Court decides for River Plex

Neighbors say they will not appeal ruling

by Don Linscott
Staff Writer

The dispute over building permits in the court case between Stillwater residents and the Old Town Zoning Board of Appeals came to a close Thursday when a superior court judge ruled that the permits issued to the developers of the Stillwater River Plex apartments were valid.

Active-retired justice Ian MacInnes ruled, in a six-page decision, that the Zoning Board of Appeals was justified in its earlier decision against local residents' complaints that the permits were invalid because there was no evidence of construction on the site within six months of their being issued.

MacInnes' decision said, "... this court finds that the Old Town Zoning Board of Appeals did not abuse its discretion, did not commit any errors of law, and its findings of fact were supported by substantial evidence in the record."

The dispute over the 12-unit apartment complex began in December 1983 when residents, lead by Richard Needham, first challenged the construction before the Board of Appeals.

They said the building permits that had been issued to developers (ALCO) had expired because work on the site had not been started in the six-month period allotted in the Old Town building code. When the board decided for ALCO, the neighborhood people appealed to superior court.

While the appeal was pending, residents challenged the student-housing complex a second time before the appeals board claiming that the complex was being built on-site rather than being assembled modularly as was originally planned. Again the board decided in favor of ALCO. Residents did not appeal this decision.

The 18-month struggle has left residents feeling cheated by members of the Old Town City Council and at times created tension between the students living in the apartments and people of the neighborhood.

Some Old Town residents believe the conflict had a direct effect on local government as City Manager Stanton McGowen has announced his resignation and City Council Chairman Clark Young, decided not to seek re-election.

Needham has said he and the neighbors will let the issue rest and will not appeal any further.

Part owner of ALCO, Carl H. Snow Jr. said he is glad it is over and was relieved that MacInnes decided in favor of River Plex.

Brennan prepares new legislative package

AUGUSTA (AP) — Speaking with businessmen in Boston recently, Maine Gov. Joseph E. Brennan heard new complaints about the cost of doing business in Maine.

Specifically, the topic was Workers' Compensation and its costs to employers.

Over the weekend, following a three-day round of seminars with his Cabinet in Castine, Brennan said insurance for injured workers would probably be one focus of his new legislative package.

"One of the problems we have, that comes up repeatedly, is the concern raised in regard to the cost of Workers Compensation," Brennan said Saturday.

Saying no final decisions on the approach to cost-cutting have been made, Brennan said, "It's nice to have the best Workers Compensation benefits in the nation. But it doesn't do you much good if it results in us not having certain businesses here."

He added: "And the other concern that is coming up repeatedly in this whole Workers Compensation area is some hint that it may be contributing to a little, a slight erosion of the work ethic in certain areas."

Asked if he would propose that benefits for injured workers be reduced, Brennan said, "What I'm saying is, we're looking at the whole picture."

He said cost reductions for employers would help stimulate economic development in Maine, where there is "so much more to be done, particularly in northern Maine and eastern Maine."

In a Blaine House interview, Brennan also said the administration was studying a variety of proposals to promote highway safety.

Brennan said the administration was "strongly considering" bills to make motorcyclists wear helmets and auto drivers use seat belts, as well as new anti-drunken driving legislation aimed at "the heavy drinker."

Brennan said, "We seem to be keeping the moderate drinker off the road, but not the heavy drinker. So the accident or fatality rate is going up."

Besides toughening the drunken-driving laws, he said, the administration may extend its road safety approach to bikers.

"I know it's nice to be macho and say, 'Let the rider decide.' But the reality is when these people get hurt, many of them have no insurance," said Brennan. "It's government that pays the bill. When government pays that bill, those are monies that are not available to address the needs of education and to address the needs of our elderly."

Similarly, the tentative proposal for a mandatory seat belt law is rooted in both safety and economic concerns, he said.

"Statistical studies indicate that more lives can be saved, with a very substantial reduction in injuries, by a strong seat belt law even than by tough drunk-driving laws."

Brennan, a Democrat in the midst of his second term, said he would also outline for lawmakers the "tremendous pressure" the state faces in meeting demands for services, at a time of reduced federal aid and scarce budget resources of its own.

"I hope I can persuade them that we've got to be careful with the taxpayers' money," he said, describing

Four arrested in gambling raid

SANFORD (AP) — Police burst into an alleged after-hours gambling house during the weekend and arrested four people on aggravated unlawful gambling warrants. Twenty-nine others received summonses for lesser charges, police said Sunday.

About 20 officers participated in the Saturday-morning raid at the site of a former pharmacy in this southern Maine town. Authorities said the raid capped a three-week undercover investigation in which a police officer from Rochester, N.H., was able to infiltrate the group.

About $1,000 in cash was seized, along with decks of cards, dice, tables and other gambling paraphernalia, said Sanford police Capt. Philip Cote. Beer and liquor were also seized, he said.

The principal games were blackjack and craps, said Cote, who added that the investigation began about a week after reports of illegal gambling activities started circulating.

Police raiding the site burst in through a rear door. One man tried to escape through the front door, but ran into the arms of a policeman there.

Detective Stephen Cobbett said police believe the gambling operations went on during weekends and that gambling began after other public places closed for the night.

Gerard J. Bourassa, 43, of Sanford; Donald M. Gauthier, 34, of Springvale; and Edna L. Chapman, 49, of Springvale, were arrested at the scene on aggravated unlawful gambling charges, said Detective David Cleveland.

Arrested after the raid on the same charge was Diane C. Binette, 32, of Springvale.

The four were released on bail and were scheduled to be arraigned this week.

Lack of awareness contributes to UMO energy waste

by Rod Eves
Staff Writer

Lack of public awareness is the leading problem in electrical and heat energy loss at UMO, said the Energy Advisory Committee Friday in its first meeting of the 1984-85 year.

Alden E. Stuart, chairman of the committee, said attempts will be made to "re-educate building managers, custodians and students" as to how energy can best be conserved on campus. He said this will be done through training sessions, educational meetings and an energy conservation newsletter.

"There are simple steps that all of us can take" to help conserve energy which are not being taken now, Stuart said.

In an Oct. 15 letter to the university president, vice presidents, deans and building managers, the committee cited failure to turn off lights when not in use, to report overheated areas and to close or report open windows as the most frequent examples of unnecessary energy waste.

"Over the last five years, large savings have been made at this university through major energy conservation modifications," Stuart said. "The question now is what can further be done?"

Among the modifications made at UMO is a night-weekend setback system in which lights are turned off and the heat is turned down automatically in 16 buildings when they are not in use.

James Treadwell, temperature control supervisor, said each of the 16 buildings has as many as 200 electronic sensors which detect the outdoor temperature. This information is then relayed to a central computer which regulates the temperature inside.

"Temperatures are set at 55 degrees at night and on the weekends and at 68 degrees during the day," Treadwell said. "This has saved us a lot of money."

The committee reported that over the last 10 years, total energy consumption (heating and lighting) per square foot of building area was reduced by 20 percent.

However, in 1983-84, UMO spent more than $3 million on electricity and heating oil and it is $99,357 ahead, of that pace so far this year.

"This increase is mostly in the area of electricity," Treadwell said. "There has been both a rate increase and a six percent increase in consumption. We don't have a good handle on electricity."

Treadwell said the 16 modified buildings were those used for academics and that they had been the "hogs" when it came to energy consumption. He said many of the older buildings could not be fitted with the night-weekend setback system due to "outdated heaters and ventilation systems" and that the university currently lacks the funds to replace them with newer equipment.

The two biggest consumers of energy are now the library and the Memorial Union, Treadwell said.

"The key to the whole system, however, are the building managers," Treadwell said. "They must notify us if something goes wrong or the whole system collapses."

He said if faculty, staff or students notice an overheated area, they should report it to the building manager, who will then report it to him.

Director of Residential Life H. Ross Moriarty said the dormitories do not have the night-weekend setback systems because students tend to stay up later at night to study.

He also said, however, that under the "zoning" system now used in the dorms, some rooms can be too hot while others remain too cold. "The thermostat for an entire section is located in one room," Moriarty said. "If that student is a fresh air freak (keeps his window open) then the rest of the section gets too hot."

"Students are not supposed to use appliances in the dorms, but they do," Moriarty said. "Legally, we're not allowed to enter the rooms to search for them."

Moriarty said he also advises students not to use portable heaters in their rooms, since this can also affect the temperature of an entire section.

President Reagan's re-election as a result, in part, of his anti-tax statements.

While challenging the White House claims on taxes and denouncing federal deficits as "an absolute disgrace," Brennan said, "I think there were some messages in the last national election on taxes."

Saying that most details of his legislative package are still under review, Brennan said the administration was considering a plan to centralize state government's far-flung computer network, possibly under the direction of a new Cabinet-level office.

Brennan also pledged to work cooperatively with Democratic leaders of the new Legislature, including the likely Senate president, Sen. Charles P. Pray, D-Millinocket.

Brennan publicly endorsed Sen. Peter W. Danton, D-Saco, over Pray before Pray's 12-11 victory Thursday night in the Senate Democratic caucus. Democrats retained their control of both houses in the Nov. 6 voting. The incoming Senate will be tilted toward the Democrats by a 24-11 margin.

"I would have preferred Peter Danton," said Brennan. "I respect Senator Pray. I will be able to work with him and the leaders that have been chosen. We have a responsibility to conduct ourselves consistent with the best interest of the people of this state."

Refusal to grant visas renews law debate

WASHINGTON (AP) → State Department decisions to deny visas to a group of Salvadoran women and grant one to an Italian playwright have renewed debate over a 1950s law enacted over the veto of then-President Harry Truman.

The Reagan administration Saturday rejected visa requests from four of five Salvadoran women on grounds that they were involved in terrorist activities against the government of El Salvador. The women, recipients of the Robert F. Kennedy Human Rights Award, were to attend a ceremony here Nov. 20.

That action came less than three weeks after the administration, reversing an earlier policy, agreed to let Dario Fo visit New York where his play, "Accidental Death of an Anarchist" premiered on Broadway.

Both cases were considered under the 1952 Immigration and Nationality Act, which the State Department says is vital to national security and serves to protect the United States' interest.

The law is "not unduly restrictive, but represents a reasonable and sensible response to real dangers in the real world," said State Department spokesman Richard Weeks.

Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., and several civil libertarians disagree. They say the law in its current form is too broad, infringes on the rights of the American public and permits the government to exclude aliens because of their political beliefs.

Frank will introduce a bill in Congress in January to rewrite the law. A House subcommittee held hearings on Frank's measure last June, but no action was taken.

"Americans should have the right to listen to whomever they want ... Besides, these policies are damaging to us internationally," Frank said.

People's actions — not their ideas — should be the grounds for rejecting visas, he said.

At the State Department, Weeks said, "We strongly believe the two key sections would be retained in their current form."

Over the years, the law has been used to bar from the United States politicians, writers and others deemed to present a threat to America.

Among those who have been kept out of the United States in the past several years are Hortensia Allende, widow of former Chilean president Salvador Allende; Irish activist Bernadette Devlin McAliskey; Jagjit Singh Chauhan, leader of a movement for an independent homeland for the Sikhs; Nobel Prize-winning author Gabriel Garcia Marquez, and writer Carlos Fuentes.

Rightist Roberto d'Aubuisson of El Salvador was refused a visa during the Carter administration but was granted permission to come by the Reagan administration.

There are two key sections of the law. One prevents the entry of aliens who seek to engage in activities that would be "prejudicial to the public interest" or subversive to the national security.

The other bars those who are — or were — anarchists, communists or affiliated with any organization, advocating communist doctrine.

But, under a 1976 amendment to the act, if membership in a communist party is the only grounds for denial, it is automatically waived, Weeks said. The person denied a visa must present a security risk.

Search continues for missing 8-year-old girl

EXETER, N.H. (AP) — Police officers, firefighters and volunteers continued searching this weekend for clues to the whereabouts of Tammy Belanger, who disappeared Tuesday while walking to school — but they found nothing.

Meanwhile, the chapel of a local nursing home is open round-the-clock for anyone who wants to pray for the girl's safety.

Police have said they think the eight-year-old was kidnapped.

An emergency dispatch in Exeter said Saturday's search centered on gravel pits and ponds in neighboring Brentwood, where at least 50 people tried to find the girl or some sign of her.

The search centered Friday on a gravel pit in Kensington after searchers found footprints and drag marks leading to the edge of a pond. Footprints alone led away from the water, leading searchers to believe something had been dragged to the pond and thrown in.

Divers and searchers in boats found no clues to the girl's whereabouts.

"I'm satisfied that there is nothing here," said Kensington police chief Michael Aquilina.

Friday night about 300 townspeople attended a special mass for Tammy.

"You have become a part of everyone here," Father Lawrence Lennis told the girl's parents and older brother and sister. "All of us will continue to reach out to you with our prayers our hope and our love."

While the special service was underway in Exeter, about 60 people were meeting in Manchester to form a state group to help young children who might become victims of kidnapping or abuse.

John Sobolesky, president of the Society for Young Victims in Massachusetts, told the group that 2 million children a year leave home for one reason or another and 50,000 are never heard from again.

The group set up some committees to look into various projects that can be started to help potential victims.

They include having volunteers teach school children how to avoid abductions and setting up "safe houses," in which residents who qualify put decals in their front windows to signify that the house is somewhere that a child in trouble can run for help.

The meeting had been planned before Tammy Belanger's disappearance, but Sobolesky told the gathering that the girl's disappearance shows that kidnapping can happen anywhere.

Satellites returned in good condition

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Two wayward satellites retrieved by Discovery's astronauts were lifted from the space shuttle cargo bay Sunday, and technicians said that except for a few nicks they appeared to be in good condition.

The Palapa-B2 and Westar 6 communications satellites were returned to Earth on Friday when Discovery and its crew of four men and a woman landed here to conclude the first space salvage mission.

"They appear to be in good shape," NASA spokesman Jim Ball said Sunday. "But until experts examine them, we won't know how much internal refurbishment will be needed."

A few solar cells, which draw electrical power from the sun, were nicked when astronauts Joe Allen and Dale Gardner wrestled the satellites into the cargo bay during two bold space walks.

Insurance companies paid the National Aeronautics and Space Administration $5.5 million for the retrieval and will pay Hughes Aircraft plant, which built the satellites, an additional $5 million for guiding them into position for the shuttle recovery and repairing them.

The companies hope to resell them for about $50 million to recoup some of the $180 million in claims they paid out when the satellites' rockets misfired and left them in useless orbits in February.

Lloyd's of London, the principal insurer, reported Saturday that it has received offers to buy the satellites.

Holy Cross College scored 17 points in the second half to break a 7-7 tie and defeat the UMO football team 24-7 in the Black Bears last game this season Saturday at Alumni Field. The loss gives Maine a 5-6 record overall. The Bears finished with a 2-3 record in the Yankee Conference.

Holy Cross is now 8-2. The Crusaders, ranked 16th in Division I-AA before the game, will play Boston College Dec. 1 in its last game of the season. Holy Cross now leads the series against Maine 5-0-1.

UMO head coach Ron Rogerson said Holy Cross "is a good football team."

"We originally decided that if we could get to 5-5 we'd let it fly today, and we did," Rogerson said. "I wouldn't ask anymore of our kids, they did the best they could."

Maine started its season with four consecutive losses before winning five of its last six games and four in a row. Before the HC game the Bears had consecutive wins over the universities of Massachusetts (20-7) and Connecticut (13-10) and Northeastern (20-17) and Howard (27-23) universities to raise their record to 5-5.

With the score tied 7-7 Holy Cross had first down and goal at the Maine four-yard line. Fullback Chuck Doyle ran right and was stopped by Skip Foley for no gain. Tailback Sandy McMurtry touchdown capped off an eight-play, 51-yard drive and came with 4:30 remaining in the third quarter.

Tony Melink kicked the extra point to make the score 14-7. It was Melink's 120 career extra point and broke the New

Jan. 30 will be a night to be at the Alford Arena. It will be on that Tuesday when the Maine Black Bear hockey team will try to avenge this past weekend's two losses to the Huskies of Northeastern University.

Maine lost Friday's game 8-2 and dropped a 5-4 overtime game on Saturday which saw a team brawl at the end of the second period and more altercations at the end of the game resulting in game suspensions for eight players.

Senior Mike O'Brien scored his first goal of the year 5:08 into the overtime Saturday to give the Huskies the 5-4 come-from-behind victory after trailing Maine 4-1 late in the second period.

After O'Brien's goal Huskie Jim Madigan made obscene gestures to Maine coach Shawn Walsh as he was making his way across the ice to congratulate Huskie coach Fern Flaman. Ron Hellen then stepped in and the assistant captain and Madigan began mixing it up as other players joined in.

As a result of the altercations, Maine's Hellen and Jay Mazur and Northeastern's Madigan and Mark Lori were given one-game suspensions.

College football's No. 1 and 2 teams lose

The Associated Press

A thunderous one-two punch flattened the high hopes of a number of college football teams Saturday, and no one was nailed harder than the nation's top two teams.

The Orange Bowl was a close third, behind No. 1 Nebraska and runner-up South Carolina in going down for the count. And licking its chops is the Holiday Bowl, whose $470,000 payoff is petty cash compared with some other games but which may luck into the nation's No. 1 team in Brigham Young.

After defeating Utah 24-14, 11-0 BYU is the nation's only unbeaten major-college team.

Despite sixth-ranked Oklahoma's 17-7 upset of Nebraska and the 38-21 anchor that unheralded Navy dropped on South Carolina, the major bowls all came up with teams from the grab-bag.

Eighth-ranked Washington, which blew its shot at the Rose Bowl last week by losing to Southern California, rebounded to beat Washington State 38-29.

And guess what the Huskies got? The Orange Bowl, which was all set to hand South Carolina its first major bowl bid. The Gamecocks probably will wind up in either the Gator or Fiesta Bowl.

The Orange Bowl still doesn't know who will be its host team. Oklahoma and fourth-ranked Oklahoma State, a 16-10 winner over Iowa State, will play for that honor next week, but a tie will send Nebraska to Miami. Otherwise, the Cornhuskers will be in the Sugar Bowl.

As if to emphasize how crazy this season has become, although Nebraska is down to a slim chance at the Orange Bowl, the Cornhuskers still lead the Big Eight with a 6-1 record to 5-1 for Oklahoma and Oklahoma State.

The Sugar Bowl may learn Tuesday who will be its host team. Fifth-ranked Florida captured its first Southeastern Conference championship with a 25-17 decision over Kentucky. But the SEC's Executive Committee will meet Tuesday to decide what to do about the Gators, who are appealing an NCAA probation.

If the SEC lifts Florida's crown, 18th-ranked Auburn, a 21-12 winner over No. 15 Georgia, would go to New Orleans - provided it beats Alabama Dec. 1. Otherwise, it would be ninth-ranked LSU, which lost to Mississippi State 16-14.

The Cotton Bowl, which was sweating a week ago when Texas lost to Houston and Miami was beaten by Maryland, recovered nicely. It nailed down 13th ranked Boston College and Doug Flutie, major-college football's all-time passing and total offense leader, after a 24-16 triumph over Syracuse.

All this is unofficial. Especially since Jim Brock, executive director of the Cotton Bowl, was instrumental in getting the official selection date changed from Nov. 17 to Nov. 24, while Flynn is a former president of the NCAA, which frowns on early acceptances.

It is so unofficial that Boston College is rooting for 10th-ranked Texas as its opponent. The Longhorns moved into the Southwest Conference lead by beating No. 12 Texas Christian 44-23.

But who wants to play Brigham Young?

"The pressure is on us a little more to go for a ranking team more than anything and give BYU its best shot at winning the national championship," John Reid, executive director of the Holiday Bowl, said Sunday.

To that end, the Holiday is trying to work a deal with the Fiesta Bowl between No. 14 Miami, which was idle Saturday, and the Oklahoma-Oklahoma State loser.

The Rose Bowl, of course, has no such problems. It just takes the Big Ten and Pac-10 champs - Southern Cal and Ohio State.

Seventh-ranked Southern Cal, which won its "trip" to Pasadena a week ago, stumbled Saturday and lost to UCLA 29-10. Meanwhile, No. 11 Ohio State captured the Big Ten crown with a 21-6 victory over Michigan, which wound up 6-5, its poorest record in Coach Bo Schembechler's 16 seasons.

Rounding out The Associated Press Top Twenty, No. 16 Southern Methodist beat Texas Tech 31-0 - the Mustangs reportedly will play UCLA in the Aloha Bowl, but the Fiesta has suddenly expressed a growing interest in the Bruins.

No. 17 Florida State whipped Tennessee-Chattanooga 37-0, No. 19 Virginia was tied by North Carolina 24-24, and Maryland drubbed No. 20 Clemson 41-23.

Oklahoma beat Nebraska on two touchdown runs by Danny Bradley, Tim Lashar's tie-breaking 32-yard field goal early in the fourth quarter and a sensational goal-line stand in the final six minutes.

Navy stunned South Carolina on scoring passes of 15 and 11 yards from Bob Misch to Chris Weiler, two short TD runs by Mike Smith, and Rich Clouse's 53-yard jaunt. The Middles had a 38-7 lead before surrendering two late scores.

Patriots improve record to 8-4 with 50-17 win

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — New England quarterback Tony Eason passed for 292 yards and four touchdowns Sunday, three of them to Derrick Ramsey in the first half, as the Patriots cruised to an easy 50-17 National Football League victory over the sluggish Indianapolis Colts.

The three touchdown passes to Ramsey helped the Patriots to a 26-10 lead at halftime, and a 12-yard scoring completion to Stanley Morgan iced the game in the third quarter.

The victory lifted New England to 8-4 for the season, in second place in the American Football Conference's Eastern Division. Indianapolis, in fourth place in the AFC East, fell to 4-8 with the loss in the first career professional start for quarterback Art Schlichter.

Eason, who took over as the Patriots' starting quarterback early in the season from veteran Steve Grogan, hit a club record 29 of 42 passes, breaking his own mark of 28 completions set earlier this year against the New York Jets.

He gave New England a 7-0 lead on its second possession with a 4-yard scoring pass midway through the first quarter.

He added a 25-yard touchdown pass to Ramsey late in the opening period. Ramsey's third touchdown catch, tying a team record for scoring receptions in one game, was a 26-yarder three minutes before halftime.

Ramsey, a seven-year veteran, finished with 108 receiving yards.

Schlichter was the third starting quarterback in the past three weeks for Indianapolis, which ranks last in the NFL in total offense. He accounted for the Colts' only touchdowns on a 13-yard run in the first half and a 13-yard pass to Bernard Henry in the final quarter.

Schlichter's scoring run pulled the Colts within nine points, 16-7, but New England countered with the third touchdown pass to Ramsey, and the two teams got offsetting field goals in the final minute of the half.

The Patriots' Tony Franklin kicked his second field goal, a 40-yarder, early in the fourth quarter, and Mose Tatupu scored on a 1-yard touchdown run with five minutes remaining and on a 20-yard run with 46 seconds to go.

Indianapolis had the first chance to score after Larry Anderson returned the opening kickoff 69 yards to the Patriots'

27. But three short runs left the Colts 1 yard short of the first down, and a fourth-down rushing attempt by Randy McMillan was fumbled for an 8-yard loss.

The Colts managed only one first down in the opening period.

The Patriots' first score was set up by a 20-yard punt return by Irving Fryar to the Indianapolis 38. Eason passed for 5 yards and 24 yards to Ramsey, Craig James rushed 5 more yards, and then Ramsey caught his first touchdown pass.

The New England lead went to 9-0 three minutes later on a safety when Frank Middleton was tackled in the end zone by Roland James.

It took another three minutes for the Patriots to score again, moving 54 yards in eight plays for a 16-0 lead.

Miami loses first game

The Associated Press

Miami's bid for an unbeaten season ended Sunday as the Dolphins suffered a 34-28 overtime loss to the San Diego Chargers in a National Football League game Sunday.

Buford McGee ran 25 yards for a touchdown 3:17 into overtime as San Diego rallied from a 14-point deficit to end Miami's winning streak at 11 games.

The Dolphins fell one short of the NFL record of 17 consecutive regular-season victories set by the Chicago Bears in 1933-34. The loss also prevented the Dolphins from clinching the AFC East Division title.

The Chargers trailed 28-14 after three quarters, but rallied behind quarterback Dan Fouts' passing for a pair of fourth-quarter touchdowns that forced the overtime.

Illinois beats Oklahoma in season's first game

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — George Montgomery's first meeting against Oklahoma's Wayman Tisdale was something he'd rather forget.

But Sunday, Montgomery, a 6-foot-9, 235-pound senior center, scored 17 points and helped shut down Tisdale as second-ranked Illinois beat No. 5 Oklahoma 81-64 in the sixth Hall of Fame Tipp-Off Basketball Classic.

Two years ago, when Tisdale was a freshman, he scored 34 points in Oklahoma's 101-75 rout over the Fighting Illini.

"I was there and he just killed me every time he touched the ball," said Montgomery, who was named the Tip-Off Classic's most valuable player. He also had 10 rebounds.

Illinois Coach Lou Henson said, "Montgomery did a great job of keeping the ball away from Tisdale, as did the rest of the team. One player can't stop him, and when he is on, I'm not sure one team can stop him."

Tisdale, a 6-foot-9, two-time All-

American now in his junior year, scored 19 points before fouling out with 2:42 remaining. Eleven of his points came while Montgomery was on the bench.

Tisdale was double-and triple-teamed for most of the game and finished with six rebounds.

It was the biggest winning margin in the six years of the game which opens the college season.

Oklahoma Coach Billy Tubbs called it a "country lickin'."

"This is as bad as I've seen them play," he said.

The Fighting Illini, co-champions of the Big Ten last season, methodically rolled up a 41-30 halftime lead as Tisdale was held to eight points.

The Sooners raced back at the start of the second half with Tisdale hitting a three-point play and Linwood Davis contributing two field goals to cut the margin to 45-41.

But Illinois went on a 17-6 tear capped by Efrem Winters' jumper with 6:55 to play to put the Illini ahead 62-47.

The closest the Sooners could get after that was 67-57, but Tisdale committed his fifth personal foul and the Oklahoma bench drew a technical foul.

Montgomery and Tony Wysinger each connected on two free throws for a 71-57 advantage.

Illinois had a balanced attack with Doug Altenberger adding 14 points, Anthony Welch 12 and Bruce Douglas 10.

Anthony Bowie scored 14 points and Darryl Kennedy and Davis 10 points apiece for Oklahoma.

Thursday because of a shoulder injury, said he asked to run the bootleg play.

"They were keying on the backs and we really haven't run it that much," Muldoon said. "On the previous two plays they weren't covering me, so I told coach on the sidelines to let me run it."

Holy Cross started the fourth quarter with the ball on the Maine 46-yard line after Rich Labonte punted it away for Maine.

The Crusaders gained four yards on a run by Muldoon and two more on a run by fullback Chuck Doyle. The Crusaders picked up 25 yards on a sideline pass from Muldoon to split end Leo Carlin to move the ball to the 17-yard line.

McMurtry ran for five and 11 yards on the next two plays to give HC first down and goal at the five-yard line. Two plays later Muldoon faked a handoff to McMurtry, rolled right and ran two yards for a touchdown making the score 20-7. Melink's kick made it 21-7 with 8:00 left in the fourth quarter.

The eight-play, 46-yard drive was highlighted by McMurtry's running (18 yards on three carries). The senior tailback replaced starter Gil Fenerty, who took a hit to the head, at halftime and gained 89 yards on 20 carries.

Holy Cross head coach Rick Carter said he didn't worry about replacing Fenerty (82 yards on 12 carries in the first half) with McMurtry.

"(Fenerty) got hit in the head and had a headache and the doctors felt he shouldn't play," Carter said. "We said all along we had two fine tailbacks.

When the time came today he was equal to the task."

After the teams traded possessions UMO quarterback Bob Wilder was intercepted by free safety Bill McGovern. The Crusaders moved the ball to the Maine 13-yard line before Melink kick-

McGovern said the interceptions were a result of the defensive play of his teammates.

"We just got great line play from our interior line," McGovern said. "When they had to go to the pass we felt we could get good coverage. We play mainly zone, it's just that our linebackers are so aggressive they can run with the receivers (allowing McGovern to roam on defense)."

Holy Cross held Maine to eight first downs and 232 yards in total offense. Two of the first downs and 58 of the yards came on Maine's opening drive when it scored its only touchdown of the game.

Maine took the opening kickoff and moved the ball 58 yards in nine plays, scoring on a Wilder to Paul Phelan pass. Jack Leone kicked the extra point to give the Bears a 7-0 lead 4:50 into the game.

The drive's big play was a 34-yard pass reception by Phelan to move the ball to the Holy Cross 28-yard line. Phelan, who was suspended from last week's game for missing a team meeting, finished with 39 yards rushing on 10 carries and caught three passes for 45 yards.

Rogerson said he thought Maine entered the game with a good game plan and would be able to move the ball.

"They stopped us," Rogerson said. "They took away some of the things we wanted to do. Steve Tosches (UMO's offensive coordinator) and I were pulling our hair out on the sidelines trying to decide what to do."

"Statistically it was disappointing. When you play a good football team you only have so many chances," he said. "We have to reach up to play them, just like we had to reach up to play Boston University and New Hampshire. You have to take advantage of your opportunities."

Holy Cross tied the game at 7-7 with 12:43 left in the first half when Muldoon rolled right, and threw a six-yard touchdown pass to Bill Cowley. Muldoon completed 10 passes in 22 attempts for 121 yards and ran for 30 yards on 13 carries. His 151 yards in total offense gives him 1,785 yards for the season, breaking the HC record of 1,731 he set in 1982.

period when two Northeastern players ran into Maine goalie Ray Roy after the buzzer had blown.

Some Maine players took exception to this and pushing and shoving matches in front of the Maine goal led to several fights and a total of 16 penalties.

Maine's Kevin Mann and Jim Purcell, and Northeastern's Paul Fitzsimmons and John Ritpath were the only players given one game suspensions for fighting.

"I hope our place is sold out and crazy," Ray Jacques said referring to the Jan. 30 game. "Their players and their fans are low class as far as I'm concerned."

Maine had taken a 4-1 lead in Saturday's game when senior Pete Maher scored his third goal of the game with 7:51 left in the second period.

The senior line of Maher, Jacques and Bruce Hegland was Maine's most potent line on the weekend scoring six of Maine's seven goals.

"Everything clicked for us," Jacques said. "We forechecked and moved the puck well."

Maher said the loss was disappointing and the altercations have given the team a sense of togetherness.

"Last night (Saturday) we started to become a team," Maher said. "Even though we lost it was a learning experience."

Huskie center Kevin Heffernan scored with 16 seconds left in the second period to cut the Bear lead to 4-2.

Third period goals by Gerry Kiley at 12:35 and Rod Isbister at 17:27 sent the game into overtime.

Both teams had good scoring chances in the overtime before O'Brien picked up a rebound off a Heffernan shot and put the puck past Roy. The win gives Northeastern a 6-6 record and dropped Maine to 2-6 in Hockey East.

Despite the loss, Roy played well in the Maine goal as the Bears were outshot 49-24.

"I think we deserved the game," Mann said. "It was a very physical game and we played well the whole game. Ray (Roy) played an awesome game."

In Friday's game Heffernan broke a 2-2 tie with 3:58 left in the second period and the Huskies scored five third period goals to give Northeastern an 8-2 win.

Maine's Jim Purcell gave the Bears a 1-0 lead when he scored his third goal of the year on a short-handed goal 4:33 into the game. After Northeastern took a 2-1 lead on goals by Bob Averill and Greg Neary, Jacques tied the game for Maine when he and linemate Hegland broke out on a two-on-one before two minutes had elapsed in the second period.

Both teams remained scoreless until Heffernan scored the game-winner and then the Huskies put the game away in the third period.

Sophomore goalie Jean Lacoste took the loss for Maine as the Bears were outshot 27-20.

The Bears' next games are against Northern Michigan University in a weekend series on Friday and Saturday.

The Bears will be without the services of forwards Mann, Purcell, Hellen, and Mazur for Friday's game.
