Aggies Vexed Over Hitches In Fair Plans

Babies And Animals Pose Big Problems

By Bob Wilson

Skeptical mothers, a be-kind-to-pigs movement, and the glamour ratings of cows are some of the problems bothering the Agricultural Club in its preparations for the fourth annual Farmers' Fair.

As the date, Nov. 18, draws near, the committee on arrangements is having difficulty getting entries for the baby-crawling race. The main problem here, according to committeemen, is the unpredictability of baby behaviour.

Experienced mothers know that when a baby is expected to do something he usually does nothing. Another aspect of this problem is that some babies crawl backwards. This presents a technical question for judges, who generally decide a race winner on the arrival time of the nose at the finish line.

Pig Will Get A Break

The traditional greased-pig event is canceled this year. The "powers-that-be" have discovered that grease is not good for a pig if left on too long. Besmeared winners in such events have a tendency to postpone renewed association with their prize until some of the ointment wears off. This year, an ungreased prize will be found atop a well-greased 25-foot pole.

All students are welcome to pluck the prize from atop the greased pole, just as they are welcome to enter any or all of the contests.

In the cow department, which will include about 16 cows and a like number of heifers, the animals will be

Queen Titlists Reign Airwaves

While queen candidates are getting plenty of publicity, the identity of the girl whom the Aggie Club selects as Calico Queen will be kept under ermine wraps until the coronation.

The candidates are jamming the airwaves this week and next week. Betty Brooks and Diane Draper were interviewed on WABI's 3 o'clock record program yesterday, and Gladys Armstrong and Dorris Mayne at the same hour today.

Next week, over the same station, Nancy Kelley and Eini Riutta will be interviewed at 3 p.m. Wednesday; and Janet Oliver and Susan Chase at 3 p.m. Thursday.

Next Tuesday, over WGUY, all of the queen candidates, plus Prof. Cecil E. Howes, faculty advisor to the Aggie Club; John Smiley, Fair manager; and John Findlen, publicity chairman, will participate in a 15-minute program featuring the records of Hal Reeves and his New Englanders.

Admission to the Calico Ball, Nov. 18, will be $2.50 a couple, according to Findlen.

Yell-Leaders And Football Team Make Student Fans Look Twice

By John Domenico

Maine's hard-hitting football team and the Pale Blue's silver-throated cheerleaders have at least one thing in common. Both employ the two-platoon system.

Maybe you're one of those sharp-eyed football fans who have noticed the modified two-squad system which the feminine half of the cheerleaders are using. Or maybe the sun was in your eyes, and you didn't realize that the five girls leading cheers at one home game were not the same ones rooting the previous week.

Head Cheerleader, Mary Belle (Tuffy) Tufts, that little fixture of smiling dynamics, came up with the facts in short order. She explained that the two-party system was instituted because of the great number

Plenty of Talent

From pre-season tryouts emerged 15 pantamine artists. On the feminine side, they were: Marilyn Cockburn, Jean Libby, "Flutter" Floyd, Phyllis Noyes, Jan Bannister, "Jinx" Livingston, Lois Hunter, Jan Hubby, Jan Hanna, and Ida Moreshead. The strong masculine support is supplied by Frank Beekman, Cedric Joyce, Lenny Silvers, Bryce Barton, and Red Fairley.

It sounds like great sport, having a

Additions To Scholarship Funds Announced By President Hauck

Important additions have been made to University scholarship funds, President Arthur A. Hauck announced this week. Three of the additions are endowment funds, and seven are expendable funds.

The endowment funds include:

(1) The Frederick W. Conlogue Scholarships for 1950-51. This fund, contributed by Frederick W. Conlogue, Boulder Creek, California, class of 1910, will amount to $2,000 for the academic year 1950-51. The scholarships are to be awarded by the University Scholarship Committee to worthy and needy students who are Maine residents and who have lived in this state for at least three-fourths of their lives.

(2) The Nathan P. Towne Scholarship Fund is an additional $5,000 received from the estate of the late Louis dePui Vail as the full and final payment of the bequest establishing the Nathan P. Towne Scholarship. This amount brings the endowment of the fund to $14,500. The income is used for a scholarship in mechanical engineering, preference being given (1) to an eligible student from Augusta, and (2) to a student residing in Maine.

(3) The Henry L. Griffin Scholarship Fund of $6,000 was received under the will of Lucy F. Griffin for the establishment of the Henry L. Griffin Scholarship. The fund was ac-

M-Day Arrives At Colby; Mayflower Hill Campus Is Week-End Casualty

U. of M. Football Field Also Damaged; Officials Of Both Schools Investigate

By Edith Curtis

Colby College's new Mayflower Hill campus became a football casualty last week end.

Although no precise estimate of damage was immediately available, unidentified vandals were reported to have left a number of glaring marks on Colby's new premises, which are one of the landmarks of the state.

Earlier, minor damage had been done to the University of Maine's Alumni football field.

First damage at Colby was discovered before game time Saturday. A large "M," about 5 feet by 3 feet, had been burned into the lawn directly in front of Miller library. The granite base of the college's war memorial flagpole was defaced by a large M painted on it.

Library Entrance Defaced

During the week end four M's were also painted on the wooden pillars at the entrance to the Colby library. On the granite steps of the library were painted the words "Beat Colby."

The doors to the gymnasium were embellished with four more M's.

Repairs were reportedly started sometime Monday. The painted M's on the pillars have been covered with cream colored paint, restoring the structures to their original appearance.

The damage, reported to the Campus by a reliable source at Waterville, was later confirmed by a semi-official source at Colby College.

Vandals Seen Once

It was also reported that some time during the week end the Waterville police stopped some young men from piling sections of sewer pipe on one of the Colby roads. The police reported that they thought the men were Maine students. It was the only time any vandals were seen.

Although Maine students were thought to have done the damage, there has been no official report on the matter, and the vandals are at this time unknown. It is known that on Friday evening several fraternity houses on the Maine campus received phone calls from someone who identi-

Frosh Victors In Double Header

A spirited freshman class walked off with all the laurels last Saturday morning when a dual triumph over the sophomores lifted Freshman rules. The Hat Game, between freshman and sophomore girls, ended in a 1-1 tie. In the tug-of-war, the freshman men dragged four die-hard sophomores across the water-soaked skating rink.

The All-Maine Women announced shortly after the Hat Game that freshman rules would no longer be in effect for girls.

Beanies were tossed skyward and trampled underfoot by the yearling men after Jim Murtha, Doug Kneeland, Glenn Folsom, and Dave Beppler were hauled 150 feet through the "frog pond."

The four Owls were met with cheers by the freshmen as the victors helped them to dry land.

Debate Team Ready For Vermont Meet

Eight Maine debaters will meet this week end at the University of Vermont to participate in the Fifth Annual Invitational Debating tournament.

Clair Shirley, Albert Weymouth, Leon Segal, and George Hersey will represent Maine's affirmative team. John Brewer, Lawrence Wright, John Thayer, and David Batchelder will represent the negative team.

Forty colleges and universities in the U. S. and Canada are expected to take part in the debate.

Over 300 debaters and judges will be present at the tournament, which opens the 1950-51 intercollegiate debate season for the University of Maine team.

No tournament winner will be announced, but judges will declare the wins and losses of each team.

Maine debaters will be accompanied by Professor Wofford Gardner and Mr. William Whiting.

No Cuts Until Tuesday

Unexcused class cuts tomorrow and Monday will be penalized. In view of the Saturday holiday arranged for the Bowdoin game, the 24-hour no-cut rule is in effect those two days.

Deutscher Verein To Hear Senior Back From Germany

Charles Lewis, who attended the University of Heidelberg in Western Germany last year, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Deutscher Verein, German honor society, on Nov. 9, according to Walter Chick, president.

Lewis, back here now as a senior, will speak on his experiences as a student in Germany. Following a discussion period, films will be shown and plans made for the Christmas play.

Department Heads Honored

Two faculty members of the University physical education department have been honored by the Maine Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation at the State Teachers' Convention.

Professor Stanley Wallace was given an "honor award with highest praise for distinguished service and for outstanding leadership in the field of health, physical education, and recreation."

Professor Marion Rogers received an award for distinguished leadership. Her citation pointed out that her "outstanding leadership in the field of physical education, health, and recreation has been a constant source of stimulation to the members of the profession in the state."

Both citations were signed by Amy H. C. Thompson, president of the association, and Howard Richardson, state director.

Rainy Weather Fails To Dampen Maine Spirits At Homecoming

More than 7,000 alumni and student football fans sat in a drenching rain last Saturday and watched the Maine Bears successfully clamp the lid on the last of the 20th annual Homecoming Week End's major events.

The Bears walked off with their second straight State Series tilt, 26-7. The Frosh yearlings had opened the two-day program Friday afternoon by beating Bridgton, 39-0.

A rally was staged Friday night, followed by a huge bonfire near the dump area. Ray Downs and his orchestra rounded off the evening's entertainment with a dance until 11:30 p.m.

An important highlight of the big week end was the presentation of the new Black Bear award to President Arthur A. Hauck and Alfred B. Lingley, president of the General Alumni Association. The bronze statuettes were awarded for "having done most for the University."

The Black Bear was awarded to President Hauck by Lingley. Lingley received his Bear from Raymond H. Fogler, prominent University alumnus.

Saturday morning the freshmen threw their beanies away. Earlier, the freshman men had won a tug-of-war pull with the sophomores and the Frosh girls had managed a tie with the sophomore women.

Phi Mu Delta won top honors in the decoration competition with their portrayal of "Mayflower Hill Cemetery" in the fraternity division. In the women's division, South Estabrooke took the cup with their white mule. The North Dorm area won honors over other men's dorms with a variety of displays.

President and Mrs. Hauck were host for a reception at their home after the game, while the All Maine Women were staging a tea dance in Memorial gymnasium.

Dutch Educator To Speak Today

Lennart Breure of the Netherlands, an educator who is currently visiting the School of Education here as part of a nation-wide tour of U. S. colleges, will speak to education students this afternoon in Room 6, South Stevens, at 1:45 p.m.

Mr. Breure was a guest at the regular meeting of the Bangor Rotary Club at the Bangor House on Tuesday. Prof. Garland B. Russell, director of teacher training, was the principal speaker at the meeting.

Prof. Flewelling Attends Waltham English Meeting

Professor Lloyd Flewelling of the English department attended the fall meeting of the New England branch of the College English Association held at Waltham, Mass., on Oct. 28.

Speakers included Thornton Wilder, Bernard DeVoto, Ludwig Lewisohn, and Douglas Bush.

A stranger standing in our midst Saturday, wearing a wet and bedraggled overcoat, was mumbling mournfully "What a mob of perverted Pollyannas we have here!"

Pollyanna or not, our students seem to have that die-hard spirit. Regardless of the rain storm last week end, everyone pitched in and made one of the best homecomings yet.

All of the fraternities held parties and dances. The dorms held open-house. Everything seemed to be in swing. One student even suggested hopefully that perhaps we could have another homecoming before the year is up.

Tri Delta so-riety held an informal coffee in North Estabrooke, after the game, in honor of the Colby Tri Deltas. Duvene Bryant was in charge of the coffee.

A capacity crowd enjoyed Sigma Nu's Hallowe'en Masquerade Party on Friday night. The evening was occupied by dancing and group singing. Refreshments were served. Captain and Mrs. Leo Sullivan and Sgt. and Mrs. Earl Eastwood chaperoned.

Phi Kap welcomed back its grads and their families with open-hearted spirit last week end. A. D. T. Libby, '98, entertained with reminiscences of former Maine-Colby games. His stories were colored by mention of such men as Professor Hannibal Hamlin and Louis Oakes. The alumni, brothers, pledges, and dates jammed the house Saturday evening as a vic dance climaxed the week end.

Alpha Gam played host to its alumni with a buffet supper and vic dance Saturday evening. The guests were entertained with songs by Al Ridley and skits by the members.

Tau Epsilon Phi held a buffet dinner and dance for more than 75 couples Saturday night in honor of homecoming guests. Chaperons were Major and Mrs. Samuel Unger and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shay.

A large crowd attended Phi Mu's homecoming dance Saturday night. The evening was highlighted with skits presented by pledges under the direction of Jim Vanites, and dances directed by John Camimitti. Chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Nutting.

Sig Ep went mountaineer at its costume dance, in Stillwater, Saturday evening. Following the game the couples went down to the Firemen's Hall for a spaghetti feed. The hall was decorated with evergreens, hay, and sketches by Tom White. Couples danced to music by Jimmy Hines' orchestra.

Balloons, colored triangles, barrel kegs, and vic music lent gaiety to Theta Chi's buffet supper and dance Saturday night.

TKE held a vic dance in Carnegie Lounge on Saturday evening. The rooms were decorated with a winter theme in mind, complete with snow balls, snow flakes, and a simulated fireplace.

Sammy Saliba's orchestra furnished music for the 150 guests at Delta Tau on Saturday evening. Preceding the dance a buffet supper was held at the house. Highlighting this event was Mr. John Patridge, New York, who is a charter member (1919) of Delta Tau here.

Later in the evening the group joined for a song fest which was led by Pat

Hurley. Chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smykay and Mr. and Mrs. Clark Richmond.

Lambda Chi also held a dance Saturday evening in honor of homecoming. One alum, whom the guests called '96, played the drums and led the couples in a stirring version of the Stein Song.

John Brewer directed pledges in a series of skits. The orchestra was composed of campus talent. Refreshments were served.

"Never saw so many people in my life," exclaimed one Sigma Chi member as he gazed at the dancing couples swarming the house. The main attraction was the orchestra that has been getting publicity with its Sunday jam sessions. The house was decorated in a Hallowe'en theme. Refreshments were served.

Pinned this week were: Barbara Gee to Tom Chellis, Delta Tau; Dennie Bryant to Bernie Benn, Sigma Nu; Glenice Blaisdell to Joe McNeilly, Kappa Sig; Julia Kasregis to Harry Angelides, Kappa Sig; Jane Emery to Jigger Haines, Phi Mu.

French Club Will Meet; New Members Welcomed

Le Cercle Francais will hold its next meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 15, in the S.R.A. building at 7:30 p.m.

All club members are welcome to attend. Membership is open to students majoring in French, honor students, and those exceptionally fluent or interested in the language.

Views of the City of Quebec will be shown and commented on by Miss Lilian Avila.

Bricker Named Sub-Chairman

Prof. Herschel L. Bricker has been named New England sub-chairman of the college and university section of a regional conference on theatre activities to be held in Boston on Saturday, Nov. 11.

Professor of theatre and director of the Maine Masque Theatre, Bricker also directs the Camden Hills Theatre during the summer months.

The appointment was made by the American National Theatre and Academy. This group is planning the regional conference "to determine how best to proceed to implement the theatre in serving audiences in every part of the country."

The Academy believes that such a conference will be valuable in placing theatre on a national scale so that it might be made available to all people. By examining all ideas, the "scope of living theatre might be expanded" by the Academy.

Boston University's department of radio, speech, and theater will be host to the New England group on Nov. 11.

Marine Reservists Get Extended Delayed Orders

Student Marine reservists will be granted additional delays before recall, according to an announcement by headquarters of the First Marine District.

The announcement states, "High school and college students who are members of the Marine Corps Reserve will be granted a delay in call to active duty to allow them to finish the current semester or term."

Reservists are currently allowed a delay of 30 days upon receipt of orders to report for active duty.

Senior Job Clinics Getting Under Way; New Series Planned

The University Student Placement Bureau began the first of five senior job-clinic series today in room 218, Library, according to Philip J. Brockway, director of Student Aid and Placement.

The system will give all seniors a chance to participate in a series. The present clinic series will last for five Thursdays. On Tuesday, Nov. 14, a series of Tuesday clinics will begin, and on the Wednesday immediately following Thanksgiving recess a Wednesday series will get underway. Brockway added that another series will be added if needed.

The purpose of the clinics is to discuss the techniques of job applications and will include such material as the application letter and the personal interview.

New Posts Open In Civil Service

Senior students majoring in any one of a number of departments may apply for Civil Service appointment as Junior Management Assistant, Junior Social Science Assistant, Junior Scientist, or Junior Engineer at the GS-5 level at $3100 per year, according to Philip J. Brockway, director of student aid and placement.

Possible major fields are: For the school of technology, engineering, chemistry, physics, or mathematics; for arts and sciences, public or business administration, political science, government, economics, international relations, industrial management or industrial engineering, sociology, psychology, anthropology, geography, or history.

Lay That Nozzle Down!

Two news stories on opposite sides of page one in last week's Campus offered a nearly perfect object lesson to certain playful denizens of the North Dorms.

One story was headlined "Fire Equipment Being Misused"; the other, "Fire in Colvin Alerts Campus." There was no connection between the two; it's just fortunate that the "glowering jack o'lantern" responsible for the Tuesday night mess happened to be burning in a window in Colvin, which is equipped with a sprinkler system, rather than in the North Dorms, which have to depend on hand extinguishers.

It's difficult to have any fun with a sprinkler system. For one thing, it's hard to get started and harder to turn off. For another, it isn't portable, and therefore of very little use in a water-fight. Not only can the victim simply run out of range in most cases, but even if you get him cornered it's a Pyrrhic victory at best, because you'll get just as wet as he will.

Hand extinguishers, though, seem made for water fights. They're easily operated, relatively portable, and they can be aimed quite effectively. If you're smart, you can simply soak your victim without so much as dampening your own collar.

They have, in fact, only one drawback: they're not much use in a fire when they've been emptied. Pumped vigorously, they'll project quite a stream of air, but air isn't usually very effective in combating any blaze bigger than a burning match. And seeing your clothes and books go up in smoke, even if you've managed to escape with your skin intact, is pretty discouraging. It's almost enough to make you wish you hadn't started that water fight last night with the joker across the hall.

Fires on campus aren't confined to the girls' dormitories. There was a beauty last year, right at the North Dorms. It wasn't a laughing matter for the fellows who lost their things in it, or for the others who had to change their living quarters on short notice.

So, all in all, it seems pretty foolish to play games with those extinguishers. Hardly brighter, in fact, than lighting your pipe with your insurance policy.

There are water pistols for sale in at least two local stores. They have all the combat value of the extinguishers, plus one added feature: the element of surprise. They can be packed in the pocket, concealed; and you can sneak up on your enemy and give him a good squirt in the eye before he even begins to suspect what's going on.

Woes Of The Car-less

People who stand on the side of the road, with books under their arms and rain running off their ears, stand there because they want a ride. They want to go somewhere because they live there, or because they have to get something or do something there.

None of these people live there on the side of the road. But sometimes they might just as well. Sometimes they stand so long in the cold that they begin to look shriveled and blue like somebody's aged uncle in the last stages of an obscure disease.

They stand there and look that way until someone stops and picks them up; then they look glad. They look like somebody who has just found a last year's term paper that he can touch up and use again this year.

They look glad when they're picked up because very often they are tired, or wet, or cold, or their feet hurt, or they may be sick. They might even have not been supposed to have gone out that day. That's why they look glad.

Some people drive by and look at them as though wondering what kind of blithering idiots would stand in the rain on the side of the road. Other people stop and pick them up. The people who stand on the side of the road, with the rain running off their ears, prefer the second kind of people; because that's what they want—a ride.

MARK WELL

BY HIMSELF

Soon after the start of a first-year course in general psychology, the student is introduced (if he hasn't made such an introduction unnecessary by quitting the course) to something called a "puzzle box" or some such thing.

The idea is to put an animal in the box, deprive it of food, a mate, or the latest psychology text, and then see what happens. On occasion, when deprived of none of these, he has been known to eat the food, make a wry face, and promptly throw the psychology text at his mate for not taking her home economics seriously.

Well, during the last couple of weeks, some of us who have been taught to take the psychological point of view of things, which is not always the dim view, must have wondered who was using the main bus waiting-room for just such a puzzle box. The puzzle here being, of course: Where's the blasted heat!

I have a hunch that the individual conducting the experiment hides out in the heating plant across the street and I wish he'd cut it out. If dirty windows in the waitingroom have prevented him from clearly observing how we animals react when deprived of heat, my blue-blooded friends and I shall be glad to furnish him with all the data he lacks.

On two occasions when a snow-storm was in progress, I have bolted inside the waitingroom only to find that I could observe the beautiful flakes with less discomfort while in their midst.

The other day I noticed that the flooring has raised its own protest by buckling badly near the door. It won't be long before the door will be wedged shut. This, at least, will serve the useful purpose of preventing a futile trip inside.

Now that I've raised my own temperature to a more than satisfactory degree, the word "thermometer" comes to mind. Could it be possible, I wonder, to convince the person or persons responsible for heating the waitingroom of the usefulness of that little instrument and to persuade them to substitute it for the device they must have been using, the calendar?

Black And White

BY SID FOLSON

Good news for the troops!

Reliable word has it that one of the administrative offices on campus is about to compile data and a report on the advantages and disadvantages of enlisting in the armed forces.

In the face of current reserve recalls and draft notices, all too common today, this may not seem especially good news. But, casting an eye to the future, most will realize that such a fund of information will provide welcome counsel to men who are near graduation and on the verge of going to work.

Once again, we pause in the day's toil to Point With Pride.

This time, the plaudits go to the staff of the '51 Prism. As noted in last week's Campus, the book will be distributed before Thanksgiving. Wonderful!

Although we were tentatively promised the book for Junior Day last spring, it's still been less than a year since most of us paid for our copies. And besides, it isn't even 1951 yet, is it?

A dozen or so lively students of assorted shapes and sexes presented what, in our opinion, was an admirable exhibition of the Charleston at last Friday's rally.

Regaining popularity throughout the country, the dance might even have a rebirth on this campus. Interested? Informed cats reveal it's more strenuous than any other currently popular step.

Back to the subject of rallies again. ... We've all seen the frosh cheering wildly and spiritedly.

How about some of the ancient upperclassmen vocalizing a bit to urge the team to victory? Last chance in football season comes Saturday, but don't forget that a basketball game isn't a basketball game without some noise.

Congratulations, Freshmen, on your victory in Saturday's tug-of-war! By enduring Frosh Rules to the traditional end, you showed yourselves possessors of great quantities of spirit and guts.

Congratulations also to the four Sophomore Owls who hung on and got dragged across the MOC mud hole! You proved you could take it as well as dish it out.

But where were the rest of the Sophs? Was it too cold a day? Were they worried about mussing their curly locks?

Or did they simply decide that, in view of the possible outcome, it wasn't worth their while to support to the bitter end the cause they had furthered earlier this year?

How about it, Bruno? What do you say, Bing?

Three Point Program

To the Editor: After listening to three pep talks for the Maine Masque given in classes at the request of Mr. Bricker, I've decided to offer three suggestions which, to my mind, would improve the student support of the Masque.

(1) Before putting season tickets on sale, announce the complete list of plays to be performed during the season and the dates of performances. Who wants to purchase a season ticket when he doesn't know what he is buying?

(2) Select plays which have had marked success and have universal appeal. This does not mean the latest on Broadway. An occasional recent hit (perhaps one a year) could be performed from the proceeds gained by relatively old, popular, low-royalty plays.

(3) Clean up the dialogue to some extent. There has been a marked tendency of late to insert as much profanity and vulgarity as possible. Many of us have shown our appreciation of truly great films in recent years without being dragged through the gutter in the process....

Any comments?

Cheesecake Surgery

To the editor: I wonder if somebody won't take some steps to put an end to hacking up library magazines. Maybe the pictures are not important, but often the heart is cut out of an article on the reverse side of the page. Students looking up articles in connection with their class work have found that the magazines have been cut by somebody looking for cheesecake or other pictures.

Photography mags particularly take a beating. These may not be important for class work but they furnish reading enjoyment for people who do have a few spare minutes to spend in the Library.

I am not saying that this clipping is a widespread practice, but I have encountered it several times of late. Why not leave the magazines in readable condition when you are through with them?

Three Cheers And A Pat

To the Editor: The girls of Colvin wish to express their thanks and appreciation to all those who helped extinguish the blaze and clean up after their recent fire.

We extend our gratitude especially to Bob Lord and Red Fairley, who helped put out the fire, and to Harry Richardson, Craig Wark, Tom Connors, Frank Beekman, and Lynne Holden for cleaning up the water-soaked dorm.

It is inspiring to know that there are still fellows as kind as these. They deserve three cheers and a pat on the back.

cepted by the University Board of Trustees at a meeting on Sept. 28. The will sets up the fund as follows: "To the University of Maine...the sum of six thousand dollars in trust...to be known as the Henry L. Griffin Scholarship, the income to be used annually for the benefit of that student, during his or her first year at said University, who is a graduate of Bangor High School...and who, in the opinion of the President and Board of Trustees of said University, is, on account of character and scholarship, the most deserving to receive such benefit, provided, however, that said President and Board of Trustees, in their discretion, may change such beneficiary to another (meeting the foregoing requirements) who shall have the benefit of any unexpended balance of such annual income, and provided further that, in case there is no such graduate to receive such benefit either at the beginning or during said first year, such annual income, or the unexpended balance thereof...shall be added to the principal of the trust."

Expendable Funds

Expendable funds were contributed during the past year by the following University groups: The University of Maine Club of New York—$550; The Black Bear Club of Rhode Island—$452; The Black Bear Club of Cumberland County—$193.88; The Black Bear Club of Greater Boston—$450; The "M" Club—$3200; and the Undergraduate "M" Club's Martin Hagopian Scholarship—$100.

Awards can be made from these expendable funds to male students who are freshmen or upperclassmen. Each award is for a period not to exceed two semesters but may be renewed on the recommendation of the contributing organization and with the approval of the University Scholarship Committee.

Such awards may not exceed the amount of tuition and fees, and are granted on the basis of need, promise of academic success, physical ability, and capacity and promise of leadership and success.

blue sweater and white flannels, being in the limelight at home rallies, and having a reserved seat at the games. Tuffy could soon discourage any such lush ideas about the cheerleaders, however. They meet twice a week, and not for a social gathering either.

Not Working For Letters

Tuffy could also throw a wet blanket on any notions about the cheerleading profession being strictly for the M sweater. She sports a big M but only after three years' hard work as Maine's leading rooter. In fact she becomes quite huffy at mention of this as an incentive. She says she enjoys every minute of it and that the students on the squad are not primarily concerned with any material award.

"They're cheerleaders because they want to be cheerleaders," said the diminutive leader.

When asked about her favorite cheer, she simply replied: "the ones which get the best crowd response. It's no fun hollering by oneself. We like to give the crowd the kind of cheer that they like to yell."

Welcome Criticism

The leading rooters for the University seem to be more than willing to accept criticism from the crowd. They all agree that at least it shows people are interested in their cheering, but they all add wistfully, "If only the criticism were more constructive."

It is no easy chore to get up in front of a critical crowd and yell one's head off, drill twice a week, yell some more and then get half-hearted responses. Still there must be something to the game.

fied himself as "a student calling from one of the men's dormitories on campus." This person invited members of the fraternities to join a group of students organizing a trip to Colby to "paint up the campus." The invitation was declined.

Maine's Field Marked

Two days earlier, the Maine football field was similarly defaced. Sometime early Thursday morning a huge "C" was burned into the center of the football field. Either kerosene or gasoline was used.

The burned spots were thickly covered by a white substance, thought to be lime. The goal posts and the student bleachers were splashed with paint. They were repainted before the game. Guards were posted Thursday and Friday nights after to prevent further vandalism. University authorities at present have no clues leading to the guilty persons.

During the football game, several players on both teams suffered chemical burns. It is not yet known what the cause was. None of the Maine players were injured seriously enough to prevent them from playing in the Bowdoin game Saturday.

No Degrees For Hogs?

Ground hogs and graduating seniors will emerge and take a critical look at the surrounding world on the same day in February. President Arthur A. Hauck estimates that about 150 students will receive their degrees on Friday, Feb. 2.

Authentic Swiss Chalet Replica Is Now A Friendly Gas Station

By AL MERSKY

The next time you gas up at the Chalet, take a good look.

You probably never realized it, but that log hut from which the attendants spring every time four wheels grind to a stop out front is an authentic reproduction of a Swiss chalet.

Originally built as a private club house for the son of a wealthy Orono lumberman, the Chalet was erected around 1890 on the Stillwater River, 100 yards behind its present site. The idea resulted from a tour of Switzerland.

Built from Swiss blueprints, the building was long unique in this part of the world. All of the hardware in its one room was imported from Switzerland. The Swiss windows, of which there are five, are made of regular bottle bottoms which were lead countersunk and suspended in frames. Antique dealers have estimated these windows to be worth $300 apiece.

The only material in the 30 x 40 foot cabin which was not imported is the native white pine. The beams and wall boards of the building are all reputed to be hand hewn and are connected by tongued-in grooves.

The original club house bar is still intact—but its use has changed. It now supports the cash register instead of elbows and displays different grades of motor oil instead of bourbon and scotch.

The building was moved to its present location in 1935. It was a restaurant with a beer parlor downstairs until 1942, when it became a full-fledged, full-time gasoline station with an old tire morgue in the cellar.

The side of the Chalet now facing College Avenue is actually the rear of the building. The front, with its two piece split door which established the building's authenticity of design, and its wide lounging porch, still face the gurgling Stillwater.

Recognize these keys?

are the famous keys of national honor societies.

No. 9 is an important newcomer. It's the Bell System's new keyset for the direct dialing of Long Distance telephone calls. And, though not yet "national," it already has "chapters" in more than 900 cities and towns.

By pressing these keys, your operator can dial calls straight through to telephones in many distant places. Calls go through faster, more accurately.

Automatic dialing of Long Distance calls by operators, a development of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, is being extended steadily. This new method of putting through Long Distance calls is especially important right now, when the nation is counting on telephone service to help speed the job of defense.

Polar Bear Meets Black Bear For State Title Showdown

Bear Facts

By BILL LOUBIER

If any one player on the Maine football squad was to be awarded a medal for outstanding performance, I would certainly hesitate when it came to making the choice.

On the Maine gridiron, as on any other team in the country, the backfield men are the ones on whom sports writers heap praises and attention. They are the ones who receive the credit for a good run, who get the splashes in the headlines for good passing, or who carry the nicknames Mr. Team and Mr. Touchdown. Once in awhile, however, a lineman will receive some long-overdue credit. I won't attempt to talk about any one lineman, but I will mention the Bear's defensive wall in last week's homecoming tilt with Colby.

I do think it is fitting that a little praise be given the work-horses of the team. At the risk of being trite, I should like to repeat the oft heard comment that "a backfield is only as good as the line before it." The cliché seems to take on an added punch, however, when considered in the light of last week's 26-7 win over the Mules.

Fans saw the Bear backfield, behind a well-blocking line, tear up 315 yards in ground gains and then proceed to stymie and stun the Mules with a net gain of 19 yards. That's blocking.

While we're in the bouquet-throwing department, here is a congratulatory remark to the Maine cheerleaders on their tremendous display of spirit and drive despite a drenching downpour. As one fan remarked, "They should receive a citation for action above and beyond the call of duty." Ditto.

It was interesting to read Bob Ryley's remarks in the Colby Echo following Colby's upset victory over Trinity. They were obviously made prior to State Series play. Said Mr. Ryley, "The students demanded a good football team: they've got it. And now God save the King, Bowdoin, Maine, and Bates. THEY'VE HAD IT."

Allow me a short postscript, won't you? Bowdoin stole your cake. Maine walked over the Mule train. Call the King. YOU'VE HAD IT.

Last Year

Bowdoin snapped a 28-year stretch of domination by the Bears by defeating the Maine squad 18-0. The Polar Bears completely ruled the field as Maine worked its way into Bowdoin territory only twice during the game.

Here are the statistics:

	Maine	Bowdoin
First downs	6	18
Yds. gained
rushing	41	341
Forwards	9	11
Completed	3	6
Yds. gained	15	31
Intercepted by	1	0
Punting average	38	43
Fumbles	0	1
Opp. recovery	0	1
Yds. lost penalties	15	15

The record for the discus throw in the Maine field house is 144 ft. 7½ in., set by H. H. Johnson on Feb. 28, 1942, against Colby.

Harriers Annex State Crown; Dick Dow Breaks Fifth Record

By BILL MATSON

For the fifth time this year Dick Dow broke a cross country record and then paced the Maine harriers to another State Championship crown. Maine has garnered the title 15 out of 17 times since 1931.

In 1937, the Pale Blue dalers were nosed out for the state title by Bates College and in 1942, a good Colby College array defeated runner-up Maine by a slim margin. For three years, during World War II, no official state meet was held.

The Jenkinsmen took the first four places in the meet and swamped both Colby and Bates by 39 and 43 points respectively. The final scoring saw Maine with 16 points, Colby with 55, and Bates with 59.

Dow's record breaking time was 18:46, thus trimming the old mark of 18:55 set by Elmer Folsom, another Maine man, in 1947.

Second place was taken by Harry Eastman, third by Mel Osbourne and fourth by Bill Hirst on the 3½ mile Augusta course.

The team is now preparing for its New England jaunt to Franklin Park Boston, Monday where they will compete for honors with the best schools in the six New England states.

Jenkins was very optimistic about his team making a good showing there. He will enter the entire varsity squad, made up of Dick Dow, Mel Osbourne, Bill Hirst, Red Eastman, Dick Knowlton, Irving Smith, and Ed Perry.

The final comment by the Maine coach was: "I'll not say we're going to come out on top, but I'm counting on a very good showing from the squad."

Freshman Harriers Try For 7th Win

An undefeated Frosh cross country team competes with MCI this afternoon in its last dual meet of the year before traveling to Boston for the annual New England cross country meet.

To date the yearlings have an impressive record of six straight wins over the best high school teams in the state. They hold victories over Ellsworth, Bangor, Lee Academy, Hartland Academy, Ashland, and Old Town. Both the Old Town and Bangor teams took first and second places respectively in last week's State high school meet.

The squad will send seven men, along with the varsity, to compete for separate honors. They are: Bob Farrington, Jerry Mills, Carl Maclean, Colwin Haskell, Paul Rossi, Jerome Hallee, and Dan Folsom.

Jenkins expects that the Farrington, Mills, Maclean trio will show up very favorably in New England competition.

JV's Drop One While Freshmen Go Undefeated

Although the Frosh and the Junior Varsity failed to clash on the gridiron this fall, each enjoyed a successful season. The Jayvees split in their two contests, while the yearlings ended the season with a perfect slate. The two clubs scored 122 points as against 32 for the opposition.

In their first game, the JV's were nipped 20-12 by the Middies from Castine. The experience the team gained in this battle plus that which came from scrimmaging the varsity team proved invaluable. This fact was clearly shown in the squad's last game with Coburn last Friday which the Juniors won 52-6.

The Freshmen had two close games before their final tilt with Bridgton.

The statistics showed that the yearlings were better than the indicated scores, however. In the opener, they defeated MCI 12-6, but were inside their opponent's 20 yard stripe several times during the game.

In the Higgins tilt, which they won 7-0, the Frosh allowed the preppers but one first down in the entire contest.

The yearlings finally hit their stride in last Saturday's game by walloping Bridgton 39-0 on wild scoring spree to end the season undefeated.

Frosh mentor Sam Sezak made this comment about his club. "I was pleased that all of the forty men on the squad could see a great deal of action and thus gain valuable experience. Many of the boys are looking forward to playing with the varsity next year. They appreciated the work outs with the Bear varsity squad and I'm sure they gained a great deal of experience."

Banquet Held Nov. 15

The annual fall sports banquet will take place in the New Cafeteria on November 15. Both the varsity and the junior varsity teams will be present to receive letters and numerals.

Since 1921, the University of Maine has won the state series in football 9 times and tied for first 3 times.

Since 1938, the University of Maine has won the state series in basketball 5 times and tied for first twice.

Annual Contest Rated Toss-Up In 52nd Clash

By BILL LOUBIER

Coach Dave Nelson's forces trek to Bowdoin this Saturday to decide a much disputed issue—the State Series football championship.

Both teams boast an undefeated record in State Series play and according to all reports the game is a toss-up. The Bears have the edge in victories since the series began in 1893. Maine has 27 wins, 18 losses and six ties. Last year, however, the Polar Bears swamped the Bears 18-0 before a capacity Homecoming crowd.

Maine boasts a powerful line, which was demonstrated last week when it held the Colby Mules to 19 yards on the ground. Last week, in the weekly N.C.A.B. roundup, the Maine defense platoon was rated No. 19 in the nation among small college clubs with the opposition teams gaining an average of 174.3 yards per game. With the inclusion of Colby-Maine statistics, the average drops to 161.

Ted Curtis, Faculty Manager of Athletics, has announced that tickets for the Maine-Bowdoin game will not be on sale anywhere after Friday noon.

Students must use the Pine Street gate on entering the stadium on the west side of Whittier field.

Student passes must be presented with student tickets to gain admittance. The tickets will not be punched but used for identification only.

The backfield, with Gordon Pendleton, Doc Hersom, Phil Coulombe, and Hal Marden, will combine speed with power as is evidenced in the past two games.

According to line coach Mike Lude, who scouted the Polar Bears last week, the Bowdoin team is strong. "They have two full lines for their platoon system," he asserted, "and have depth and one of the best all around backfields in the state."

He further supplemented his comments by saying: "Any team that can gain yardage up around the 300 mark in every game is a good team and darn hard to beat."

Women's Sports

By SALLY ARSENAULT

The Sophomore women ended the girl's hockey season in first place. Behind them were the Freshmen, the Juniors, and the Seniors.

Here are the final standings:

	Won	Lost	Tied
Sophomores	4	0	2
Freshmen	3	0	3
Juniors	1	0	1
Seniors	1	0	1

There was no scoring in the annual Alumni vs. Juniors and Seniors tilt Homecoming day. The returning alumni All-Maine women hockey squad members were: Carolyn Strong, Betty Friedler, Mona Kimball, Jean Gyger, Mary Zelenkewich, and Shirley Jackson.

Maine held Army to a 6-0 score the last time they played the cadets from West Point in 1919.

Fair Problems Vex Aggies

Good Looks Will Count

A few good-humored cows will be selected for the co-ed cow-milking contest, and the rest will be chosen on the basis of good looks.

The cows will be used for the cattle-judging and fitting-and-showing contests. As Dr. Howard Dickey, head of the animal industry department, puts it: "We usually try to have cows that look good, regardless of their production records."

As in past years, chapters of the Future Farmers of America, from various high schools of the state, will participate in poultry and cattle judging. Winners will garner plaques, which will become the property of their schools for one year.

Admission To Be Free

There is no admission charge for the fair exhibits and contests, which will begin at 10 a.m. in the field house.

According to John Findlen, publicity chairman, this year's contests will also include such traditional contests as potato picking, woodsmen's events, pie eating, and the recently developed milk-tasting event in which fairgoers will try to tell the difference between pasteurized and whole milk.

Prizes this year range widely: from haircuts and permanents to a $25 bond. In the top bracket will be the special prize to be presented to the Calico Queen at the Calico Ball following the fair. This prize is being donated by Sears, Roebuck and Co.

Displays Will Be Varied

Several departments of the College of Agriculture will have exhibits at the fair, according to John Smiley, general manager. For the push-button public, the Forestry Department has arranged a mounted wall chart, which will light up at the touch of a button to show the location of all look-out stations in the state.

Guild Shows Slated For Friday Nights

The weekly productions of the Maine Radio Guild will be broadcast at 10:30 p.m. Fridays over station WLBZ.

Tomorrow night the Guild will present "The Boat That Drifted Against the Tide" directed by Joe Zabriskie, assisted by Tom Connors. The story, a supposedly true murder mystery, has a Maine setting.

Anyone interested in taking part in Radio Guild productions is invited to participate. Tryouts for each succeeding show are held every Monday at 3:45 p.m. in 275 Stevens. Students do not have to be speech majors or Radio Guild members to participate.

Prism Proofs Due

Gilbert French, editor-in-chief of the 1952 Prism, has asked all juniors to return their picture proofs in person to the Prism office, 211 East Annex, as soon as possible.

Rally Scheduled

A parade and pre-game rally are to be held tonight in preparation for the Bowdoin game. A torchlight parade will move from New Dorm 3 at 6:45 p.m., past the women's dorms

Good Will Drive Planned

The University Good Will Chest drive will be on from Dec. 3 to 9, according to John Dineen, chairman of the campaign.

Teams of workers and their captains will be chosen shortly to help push the drive.
