcement of the award. We lied about his death, we lied about the Mercedes, I can't be happier." Overt said.

Receiving honorable mention was the Last Renaissance article on Dickey Lincoln Curry. Overt, recipient of the honorable mention in the contest, witched, "That story was true. How dare Ashito even consider our story for the award. The man was biased against our paper."

"I'm going to send a letter to the man and tell him he took our story out of context. Or maybe I should tell sheepish dogs lie," Overt said.

On the streets of Orono, reaction ranged from apathy to hostility. Jerome Nocchi, a student of UM, expressed one view when he said, "Like, who cares. Man, like, this really won't effect how much grass I smoke each week. Like, my main problem is getting it up."

Student Chris Whackitboy, opposition leader of campus, is credited with tipping Overt off to the article.

Student Whackitboy said. "I'm just proud to be involved in the whole mess."

The Compost receives Cook journalism award

Hannibal's Animals to get 'trip of a lifetime'

by E. Wrecked

For students with a genuine interest in pharmaceutical relaxation, Hannibal Hamlin Hall will be the place to live this fall.

For after three weeks of accepting suggestions and heated discussions, the Residential Strife Committee has decided to make the ancient dormitory into a drug endurance living center.

According to committee chairperson, Jane Crawl, the choice of the drug endurance lifestyle for Hannibal Hamlin was a necessary change.

"There are just so many students here today that dominate their lives with massive amounts of drugs," she said. "Seeing this trend, Residential Strife has chosen not to ignore this growing population of addicts any longer, and thus the new drug endurance dorm.

Entrance guidelines will be strict, according to Residential Strife Director H. Russ Melancholy. Each potential resident must show proof of his drug consumption, or purple eyeballs proven to be the result of a new type of LSD known only as "police blotters.""

"I feel these entrance requirements will weed out the pseudo-addicts," Melancholy said. "The purpose of this new drug endurance dorm is to provide a suitable lifestyle for the true consumers of mind-altering drugs.

Once a student passes the entrance requirements, he still must maintain a constant level of drug consumption.

Each student, upon entering Hannibal Hamlin, must consume either one-quarter pound of Marijuana per week or chemicals totaling $250 over a seven-day period.

"We had to put this stipulation into the lifestyle format because of the number of applicants we have," said entrance coordinator Greg Bone. "This is just another way to insure that we have quality people entering the program."

Bone, incidentally, also most generously volunteered to accept a position as residential director of the new dormitory.

"I feel I have some knowledge in the area which I can transfer over to the newer students," Bone said. "Of course, I'm always willing to learn, too."

Renovations will begin on the dorm once the infamous "Hannibal Animals" have left for summer vacation. Plans include installation of padded walls, black lights, and assorted drug-related paraphernalia in each room. The building is expected to hold 100 students after renovations are completed, and the total cost of the repairs has been estimated at $1.69 million, according to Melancholy.

"Nothing is too good for this breed of student," he said. "Like the Vietnam veterans, the drug-oriented student has always been shown in a negative light, and we're out to change this."

Students are generally ecstatic about the new lifestyle being offered at Hannibal Hamlin Hall. Applications for admittance into the dorm were accepted only on April 17, as an estimated 3,300 students stormed the Wells Commons business office for a chance for what one hopeful described as "the trip of a lifetime."

Surprisingly, the campus police do not expect problems with the new lifestyle, as most officers agree that if the "druggies will now play together, stay together and pray together."
The Maine Compost staff wishes everyone a happy summer.

Our fares are worth waiting for.

Do you know what a youth stand-by fare is? No? Well, it's an empty seat no one reserved at regular prices. Air New England is prepared to make those seats available to you for extraordinarily low prices if you're 21 or under. So you can fly somewhat and back on Air New England for a lot less than you ordinarily could. For example, a round-trip ticket from any of our New England cities to Boston only costs 50 bucks. (That's beans!) Or a round-trip from cities like Cleveland to Rochester, or Burlington to New York only costs 75 bucks. (How d'ya like them apples?) Fly stand-by with Air New England. Because if you can stand the thought of waiting a bit, you stand to save a lot of money.

Call your travel agent or us for prices and schedules.

Stoning reintroduced as form of punishment

by Aldo Moreo

In a move which is expected to take some of the workload off of the diversion program next year, in its handling of disciplinary and student illegal Servitude, the Student Illegality Servitude paralegal, Juan Simon, voted to set up a committee "to hear residents' complaints of student misconduct and judge them according to the severity of their actions," said Simon.

"From now on when students have legitimate complaints about noise, vandalism, thefts, or any other problem that arise in the dorms, they will take them to the complex committee," she said. "The committee will take all factors into account and pass judgment and sentence accordingly."

The new system calls for punishment by stoning. The committee will determine the severity of the offense and appoint a "Peer stoning group" which will vary in numbers according to the offense committed.

For example, an offense of playing a stereo too loud would result in the offender being stoned by a group of no more than seven residents.

Such offenses as excessive marijuana smoke emanating from under doors would result in stoning by a group of four. Morefan said, while an offense of leaving vomit on the hall floor would merit a stoning by five or six, depending on the amount left and the time taken to clean it up.

Although the number of persons involved directly in the stonings will vary, Morefan said, each person chosen would be allowed only five rocks to throw, a number equal to the number of complexes on campus. All stonings will take place on the Mall in an effort to provide the utmost humiliation to the offender.

"We hope this will take a big load off the diversion program," said Simon.

The police department has decided to trade in its four-door Dodge cruisers for XM-1 tanks, police spokesman Terry Birdbath explained today.

"You can't expect a really full-sized man to fit in one of those small little cruisers," said Birdbath. "We tried them out for a while, but our officers have trouble squeezing into them now."

Critics have charged that the officers are actually incredibly obese, and are just using the "full-sized man" ploy to hide this fact.

Birdbath dismisses any such charges.

"None of our officers weigh over 400 pounds. Any statement to the contrary is a vicious lie!" he exclaimed.

"We tried it down his throat, or he could have head off a parrot, "or law and order?" Birdbath asked, as he bit the hook had closing. White. intik. salmon. 32-42.

Cruisers will increase their speeds in excess of 50 miles per hour, however, Birdbath brushes aside such comments.

"What do you want, to save a little money?" Birdbath asked, as he bit the head off a parrot, "or law and order?"

Tanks replace cruisers on campus police force

Death watch

What's all this I hear about Student Lethal Services? The Student Babblement wanted to take away all of SLS's money because they didn't provide services for enough people. But who really wants to see people die all over campus, anyway? They should fund Student Lethal Services all the money they can if it means killing fewer people. Administrative sources have repeatedly said that there are too many students being housed on campus. One would think that the administrators would fund SLS if they really were worried about the overpopulation on campus.

Now, as what appears to be the ultimate copout, Student Babblement has decided to make students pay a "losers fee" in order to receive valuable services from SLS. Who is going to pick the losers? If a fraternity person makes the selection, he's going to pick a bunch of granolas. If a dorm rat has hishdrants, he'll probably pick a granola too. The off-campus students are not being treated fairly. They are the ones that must buy their own food and pay the rent and the oil. Why should they be forced to pay a five dollar losers fee so they may be tortured by Student Legal Services? It's just not fair.

Also, where does Student Lethal Services get off maiming and killing innocent college students? It's one thing to rid a beautiful campus such as this of drug addicts, thieves and women who are here for the sole purpose of jinding a husband, but what about the rank and file student who trolls for long hours just to maintain a C average. If someone chooses him to pay the losers fee, then the student places himself involuntarily at the mercy of the SLS. The whole situation just plain stinks. Student Lethal Services is a reputed underling of the Anti-Life Defamation League, while Student Babblement is an annual unanimous choice of the NCAADrunkenness Team. It is a truly sad state of affairs when killers and just plain wangers are telling everybody who should live and who should die. Things have to be changed before Aldo Moso, who is reportedly in the area, takes control and changes this entire campus into the trunk of a Mercedes Benz for his own perverse reasons.

The time has come for action. Oh, did you say Student Legal Services? To hell with the people that really know, have a happy summer because Student Legal Services says it might be your last.

Squirrel power
Sharlie Merrie was exasperated. When The Prudent Babblement decided that it would no longer oppose his stand on clearing the university mall, Merrie was destined to lose this battle unless he offered to charge-shooting those venerable elm trees that have graced this place since God created Adam and Eve.

His plan was threefold. First, he circulated a flyer stating that the elms have engaged in unnatural three-way relations in broad daylight. Second, he asked the Complete Tree Institute to investigate allegations that the elms that have already been cut down have been used in the production of marijuana rolling papers. Third, he went up in front of the Prudent Babblement and proclaimed he did not want to go out on a limb and defend these organic growths which have obviously presented a bountancy to many a frisbee player.

The clencher for Merrie's pathetic plan to ruin the aesthetics of the mall was to propose a raise for all members of Prudent Babblement. Merrie's plan was whole heartedly adopted by the Prudent Babblement. During these hard economic times, Merrie's plan was O.K. because money would not be involved, simply a little rhythm method and preference of left or right hand.

However, Merrie's battle had just begun. It seems the administration had a different plan for the mall elms.

Vice President of Studpid Affairs Chump Acidid proposed to the Broad Crusades that the elms be cut down and milled so that they could be used to build a student-faculty weekend retreat. The plan included salvaging parts of Coburn and East Annex for the purpose of adding some historical esthetics to the new structure.

In addition, the elms would be used to buttress the sagging top floor of the Memorial Union. But the final outcome of the elms' dilemma was not determined by either the Prudent Babblement or the Administration. In actuality, the elms' fate lay in the hands of an uncontrollable factor.

The future of the elms depended on the resistance of a few strong beings in the campus squirrels. These furry little critters are a great lot. They simply refuse to allow their nesting grounds, which have graced this site of many a menace de trois, to become the site of another bureaucratic mishap.

This peckish group is nailing themselves to the elms until the day they can stop the survival of the tall timbers and an additional $2.5 billion for loss of blood.

Merrie has proven to be a sympathetic to these threats, but the squirrels have insisted that their voices will be heard. The blood bank will be the judge.
Dear Editor:

I greatly enjoyed the Maine Campus's insightful coverage of the Extinguished Liars Series. Through the eloquent efforts of ELS Chairman Peter Slabbe, we have found some of America's most ruthless, I mean dedicated, citizens.

Gordon Giddy should be admired for his unrelenting devotion to his boss and amazing ability to stick his fingers in candle flames and burn himself with cigarette lighters.

General Eastmoreland was an inspiration to a generation of young American men. Thanks to him, thousands of those poor little dolls that work at the news stand have sent your little obituary.

S&M bondage a success

To the Editor:

This is a letter of thanks to all the hundreds of people who made the S&M Bondage Symposium a BIG success. This annual event sponsored by the UMO Orgy Club wouldn't have been possible without the 500 cases of sharpie, and 40 yards of plastic sheets that were donated to the club by Mr. Slabbe and the Mazola Corp. On hand for the event was the Moona Base disco with DJ E.Z. Whippit.

Those poor old ladies

To the Editor:

Paul Fillmore, you ignorant duf.

How can you dare label those curies who work in the check-cashing service "malignant old Ladies"? Those dolls give me twice the amount of the check everytime I go to see them. They know they're comming a felony, but they are trying to rid themselves of the undeserved reputation that they so stupidly gave them.

I'm a mother, a "malignant old lady" is your mother?

Another thing, those sweet little dolls that work at the news stand have sent your name to the National Enquirer because of the bastardly attack that you leveled at them. You just wait and see what the National Enquirer is going to do to you.

Wait a minute, this week's edition just came in. Let me read here for a second..."Paul Fillmore, an infamous reporter for the National Enquirer, was seen stepping out behind the Moona Base disco with..."

Paul, a malignant old lady is too good for your type.

Sincerely,
A concerned check casher

James

Hurting junta needs art commandos

Dear Vincent Heartless:

I wanna you send me more art commandos: you captured last week. I need many more men like them real quick. After you get done torturing them, ship them down here to El Salvador so I can screw them really good really good.

I hear you guys up in Maine don't take no sheet from nobody. When does art commandos get outa solitary confinement, please don't hurt them no more and let em come to El Salvador. We need more colonels ever' day, because the rebels down here don't take no sheet either. If you don't vink dey will be good colonels, maybe we can train dem for our death squads. They might wanna help burn rebel villages or somethin'. I dunno, we just need help for the junta, because Precedent Raygun ain't sending enough ammo and helicopters, and we need some fenders and windows for our Mercedes real bad. De ones we got are fulla bullet holes, and the tape decks are busted, too.

So please, Perfesser Heartless, let those boys go. Put 'em on a plane with some M-16's and Urs, some nunchaku if you got some extra, and don't forget the Mercedes parts. If these guys ain't no good as commandos, maybe dey can fix the tape decks for us. You gotta help me, I just started workin' for dis junta because I got kicked outa my last yob.

Sincerely,
Colonel Jose Napoleon Carlos Pedro Lopez Poppo Jorge Anastazio Somotra

Sorry about pools of vomit

To the Editor:

I'm really sorry I wrote to the Maine Campus complaining about the pools of vomit in Gannett Hall.

Like everyone else that lives here in the "Crepusule of Stewart Commons", I realize that one must adapt to diverse living conditions. Thus, I have come to the conclusion that vomit is, in fact, a welcome addition to any living environment.

While some residents of Gannett will deny to the end that there is vomit flowing down the hallways, I will be the first to admit that I have donated my share of the slimy substance to the splendor that is Gannett Hall.

The fact that vomit is the most prevalent decoration in the dorm should not be taken as the least bit degrading by the campus at large. In fact, most Gannett residents take pride in the work involved in creating this aquatic monstrosity. Many beers were consumed, many fingers entered many mouths, not to mention a large supply of pea soup which was prepared by those "malignant old ladies" that thrive on creating these grotesque concoctions.

But since my dominators won't come out of the closet and admit their admiration for the spectacle of streaming vomit, then it is my responsibility to inform the community of this most unique of interior decorations.

Sincerely dried up,
Jim Bogus

I need my machine gun

To the Editor:

Just because Reagan got shut at doesn't mean that you have the right to impose gun control. We can't help it if he is careless with whom he chooses to protect him! If gun control was in effect, I'm sure I would feel the brunt of it all.

You see, I own a submachine gun. I think I have a right as an American citizen to defend and protect myself and my dorm room from the UMOPD. Those slimes have nothing better to do than to wander around my hallway and bathroom looking for a beer in someone's hand. I need my machine gun to protect me from these beer-takers and if gun control is put into effect I won't be able to defend my keg parties or my Jack Daniels. This is a life and death situation and not just something I dreamed up during an acid trip. Try to understand the wants and needs of an Orono college student who is protecting himself from the Zoo! It's the only way out.

Sincerely,
"Heartless, let those boys go. Put 'em on a plane with some M-16's and Urs, some nunchaku if you got some extra, and don't forget the Mercedes parts. Reagan says: "Let them eat bullets"

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan today, appearing before a joint meeting of Congress to explain how he planned to cut out social-welfare programs entirely.

"I let them eat bullets," Reagan said.

"It's about time that those human drags who make up a large percentage of our population realize that I'm going to run this country only for my rich friends, not for pariahs that don't have any money," Reagan explained.

Reagan said that a complete cut in social welfare programs would immediately bolstred the lagging enrolments in the armed forces, because most poor people would have to join the service in order to get enough to eat.

"All the tax could find jobs for a sub-minimum-wage of about 50c per hour Reagan said.

"That's enough to eat," Reagan said.

In other announcements, Reagan:

- Announced pollution control standards for trees. All trees will have to purchase a catalytic converter by December of 1982 or be cut down.
- Established a game reserve for Cubans. Reagan said about the only thing he could figure to do will be to hunt them and sell the hides to the Chinese.
- Proclaimed that French-kissing in public carried a five-year mandatory uprison sentence for the first offense, and death for a second offense.
- Said that he planned to cut out all social-welfare programs entirely.

"I let them eat bullets," Reagan said.

"I'm just sick of this Bullshit, man, having to give everything up for these rich SOBs while they buy champagne with the money they get from my broken back," said its national organizer, Jerome Nesbitt. "So I decided to cut my food budget by eating some rich people out in the country and I get a free TV set to boot. A lot of my friends decided that I had the right idea, and it seems to have caught on all over."

To date, over 15,000 rich people have been eaten in the past week. Despite protests from Exxon and other large multinational corporations, the fad only seems to be increasing.

Queen denies palomino charge

Top ranked tennis player, Bally John Queen, disputed charges of obesity yesterday regarding an affair she was alleged to have had with her horse yesterday.

"The collapse seems to have caused by a surge of quality homegrown in countries which usually are steady consumers of Columbian Marijuana, a resurgence of LSD and other drugs on the world market, and overspeculation in the Columbian market itself."

"Let them eat bullets," Reagan said.

News Briefs

- Absence makes the hog grow harder.

BOGOTA, COLOMBIA (PP) - The price of Columbian marijuana fell in the dollar today, sending a shockwave around the civilized world that may cause a collapse of the world-wide economic market.

In New York, stock-holders were seen jumping out of windows on Wall Street. In Europe, several governments fell, whilst, others mobilized their armies to deal with rampaging mobs. In South America, three cities were destroyed by thermonuclear devices and Colombians officers were preparing for the worst.

"That's where they all came from anyway," Reagan explained.

Confessions of an abused cheerleader

by Scoop McCarble

Many little girls dream of growing up to become cheerleaders. In the spotlight during the big game, there can't be any greater thrill.

But cheerleading isn't all glamour and broad-shouldered football players. "They used to make me practice splits until I hurt all over," said Miss X, a former varsity cheerleader at UMZero. "It was hell."

Miss X is young, petite, but not what could be called a knockout. "I never got the captain of the team. Even the managers ignored me."

Cheerleading has been Miss X's life. But unlike baseball to Chico Escuela, Cheerleading hasn't been "bey, bey good to Miss X."

It all started back in seventh grade, when Miss X got her first pom-poms. "I didn't want to try out, but my mother, who was a cheerleader, forced me. Also the peer pressure was great for girls with big mouths and any sort of physical potential to cheer."

Miss X's first indication that cheerleading wasn't for her came when she was a sophomore in high school. "Some of us cheerleaders and a group of football players were out on a pier. The others started to pout off. When I hollered 'How about me?,' they stuffed me into a trunk of a car. I couldn't turn and hop around mindlessly. It was murder."

Miss X is just now coming out of therapy after the abuse she claims to have taken from her cheering supervisors. "They hit me about the head and shoulders with my own pom-poms. And I shudder to think what they did to me with my megaphone."

What Miss X found most shattering was riding on the shoulders of her stuntman, "I enjoyed myself, but I felt so embarrassed to have anyone that intimate with me that I hardly knew."

Miss X is nearly totally recovered. Her doctor, Dr. Mannheim Whipsinger, said, "She no longer fears pom-poms. She's come to terms with her past. She feels no great compulsion to giggle when in groups. It is still psychologically impossible for her to go into a split. But that's all right, because the ability to split isn't in demand in society as a whole."

Miss X is now at another university, majoring in fashion design. But her shattered past still pursues her. "There's a night when I dream of myself shouting 'UMO, UMO' into a megaphone, but there's no one in the stadium."

Mertz drafted

ST. LOUIS—The St. Louis football Cardinals announced their twelfth round draft choice today. It was Fred Mertz, formerly of "I Love Lucy" fame.

Mertz, a 5'10", 220-pound fullback out of Desilu Studios, said when reached at his Hollywood home, "Gosh, Ricky, what should I do?" The Cards also signed Ricky Ricardo to a free agent contract as a place kicker and halftime show. An understated Ricardo said "Lucy! Where are my drums?"

Also signed as free agents were Ricky Nelson, of "Ozzie and Harriet," by Baltimore, Robert Young, of "Father Knows Best," by Detroit, and Beaver Cleaver, of "Leave it to Beaver," by New Orleans.

Kaz retires

by Slim Price

"It was a pitiful sight indeed which awaited reporters at a hastily summoned Boston Red Sox press conference Thursday morning as veteran slugger Yale Kazmerzki finally called it quits.

Supported by two unidentifiable men in white suits, Kaz switched dotted and rolled his eyes back in his head, while mumbling over and over reporters: "I can't take it any longer...I just can't take it..."

Fans and the press alike were astounded at Kaz reactions when Red Sox pitcher John Twodoor advanced to the podium where he stood, evidently to wish the great man in his retirement. When Twodoor extended his hand, Kaz promptly bit three fingers off the pitcher's throwing hand, screaming "Now maybe you'll be able to get it over the plate! You bastards!"
