ANNUAL BOOK DRIVE UNDER WAY

ORONO, Maine -- Children's books for needy area youngsters from toddlers to teens are again being collected by the College of Education and Human Development at the University of Maine. The public is invited to join in this annual tradition by donating new books or used books in very good condition.

The books will be distributed by the Orono-Old Town Kiwanis Club at the service organization's annual holiday party for area children, scheduled this year for Dec. 11.

Books, gift wrapped if possible, and marked for a particular age level may be brought to the office of College Dean Robert A. Cobb, 151 Shibles Hall, through Friday noon, Dec. 10.

The annual book collection, in cooperation with the Kiwanis Club, has made thousands of books available to deserving area children over the past 20 years.
