Bad Weather Puts Quietus On Carnival

Sculptures Ruined By Wind And Rain

By DON KING

"There must be rough, cold weather
And winds and rains so wild;
Not all good things together
Come to us here, my child."

These lines by Alice Cary best describe what happened last week end to Maine's Winter Carnival when King Winter and the well-laid plans for the event were knocked for a loop by the unseasonable and unreasonable Maine weather.

Nothing, or almost nothing, went right during the three-day affair. Almost all athletic events were canceled for lack of snow, and both the snow sculptures and the dances were fouled up by Friday's wind and rain.

Wet Coronation

Things got off to a fairly wet start Friday night when President Hauck crowned Lois Hunter, a freshman from East Hall, and Tom Collins, a senior from SAE, queen and king respectively of the annual winter event. Both were elected by a general student vote.

The scheduled ice revue went off as planned although the rink was in better condition for swimming than skating.

Both Friday night dances, the Intramural and Snow balls, were hampered by icy roads. Perry Borrelli and his 11-man orchestra, who were scheduled to play for the Intramural Ball in Memorial Gym, never reached the University, as their vehicle went off the road in Stockton Springs.

Bears Take Over

At the Snow Ball, things were not so bad. Although Jim Sprague and his Maine bears lost their instruments on Stillwater Avenue in Bangor those attending the dance in the Job Clinic Program Will Be Continued

Plans are being made for a continuation of the Senior Job Training program during the early part of the spring semester, with meetings running through February and part of March.

Interested seniors are invited by Philip J. Brockway, head of the program, to leave their names and preferences for meeting dates in the Placement Bureau office in the Library.

To date, five groups of seniors, a total of 125, have completed the program.

The Maine Campus will not be published during the final examination period. The next issue will be on Thursday, Feb. 9.

Almost Two Hundred Seniors Will Receive Degrees At Commencement Next Month

Nearly 200 seniors this week are buckling down for the home stretch of their undergraduate careers.

If everything goes well, all of them will receive degrees at the mid-year graduation exercises in the Women's Gym on Friday, Feb. 3, at 8:15 p.m.

Graduating seniors, relatives, and friends will attend a dinner in Memorial Gym before the main commencement exercises. At the dinner, approximately 75 wives of members of the graduating class will receive "certificates of merit."

Jorgensen Will Speak

The commencement speaker will be Albert N. Jorgensen, president of the University of Connecticut. Rabbi Milton H. Elefant, director of the University Hillel Foundation, will give the prayer.

President Jorgensen was graduated from Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. He was professor and director of educational administration and research at Michigan State Normal College, 1927-1931, and professor of educational administration at the University of Buffalo, 1931-1935. He has been president of the University of Connecticut since 1935.

President Jorgensen is the author of a number of articles on educational topics.

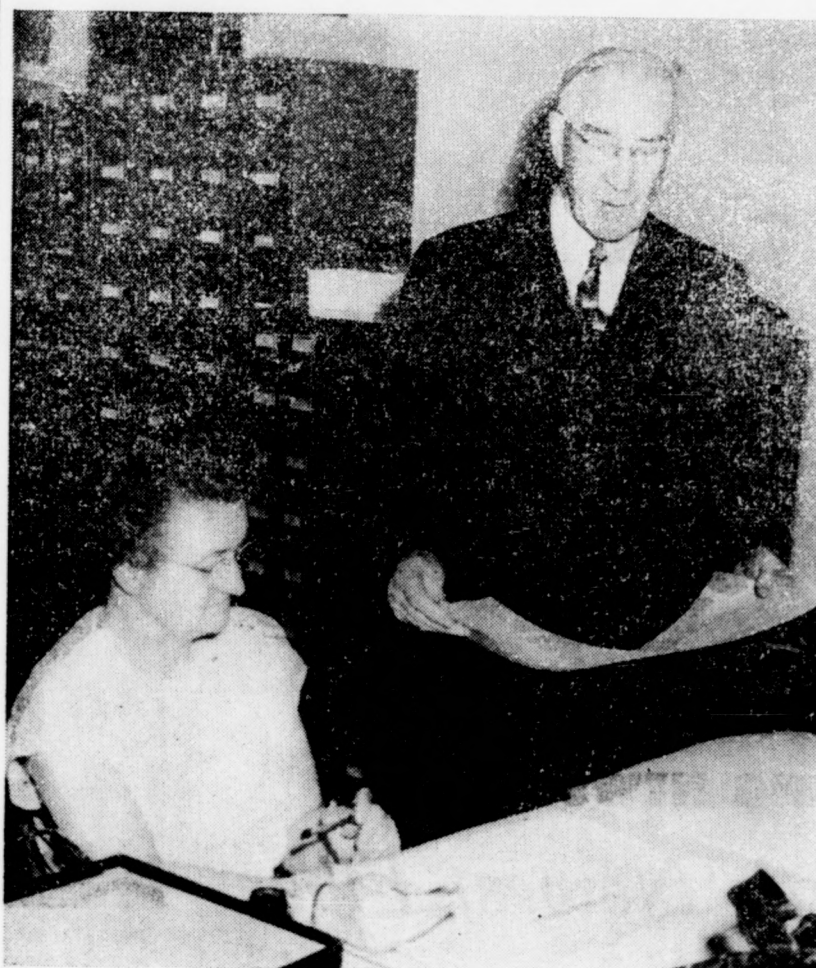

Diplomas Are Prepared

University department heads called at the Registrar's office last week to sign the diplomas of prospective graduates who have majored in their fields of instruction.

A signed diploma at this juncture is no guarantee of graduation. Even after all official endorsements have been placed on it, in behalf of the Administration and the Trustees, the sheepskin does not become valid until the student has completed his final semester's courses and passed his examinations.

After seniors who are candidates for graduation take their examinations, their instructors send their grades to the Registrar in advance of others, so that the final check-up on degree requirements may be made as soon as

Romulo III, Visit Maine Debaters Here Postponed Take On Colby This Afternoon

Due to a sudden illness, Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo, who was scheduled to speak at an assembly yesterday morning, was forced to postpone his campus appearance.

According to President Arthur A. Hauck, General Romulo's office in New York informed him early Tuesday morning that the U.N. executive could not come to the University at this time. He is expected, however, to speak here sometime next month.

Four fledgling Maine debaters, getting their first taste of varsity competition, will take on Colby here this afternoon. The debates are scheduled for 3:30 p.m. in 305 and 375 Stevens Hall.

Lawrence Wright and William Hirst will uphold the affirmative, while Pat Murphy and Avis Zippel will argue for the negative on the issue of nationalization of industry.

Last Tuesday the Maine debate team, accompanied by Samuel Prichard, assistant debate coach, traveled to Waterville to meet Colby in two non-decision contests. Representing Maine were Margaret Mollison and Mary Linn, affirmative, and John Brewer and Remigio Agpalo, negative.

It's Coming! 1950 Prism To Appear In February

The delayed 1950 Prism will be available by Commencement time for members of the graduating class of February, 1950, according to Irving Pierce, University accountant. The rest of the student body may expect copies around mid-February.

A total of 2,650 students subscribed to the 1950 Prism.

Noted Comic Will Present Two Shows

Students, Public To Attend Program

A brisk early sale of tickets at the Treasurer's office gave promise of capacity crowds for the Eddie Cantor appearance here next Tuesday.

Some 5,000 persons are expected to attend the two performances, if hopes of sponsors are fulfilled. Cantor's appearance is being sponsored by the Good Will Chest, the permanent charity organization which receives and distributes contributions from students, faculty, and administrative personnel.

Public Gets Tickets

Tickets for the public went on sale yesterday at Dakin's Sporting Goods Store in Bangor, Betts Bookstore in Orono, and A. J. Goldsmith Clothing Store in Old Town.

Price of the tickets is 85 cents. It was expected that this public sale would greatly swell the attendance at the two performances, which begin at 7 and 9 p.m. in the Memorial Gymnasium.

Cantor, who is appearing in Maine for the first time on a trip of this kind, will make his program a mixture of songs and jokes. The veteran showman of 40 years has always been a leader in patriotic and interfaith movements and in many humanitarian enterprises. He was one of the originators of the March of Dimes movement.

Began At Early Age

Cantor began his long career at the ripe age of 16, when he made vaudeville and burlesque appearances. As a singing waiter at Coney Island, he made an everlasting friendship with Jimmy Durante.

Following minor Broadway roles, Cantor finally reached the top of the entertainment world. In 1929 he starred in "Whoopee," the show for which he is probably best remembered. In addition to his work on the stage, Cantor has appeared in pictures and is recognized as an innovator in the field of radio.

He was the first to use the announcer-stooge system, using the sponsor's representative in the script. He has been on the air since 1931.

Master Of The Impromptu

A proponent of the "tear-and-smile" approach, it is safe to say that many of his best lines are due to his impromptu wit.

Herschel L. Bricker, director of the Maine Masque Theatre, this week described Cantor as one of the finest artists of the theatre.

"I consider him one of the all-time greats in show business; he is more than worth seeing," Bricker said.

Yankee Conference Tie, Big Meetings Spotlight Semester

By DICK ST. JAMES

The semester is almost over and probably seems to have flown by to most students. But when you look back and review all the activity that has been crowded into the past four months, the semester seems a little longer.

Way back on Sept. 19, registration started and then classes and prelims followed in monotonous succession. But sandwiched in between the academic sessions were many highlights in the forms of athletic events, social affairs, assemblies, etc.

One of the highlights of the autumn was the football team with its new coach, Dave Nelson, and his new system. Although the injury-hampered Bears fared badly in State Series play, they won a tie for the Yankee Conference lead earlier in the season. The big blowoff of the season was Homecoming weekend, even though Bowdoin won the game.

Maine Newspaper Day and the Maine Resources Conference were weekend meetings held here last fall. Newsmen from all over the state gathered at the former event to swap notes and hear experts like Erwin

Buy 'Em, Fix 'Em, Sell 'Em, Says West. He's Been Doing It For Two Years With Success

By Dick St. James

If you want to buy a second-hand car, the man to see for tips on campus is Roland J. West of Hannibal Hamlin Hall.

He ought to know something about used cars because he has had eight of them in the last two years. He could tell you what to look for, where to look, and how to bargain. He might even sell you one.

West, a junior mechanical engineering student, resumed his studies here in the fall of 1947 after serving a hitch in the Navy.

One of the first things he did was buy a $35 1931 Model A Ford coupe. The car had been in a collision with a house and was in "miserable condition." He fixed it up in good shape, ran it around for awhile, and sold it for $125. That was the start of the parade.

Next, he added $10 to that amount and bought another 1931 Model A coupe. However, this one was in good shape. West ran it for quite awhile, sold it for $175, and bought a 1934 Ford sedan for $200. This one was in fair shape and he kept it all summer.

When West came back to school the next fall, he sold the Ford for $260 and promptly invested $215 in a 1936 touring Ford. He fixed it up, then decided it was too much car for him, and sold it back to the same fellow for $235.

That's a good trick if you can do it. He'd only spent about three dollars fixing the thing up.

A Plymouth This Time

Roland's next deal was to put up $50 and go into partnership on a 1937 Plymouth sedan. He helped fix it up, then lost interest and withdrew his investment.

Soon after that, he bought a 1933 Chevrolet coupe in excellent condition.

It cost him $125, and he ran it until just before school closed last June. He sold the car for $185 and bought a 1935 Chevrolet sedan for $70. It had been won in a raffle by its former owner and was in rough condition.

West fixed the Chevy up, took it home with him, and sold it for $85.

Now this fall he's back on campus with a 1930 Model A sedan which he bought for $50 last summer.

West claims that his greatest pleasure in these experiences came from the fixing of the cars and the dickering that went with the buying and selling. He says that the prospective buyer should always try to beat the prospective salesman down. But when he's the salesman, his ideas are just the opposite.

Farm-Home Week To Be Observed Here Next April

The University of Maine's forty-third annual Farm and Home Week will be held April 3-6, Arthur L. Deering, Dean of Agriculture, has announced. More than 20 state-wide agricultural and other organizations will cooperate in preparing an outstanding program which will cover all phases of rural activity.

Maurice D. Jones, professor of agricultural economics and farm management, is chairman of the affair, Deering said. This will be the twentieth year that Professor Jones has headed the Farm and Home committee.

Green Alligator Lost

A green alligator Ronson cigarette lighter was lost in the library last week. If found, please return to 102 Balentine Hall.

Conference Tie, Big Meetings Are Fall Events

D. Canham, who spoke at a general assembly. Likewise the Resources Conference was a gathering of professional and business men to solve problems and suggest improvements in Maine industries.

The Calico Ball and the Farmer's Fair took the spotlight one week end in November as Deborah Williams was named Calico Queen. Then early in December the Military Ball was held and Jo Josslyn was appointed Honorary Lieutenant Colonel of the R.O.T.C. Just recently Tom Collins and Lois Hunter braved unseasonable weather to be crowned king and queen of the Winter Carnival.

The success of the basketball team under new coach Rankin has been the talk of the campus for the past month or so. There will be more to say about it next semester.

The list of highlights is not complete without mention of the holiday recesses. To most of us, they were the biggest events.

Hirst Wins Speech Department Contest

William Hirst won first prize in the semiannual interclass extemporaneous speaking contest, the speech department announced this week.

Other winners were: second, Ralph Barrow; third, a tie between Leon Segal and Richard Newdick; fourth, Robert Poulin; fifth, a tie between Philip Haskell and Richard Myer.

Movies For Mrs. Maine

Movies will be shown at the next meeting of the Mrs. Maine Club in the Louis Oakes Room at 7:45 January 25. The club's gym night will be held every Monday in the Women's Gym.

THE DU PONT DIGEST

FOR STUDENTS OF SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING

EXCITING NEWS ABOUT Du Pont's Newest Fiber

Hundreds of smaller businesses will join with Du Pont in bringing benefits of Orlon® acrylic fiber to you

Strong sunlight will damage most fibers—but not "Orlon" acrylic fiber, the latest synthetic yarn to come from the Du Pont laboratories. This remarkable fiber, which took eight years of intensive research to develop, has a lasting resistance to sunlight, mildew, high temperatures and even sulfuric acid. Experts say that it is the best fiber yet found for outdoor use.

In 1940, Du Pont scientists began work on a new fiber that seemed to have unusual properties. Development continued during the war when, under the name "Fiber A," the output went for military use in the hot, humid South Pacific. Recently the Du Pont Company decided to build a plant at Camden, South Carolina, for full-scale production. This new plant will cost about twenty-two million dollars.

While samples of "Orlon" fiber are now in the hands of knitters, weavers and finishers for experimental purposes, it will probably be late 1950 before articles made of it will be generally available. Then you can expect to see it in awnings, convertible automobile tops, golf bags, sails, electrical insulation, as well as certain articles of clothing.

In developing the uses of "Orlon," Du Pont will work with hundreds of smaller businesses—a "partnership" that will bring Americans not only new and better products, but more jobs, more business activity and another contribution to better living.

TRADE-MARK

OUTDOOR uses of "Orlon" will include furniture fabric, golf bags, sweaters and swimming suits. New fiber stands up extremely well under sun and rain.

Artist's First Exhibit To Show In Carnegie Hall

The first one-man show anywhere of the paintings of Louis Evan is being shown in the art gallery of Carnegie Hall.

Recently elected head of the Cape Ann Society of Modern Artists, Evan has in the past been a gold miner, a ditchdigger, and a prize-fighter. He is entirely self-taught as an artist, and his vigorous personality is strongly reflected in his bold and unusual pictures.

The variety of styles evident in this exhibition shows that Evan is not afraid of being labeled a borrower. Essentially an abstract painter, he does not strive for originality at all costs. He has not tried to conceal the fact that other artists—Picasso, Marin, Feininger, Braque, or Baziotes—have been the source of ideas for one or another of these paintings. But the diversity of influences shows that Evan, far from being a plagiarist, is simply a young artist sensible enough not to hurry his own development.

"Autumn Sea," one of his most recent works in the show, is representative of his work. It combines simplicity and uniqueness of conception. The painting is pictorial in the best sense, and by all odds the outstanding picture in the show which is certainly varied enough otherwise to offer something to almost any visitor.

Newmanites Hold Friday Card Games

The Newman Club is sponsoring card parties every Friday evening at 7:30 in Newman Hall. The admission price of 50 cents will be divided equally between the chapel debt and the Newman Club.

A special meeting of the club will be held this Sunday at 7 p.m. in Newman Hall. Plans for the province meeting will be discussed.

Simanonok Completes Air Technical Training

Capt. Joseph E. Simanonok, class of '50, a Maine National Guard pilot, was graduated last month from the Air Force's Department of Transportation Training at Lowry Air Force Base, Colorado.

The 25-year-old pilot received ten weeks of technical study in motor and aircraft transportation. He is returning to Maine for his final semester.

Pinkham Still Confined; Has Virus Pneumonia

Larry Pinkham, editor of the Campus, is still hospitalized at Franklin, N. H., where he has been ill since Christmas week. His illness, believed at first to be influenza, has been diagnosed as virus pneumonia.

Mail for Larry is being sent in care of his father, Jack Pinkham, North Main Street, West Franklin, N. H.

Chem Engineers Meet

The Chemical Engineering Club will hold a business meeting tonight at 7 o'clock in room 362 Aubert Hall. Following the business meeting movies will be shown and refreshments served.

The University art collection includes approximately 10,000 photographs, large colored reproductions, and slides of art masterpieces, available to students and faculty for study and loan service.

Rain and Friday the 13th failed to halt the coronation of the Winter Carnival King and Queen last week end. King Tom Collins looks on with approval as President Hauck places the crown on pretty Lois Hunter, a freshman.

Future Reporters Will Get Training With New Program

A summer training program for journalism students whereby they will receive college credits for newspaper employment has been approved by the University Board of Trustees.

The new plan is the direct result of friendly inquiries that have come individually in recent months from a number of Maine editors and publishers.

Selected students who obtain employment will receive three hours credit upon completion of their summer training under a course that will be listed in the University catalog as "Staff Training."

Vets Must Arrange For Caps And Gowns

All veterans who are to graduate in February are asked to see Miss Betty Reid of the Veterans Education Office, 109 East Annex, immediately.

It is necessary that they order their caps and gowns and fill out a change of address form for their February checks.

Eastport, Maine, is the easternmost city in the United States.

Students Aren't The Only Ones Who Have Library Troubles

Students may moan and groan about the reserve book situation in the Library, but the librarians have their own cause for complaining.

According to Librarian Louis T. Ibbotson, several remedies were taken to ease the trouble in the past but the efforts were in vain. Ibbotson admits he is presently stumped as to the all-inclusive solution, but he will consider any suggestions offered by students.

One possible suggestion offered by Ibbotson is a return to a plan which operated several years ago. A book could be taken out overnight with the provision that if it was not returned early the next morning a fine would be levied against the guilty person. Despite the fines, the books were often kept out until late the next afternoon.

At present books on reserve are signed out for two hours for use in the library and can be taken out of the Library on Saturday afternoons and returned on Sunday afternoon. Books can also be signed out over vacation periods.

Complications arise when the book is assigned for two and three divisions

Glee Club Will Broadcast Over NBC Hookup

The University of Maine Glee Club will broadcast a half-hour concert over the New England regional network of the National Broadcasting Company Sunday, Feb. 19.

One in a series of programs presented by New England college and university glee clubs, the broadcast will originate at 4:30 p.m. from the Memorial Gym.

A program is being arranged by Prof. Lewis Niven, head of the department of music, and Mr. James Selwood, director of the University Glee Club.

Schools which have appeared on previous programs include Dartmouth, Wellesley, Boston University, New Hampshire, and Holy Cross.

The programs are sponsored by the Monsanto Chemical Company.

Dr. Griffie Speaks

Dr. Fred Griffie, director of the agricultural station at the University, will speak on the topic "What Needs to be Done in Agricultural Engineering Research" at the A.S.A.E. meeting Thursday, Jan. 19, at 7:00 p.m. in the Agricultural Engineering Building.

Book Review

Mrs. Jane Welch of Portland will review The Prince of Egypt, by Dorothy Clark Wilson, in the Orono Methodist Church auditorium Feb. 3, at 8 p.m. Student admission tickets may be obtained at the MCA building.

Hurray For IMAA

We are glad to be able to report that the Intramural Athletic Association will meet to decide on a refund for those who purchased tickets to the Intramural Ball.

We think it is only fair that some adjustment be made. After all, four clams is an awful lot for two hours of dancing.

The IMAA is doing the right thing. More power to 'em.

"We'll Take 'Em Next Time"

The fighting Pale Blue basketball team is providing plenty of surprises this year, and we predict it will supply a few more.

Everyone is singing the praises of this Maine team after the recent trip. The praise is not based on the number of victories won by the team on the trip, for it won only the one it was expected to win, that against Northeastern. The cheering comes from the great showing the boys made against the two toughest teams on the schedule, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Against Connecticut in the first game of the trip, the Bears held a lead at various stages of the game. They were right in there until the final minutes, when Connecticut pulled away to win.

The next night, against Rhode Island, they came even closer to pulling an upset as they played the Rams right to the end and lost by only four points. And this happened after four Maine players had fouled out, some of them quite early in the game.

The cry of the players now is "Wait 'til we get 'em up here. We'll take 'em." Even if they don't defeat the Rams and Connecticut up here, however, they deserve the thanks and congratulations of everyone for their fighting New England trip.

Let's Band Together

Much mention has been made by students in the past few years of the apparent lack of interest on the part of the committees handling the bigger dances of the school year in obtaining "name" or even "semi-name" bands for their formal and semi-formal affairs.

Our intentions here are specifically to offer what may be a workable solution to the problem.

The solution is not an easy one by any means. It would involve cooperation on the part of ourselves and student organizations at Bates, Bowdoin, and Colby.

The only way that a name band of top caliber can be brought into the state for a college dance engagement is to assure the band's agent that they will have sufficient booking along the way to justify their appearance.

This could be accomplished, we think, by the cooperation of the four colleges in arranging their dances on consecutive nights to allow the signing of a top-flight orchestra on tour of the East.

Of course the cry will be heard immediately—"Why should we hold our affair in the middle of the week?" The answer is this—take any three of the four schools, say Bates, Colby, and Maine, and set aside Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights for the dance dates. These three schools could then choose by lot through central committees the night for their affair and make their arrangements accordingly.

According To St. James

By Dick St. James

How d'ya feel, friend? Got those end-of-the-semester shakes, those final exam jitters? And well you might have them, because there are those nasty old finals, just around the corner. Throughout the years they've been blasphemed, criticized, defended, investigated, and just about everything else in the book but praised. And don't look at me over your horn rims, Mac. I'm not going to praise 'em. All I'm going to say is that they are here to stay and there's nothing we can do about it but study and gripe.

That brings us up to the subject of how students prepare for their exams. In three and a half years here we've noticed several different types of study procedures.

First, there's the conscientious type who keeps up with his work all semester and starts studying for finals about a month ahead of time. This type is almost extinct now, but it's a good way to make the Dean's List.

Just the opposite from him is the guy who lets his work slide all semester and comes up to the finals with eight book reports and three term papers to write besides his exams. He works frantically and manages to get everything done. Then he makes a resolution to keep his studying up to date the next semester. Ha!

Then there's the guy who dashes around campus making contacts, then finally slides up to you and whispers, "Hey, Joe, keep this under your hat. I've got last year's finals in Descriptive Basket-weaving with all the answers. The instructor gives the same one every year. Come on up to my room at seven tonight and we'll knock it cold. Not a thing to worry about." So you go up to his room and find half the class there copying the exam word for word.

And how about the worrier, the one who carries his books and notes everywhere he goes. He asks questions of everyone, memorizes answers without knowing their meanings, and spreads dire rumors, such as, "I hear we've got to know every footnote in the text." He's in a horrible state when he takes the exam and gets all mixed up.

The list wouldn't be complete unless we mentioned the procrastinator, who keeps postponing his studying for finals and divides his time between Carnegie, the movies, and Pat's. He finally starts studying at 10 p.m. the night before the exam, quits at 12, and says he's done all he could. Then he takes the exam and tries to justify himself by saying, "I couldn't have done any better if I'd studied all week."

To which group do you belong? Sludgey says he's the type who lets his whole semester's work slide because, he says, "I work better with the pressure on."

PETTICOAT ANGLES

By Marilyn Wyman

"The wheel that squeaks the loudest is the one that gets the grease."

So said that homespun philosopher, Josh Billings. He may not have been on a college campus to write that, but he had a point. It follows that the wheel squeaks because it travels further and does more work.

Some days ago, in a student government meeting, a suggestion was made that a particular office be given to a "common man." This isn't the first time that the opinion has been passed that a few "wheels" are running the campus. But rather than recall how many wheels there are, let's see why they are "wheels."

Some people are willing to stick their necks out, whether it be for a committee to change the name of Maine to Aroostook or a council of war to attack final exams. These persons can survive the caustic comments of the "common man" who is usually very liberal with criticism of the derogatory kind and very stingy with the opposite kind. Some people agree to sit in a stuffy committee room and dig through the drudgery of parliamentary procedure while their brothers are sampling Pat's Best, and the thanks they get are amazing. The "common men" just sit back and agree that the campus would be a better place with fewer "wheels."

Then, when an outsider praises some event, whether it be Winter Carnival or a band concert, the "common man" smiles and agrees that the University does have its good points. How short his memory is that he forgets how the "wheels" worked to bring about such results.

Few people are in rewarding positions unless they have survived the drudgery and boredom of running errands, talking to the men who print the posters or are responsible for the public address system, or taking tickets. By the time they are eligible for a presidency or chairmanship they have been noticed and labeled "wheels." But these "wheels" have done the work the "common man" was too busy to bother with, so why ride them because they squeak louder?

With these few lines Petticoat Angles sings its swan song. During the days of its existence it has been agreeable and disagreeable but every day has been fun. The battered remains of P.A. bids you adieu.

Pedestrians Beware

To the Editor: Let's smarten up, boys and girls! Let's not loaf along in front of the many cars on the campus streets. And when you're bunnin', for Pete's sake don't crowd way out in the middle of the road. You're putting a lot more trust in the brakes and good judgment of the drivers than a lot of them rate.

Anybody driving up or down along the main highway in front of the campus is taking the lives of any number of trusting students in his hands. They crowd out into the road and, especially at night, are very hard to see against the lights of approaching cars. Probably the best idea would be for the University to establish a couple of authorized Pickup Stations.

A DRIVER

Comedy Of Errors

To the Editor: In the Jan. 12 issue of the Campus there appeared two stories which I believe should be called to your attention.

The first story is that entitled "Eddie Cantor To Stage Show Here Jan. 24." The third paragraph of this front page story doesn't make sense. It states, "Cantor, who is currently appearing at colleges and universities throughout the country, will put on two hour and a half hours on 'American Humor,' an account of his years on the stage and radio."

Either that or the rest of the story is factually wrong. Elsewhere we read that the show is one and one-half hours long and that it will be presented at 7 and 9 p.m.

The second story which I want to mention is entitled "Joanne Mayo Is New Panhel Council Prexy. The last paragraph reads: "Caroline Beckler, Phi Mu, has been named to the council as a representative of Chi Omega." She couldn't possibly be a member of one sorority and a representative of another!

—MARILYN DRAKE

Editor's Note: With bowed head the Campus acknowledges the mistakes pointed out above. Eddie Cantor will put on two (2) hour-and-a-half shows, and Miss Beckler is definitely representing Phi Mu on the Panhel Council.

Defense Of Rome

To the Editor: A comment last week really took the proverbial cake, in my own humble opinion, that is. On the sport page an article was written by Walt Schurman to show a few of the students' reactions to the Maine basketball team. One comment was that "Rome Rankin should go back to Rome."

Just what is meant or implied by that statement is far from clear, but it would appear that the adage about not being able to please everyone is absolutely true. Personally, I'd like to cast a vote in favor of the "Doc." He has put Maine at the top of the state series heap, and "his boys" recently made an excellent showing against Connecticut and Rhode Island State. He has done, and will no doubt continue to do, a lot of work to keep the team sharp. He is sincere about his work, and he is pleased with the spirit of his players.

Maybe the guy who made the statement didn't have anything against Rankin, but only wanted to make a witty remark. I hope so. After all, a poor joke is far better than such poor judgement.

University Society

BY MARILYN HOYT

I guess the "Farmer's Almanac" knew what it was talking about, when it reported rain for the Winter Carnival week end. It was disheartening to most of the students, especially those who had worked so hard in planning the affair.

However, the campus as a whole seemed quite optimistic about it. There are worse things than ruining beautiful net evening gowns, permanent waves, and silver slippers, by having to walk in the rain. And a melted snow sculpture, altho sad, isn't drastic!

I would surmise, after last week end, that it takes more than a few drops of rain to spoil the fun for the Mainiacs. After all...the party spirit has little to do with the weather...if one is determined to have a good time.

Sigma Nu had two parties over the week end. Saturday night over 100 couples attended an informal vic dance party after the basketball game. Cocoa and cookies were served. Sunday night the Sigma Nu Theatre showed its weekly movie, "Beyond Tomorrow." Refreshments were served following the show.

A.T.O. held an informal vic dance Saturday night. The couples sat around the fireplace, singing and talking. Coffee, doughnuts, and sandwiches were provided.

The Betas used the winter theme with a ski dance, which they held last Friday evening. The couples danced to vic music. Mr. and Mrs. John Beamesderfer and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dalton chaperoned.

Delta Tau held an informal intramural ball last Saturday evening. Cokes and sandwiches were served. Over forty couples danced to the vic music.

Kappa Sig threw its hat in the ring with an unusual party theme last Friday evening. The prize for the most original hat went to Jan Bannister, who was bonneted in a striking number created out of playing cards.

Tau Epsilon Phi also held an informal vic dance last Saturday night. Refreshments were served, and the couples sang, danced, and played games. Prof. and Mrs. Thomas King, and Sergeant and Mrs. William Klein were chaperons.

Theta Chi had a deluge of steamed clams Saturday night. So they held an informal vic dance to get rid of them. Guests gobbled them up...and reports were that they were delicious.

Pinned this week are: Norma McLaughlin, South Estabrooke, to Garth Folsom, Phi Gam; Lee Viollette, Miami, Florida, to Dick Hammond, Sigma Chi; Ruth Zeller, Manhasset, N. Y., to Stan Roberts, Delta Tau; Carol Robbins '49 to Bill Larabee, Delta Tau; Lorraine Harvey, West Hall, to John Godsoe, S.A.E.; Gretchen Bebe, Wakefield, Mass., to Arthur Bawker, S.A.E.; Lorraine Cormier, to Pete Arsenault, Kappa Sig.

Many Veterans In Class

Veterans of World War II are heavily represented in this year's February graduation group.

It is expected that those who receive their degrees at this commencement will include about 160 former members of the armed services. Many of them began their college careers at the University of Maine Annex when it opened at Brunswick in the fall of 1946.

Some shortened their college stay by a semester by going to summer sessions.

Poll Will Determine Embassy Topics

A poll will be conducted among the students to pick the topics of main interest to be discussed during Embassy Week. A proportion representing a cross section of the student body will be asked to indicate the topics that interest them.

Embassy Week will be March 12-16. Those students working on the committee are: Dick Spencer, Leonard R. Grimes, Vera E. Edfors, Betty Friedler, Theodore L. Gross, Zina Mavodones, Eleanor A. Mahaney, and Jack Miller.

Rev. David Almon of the Stonington Methodist Church will conduct religious services at the Little Theatre on Jan. 22 at 11 a.m.

Club To Hold Panel Discourse Here Tonight

"Student Government on the Maine Campus" will be the topic of a panel discussion by the Politics and Foreign Affairs Club at tonight's meeting at 7:15 in the North Estabrooke recreation room. The discussion will be led by Jim McBrady, Dwight Demeritt and Bertha Clark.

The club is planning a membership drive for this year. Information may be obtained from Harold Haley, 312 New Dorm 3; Donald Barnes, 6 Mill St., Orono; Sylvia Jordan, 202 Balentine; Curtis Burrell, 412 Hannibal Hamlin; and Wendell Hodgkins, ATO.

An election of officers and a report on existing membership will be part of the program.

The North Star, published by the men of the North Dormitories, has resumed publication after one-and-a-half years on the inactive list. Staff members of the paper are Jack McCormick and Don La Rochelle.

Annual Good Will Chest Drive To Be Held Next Month

The annual Good Will Chest drive to subscribe funds for the support of charitable organizations will be held March 1-7, the Chest committee announced this week.

A committee of students and faculty announced that the campaign will be conducted by student subscribers in the dormitories and fraternity houses.

Last year's drive netted $2,338, which was distributed among six organizations. Special consideration was given to the needs of college students throughout the world.

The Chest has a balance of $392.16 in reserve, to meet the initial expenses of the 1950 campaign and any campus emergency.

Bach Program Sunday

The death of Johann Sebastian Bach (1685-1750) will be commemorated by a special program arranged by the department of music at the University, Sunday at 4 p.m., in Carnegie Hall. Two of the composer's works, Double Violin Concerto in D Minor and the Coffee Cantata, in English, will be presented.

Her Hobby Is Real Horses

By MARILYN DRAKE

Many students on a campus the size of the University of Maine have hobbies that provide a variety of interesting experiences.

One such person is Sally Stockton, a 21-year-old student from South Portland, Maine. Sally is a junior this year and a transfer from Westbrook Junior College. Her particular interest is horses.

Sally started to ride when she was three, started to show when she was six, and rode professionally for four years after her 13th birthday.

Won Several Prizes

Her stepfather was a professional horseman and had show stables in New York and Connecticut. Sally therefore gained a great deal of experience and won several honors, among them the Connecticut State Junior Horsemanship when she was 13. She has won ribbons at recognized shows in Connecticut, New York, Massachusetts, and Maine.

Much of her spare time in the past six years has been spent teaching people to ride. Sally proves herself a versatile rider who has participated in hunting, jumping, and polo, on top of showing.

Rode In Nationals

The most exciting and interesting experience Sally has had was riding in the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden when she was 15.

Sally claims, "The horses in Maine are not as fine as those in Connecticut, but they are improving every year." She has never had a serious accident while riding but has been thrown several times in training "green" horses.

Recommends Riding

"Showing professionally is a great emotional strain due to its extremely competitive nature," says Sally, "but riding is good for a person both physically and mentally for it allows freedom of action."

Cantor Here Tuesday

The Eddie Cantor performances in Memorial Gym will be at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 24.

Because of a typographical transposition in the University Calendar on Page 5, the lines concerning the Cantor shows erroneously appear under the heading for Wednesday, Jan. 25.

Page 5 is an "early form" page this week. The entire printing of it was off the press before the transposition was discovered. The Campus, therefore, takes this means of correcting the error.

The Cantor shows are on TUESDAY.

Maine Singers Will Travel To Camden

The Glee Club and Varsity Singers will travel to Camden on Thursday, Feb. 9, for a concert before the Camden Outing Club.

The concert will include a performance of Schubert's D major Mass, with the following soloists: Freda Gray, Richard Pitman, and John Thomas. Other soloists will be David Powers, Priscilla Goggin, Paul Payson, Jean-Paul Roberge, and Raymond Kenneally.

Guild Sponsors Contest

The Radio Guild is sponsoring a script writing contest open to all high school upperclassmen. The scripts have to be original and preferably about the State of Maine, with current interest, adaptability to radio, and seasonal timing being stressed.

The best script will be broadcast by the guild on the "University Town" series, and a medal will be given to the winner.

Colvin Hall is named in honor of Dr. Caroline Colvin, Professor Emerita of History and Government and the first dean of women at the University.

Prof. Gross Writes Piece For Journal

A research article by Stuart M. Gross, associate professor of Spanish, appeared in a recent issue of Hispania, a national professional journal for teachers of Spanish. The article is entitled "Are There Political and Social Reflections in the Contemporary Poetry of Guatemala?"

Professor Gross was assisted in his research on this paper by a grant from the University Coe Research Fund.

U Of M Florida Alumni Hold Monthly Meetings

University of Maine alumni in Florida are meeting monthly in St. Petersburg.

Almost a score of alumni attended a luncheon in December, and it is expected that the number will be doubled at the next meeting.

Arrangements for the luncheon meetings are under the direction of Mrs. J. W. Glover, '17, of Orono, and S. H. Winchester, '11.

Miss Margaret Lovely, '33, of Presque Isle, is president of the St. Petersburg alumni club.

The Campus wants news. Phone Orono 441, Extension 52, or bring it to the Campus office on the second floor of Fernald Hall.

Bear Facts

By JOHN MURPHY

What do you think of Rankin-type basketball?

This question, with answers printed in the Campus last week, aroused at least a mild zephyr of controversy among the student-fans at Orono-on-the-Stillwater.

Some students bemoaned the lack of speed in the Bear attack. Let's rally 'round the flag, boys, and look at the situation.

In the first place, Doc Rankin has often said that his players look for the fast break. When they see an opportunity to get two men against one, or better odds, they break, and fast. But if there isn't any opening, why try the break, says Doc.

Sounds logical, so far. Maine didn't run with Rhody, yet they scored 70 points to 74 for the hurry-up Rams. This was done with control of the ball, not with court-length heaves and hopeful shots.

And the Maine team was highly regarded at the Kingston school. Norm Jollow, sports editor of the Rhode Island student paper, had quite a bit, and all good, to say about Maine.

According to Jollow, Maine has made the basketball title race a three-team affair instead of the usual two-way scramble between Rhode Island and Connecticut.

He pats Rome Rankin on the back for changing the Maine tactics from the famed freezing action of last year. Jollow, who has seen both Connecticut and Maine play, rates Maine as being as impressive as the UConns in its recent showing against the Rams.

Connecticut, the pre-season Yankee Conference favorite, lost by an 83-65 score and did not play "as consistent a brand of ball" as did Maine.

After all, Maine isn't playing Oklahoma-type basketball in which anything over 35 points is a school scoring record.

Ike Webber, obviously a dyed-in-the-wool Maine rooter, writes in defense of the present style of ball. I don't think it needs any defense but Ike has some good points.

He cites the precision with which the Maine players execute their plays. As an example of this, he offers the screen plays that let Al Hopkins waltz in for those lay-up shots against Bowdoin last Saturday night.

Ike adds something that cannot be denied when he says that "the record of this team, a team that won only four games last season playing the 'run-run-run' style, justifies the Rankin system. We have seen them win five straight (including the Bowdoin game) on the Orono court."

Incidentally, Mr. Webber makes the prediction that Maine will come out 12 to 15 points better than Rhody here Feb. 22. Any takers?

While we, in the column, have been accusing Bates and Colby of numerous foul deeds, it appears that Rhode Islanders have a few things to say to us.

They noted the fact that their team was forced to wear T-shirts when Maine wore pale blue at Kingston. The comment was "Shades of ex-coach Eck Allen?"

A check on the rules shows that the home team will wear white. Coach Haire of Rhody apologized to Doc and explained that recently-ordered white uniforms had not arrived.

Mayhaps the Rhody paper should check the facts before making any further insinuations.

Bears Face Colby In Crucial Waterville Tilt

Frosh, ASNS Vie In Friday Night Court Feature

Coach Hal Westerman's frosh squad will face the Aroostook State Normal School quintet in Friday night's hoop feature at Memorial Gym at 6:15 p.m.

Have Good Record

The Teachers from Potatoland have a good record to date with wins over several of the more powerful clubs on their own level plus an easy victory over the University of New Brunswick.

The yearlings' coach will probably string along with the same lineup that started the three previous games. Dave Anderson and Len Carville will be at the forwards, Ernie Sutton at center and Al Hackett and Johnny Dana at the guard spots.

Dana Sparks Frosh

The whole frosh team has looked good to date. Dana, especially, has impressed the fans with his clever ball handling while Hackett has proved to be a reliable point gatherer from the other guard post.

Spencer, Bird Pace New Dorm 3, PGD In Carnival Skiing

Bob Spencer of New Dorm 3 and Bill Bird of Phi Gamma Delta paced their respective teams to victory in the abbreviated Winter Carnival intramural ski races.

Spencer placed first in both the dormitory slalom and downhill races, the only two events to be held, and Bird was first in the slalom and second to Red Eastman of Phi Kappa Sigma in the downhill.

Slalom—Dorm: 1, Spencer, New Dorm 3; 2, Allen, Corbett; 3, Wilson, ND 6; 4, Amann, ND 3. Fraternity: 1, Bird, PGD; 2, Hawley, PGD; 3, Rowe, PMD; 4, Hibbard, SC.

Downhill—Dorm: 1, Spencer; 2, Amann; 3, tie between Lincoln, ND 3, and Wilson. Fraternity: Eastman, PKS; 2, Bird; 3, Rowe; 4, Beaudry, PKS.

Three Hockey Tilts Slated For Sunday

Phi Mu Delta and Phi Gamma Delta will meet in the opener of a three-game hockey slate scheduled for Sunday afternoon at the University rink. The game will start at 1:15.

In the other two games the Eskimos will tangle with the Blue Devils and the Cyclones will clash with the Browns.

Annual Co-Recreation Night Set For Jan. 21

The fourth annual co-recreational program will be held in the Women's Gym Saturday night, Jan. 21, from 8 to 11.

Sponsored by the Women's M Club, the program will consist of badminton, table tennis, volleyball, and shuffleboard.

Rifle Team Wins Again

Maine's rifle team defeated Norwich University, 1386 to 1380, last week to maintain its lead in the Northern Group of the New England College Rifle League.

Bears Trample Bowdoin, 57-37 As Offense And Defense Click

The sensational Black Bears added another win to their growing string of state series victories last Saturday night by trouncing Bowdoin with great ease, 57-37.

The slaughter of the Brunswick hoopsters gave the Pale Blue four state series wins against no losses, making them need only two more victories to gain at least a tie for first place. Three wins will give them outright possession of the title.

It was lanky Vic Woodbrey who again paced the Bears in the scoring department with 16 points, but the

Relay Team Set For Hub Meet

Coach Chester Jenkins' four-man varsity relay team will compete for the Yankee Conference one-mile relay title at the Knights of Columbus Relays in Boston Friday, Jan. 27.

Comprised of John Bowler, Don Green, Clint Tripp, and Jack Wathen, running in that order, the relay squad nosed out Colby shortly before Christmas vacation in its only previous competition.

Coach Jenkins expects Rhode Island State to provide most of the opposition for his squad.

Times for the races will be recorded and when teams run in the BAA meet the following week, these times will be used to match them evenly.

Freshman Track Team To Face South Portland

An undermanned Freshman track team will open its indoor season against South Portland High School in the Field House Saturday afternoon.

The Frosh show some promise in the weights, with six men working out, but are light in the dash and hurdle events. The distance races and jumping events are also weak points, according to Coach Chester Jenkins.

Pale Blue Can Assure Tie For Title Saturday

By BOB SLOSSER

Coach Rome Rankin's red-hot Black Bears will be going after their sixth straight state series victory and at least a first-place tie for the title when they meet the surging Colby Mules Saturday night at Waterville.

If the Bears can get by the Mules, they can lose the rest of the series games and still tie for the crown. If they kick the Mules around and beat any of the three teams once more, they will have the championship outright.

Mules Out For Revenge

But, as "Doc" Rankin said, "Colby will be tough," and paced by Teddy Shiro, who is pushing Vic Woodbrey hard for the individual scoring title, they will be anxious to avenge the 40-34 loss handed them by the Bears in the first round of play.

The Mules have shown in their last few games that they can reach the big figures when they're hitting, and this will be the game in which they will be giving everything they have.

In preparation for this crucial battle, Rankin has been putting his squad through offensive and defensive fundamentals and working on Colby's offense and defense.

His boys are anxious to meet the Mules to determine once and for all where the power lies in the state.

Osgood On Shiro

The job of guarding the versatile Teddy Shiro will probably fall again to little Lowell Osgood, the Pale Blue's defense stalwart. In the last meeting, the crafty and speedy "Os" held the former Waterville High star to five points, an unusual low for the hoop wizard.

Rankin said that he would probably go along with his same starting five, which has Osgood and Al Hopkins at guards, Charlie Goddard at center, and Vic Woodbrey and Bert Goddard at forwards.

Play New Hampshire

On Feb. 8, the Bears will face the University of New Hampshire here in another Yankee Conference game.

The rapidly improving Granite Staters recently knocked off Bowdoin by a sizable margin and have shown themselves to be an unpredictable threat in the Yankee Conference.

Last year, they knocked off the Maine men both at Orono and at Durham, which will give the Bears added incentive for going all out this year.

Wind And Rain Wash Out Most Of Big Event

Women's Gym eventually had an orchestra to play for them.

A solution was reached when the Intramural Association got together with the Maine Outing Club, which was sponsoring the Snow Ball, and the Maine Bears were brought over to the Memorial Gym. Snow Ball ticket-holders were admitted also.

Because of the conditions, Dean Wilson extended late permissions for women to 3 a.m.

Sculpture Ruined

The snow sculpture judging set for Saturday was called off because the rain the night before had ruined all semblance of art in the sculptures.

Due to the canceling of events a substitute program went into effect Saturday afternoon. "March of Time" movies were shown in the Louis Oakes Room and a record concert was held in Carnegie Hall.

A recreational program, with shuffle board, table tennis, and other games, was held in the Women's Gym.

Some of the disappointment caused by weather was dissipated Saturday night, however, when Maine trounced Bowdoin, 57-37, before an appreciative audience in Memorial Gym. The victory marked Maine's fourth straight win in State Series competition.

Hill To Speak

Prof. Richard C. Hill will lecture on "Growth" at an open meeting of the University of Maine chapter of Sigma Xi, national research society, at 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 9, in the Louis Oakes room.

The University of Maine was established originally as the State College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts under the provisions of the Morrill Act, approved by President Lincoln in 1862.

Wilner Advises College Students To Start At Bottom, Work Up

"There are plenty of jobs available for the individual who has the ambition to get ahead," a Maine manufacturer told a group of students here last Thursday.

Speaking before a large number of business administration students, Joseph R. Wilner, president of the Wilner Wood Products Corp. of Norway, added that "the college graduate should not attempt to start in at the top of his profession, but should be satisfied in learning the business from the bottom rung up."

Addressing the group on the topic of "Problems of Business Management in Small Firms," Mr. Wilner expressed his belief that too many college graduates seek employment with the attitude that they should have nothing to do with the menial tasks which are so necessary in learning a trade effectively.

Mr. Wilner told the students that "a sound education is very essential and important in preparing oneself for managing a business of any kind," and advised that "it is of value to the small business man, especially as he grows, to build from within upon a strong foundation."

Mr. Wilner pioneered with the manufacture of wooden heels for women's shoes (wedgies) in the United States, beginning with a small shop employing two persons. His Norway plant now covers over 40 acres and provides employment for 600 to 800 workers in the manufacture of wooden heels and other products.

Communion Postponed

All Tuesday communion services will be cancelled until after the beginning of the next semester. The Canterbury Club will not hold any more meetings until after classes are resumed.

Study Room Nearly Completed, Says Librarian

The new library reference room will be ready for use in several weeks, according to officials. The old reference room will be used for literature of the College of Technology.

Also nearing completion is the recreational reading room. Louis T. Hibbetsen, University librarian, says that easy chairs will be provided.

Chimes, which will ring ten minutes before classes begin, are being placed in both rooms.
