Modern War Is Obsolete, Says Romulo

Big Crowd Hears Memorial Gym Talk

By DON KING

A futile world in which human progress would be reduced to zero because of the devastating threat of uranium and hydrogen bombs was pictured today by Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo, president of the United Nations General Assembly, who spoke to a crowd that packed Memorial Gym this morning.

The only defense against such agents of mass destruction is the good will of men, which is being harnessed by the United Nations, the Filipino world statesman said.

The U.N. dignitary was introduced by President Arthur A. Hauck. Music, including the Philippine national anthem, was played by the University symphony orchestra.

New Urgency Is Cited

The advance of science has given the problem of ending war and preserving peace a new meaning and a new urgency, Romulo said.

His words on the new bomb were: "Science has placed in the hands of Mars, not only the already known biological and chemical weapons of destruction, which are of sufficient power to wipe out the human race, but also the atom bomb and, more recently—the hydrogen bomb—which promises to make the bomb which disintegrated Hiroshima look like child's play.

"It is credited with the appalling power of being able to turn this planet into a flaming gaseous mass in which the extinction of life would be a matter of just a few minutes. A new sun will have taken its place in the celestial space if man should use this infernal super-bomb."

All Areas Would Suffer

The catastrophe of the H-bomb will not be confined to any one area of the world, he warned.

"War," he said, "has become obsolete in the sense that it can no longer serve any useful purpose or solve any problem without the risk of annihilating the disputants and destroying the very earth they inhabit."

Adjustment to new facts and realities takes time, the ambassador said. "When the changes required are as great and revolutionary as those implicit in the power of the new weapons, the difficulties are multiplied. Every day that passes without progress in the solution of our basic problem of war and peace reduces our

Charlie Goddard Breaks School Scoring Record As Maine Defeats Colby

Scores 36 Big Points To Lead Team To Victory Over Last Year's Champs

By JOHN MURPHY

Big Charlie Goddard dropped in 36 points, a new scoring record for Maine players, to give Coach Rome Rankin's Bears the 1949-50 state series basketball title with a 63-58 victory over Colby Monday night in Memorial gym before some 3,000 partisan fans.

Goddard's scoring spree was a new high for a Maine player against any opponent. The previous high was 34, set by Charlie Norton in 1944 against Colby at Waterville.

Charlie, playing his last state series game for Maine, scored 11 points in the first half and 25 in the second on 16 field goals and four foul shots.

When he left the game on fouls with approximately five seconds left to play, he received a tremendous ovation from the fans. The entire crowd rose to its feet and roared its approval for several minutes.

Eight Series Wins

The victory left the Rankinmen on top of the series standings with a record of eight wins and a single loss. Colby, which still must play Bates, has won five games and lost three, two of them to Maine.

Monday night's hard-fought victory gave Maine its fourth series title in six years. The last title came under Eck Allen in the 1947-48 season.

Sparked by Ted Shiro and Warren Finegan, both of whom tallied 14 points for the defending champion Mules, Colby threatened to make a runaway of the game, piling up a 14-5 advantage at the seven-minute mark.

Then Charlie and his mates started to click with Charlie's eighth and ninth points evening the score at the end of 14 minutes. Finegan dropped a foul shot to put Colby ahead, 16-15, but Bert Goddard's hook shot a minute later put the Bears out front, 17-16.

Lead At Half

Except for two minutes in the middle of the second half, Maine held the lead throughout although the margin was never anything to rest upon.

Sunday Concert President Hauck Attracts 1,000 In Spite Of Rain To Foundation

By ROLAND MANN

An audience of nearly 1000 braved rain and sleet Sunday afternoon to hear the University Glee club in a half-hour concert given in Memorial gym and broadcast throughout New England.

The program, 15th in the current series of "Music from New England Colleges" sponsored by the Monsanto Chemical company, went off without a hitch. Radio reception was excellent in spite of the gymnasium's bad acoustics.

Soloists

Priscilla Goggin, Jean-Paul Roberge and Paul Payson were soloists with the Glee Club in a program which ranged from the "Trumpet Song" of Henry Purcell to Fine's modern—and lively—"Father William." Five selections of the twelve in the concert were U. of M. songs.

University Open House Scheduled For April 29

The University will hold an Open House on Saturday, April 29. Displays and exhibitions of particular interest to high school students, parents and friends will be part of the Open House activities.

The committee in charge is headed by Prof. Benjamin Kent, chairman. Other members are Charles Crossland, Prof. Irwin Douglass, Howard Keyo, Francis McGuire, Prof. Katherine Miles, Prof. Robert Supple, Prof. Wilmarth Starr and Harold Westerman.

President Hauck Gives Approval To Foundation

Speaking before the Maine alumni of the Technical Association of the pulp and paper industry in New York, President Arthur A. Hauck yesterday gave his support to a foundation to be established for the University by the association.

Speaking at a luncheon at the Roosevelt Hotel, President Hauck said: "The University was the first school in America to train men in the pulp and paper industry. It is therefore appropriate that a foundation be established at the University of Maine."

The proposed foundation would foster a six-point program:

(1) To interest more students who major in chemical engineering or chemistry, to select the pulp and paper course.

Varsity Band To Give Concerts In Southern Maine This Week

The rafters of Portland's huge City Hall auditorium will ring to the strains of the Stein Song as the varsity band presents its first concert of the year tomorrow night in the Forest city.

The following evening the band will move on to Augusta to take part in an observance of the 85th anniversary of the University's founding, sponsored by that city's alumni group.

Dance Follows

A dance with music by Bruno Calandro and his Maine Men will top off the festivities in Portland while the Augusta concert is one of many events on the program to be held at Cony high school.

Director Francis G. Shaw will conduct the same program in both cities. The selections to be played by the 90-piece organization range from light classics to popular melodies and include Cole Porter's "Begin the Beguine," a medley of Jerome Kern's best, and the spirited "Orpheus Overture."

David Simonton '50, baritone, and John Godsoe '52, trumpet, will be featured soloists.

Frats Continue To Give Pledges The Good Life

The first concentrated spring rushing period since 1941-42 went into its second week of operation today as fraternity rushing committees continued to show prospective pledges the advantages of fraternity life.

Activities began last Thursday and continued over the week end with sports, movies, and open houses to occupy the rushees. Rushing will continue to March 2.

This is the first post-war year in which the old type system of rushing is being used. Instead of having the upperclassmen put the pressure on a student until he signs the pledge card, the transaction is now being done through the Dean of Men. Those being rushed draw up a list of the houses which they prefer in order.

The fraternities, on the other hand, draw up two lists. One is a preferential list similar to the one above with all the names of the students that they prefer. If the quota is not filled then the second list is checked off from top to bottom until the desired number is reached.

The system, which was used very successfully before the war, was voted into effect by all the houses. It prevents many hasty decisions and also hard feelings among the students, by letting them have their choice of houses under a secret ballot.

Dr. Klein In Hospital

Dr. John F. Klein, professor of German, suffered a heart attack at about 7:45 this morning. He was taken by ambulance to the Eastern Maine General Hospital in Bangor.

Rhode Island came from behind last night with seven minutes to play to beat down a fighting University team, 51-48.

The Bears tied the score midway in the first period and were not headed until late in the second half when Stewart's jump shots started connecting.

Cubist Etchings Now Showing

Twenty-two signed etchings by the pioneer cubist Jacques Villon will be on view for the rest of the month in the Carnegie hall print room. Until recently almost unknown in America, Villon is recognized today as one of the most influential artists of this century.

That these etchings are "cubist" in conception might come as a surprise to the casual visitor to the gallery, for there is little dislocation of natural forms to be seen in them. Villon goes beneath the surface of his subjects to reveal their basic geometry.

Nobody could feel a need to ask, "What is it?" And Villon's remarkable technique makes his etching more brilliant than nine-tenths of the oils in the average exhibit.

Prices of the pictures are low enough to put them within reach of most buyers.

Red Cross Programs

All students interested in taking part in the Red Cross programs on campus are urged to contact chairman Roy Joyce at the MCA building.

The programs include first aid, water safety, accident prevention and home nursing.

Edward Little Tops Debaters

Edward Little High school of Auburn won the second annual University of Maine Debate tournament here Saturday, Feb. 18. The tournament was sponsored by the University Debate club.

The topic by which Edward Little gained a victory over Bangor was: Resolved, That the President of the United States Should be Elected by Direct Vote of the People. This is the second consecutive year that Edward Little has won the tourney.

Preliminary bouts were judged by Debate club members under the direction of William Whiting, club adviser. Finals were held in the Oakes room and were judged by faculty members.

'The Seedling' Is Radio Presentation

The Radio guild will present "The Seedling," the second of a series of broadcasts Sunday evening, Feb. 26, at 10:30.

Written by Ernest Kinoy of the National Foundation of Christians and Jews, the production will be directed by Keith Fowles. Mr. University will be the narrator.

Musical Show To Be Masque's Next Production

"Green Grows The Lilacs," a play with music by Lynn Riggs, will be the third production of the Maine Masque Theatre this season, Prof. Herschel L. Bricker has announced. It will be staged March 22-25.

"Lynn Riggs, one of America's foremost folk dramatists, has given us in 'Green Grows The Lilacs,' a play with realistic characterization, fast-moving dialogue, and a plot packed with humor and intrigue," Prof. Bricker said. "Oklahoma," the recent Broadway success, was based upon Riggs' script.

Biggest In Years

Plans are underway to make this production one of the biggest that the Masque has attempted in years, with emphasis placed especially upon the scenery and lighting effects.

Although the entire cast has not yet been posted, most of the leading roles have been announced. Lynne Hatch, Beverly Bouchard, Dot McCann, Bill Heyne, Dwight Frye, Norm Anderson, Charlie Loranger, Ed McDermott, Dave Simonton, and Jack Dion are among those who have received roles.

LYNNE HATCH

Western Romance

The script deals with a romance during the early days of our Western frontier. The main plot is supplemented with several smaller conflicts. Throughout the script are intermingled songs, dances, villains, and buffoons. It is as though the author had taken a slice out of the wild West, aptly portraying the folk lore and everyday life of those territorial settlers.

Tickets will go on sale the first of March.

German Society Meets Wednesday

A meeting of Deutscher Verein, honorary German society, will be held Wednesday, March 1, at 7:15 p.m. in 17 North Stevens. New members will be initiated at this meeting and president David L. Nichols will present a Kurzdrama, or a recording of a short version of Schiller's Wilhelm Tell.

Listen to the Maine Radio Guild every Sunday at 10:30 p.m. over WLWZ.

Tri-Delt Members To Present Recital

Sophomore members of Delta Delta Delta sorority will present an informal music recital Monday, Feb. 27, at 8 p.m., in Carnegie Hall.

The program for the recital follows: Instrumental trio: Barbara Burrows, Virginia Norton, Mary Gerrish, Fairy Tales (Marchen) Komzak, Elegie, Massenet; vocal solos by Priscilla Goggin, Visi d'Arte, Verdi, The Soldier, arr. by Bennett.

Roads, Walks Good, Dempsey Reports

The roads and walks of the campus are in good condition, according to Carroll J. Dempsey, superintendent of buildings and grounds. Frequent thaws have made them a little rough, but constant maintenance has kept them in satisfactory repair.

Permanent repairs will have to wait until after the spring thaw, Dempsey reports. Long range plans call for a complete rebuilding of roadbeds on the campus, for the present roads are not laid on a firm base.

Maine Debaters Meet California By Tape Record

Something new in intercollegiate competition will be inaugurated at the University of Maine this week when the Maine debating team begins a debate on nationalization of industry with the University of California.

Although the opposing teams will be some 3,000 miles apart, the complete text of their speeches will be carried to the opposition by tape recording. The debate will be carried on in conventional style as if the two teams were meeting face to face.

The only difference will be in the interval between the time when the debate begins until it is completed. It is estimated that the debate will take 10 weeks.

Maine will begin the debate with a ten-minute constructive speech recorded on a sixty minute recording tape. The tape will then be mailed to Berkeley, California, where the California debaters will listen to Maine's speech, record their ten minute counter-speech on the same wire, and ship it to Orono. This exchange will continue until each school has recorded two ten-minute constructive speeches and two five-minute rebuttal speeches.

The availability of tape recorders to college debate teams throughout the country has made it possible to arrange formal arguments with teams all over the nation. Negotiations are now under way for a similar debate between the University of Maine and the University of Florida.

Indian Girl Speaks On Brotherhood

Miss Annamma Thomas, an Indian student at the Union Theological seminary, New York, spoke to students and faculty Sunday on the meaning of brotherhood.

The talk by Miss Thomas and an international tea in South Estabrooke were held in observance of Brotherhood Day on the campus.

About 100 attended the tea at which some of the foreign students were dressed in costumes of their native countries.

Rabbi Milton Elefant, chaplain for Jewish students on campus, was speaker at the opening event of the Brotherhood day observance in the Little theatre.

Listen to the Maine Radio Guild every Sunday at 10:30 p.m. over WLWZ.

Good Will Chest Goal $3,000; Canvass Will Last Entire Week

Over 4,000 University of Maine students will be asked to take part in the annual Good Will Chest drive here from Feb. 27 to March 6.

The kickoff for the annual drive will be Sunday night, Feb. 19, in the Louis Oakes room when President Hauck will address the captains.

This year's goal has been set at $3,000. The individual student will be asked to contribute two dollars if possible, and everyone is asked to give.

The money will be put to good use. Among other things the Chest helps needy foreign and American students in their schooling. Some of it goes to crippled children, some to the Maine Cancer Society, and some to exchange and D.P. students. A reserve fund is saved for disasters such as campus fires or the home mishaps of some of the students.

Dineen Is Leader

The leader of the drive is John Dineen, president of the board of governors and co-chairman with Mary Whitcomb on the campaign committee. Hap Gerrish and Ethel Scammon are handling the publicity.

The entire set-up is under president John Dineen. He has appointed 44 different captains who in turn have appointed their own workers to contact every student.

The workers will contact about ten students each in the dormitories. Off-campus students will be a little more difficult to get in touch with and it is hoped that any student not contacted will notify a member of the Committee.

Benefit Show Helps

The Chest received $267.80 from the Eddie Cantor shows, thus getting off to a flying start.

Dineen urges cooperation in the drive, saying, "It is very important that every one give as much as they can afford, to make this drive a huge success. It is a worthy cause."

Last year's drive fell $400 short of the same $3,000 goal. Two campus groups contributed 100%, the Home Management house and Kappa Sigma fraternity. Faculty members and campus organizations contributed $400.

Faculty advisor for the organization is Charles Crossland, director of student and public relations.

Men's Clinic To Begin Here Wednesday

The Office of Student Aid and Placement announces that a Senior Job clinic for men will commence on Wednesday, March 1, at 3:45 p.m. The meetings, under the direction of Philip Brockway, will be held weekly on Wednesdays through March 28.

The following items will be included: selection of opportunities, selection of prospects, preparation for application, writing data sheets, writing application letters, and conducting personal interviews.

As far as possible employers will appear as guest lecturers, particularly in order to demonstrate interviewing techniques. Student participation will be encouraged, as the meetings are of a discussion type. Samples of data sheets and application letters will be utilized in demonstrations.

Emphasis in early meetings will be directed toward helping the student select opportunities suited to his qualifications and an appreciation of those qualifications as a preparation for the application.

Mrs. Maine Club Elects Seven For New Members

The Mrs. Maine club has announced the list of officers for the current semester.

It is as follows: Mrs. Helen Smith, president; Mrs. Carolyn Kittredge, vice president; Mrs. Miriam Forrester, secretary; Mrs. Venita Sweet, treasurer; Mrs. LaVona McCowan, publicity; Mrs. Pat Chick and Mrs. Verna Buschena, program co-chairmen.

Engineering Society Sees Demonstration

Mr. David Gearing of the L. S. Starrett Co., Athol, Mass., spoke at a meeting of the student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers Wednesday, Feb. 15.

He demonstrated some of the new types of micrometer calipers, gauges, and other instruments made by his company.

The Weekly Eulogy

Everyone likes to see an outstanding individual performance in an athletic event. Sometimes they are few and far between. But when two great performances occur in less than a week, the fans really have plenty to talk about.

This week Maine fans had such an opportunity and, oddly enough, it was a combination of two brothers that created all the excitement.

Saturday night Bert Goddard, fiery and aggressive forward, stole the show with a display of sheer guts and drive against a super-shooting Connecticut club. The 24-year-old veteran, completely exhausted and a virtual shell at halftime, scored 21 points to keep Maine in the game and walk off with individual scoring honors. It was evident that Bert played much of the game on heart alone.

Monday night the younger Goddard took over in a slightly tremendous way. The six-foot, five-inch Charlie practically wrecked Colby singlehandedly by pouring through 36 points in a magnificent exhibition of shooting. In addition, the big boy was immense off the boards and his all around floor play was inspiring.

For Maine fans it couldn't have happened to a better guy. During his four years at Maine the big fellow has worked hard and never stopped trying. This year, under the careful eye of Doc Rankin, Charlie worked even harder and this work paid great dividends. His greatest individual performance came last Monday night in a game that Maine really wanted. It was the clincher and it couldn't have been at a more opportune moment.

When Charlie left the floor just before the end of the game, he received the greatest ovation any player has received on this floor for the last four years. In the dressing room Dr. Hauck congratulated Charlie on his great playing. In his typically modest way, the big fellow, tired but happy, said: "I guess I was lucky."

The win was a big feather in Doc Rankin's hat. In his first year as basketball coach he has brought his boys the state series crown. More than that, however, he has instilled in the team something that has not been seen here for many years. The fight and drive which the boys have shown this year attest to Doc's coaching wisdom and psychology.

And a word for Hal Westerman. This young man has won himself a big spot in the hearts of Maine basketball fans. His hard work with the boys and his vast knowledge of the game were vital factors in the team's success this year. Anyone who has watched him work alone with big Charlie will testify that he knows his stuff, but good.

All we can say is, we're glad you're all on our side!
—WOODY BIGELOW

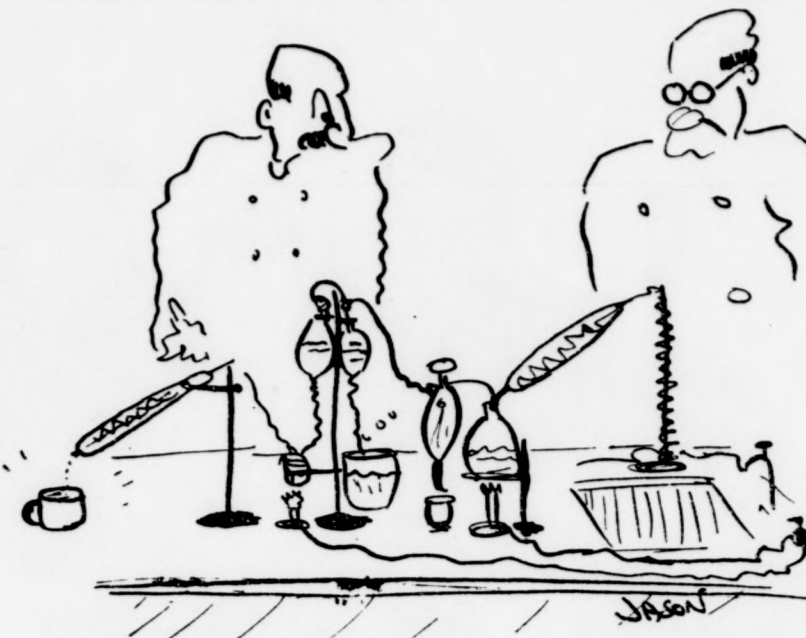

They're Not Flying Saucers

Since we're nearing the end of the basketball season, it seems only right that a word of praise be given to those small fry who roam the floor of the gym plying their trade of selling ice cream. Certainly they are the center of much attention.

To any outsider, the sight of these youngsters hurling ice cream bars into a upper bleachers with deadly accuracy might be amazing. But to the faithful who have flocked to the gym all year long it is a very familiar sight—and usually a comical one. Ice cream bars catching in the nets and at times being tossed right back at the salesman always get a laugh.

Whether they're chasing dimes and nickels or dodging basketballs, the kids always seem to be enjoying themselves—and so does the crowd.

According To St. James

By DICK ST. JAMES

What do you suppose Coach Joe Zabalski of Northeastern thinks of the University of Maine student body after that game last Friday night, huh? He'd be justified in thinking that it was the most unsportsmanlike, fickle, and generally rotten group in the history of athletic spectatorship. And this writer would back him to the hilt in that opinion, too.

For those who didn't see the game let us say that you were just as well off by not seeing it. You would have been disgusted by the foul conduct of the booing, jeering jackasses who hit a new low, even for this school.

Sure, they gave Joe Zabalski a long, loud cheer when he led his team to the court just before the game started, to show that they remembered him from his coaching days here. But that great welcome was nullified later in the game when they jeered him unmercifully for getting up off the bench to voice a mild protest to one of the referees.

It wasn't enough that Joe's team was taking a terrific beating out on the court. The vultures had to have their feast and give the visitors a rotten flailing from the stands. Booing in a close game isn't justified, either. But you'd have thought it was just that from the way our vultures and jackasses were going to work.

Zabalski's team was completely out-classed but stuck it out and played to win throughout. Joe sent in a substitute who made up in spirit what he lacked in finesse. He played hard and tried to get the ball, which, as far as we can see, is one of the main objects of the game. You just can't score unless you have the ball.

Anyway, this substitute played like a demon and, since he was a little rough around the edges, but not dirty, he had three or four fouls called on him within a few minutes. Each time he fouled, five hundred bleacher referees called it before the official ref did. Then they started riding the harassed substitute and calling for his removal from the game. Later on when the poor guy was awarded a foul shot himself, he and the referee were jeered without let-up. But he smiled and waited and took his shot. They weren't hurting him.

And that's the maddening thing about the whole business. Those jackasses aren't hurting anyone but their school and their athletic teams. That's why our athletes have such a rough time on foreign courts. That's why there is so much bad feeling between Maine and several of its rivals.

Perhaps our moronic vultures are proud of their performance of last Friday. If so, then what has been said here means nothing to them.

The Dull Edge

By STEVE RILEY

Open letter to Don Ruck, sports editor, The Connecticut Campus: Dear Don,

The recent appearance of the Uconns here at Maine brought to mind the columns you wrote earlier in the year advocating Connecticut's withdrawal from the Yankee conference.

Your columns seem to have had quite an effect down there at Storrs and a favorable one at that. At any rate you have put a stigma on the conference as far as the Connecticut fans are concerned.

If guys like you will just stand back for awhile and give it a chance to get going, the loop should provide some good competition in the years to come, both in basketball and football.

Even now, Connecticut isn't making any runaway of the football race. You did manage to grab part of the top spot this year along with Maine.

Just as an aside, on the first play of the first game I saw after arriving at Maine three years ago, a Maine back broke loose and plowed 65 yards through the entire Uconn team for a touchdown (Maine won the game, too). That was one guy's introduction to the vaunted Uconn teams—and maybe that's why I'm doubtful.

The Uconn hoop squad that showed here a few days ago was tops. There was no doubt about that. They shot sensationally, to put it mildly, and there they showed all-around ability. But they weren't out of Maine's class by any stretch of the imagination. After the first couple of minutes it was an even battle all the way.

The fans here want to see Connecticut come back next year. They want to see another good game, and they want to watch the Bears chew the Uconns to pieces—in a friendly way.

How about it, Don, we're beginning to think that you're worried about the conference getting too hot for you. All this talk about the Yankee conference being too slow isn't just a subtle way of getting out before things get too rough—or is it?

Panel Praised

To the Editor: Almost two weeks ago, my friends in the Politics and International Relations Club informed me of their plans to hold a panel on the domestic issues of the Truman Fair Deal Program. While it sounded like an excellent program, I had some doubts of its ability to attract much interest outside the Club itself. Public apathy regarding political questions is, and always has been, a notorious problem, and I failed to see any reason why this program should be an exception.

Our program committee, however, went to work. Within a week they had secured the services of Mr. Waldo Proffitt of the Commercial's editorial staff, Mr. John Gronouski of the Economics Department here at the University, Mr. Delmont Dunbar of the News' editorial staff, and Mr. Richard Bradford of the Merrill Trust Company in Bangor. One of our advisors, Mr. Gerald Grady, consented to act as moderator.

Then the publicity began. Posters were pinned around the campus. Club members spoke of it to their friends outside the Club. The Campus aided in the campaign. Eventually it was decided that the Louis Oakes room would not be large enough to accommodate those who might wish to attend, and the program was transferred to the Little Theatre. The panel discussion was held before an audience of perhaps 300 people.

What was said, and which side dominated the discussion is not really important. The "really important" thing was that so much intelligent interest was exhibited on the part of the students, their friends, and those connected with this University. From my point of view, that fact alone was one of the most encouraging of signs, and points toward an active citizenship on the part of our student body.

Today, our economists and government teachers tell us, the Federal government has become a positive, active force which touches almost every phase of our activity, and, either directly or indirectly, modifies not only our actions, but our very thoughts. Whether this is good or bad is not a question I propose to discuss here, but certainly it is obvious that popular interest and control are of paramount importance, if we are to keep bureaucracy from obliterating democracy.

Such interest and activity as were shown at the panel offer a great deal of encouragement to the student of politics and public affairs. I say let us have more such programs, and let us have them as often as possible.

By way of conclusion, I cannot overemphasize the amount of credit that is due to Marshall Hoffman and Harold Haley who planned and publicized the panel. Not only the Club, but all those who attended owe them a debt of gratitude for the pleasure and profit of the evening.

BY MARILYN HOYT

With sorority and fraternity rushing, thinking about brotherhood, and attending all the basketball games, this campus was a very busy place last week.

Since we had ball games both Friday and Saturday nights, most of the fraternities gave small, informal vic dances or parties to celebrate our loss and victory.

MARILYN

Lambda Chi held vic dances both evenings. The two affairs were well attended. Cookies, coffee, and cake were served.

Friday evening Tau Epsilon had a stag rushing party, and refreshments were served.

Phi Mu Delta held a vic dance Saturday evening after the Connecticut game which was attended by many couples. Two short movies were shown: a comedy featuring Woody Woodpecker and a reel on skiing. Coffee and doughnuts were served afterward.

Last Saturday evening, Alpha Omicron Pi held an open house vic dance in South Estabrooke dining hall, immediately following the game. Refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. E. Reeve Hitchner and Mrs. Bette Kilpatrick chaperoned the affair.

A.T.O. combined a rushing party and vic dance last Saturday night, which over 30 couples attended. Punch, coffee and cake were served.

Beta also held a vic dance after the game Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. William Jeffery chaperoned. Refreshments were served.

Stags have been seen running wild over at Sigma Chi way... for the last two Tuesdays and the last two Thursdays... that house has been holding rushing smokers. Refreshments served all four times, too!

Friday night Sigma Nu held a vic dance with Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Goodrich and Mr. and Mrs. John Calkin chaperoning. Saturday evening, another dance was held with Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Little and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Graham acting as chaperons. Refreshments were served at both parties.

Then on Sunday night, Sigma Nu showed its weekly movie, this time a film entitled, "See My Lawyer." Chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. Theron Sparrow, and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Kent.

On Sunday afternoon, the Alpha Omicron Pi pledges held a tea in the Balentine sun-parlor, which pledges of other sororities and their sorority mothers attended. Refreshments and decorations utilizing the valentine theme was carried out.

Nearly 100 students and faculty members attended the Brotherhood tea at South Estabrooke Sunday afternoon, given by the foreign students in honor of Miss Annamma Thomas of Travancore, India.

During the afternoon the group listened to the Glee Club concert which was being broadcast from the Memorial gym.

Pouring at the tea were: Shirley Look, Ann Preble, Frances Dion, Lois Murphy, Janice Minott, Natalie Tarr, Miss Alida Blampied, and Mrs. Ida Sturtevant.

Serving were: Jackie MacFarland, Ruth Curtis, Hilda Ward, and Mary Jane Crockett.

Hilda Livingston and Bernadette Stein were co-chairmen of the affair.

I'm afraid Saint Valentine made a terrific mistake in his inventory last week. The following are pinned, not engaged:

margin of safety."

Romulo reviewed the role the U.N. is playing in coping with the atomic problem. Although it has achieved little success so far, he held that agreement on means of control might be reached "sooner than originally expected."

"This of course will not be the end of the road to peace," he warned.

If man's threat of self-destruction is unchecked, the statesman said, the ultimate result "would mean the degeneration of man's intellect, the brutalization of his instincts. It would mean that, no longer master of his destiny, under conditions reducing that destiny to zero, man will cease to achieve his goal and human progress will simply have to stop."

Calls For Confidence

Romulo called for continued confidence in the United Nations, calling it the "force that can eradicate the root causes of war."

"We have to decide quickly to live together as good neighbors in peace and for peace, or forfeit our right to live at all."

A luncheon in honor of Ambassador Romulo was scheduled for 12:45 this afternoon in Estabrooke Hall.

air, producer Leonard Patracelli told the audience he was relieved that such a large number had attended. With the gym empty, he explained, echoes would have been so bad that the concert would not have broadcast well.

The program, which was punctuated by two fairly dignified commercials, had to be very carefully timed. But the demands of what announcer Bob Tyrol called "the almighty minute and the almighty second" were evident only once. That was in the Stein Song, which was the final number on the program, and apparently had to be sung at a fairly rapid clip to enable the broadcast to end on time.

University Had Radio Station In 1926; Statewide Broadcasts Featured Music, Sports

By SID FOLSOM

The idea of a radio station at Maine has aroused interest among many students. Many other schools throughout the country now have their own small stations, broadcasting college news and music to their communities.

But how about the University of Maine? Is the idea still a new one to our campus? The answer is No.

Jan. 24, 1926, the U of M broadcasting station, WGBX, went on the air with the first of a series of programs of popular interest. Featuring programs of music, lectures, and broadcasts of athletic events, WGBX extended its services beyond the limits of the campus, and serviced listeners within a radius of 100 miles.

Two Programs A Week

Broadcast on a frequency of 1280 kilocycles, or as it was termed in the "good old days," 234 meters, the programs were sent out twice a week from the transmitter in Lord hall. A studio was set up in Wingate hall with the aid of funds set aside for this purpose by the University.

The 100-watt station began as a part of some advanced laboratory work in the electrical engineering department, under the direction of Prof. Walter J. Creamer. The first experimental broadcasts originated in what is now the women's gym during a high school basketball tourney. The announcing was done by a Maine student.

Many of the programs which were presented consisted of lectures by members of the faculty about subjects connected with their fields of instruction. A number of broadcasts were presented as a part of the University extension service. Educational programs were scheduled from time to time.

Station Praised

During the two years in which the station operated, much interest was aroused throughout the state. A number of comments were received from prominent alumni who praised the idea as proof that the University was keeping up with the times, and moving ahead for the benefit of the people of the state.

The death of the station came when it was decided that the expense of operating such a unit was more than the provided funds could cover. Much of the equipment which was used in the transmitter was transferred to the electrical engineering laboratory courses, where some parts are still used for experiments.

A number of differences will be noticed in contrasting the operation of WGBX with the proposed campus-wide radio station. Most of the work of putting on the shows over WGBX was done by members of the faculty. The educational lectures and discussions were conducted by members of the related departments at the University, while much of the engineering work of broadcasting was performed and supervised by faculty members.

New Students

In general, the only students connected with the station were the few who did occasional announcing, and the members of the musical groups which presented concerts for the Sunday afternoon broadcasts.

It was partly because of this lack of student participation in the station's activities that the idea of broadcasting was finally given up. A possible lack of interest by the student body shifted all of the work of broadcasting and promotion upon the shoulders of the faculty, and the idea was abandoned because it seemed impractical.

In contrast to this, the campus-wide station which now has been proposed by students at Maine will provide for student participation. It will keep itself in operation through the student interest aroused by this general participation.

Maintenance Clinic For 4-H'ers Started

Maine's fourth annual State 4-H Club Tractor Maintenance clinic began Wednesday evening at the University.

Two 4-H club boys from each county, who possess outstanding mechanical ability, will attend lectures delivered by Charles R. Lund, the rural youth director for the American Oil company.

The clinic will last until Saturday morning. The boy who best puts into practice the knowledge that he acquired at this clinic will be awarded a trip to the National 4-H Club congress in Chicago next year.

Waterbury Rabbi Will Speak During Embassy Week

Rabbi Melvin Weinman of Temple Israel, Waterbury, Conn., will be one of the principal speakers at Embassy week, March 13-16.

A graduate of the University of Toledo, he was ordained by the Hebrew Union college, Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1947. While attending Hebrew Union college he served for two years as Hillel director at Ohio University. He held a similar post at the University of Virginia for one year.

Rabbi Weinman occupied pulpits at Niagara Falls, New York, and Luna, Ohio, before his present post in Waterbury.

Rabbi Weinman will speak Wednesday, March 15, in the Louis Oakes room. On March 12, he will speak at the Sunday service in the Little Theatre.

Madrigal Singers To Give Concert

A concert of 16th century madrigals will be presented by the Madrigal Singers Sunday, Feb. 26, at 4 p.m., in Carnegie hall. Madrigals of renaissance Italy, France, and England will be included on the program.

Madrigals, usually written for unaccompanied mixed voices, are among the earliest examples of non-religious vocal compositions. They are most often musical settings for love and pastoral poetry.

Members of the Madrigal Singers who will participate in the Sunday concert are Priscilla Goggin, Muriel Kenderdine, and Lila Zimmerman, sopranos; Joan Bither, Vera Edors, and Helen Friend, altos; James Selwood, tenor and conductor of the group; and Paul Payson and Kenneth Closson, basses.

Bear Facts

By JOHN MURPHY

This corner would like to nominate Charlie (Perfect 36) Goddard for president, governor, mayor, ambassador to the moon and any other offices that are vacant or soon will be.

Instead of receiving the Hillson Achievement award, the big guy should be awarded the whole darn plant with a year's supply of dirty clothes to clean.

And anybody who doesn't think so will have to face brother Bert.

The ovation that Charlie received when he left the Colby game on fouls must have made him feel darn good and I think everyone who cheered shared the feeling. It couldn't have happened to a nicer guy.

Rome Rankin and the University of Maine are going to miss big Charles next year. But the other schools in the state won't mind the loss a bit.

Lee Williams, Colby's coach, expressed what is probably a state-wide feeling among Maine opponents when he congratulated Charlie after the game. After telling Charlie what a great game he had played, Williams added, "And I'm glad you're leaving."

Charlie, never a "book store ball player," of which group I am a member in good standing, may not blow his own horn but everyone on campus should constantly applaud Maine's best center in history.

He had a rough start this season and for the first few games hardly totaled 36 points. Some of the newer element on campus were wondering just what was so great about him. Are there still doubters among the student body?

After the Colby game, Ted Curtis' office was crowded with folk trying to find out if Charlie had set a scoring record. As is mentioned in another story, his 36 points were a new high for a Maine player.

The Memorial gym record is, however, held by Ernie Calverly, the former Rhode Island great. Playing here in early 1944, he tallied 45 points as the Rams routed Maine, 115-37.

Coach Rome Rankin, who would undoubtedly like to have Goddard here for another four years, stated after the game that the victory and the series title were the result of hard work by his boys.

The boys were willing to work and Doc was willing to work them. It's too bad that they can't live together happily forever after.

An interesting sidelight on last Monday's game was the battle of words between hard-playing Lowell Osgood of Maine and clever Ted Shiro of Colby.

The war of nerves between these two guards went on through most of the game and would probably make good reading for a psychology class. Despite the fierce competition and scrapping between these two, it was kinda nice to see them shake hands and smile when Os fouled out.

This might sound a little la-de-da to some of our more hard-bitten students but a handshake and a smile can do a lot for people.

Referees Johnny Fortunato and Charlie Wotten called 21 fouls on each team. Despite the hard play in the game, things never got as bad as they have in other recent games. Displays of temper were few.

Nelson To Open Spring Football On March 13

Spring football practice will officially open Monday, March 13, according to head football Coach Dave Nelson.

Next Monday, however, backfield Coach Hal Westerman will start working out with backs and centers in Memorial gym.

Will Drill Indoors

Nelson plans to confine his work to the field house until after spring vacation. Then the squad will move outdoors. The spring drills will end with a game between last year's frosh players and varsity men the first week in May.

Nelson stressed the fact that the spring practice sessions would be open to all men interested. It will not be restricted to former frosh or varsity players.

Nelson is especially looking for replacements for graduating lettermen Reggie Lord, Don Barron, and Alan Candidates for the 1950 football squad will meet Tuesday, Feb. 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the field house team room.

Information sheets should be obtained at Faculty Manager of Athletics Ted Curtis' office and filled out prior to the meeting.

Wing on the offense. Defensive holes left by Barron, Wing, Lord, Stan Trask, and George Blaisdell must also be filled.

Harry Easton may be shifted to an end spot, Nelson stated, while Jimmy Butterfield and Ray Cox are strong candidates for guard and tackle spots.

Colby College has sent our WAA an invitation to a playday with Bates and Colby this coming Saturday. Basketball and badminton are the sports on the agenda for the day. Fifteen girls have been picked to represent us at this playday. They will leave Saturday morning and return in the late afternoon.

Frosh Play PJC Saturday

Coach Hal Westerman's frosh basketball team ends its season Saturday night against Portland Junior College in a 6:15 o'clock game in Memorial gym.

Billy Herman has a ten-game average of .448 in All Star contests.

Bears Trounce Northeastern But Lose To Strong UConns

The Pale Blue forces of Rome Rankin did themselves proud over the week end as they split Friday and Saturday games by scrubbing Northeastern, 61-43, and dropping a hard-fought contest to Connecticut, 67-58.

On Friday night, the Bears showed themselves highly superior to Joe Zabalski's Huskies as they opened up quick to go ahead at the two-and-a-half minute mark and never dropped behind.

Bears Roll

Sparked by reserve guard Larry Mahaney and big Charlie Goddard, both of whom tallied 15 points, the Pale Blue left no doubt as to their superiority in the minds of the fans. The second stringers poured in in the second half to continue to move away, letting up only in the final minute when Northeastern cut the lead to less than 20 points.

Saturday night's action was much faster and hotter as the Bears fought gamely, after a five-minute opening lapse, in an attempt to come from behind and upset their highly polished foes.

Their rally, sparked by the spirited Bert Goddard who tallied 21 points, fell short by seven points at the half, however, and they were able to do no better than battle on even terms for the final 20 minutes.

Maine Shows Well

There was no shame on the Maine squad for going down to the superb UConns, however. The Nutmeggers are rated as one of the hottest teams in the east, currently sweeping aside all opposition.

There was no doubt, except for the first five minutes, that Maine was equal to their taller opponents, matching them basket for basket and fast break for fast break for the rest of the evening.

High scorers tangle in last Saturday's Maine-Connecticut game as Vinny Yokabaskas (18) and Bert Goddard, partially obscured by Yokabaskas, go up after a rebound. Peter Lind of the UConns attempts to lend a helping hand while Vic Woodbrey (24) looks on.

Court Season Ends With NH, Vermont Week-End Contests

The state champion Black Bears will wind up their highly successful season this week end when they journey to the University of New Hampshire and the University of Vermont for Friday and Saturday games.

Due to a state high school basketball tournament Friday evening, the Bears and the Wildcats will play Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Durham.

In the first meeting between the two clubs here, the Pale Blue came out on top in a hard-fought game, 51-42.

"Doc" Rankin said that he is expecting a tough battle from the Granite Staters. They have shown all year that they are a fighting club, continually after the ball.

Saturday afternoon, the Bears meet Vermont for the first time this year. The game, scheduled for 3:30, is a highlight of the annual Kake Walk, a long-established University of Vermont week-end affair.

There are few predictions coming forth about this game, since Vermont has not been seen in Maine this year. However, the Catamounts hold wins over some of the better clubs in New England.

Seeks Second Victory After Taking Wildcats

By STEVE RILEY

Victorious in their first meet of the season against New Hampshire last week end, the Maine track men face a strong Springfield squad Saturday in the fieldhouse.

The Bears barely eked out a win over the Gymnasts last year and all the scoring members of that group plus added strength will be out for revenge.

Aside from the fact that his Pale Blues routed the Wildcats, 79-47, Coach Chet Jenkins has much to be hopeful about.

The veteran coach has come up with several new middle distance men and a miler that seem destined to make the outlook for the indoor season much brighter. Besides that, a mediocre frosh squad has produced some likely-looking prospects including a pole-vaulter who cleared 12 ft., no little jump for a comparative novice.

Set New Records

Sophomores John Bowler and Don Green surprised by setting new meet records in the 600 yard run and the 280 respectively. Bowler edged out the Wildcat's Jacobsmeier, a good all-around trackman, to win in the fast time of 1:14.7. Green's record-shattering time was 30.4 seconds.

Mac Osborne finished strongly in the mile and showed that he will have to be reckoned with by opposing coaches for the next three years.

To top off the story of the mile, Bob Parsons, a veteran of last year's squad but vastly improved, was a close second. Osborne's time was 4:33.1.

Another greatly improved Bear is broad jumper Jerry Haynes. Haynes was the squad's number one jumper last season, too, but his leap of 22 ft. 4½ inches in this first meet of the season may be indicative of better things to come.

Orach Wins

Steve Orach did the unexpected by making the winning toss in the 35 lb. hammer throw. Weighing only 165 pounds, Orach threw the weight 50 feet ¾ inch. Gordon and Jalbert followed to sweep the event for the Pale Blue.

As if the varsity's strong showing were not enough for one day, the freshmen also came through with a 68-40 decision over Deering High of Portland.

By far the outstanding feature of the frosh meet was George Weatherbee's pole vaulting. Weatherbee cleared 12 ft. and barely missed when the bar was raised to 12 ft. 3 in.

Postponed Hockey Tilts Slated For Week End

Last week end's intramural hockey games, postponed because of poor ice, will be played this Saturday and Sunday.

Saturday games will pit the Blue Devils against the Phi Gams, the Black Hawks against the Olympics and the Cyclones against Phi Mu.

Sunday the Blue Devils play the Olympics, Phi Mu meets the Bruins and Phi Gam faces the Eskimos.

Games will start both afternoons at 1:15, 2:15, and 3:15 o'clock.

Band Set For Southern Swing

A surprise will be in store for many of the alumni who are expected to attend the concerts. Before the war the Maine band was a military and all-male group. The present varsity band was formed after the war and it was only then that women were admitted. The tour will mark the band's first appearance in the two cities.

A later trip will take the band to Aroostook for a concert in Presque Isle and possibly other towns in that area.

Serving on the committee planning the tour are Beverly Pettengill, Elwood Beach, Stephen Hopkinson, Charlotte Hillman, and Bruno Calandro. William Bodwell, student leader, is the chairman.

Melody Time Theme Of Penny Carnival

The annual Penny Carnival, sponsored by the Women's Athletic association, will be held in the Women's gym on Friday, March 10. The theme will be "Melody Time," and students should come in costumes illustrating the theme of a song. Admission will be 59 cents, tax included.

The dance will last from 8 to 11:30, with music by Ray Downs.

Chairmen of the various committees, headed by Bertha Clark, are: Treasurer, Liz Marden; publicity, Connie Berry; posters, Bobby Packard; entertainment, Phyllis Boutilier; decorations, Ann Melhorn; concessions, Mary Belle Tufts; tickets, Rena Ratte; restaurant, Ann McKiel; invitations, Nancy Knowles; coat room, Jeanne McIntire.

Bears Wrest Title From Colby, 63-58, As Goddard Goes Wild

A 10-point splurge put Maine ahead, 27-21, as the first half ended. Colby tallied only seven points in the last 13 minutes of the first half while the Rankinmen made 22.

Charlie scored nine straight points for the Bears at the start of the second half to increase the lead to 36-27 before Finegan, Johnny Jabar and Jim Lazour cut it to four points shortly before the eight-minute mark.

Only a few seconds after Lowell Osgood had fouled out, Shiro deadlocked the score at 42-42 with a one-hand push shot. Twice Welson put Colby ahead but Charlie's jump shot evened it at 46-46 and Maine was never again headed.

Attempt To Stall

With Maine out front, 49-47, and less than six minutes to play, Charlie went on another splurge that netted Maine 11 points in four minutes to make the scoreboard read 60 to 50 in favor of Maine.

In the final two minutes, Maine attempted to stall with four men passing the ball around near the centerline. With a minute to play, the Bears were out front, 60-54.

While Jabar was adding a two-pointer and Blake two foul shots, Bert, Charlie, and Vic Woodbrey all dropped in free throws to insure the victory and the title for Maine.
