Accusations made in Philippine voting

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Thirty computer operators marched out of the government's election commission Sunday, claiming the ballot-counting that showed President Ferdinand E. Marcos defeating Corazon Aquino was falsified.

An international observer group, meanwhile, accused Marcos' partisans on Sunday of vote-buying, intimidation, snatching ballot boxes and tampering with election returns in Friday's special presidential election.

The computer operators wept on each others' shoulders after parading single file out of the Marcos-appointed commission's counting center.

"There was something wrong," a woman operator explained. "What's posted on the tabulation board does not tally with the computer board, and we don't know who is doing it. We can't take it any more."

The woman, who refused to give her name, told The Associated Press that workers spotted the problem Saturday night, when Mrs. Aquino was leading the commission's count by 100,000 votes. By midday Sunday, Marcos had taken over the lead.

By Monday morning, with 28 percent of the precincts reporting, the commission's unofficial tally gave Marcos 3,056,236 votes to Mrs. Aquino's 3,903,348, a split of 51.28 percent to 48.72 percent.

But an independent count by the National Movement for Free Elections, a citizens' ballot-monitoring group known as Namfrel, had Mrs. Aquino in the lead by 5,576,319 votes to 4,806,166 for Marcos, or 53.7 percent to 46.3 percent.

The Namfrel tally represented 49.14 percent of the Philippines' 86,036 precincts. Final election results from this nation of 7,100 islands are not expected for days.

Certification of the election result is up to the National Assembly, which was due to begin its own separate canvass Monday.

An international observer group, composed of 44 poll-watchers from 19 nations, said delays in the count were "damaging to the credibility of the process."

The statement, read by former President Misael Pastrana of Colombia, read: "We saw many instances of vote-buying, attempts at intimidation, snatching of ballot boxes and tampered election returns." It said many voters, particularly in Manila, where Mrs. Aquino was heavily favored, found their names were not on registration lists.

Non-alcohol committee to inform students of campus happenings

by Donna Trask
Staff Writer

This fall more than 85 percent of the students at UMO will be too young to drink legally, but there are some new organizations on campus gearing up to fill their needs.

Last September William Lucy, associate dean for Student Activities and Organizations, and Matt Stiker, Senior Skulls president, formed the Non-alcoholic Programming Committee.

The reason for forming the committee was "to take a look at what is being offered to the student body in the way of non-alcoholic programs," Stiker said.

The committee's first task entailed collecting as much information as possible about programs and organizations on campus, Stiker said. "We put together a large binder of what's going on, on and around campus," Stiker said.

The information is available, but the real problem is that people don't see it, Stiker said. The committee decided that students need something they can rely on to find out what is going on, so they created a new weekly calendar called Mainevents which will appear in The Daily Maine Campus Thursdays for the rest of the semester.

"We hope to get it going in a couple of weeks," Stiker said.

Mainevents will be a complete guide to what is going on in the campus community, Stiker said.

Attendance on the alcohol-free nights at Campus Corner have been "OK" said Karen Boucher, manager of the pub.

On Thursday and Saturday nights last semester the pub featured a band or a disc jockey, and got very little response, she said. "It's a sort of sad statement when people won't do anything without alcohol."

"Residential Life owns the building and they hired me to make sure that I provide entertainment for the underage population as much as for those who are legal to drink," she said.

Saturday nights this semester, the Campus Corner will feature low-key entertainment and people old enough to drink will be carded at the bar. Boucher said they are hoping to draw both minors and people who can drink.

UMO Honors Program trying to lose its esoteric reputation

by Ed Brindle
Staff Writer

Teachers and students involved with the Honors Program seem to agree about one thing: Their program is not esoteric.

Trying to dispel any idea that the Honors Program is elitist, Director Ulrich Wicks said although he welcomes students with outstanding academic records into the program, other factors are considered when evaluating an Honors Program candidate.

"If a student came to me and seemed reasonably enthusiastic," said Wicks, "I would let (the student) sign up and I wouldn't check... GPA."

The UMO Student Handbook cites that the Honors Program is proposed to provide "above-average courses for above-average students."

Wicks, however, said students enrolling in the program must maintain a 3.0 GPA.

"I suspect the program is perceived as elitist," he said. "There is no direct correlation between GPA and (our) students. Many of the students on this campus with the highest GPA do not participate (in the program). Many do not want this kind of challenge."

Lisa Park, a sophomore who is the editor of the program's newsletter, said, "Honors students get a advantage of a one-on-one teaching situation that you can't get in other programs."

Michael Howard, assistant professor of philosophy who teaches honors courses, said, "There's also a community of people sharing the educational experience."

Howard said constraints included in other university programs may cause a student to be unable to join — or even complete — the Honors Program, where about 200 students and 100 faculty are active members.

All the colleges on the Orono campus are represented in the Honors Program, Wicks said.

"According to the handbook, this program 'allows the student both a range and flexibility not normally possible in conventional courses of study.'"

The program is a member of the North East Regional Honors Society and of the National Collegiate Honors Council. Its offices are in the Robert B. Thompson Honors Center, located next to the Union.

The center was designed in 1974 by Norman Smith, current dean of the College of Engineering and Science. Smith was a professor of agricultural engineering when he designed it as part of an experiment in low-cost, energy-efficient housing.

Stiker said the Non-alcoholic Programming Committee has been looking into the possibility of converting the Dam Yankee into an alcohol-free pub.

The committee wants to create something for the increasing underage population, he said. "We don't want to abolish the Den. We just want to satisfy everyone."

The committee has contacted the art and theater departments to discuss possible design themes for the proposed pub, Stiker said.

The goal of UMO's newly formed BACCHUS chapter is to promote a greater awareness towards alcohol in the campus community and high schools, Mark Pennisi, chapter president, said.

"We work at getting people to think. We try not to ram education down people's throats," he said. Pennisi said the BACCHUS chapter is "doing very well even though we have a small core group."

"Our chapter is unique in that we like to build from other organizations on campus," he said.

UMO's BACCHUS chapter was a part of the greek pledge program last fall, and also participated in the police department's alcohol awareness programs put on in the different complexes, Pennisi said.

Celebration ends in Haiti following Duvalier rule

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — After two nights of wild rejoicing and mob retaliation against the hated secret police of the ousted Duvalier regime, life began returning to normal Sunday in this slum-ridden city of 1 million people.

Trashed, burned-out shells of businesses that were associated with the 28 years of Duvalier family rule bore silent witness to a celebration that turned violent, killing at least 100 people and causing great material damage.

Jean-Claude Duvalier became Haiti's "president-for-life" in 1971 at age 19 on the death of his father, Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier. He fled to France on Friday on a U.S. Air Force plane with about 25 family members, guards and associates after the United States and Jamaica convinced him to step down in the face of mounting violence.

A military-civilian council assumed interim control.

Duvalier's departure sparked riots and revenge killing against the Tonton Macoutes, the Duvalier dynasty's dreaded private militia.

Reporters said Macoutes were beaten and hacked to death with machetes Friday and Saturday.

France granted Duvalier and his party temporary refuge while it searches for a country willing to offer them permanent asylum. Several already have refused. The French are expected to approach some of the 25 French-speaking African nations, most of which rely heavily on French for aid and commerce.

The provisional military-civilian council on Saturday announced Haiti's new Cabinet. The Cabinet is expected to issue its first communique Monday, including a date to reopen schools closed Jan. 8 because of national unrest in this impoverished Caribbean island nation of 6 million people.

The national government radio Sunday announced that a member of the new Cabinet, Minister of Justice Gerard Gourgue, formerly president of the Haitian Human Rights Commission, had obtained the release of 26 political prisoners. Further details were not immediately available.

Mandela says husband will be freed

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Winnie Mandela said Sunday her imprisoned husband Nelson Mandela, inspiration leader of South African blacks, will be released, but she did not know when.

Asked by a reporter if the release were more a question of "when" and not "if," Mrs. Mandela replied: "Yes, that is correct."

Police in Natal province along the Indian Ocean coast, said, meanwhile, that three black riot squad officers were killed Sunday when set upon by a mob of blacks engaged in tribal clashes wielding clubs and knives.

A police spokesman in Durban, 20 miles north of where the killing occurred, said seven black police were sent to deal with gangs of rival tribes, and their patrol car became a target for both factions. He said four officers fled on foot, but the warriors ran down the other three and mutilated their bodies.

Police said earlier in the day that police killed three blacks after riots broke out late Saturday and before dawn Sunday in eight neighborhoods.

Mrs. Mandela, who has emerged in recent months as an anti-apartheid leader in her own right, was besieged by journalists at Johannesburg's Jan Smuts Airport after she flew in from visiting her husband at Cape Town.

She told them, "I do not have the slightest idea when or where he will be released, but he will be released."

It did not appear that the 67-year-old guerrilla leader, who has been serving a life sentence since 1964 for plotting sabotage, would be freed for days, at least.

Mrs. Mandela said she expected to see him again "in a few days" at Cape Town's Pollsmoor Prison.

Despite Mandela's years in prison, he endures as the foremost leader of South Africa's increasingly militant blacks.

Dartmouth's Winter Carnival includes apartheid protests

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — A collegiate tradition of winter frolicking and a protest against apartheid in South Africa shared the stage Sunday at Dartmouth College.

The Dartmouth Winter Carnival, the nation's oldest collegiate winter weekend, featured giant ice sculptures on the college green, fireworks, a ball, snowshoe races and top intercollegiate ski races.

Related to the carnival weekend has been a continuing protest by groups opposed to Dartmouth's investments in South Africa. In addition to the ice sculptures, the green also has been the site of a symbolic shantytown erected by students who want the college to divest itself of $65 million in South Africa-related holdings.

David McLaughlin, college president, last week said the protesters had made their point and he expected the shanties to be removed after winter carnival.

Three weeks ago, a group of students who said they wanted to beautify the green for the winter carnival vandalized the shacks. The incident led to occupation of the administration building and cancellation of classes for a day.

Students scheduled a rally on the green late Sunday afternoon to decide what to do about the shanties.

Music: Local band breaks away

by Barnaby Garrison Thomas
Music Director at WMEB-FM

JUST THE FACTS "3 Song E.P."

As terrible and as unfair as the term is I sometimes find myself saying "... for a local band." There is something about this state that holds back bands --- blame the "Top 40" bars, lack of studios, or just a lack of ambition --- it all comes down to the same thing. Just the Facts is a surprise because they can easily hold their own against "the outside." The lyrics are strong, playing is muscular, and the whole disc works --- local or not.

PUBLIC IMAGE LTD. (PIL) "album".

If a sanitized version of "Bollocks" is what you want from Johnny Rotten/Lydon, buy "album." Lydon's sneer is at its minimum, speed is used within "normal" limits, and song structure have a "common" feel. "FFF" and "Fishing" could almost crack AOR, well, maybe not quite yet. Lydon wants a laugh and money.

8th ROUTE ARMY "Nihilist Olympics."

A strong "positive" post-punk album. The Army has their own politics which they wear proudly without sinking to empty sloganeering that tends to reduce ideas (or bands versions of 'big ideas') to triteness more fitting on Top 40. "Daily Beat" or "Vice Presidente" have gotten fair airplay and their power seems to have assured an expectant audience for a follow-up album.

JESUS AND MARY CHAIN "Psychocandy."

1960's: Paul McCartney's use of fuzz-tone bass (sparingly) on "Revolver" only echoed what the underground in America was already going over the deep end on.

1980's: Meet the Jesus and Mary Chain --- fuzztone does not color this album it drowns it in its wariness. "Just like Honey" surfaces enough to entice, the rest is for hardcore palsteys only.

EXPLODING WHITE MICE "In a Nest of Vipers."

The Aussies, fresh from the college radio success of groups like the Church and Painters & Dockers, have served up something spooky. The Mice sound uneasily like middle period Ramones. Like the aforementioned group they can be simple without being stupid. Sneak this in after "Rockets to Russia" and crank something almost remembered.

Skaters win 3-2, keep home-ice playoff hopes alive

by Jon Rummler
Staff Writer

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Al Loring turned away 27 Providence College shots to lead the University of Maine hockey team to a 3-2 Hockey East victory at Schneider Arena.

The first-away-league win is the Black Bears' third straight and improves their record to 9-21-1 overall and 6-20-1 in HE action. The Friars continue to struggle, dropping their eighth-straight contest, which is a school record. Fourth place Providence, 9-19-1 overall and in HE, is now six points ahead of Maine.

After falling behind by a 2-1 margin in the first two periods, the erratic Providence offense started to kick in. The Friars outshot Maine 12-6 in the third, but Loring was equal to the task. The freshman goalie had to stretch, block and scramble during a six-shot onslaught that lasted four minutes right before the midway point. Loring robbed forward Görd Cruickshank on a wrist shot from the slot and again on an end-around to highlight the effort.

puck over Friars' All-American goalie Chris Terreri at 13:50.

Providence rebounded with a goal at 18:04 to pull it within one. Center Luke Vitale got the puck on a fore-check and centered to wing Lance Nelson, who tipped it home.

Loring gloved a pair of hard slap shots from the point by Artie Yeomelakis and Shawn Whitham to close out the game. After a dismal offensive first period — Providence had five shots on goal to Maine's nine — the Friars notched the opening goal in the second period. At 3:33, Yeomelakis beat Maine defenseman Scott Smith and Dave Nonis behind the net and centered to wing Terry Sullivan.

Sullivan slapped the puck past Loring for the early lead.

Maine evened the game 5:02 later when center Todd Jenkins beat Whitham on the left side and centered to wing Ron Hellen, who knocked it over Terreri's shoulder.

After successfully killing two penalties, which kept play in the Maine zone, the Black Bears got on top for good off a rare Terreri mistake. The Friars' tender missed the roll-around, which was gathered by Hellen, who passed to Jenkins out front. Terreri made the initial save, but wing Jay Mazur scored on the rebound at 17:41.

Women's basketball team loses two weekend games

by Jerry Tourigny
Staff Writer

The combination of injuries and playing tough teams on the road was too much to overcome as the University of Maine women's basketball team dropped two games this weekend, losing to Central Connecticut, 63-62 on Sunday, and to Holy Cross, 81-68 Saturday.

Playing without their two starting guards, the Black Bears lost more games in the past two days than the entire season before the weekend. Maine is now 18-3 overall and its 8-1 Seaboard Conference record remained unchanged.

With the home victories, Central Connecticut improved to 20-1 overall and Holy Cross to 16-5.

The Black Bears will try to get back on the winning path Wednesday night at 7:00 when they conclude their six-game road trip at the University of New Hampshire.

In Sunday's game in New Britain, Conn., it was a case of Maine not making the plays at the end and Central Connecticut making them. Missed free throws proved to be the dagger in Maine's back.

In a tightly-played contest, Maine had a 61-57 lead with a few minutes remaining. Maine guard Kathy Shorey hit on the front end of a one-and-one but missed the second attempt, increasing the Bears' lead to five.

Central Connecticut scored, cutting the Maine lead to three, 62-59, and when Liz Coffin missed the front end of a one-and-one, CC had a chance to cut it to one.

CC proceeded to turn the ball over but stole the ensuing inbound pass under the basket and scored, making the score 62-61. Coffin was fouled with 10 seconds left and again missed the front end of a one-and-one.

On CC's last possession, guard Sethe Thompson was fouled with three seconds left when she penetrated inside

Men's basketball team loses to Niagara, 83-80

by Kevin Dietrich

The University of Maine men's basketball team's best road effort of the season was negated by Niagara University's Joe Arlauckas, who led the Purple Eagles to a hard-fought 83-80 victory Saturday evening in the Gallagher Center in Lewiston, New York.

Gateway to a great way of life.

The loss drops the Black Bears' season mark to 4-15 with a 3-10 ECAC North Atlantic Conference record. Niagara moves to 11-9 overall and 8-5 in the conference.

Maine led for the first 35 minutes of the game by employing accurate shooting and clutch rebounding — the latter being somewhat of an oddity this season, to stay ahead of the Purple Eagles. But a combination of ejections, foul trouble and Arlauckas' 35 points proved to be too much in the end.

The Black Bears appeared to be in control of the contest following a pair of Jim Boylen free throws which put Maine up 70-63 with just under seven minutes left in the game.

Then Niagara began its rally. Joe Alexander got things rolling with a quick jump shot. Tom Swick added two more with a couple of free throws. Following a Black Bear time out, Gary Bossert made it a one-point game with a driving layup off an Arlauckas downcourt pass.

Niagara took its first lead of the game with 4:44 left when Maine was unable to hold onto a rebound which Arlauckas promptly took down and popped in from the baseline to put the Purple Eagles up 71-70.

The Niagara rally seemed to take the wind out of the Black Bear sails. Alexander added two more free throws, off a play in which Mike Bittermann fouled out, and Arlauckas converted a three-point play before Maine could reply.

The Purple Eagles paced themselves for the remaining two minutes, not allowing the Black Bears to come closer than three the rest of the way and managing to hold on for a tough win.

Although it looked as though Maine might make a last-ditch effort pulling within three at 81-78 on a Mike LaPlante jumper with just 27 seconds left. Boylen fouled out on a charge call on the next Maine possession and the Black Bears hopes of a rally were ended.

It was a hard fought game in more ways than one. On two separate occasions fights broke out, with the second resulting in the ejection of Black Bear Matt Rossignol and Purple Eagle Chris Jonsson.

The fracas began with about nine minutes left in the game when Maine's Chip Bunker set a pick on Jonsson, who was guarding Rossignol. As Rossignol moved by Jonsson, he was grabbed and pulled to the floor and the two players apparently exchanged elbows and words.

When Rossignol got up he was chased and punched by Bossert who had been nearby. Both team's benches cleared and it took several minutes to get the game underway again.

As a result, each team received two technical shots and Rossignol and Jonsson were ejected from the game. The Black Bears were forced to put Jeff Holmes at guard. And although Holmes responded splendidly with a 20-point effort, the loss of Rossignol hurt Maine.

Boylen was forced to take over at point-guard and handle the burden alone. He contributed 13 points but eventually Maine's lack of depth hurt and took a toll on the Bears in the end.

The first fight broke out with about seven minutes gone in the second half when Boylen was punched by Arlauckas following a scramble for the ball. Neither team was penalized, however.

The Black Bears received several stellar performances, notably from Holmes and Rich Henry. Henry, who had 19 points on the evening, kept the Black Bear attack going in the first half hitting shot after shot.

Men's 5 to play at Canisius Monday night

by Kevin Dietrich
Staff Writer

The University of Maine men's basketball team will be looking to rebound from Saturday's tough loss to Niagara University Monday when they take on Canisius College in an ECAC North Atlantic Conference contest slated for 7:35 p.m. in the Koessler Athletic Center in Buffalo.

The Black Bears will have their work cut out for them as Canisius is fresh off a thrilling 60-58 overtime victory over Siena College.

The Golden Griffins, who nearly squandered a 17-point lead, won on a Brian Smith 15-foot jump shot at the buzzer.

Maine enters the game with an overall 4-15 record, including a 3-10 NAC mark. Canisius brings a strong 17-4 overall and 11-2 NAC record into the game. In the previous meeting between the two squads Canisius took a 64-57 decision back on Jan. 15 in the Pit.

Chris Hienold led the Golden Griffins in that matchup registering 17 points and helping Canisius earn a hard-fought victory.

Other Golden Griffin leaders include Grady Minick, who had 22 points Saturday, and Nick Macarchuk.

The Golden Griffins, who are off to their best start in school history, are currently second in the NAC trailing only Northeastern University.

NBA East beats West again

DALLAS (AP) — Isiah Thomas scored 12 of his 30 points in the fourth quarter, four during a critical 8-0 streak near the end of the game, to lead the East to a 139-132 victory Sunday in the 36th NBA All-Star game.

Thomas, repeating his Most Valuable Player performance of 1984, gave the East the lead for good with two free throws with 2:09 remaining, making the score 131-130. The Detroit Pistons' guard, who also had 10 assists, added two more free throws 20 seconds later to complete the 8-0 run.

The West led for most of the game until the stronger East started pushing the ball inside to Philadelphia center Moses Malone, who scored seven points in the final quarter. Thomas scored most of his 12 fourth-quarter points early in the quarter to keep the East close.

Boston's Larry Bird added 23 points and Malone and Milwaukee's Sydney Moncrief 16 each for the East.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and James Worthy, both of the Los Angeles Lakers, led the West with 21 and 20 points. Worthy, in a spectacular performance, scored 12 of his points on layups or dunks.

Houston's Ralph Sampson and Detroit's Bill Lush added 15 points each for the West.

The game changed hands twice in the first half, which ended with the East leading 69-66. The West took the lead in the second half, but the East won the game.

The game was held at the Alamodome in San Antonio, Texas.

The game was the 36th in the series, which began in 1950. The East has won 20 of the 36 games, while the West has won 16.

Women

the lane. Thompson hit both free throws and a last second shot to win the game by Maine failed and CC had a come-from-behind 63-62 win.

"There's no question it was a win for us," Maine Coach Peter Gavett said. "We just couldn't make the big play when we needed to. When they needed the big play they made all of them."

Coffin led all scorers with 27 points and Lauree Gott (14 points) and Debbie Duff (10) were also in double figures for Maine.

Hope Linthicum, CC's leading scorer on the year averaging 24.0 points per game, again led her team netting 17 points on the afternoon.

The Black Bears were once again without starting guards Kissy Walker (hand) and Sonya Wedge (ankle), both out with injuries.

Replacing them in the starting lineup were Shorey and Duff. But in Saturday's Holy Cross game, Gavett tried something different starting Coffin and Gott in the backcourt with Kelly Nobert, Crystal Cummings and Lisa Carbone in the frontcourt.

The changes didn't slow down the Crusaders however as they took a nine-point lead at the half and held on for a 81-68 win.

"I wanted to go with a different look — to shake things up," Gavett said. "It worked great for the first seven to eight minutes."

Things began well for the Black Bears as they broke out to a 12-4 lead but from that point on the afternoon belonged to the Crusaders.

Holy Cross turned the early eight-point deficit into a nine-point lead at the half, 34-25.

The Black Bears never really got close in the second half as Tracy Quinn — 19 points, and Janet Hourihan — 15 points, paced Holy Cross to the 81-68 victory.

"They controlled the whole second half," Gavett said. "We never got close to having a chance to win. We made casual runs at them but we did not have a legitimate shot to win."

Maine's poor defense and lackluster day on the boards (Holy Cross outrebounded Maine 43-27) helped the Crusaders improve their overall record to 16-5.

"We started off with the lead but then we fell apart," Gavett said. "Defensively, it was by far our worst game of the year. Sixty-eight points is enough to win a game. We played pathetic defense."

Maine's sub-par defense led to many personal fouls sending Holy Cross to the foul line 34 times. The Crusaders made good on 23 of those 34 attempts and those points provided, for the most part, the winning margin.

In a losing effort, Coffin scored a game-high 26 points and pulled down eight rebounds.

Nobert had perhaps her best game of the season scoring 16 points on 8-of-11 shooting with six rebounds. Gott was also in double figures chipping in 11 points.
