Scholarship Assembly To Hear Eurich

Noted Alumnus Will Speak May 14

By BEN PIKE

Dr. Alvin C. Eurich, president of State University of New York and a U. of M. alumnus and former faculty member here, will address the 24th annual Scholarship Recognition Day Assembly May 14. The public is invited.

A graduate of North Central College, Dr. Eurich received his M.A. from the University of Maine in 1926 and his Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota in 1929.

Dr. Eurich's first position was on this campus where he taught educational psychology 1924-26. In 1926, he went to the University of Minnesota as an instructor. While there he advanced to the position of assistant dean of the college of education and professor of educational psychology. He served one year as professor of education at Northwestern University before becoming professor of education at Stanford University in 1938, where he remained until 1948. During 1944-48 he was vice president of Stanford U. and served as acting president his last year there. In 1949 he was named to his present position.

During World War II, he was a commander in the U. S. Navy, serving as director of standards and curriculum division, Bureau of Naval Personnel, Washington, D. C.

Housing Office Sets May 16 As Deadline For Dormitory Bids

Students who want to reserve a dormitory room for next year must submit an application to the housing office before Wednesday, May 16. Application forms may be obtained from any dormitory proctor or from the housing office.

Off-campus students intending to reserve a dormitory room are urged to comply with this announcement.

Along with this application, a room reservation deposit must be made to the treasury department on or before June 7.

It should be noted that the deadline for the room deposit is after the room assignments have been made. If no deposit has been made before June 7, it will be assumed that no room reservation is desired and the assignment will be cancelled.

Any student who makes a deposit after June 7 will be assigned to such space as may be available at the time the deposit is made.

Shown above is a scene that will soon disappear from the campus. Charles Harlow, head night janitor, is tolling the class bell that will be moved this week end to the roof of the library. Next Saturday at 12:35 the bell, which has been on the campus since 1892, will be run manually for the last time.

Tradition Bows To Progress As Bell Moves To New Home

By BILL ROBERTSON

The university bell, for many years a campus tradition and the object of countless student pranks, has at last bowed to the forward march of science. Electronically controlled, it will ring forth from the top of the new library on the morning of Monday, May 21, according to J. Carroll Dempsey, superintendent of buildings and grounds.

In Present Spot Since '43 Since 1892, when it was introduced to the campus at the dedication of Wingate hall, the bell has served without interruption. The high point of its career was probably during the Wingate fire of 1943. At that time firemen were afraid that the bell would drop from its cradle to the ground floor. Although it finally did drop, it crashed through only one story.

Immediately after the fire, university authorities constructed the tower now standing beside Oak hall for the Army Specialized Training Unit.

Student reaction to the tolling of the bell has not always been favorable. A year ago the temporary belfry was upset and the heavy bell deposited across the road. On countless occasions it has been heard ringing in the small hours of the morning.

The present bell ringer, Kenneth E. Jones, janitor in Aubert hall, stated that he has found it necessary to keep a spare clapper on hand for emergencies. One clapper was found in the university dump not too long ago; another disappeared for several months; still another has never been found.

Dempsey stated that the bell, once in its new location, will be wired to the master clock in the library and will be rung electronically. He added that on special occasions, such as assembly days, it will be operated by hand.

Off-Campus Co-eds Meet

Off-campus women will hold a short business meeting and installation of officers Monday at 6 p.m. in the women's lounge of the SRA Building.

Stritch Elected Mayor Following Two Days Of Spiritual Campaigning

Dr. Hauck Gives 'Moslem Chief' Key To School In Library Inauguration

By BILL MATSON

Sophomore Donald Stritch was inaugurated as Mayor yesterday afternoon by President Hauck in ceremonies on the library steps. Stritch, who campaigned on the theme that "500,000,000 Moslems can't be wrong," came out the victor in the abbreviated campaign. Wearing the garb of a Moslem chieftain, Stritch had a strong rally in the Gym Tuesday night. He entered the gym on a litter supported by eight "Moslem slaves" who, in addition to their Moslem dress brandished swords to rid the campus of the "unfaithful."

The rally in the gymnasium Tuesday night climaxed the two day campaign which saw only two candidates for the office, Andy "Little Caesar" Mezoian and Stritch. Mezoian's platform was built around a two day campaign to "clean up the campus." In one of his speeches, Mezoian promised the student body a rebate of funds for every class a student "cut." Entering the gym in darkness accompanied by a barrage of cap pistols and fire crackers, Mezoian told the students assembled, why he should be elected Mayor.

Mezoian's rally, which fell short of the expectations that the 1500 students on hand held for him after a two-day "crime wave" which was featured by a Holdup of the bookstore, consisted mainly of a parody of the Kefauver Investigations that are now going on in Congress.

Stritch, on the other hand, presented various acts in addition to his own speech. Besides pointing out that he had constructed a Student Union Building on the Mall, his show consisted of such campus headlines as Andy Cephalo, Flutter Floyd, and Dick Ayotte. A weaving line of harem girls was an added attraction to the festivities.

Balloting was held in the gymnasium lobby immediately following the rally. It was reported by the Maine Day Committee that the number of votes cast was unusually low.

Whitney's New Play To Provide Debut For Nine Of Cast

Wednesday, May 16, will mark not only the opening night of Walter Whitney's new play "When the Bough Breaks," but also the first appearance on the Maine Masque stage of nine of the sixteen adult characters.

Four of the nine newcomers to Masque productions, Ruth Bernstein, Mary-Helen Fernald, Paul Marsden, and Philip Johnson, will have major roles in the play.

Other major parts will be handled by veteran Masque actors Dwight Frye, Jo San Antonio, and George Sherman. Completing the cast are Eini Riutta, Ellen Levinson, Anne Dutille, Jan Pratt, Marilyn Vaughan, Dave Haskell, Charles Lewis, Joanne Spicker, and Richard Goodin.

Richard Newdick will be the stage manager; Isabelle Burbank, assistant stage manager; Jan Pratt, Jo San Antonio, and Paul Choiniere, technical directors; and Hal Thomas, electrician.

The Campus will carry a complete final examination schedule in its issue for May 24.

Cadets And Jets Go Into Action For Inspection

This is the big day for the ROTC. The special classes, demonstrations, and regimental parade which were held this morning will be followed this afternoon by a full-scale daylight attack in the area east of the Armory.

The afternoon program will run from 1:45 to 3:35 p.m. and will consist of an Advanced Course Infantry exercise showing an infantry rifle company in preparation for and execution of a daylight attack, east of the Armory; an Advanced Signal Corps exercise demonstrating Division Communication CPX, east of the library; an AAA exercise showing the occupation of an AW position, north of the tennis courts; and an AAA class on trial fire and calibration problem in 215 New Engineering Building. Twelve jets will make an air strike at 2:45 p.m. while the program is in progress.

Concert To Be Devoted To Modern U. S. Works

The music department will present a program of contemporary American music on Sunday afternoon, May 13, in Carnegie Hall. The brass ensemble, the madrigal singers, and the string ensemble, assisted by Beverly Petten-gill, Lois Treworgy, and Roger Dow, will be featured in the program. The concert is scheduled for 4 p.m.

Numbers will be "Sonata for Trumpet and Piano," "Diversion," "Quartet for Brass," and "Americana, a sequence of five choruses."

Prof. Lewis Niven will conduct the brass and string ensembles. James Selwood will conduct the madrigal singers.

Embassy Brings Large Turnout As Students Flock To Panels

Embassy Week at the University of Maine this year brought the largest turnout since 1947, according to Rev. Charles O'Connor, SRA director. He added that the response from both students and leaders has been favorable.

The religious emphasis program was opened Monday morning, April 30, by Dr. Ludwig Lewisohn, professor at Brandeis University, and internationally known educator, author, and lecturer. At that time Dr. Lewisohn addressed a student-faculty assembly on "What Does God Require of Us?" This theme was carried through the entire religious week.

Other features of the week included seminars by prominent theological leaders and educators. Embassy Week committee co-chairmen David Collins and Vera Edfors reported that the panels and informal discussion groups were well attended and that the students seemed eager to take an active part in the talks.

The idea of an Embassy Week first originated at Bowdoin College in the 1930's through the efforts of Gordon Gillett, a student attending the college. Gillett later became the minister of the St. James Church, Old Town, and chaplain for Episcopalian students on campus. It was at this time that the University of Maine began holding Embassy Week.

Application Deadline Set For Service Tests

Jeanne Frye, Constance Berry Win Top Posts

By FRAN DION

Jeanne Frye and Constance Berry are the new presidents of Women's Student Government Association and the Women's Athletic Association, respectively. Announcement of their election was made at the annual WSGA assembly, held in the Women's Gymnasium on Friday, May 4.

Other newly elected officers of the WSGA are vice president Beverly Pettengill, secretary Ruth Bartlett, and treasurer Dorothy Booth. Mary Noyes is assembly chairman, and Margaret Murray is social chairman.

Next year's officers of the WAA include vice president Barbara Jackson, secretary Ruth Johnson, and treasurer Ruth Ellingwood.

A feature of the assembly was a humorous skit, written by Marilyn Vaughan, which showed WSGA as it was in the year 1927.

Reports of this year's activities were given by the retiring officers.

In addition, Janice Boyce reported on activities at the New England Conference for women student leaders, which was held at Bates College April 27, 28, and 29. Students from eight New England coed colleges discussed the honor system, orientation, social activities, problems on campus, and the place of college women in a changing world.

Mary Dean Yates announced a plan for electing next year's house presidents, whereby the present house councils will nominate candidates from the list of girls who will reside in that dormitory. The girls of the dormitory will then hold two meetings, one for additional nominations from the floor, and the other for elections. This plan seemed to meet with the general approval of women students attending the assembly.

Mary Jean MacIntire was in charge of arrangements for the assembly.

Theta Chi Wins Interfrat Sing

A capacity audience saw Richard Boss accept the Ohio Alumni Association trophy for Theta Chi, who won the seventh annual Interfraternity Sing in the Memorial Gymnasium last Monday evening. Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Sigma Chi received honorable mention and were awarded certificates of achievement from the Interfraternity Council.

Meade MC's Affair

Russell Meade served as master of ceremonies. Jasper Bull, chairman of the arrangements for the Sing was aided by James G. Selwood of the music department.

Dean Elton E. Wieman and Mr. James A. Gannett selected the names of the fraternities from a silver dish, and the groups presented their selections in the order they were picked. Ten fraternities competed. Each sang a fraternity song and another selection.

President Arthur A. Hauck announced the winners. The judges committee included President Hauck, Dean Wieman, Mr. Gannett, Charles F. Bragg of Bangor, James E. Mitchell of Bangor, and William A. Sleeper, Jr., of the music department.

Three Frats Have Claim

The trophy, donated by the Ohio Alumni Association, will be kept by the fraternity that wins top place most often in five years, of which 1951 is the third. The award was first made to Lambda Chi Alpha in 1949. Last year Sigma Alpha Epsilon received the trophy.

The Interfraternity Sing was instituted in 1941. Sigma Phi Epsilon was the first winner.

New MCA Cabinet Holds First Meeting

Other members are Roger Bailey, Canterbury representative; Gorham Hussey, membership chairman; Marilyn Vaughan, publicity chairman; Ruth Bartlett, Sunday Nighters; Thomas Lindsley, Friday Nighters; Jan Griswold, Eleanor Zehner, and Larry Crosby, Sunday morning worship; Harriet Johnson and Vance Williams, deputations; Maurice Keene, SRA representative; Bruno Calandro, "Outlook" editor; and Roberta Woodbury, cabinet activities.

Whitney Troubled With Play Title

Prof. Walter R. Whitney is having trouble finding a permanent title for his new play. When the Maine Masque presents it beginning May 16, it will be under the title "When The Bough Breaks." But he may have to change it—again.

Whitney first gave the three-act comedy the title "Baa Baa Black Sheep" but changed it to "One On The House" at the suggestion of Professor Quinby, director of the Bowdoin Masque and Gown. The Bowdoin group gave Whitney's play its premiere on March 16.

On the day of the Bowdoin showing, Mary Laswell's new book appeared entitled "One On The House," and it seemed advisable to change the title again, "especially since many people jumped at wrong inferences because of the 'One On The House' title."

The next title Whitney selected was "Full House," but that was discarded when another novel with that title appeared.

"When The Bough Breaks," the fourth title the play has had to date, seemed safe until last Thursday night when a play of the same title was presented on the radio program, Suspense.

Whitney, having exhausted his supply of appropriate titles, is open for suggestions.

Scoop On Army Mumbo Jumbo Given Out By Chairman Lee

By BILL LOUBIER

Deferments, postponements, inductions, examinations—the Army's mumbo jumbo which is thoroughly confusing to the June graduate has finally been cleared of its but's and or's.

Here's the scoop according to John F. Lee, chairman of the Faculty Committee on Military Service:

(1) If you are graduating in June and have had a Selective Service examination, you are ENTITLED to a 30-day postponement starting on the date of your graduation. The induction delay is not automatic with every board, however. If your local board has not notified you of your deferment, then apply at once. Your request cannot be denied.

(2) If you wish to apply for a PERMANENT DEFERMENT for a job "essential to the national health and welfare effort" you must first obtain such work and then accompany your request with an additional signed affidavit from your employer stating that your work is of vital importance and would cause undue hardship if you left.

(3) If a graduate does not receive word of his 30-day postponement and makes no effort to acquire such, he will be automatically inducted without further choice.

(4) Any graduate may choose the branch of service to his liking either before graduating or during the 30-day period following. He will then be exempt from Army induction and will wait for a call from the branch in which he enlisted.

Carol Prentiss Wins Scholarship Contest

Carol E. Prentiss, sophomore, won first place in the sixteenth annual John M. Oak Scholarship Contest held at the university last Thursday. The winning speech was on the topic "Organized Crime."

Second prize went to Clair E. Shirley, senior, and third prize to Charles G. Paine, Jr., a member of the junior class. Their respective talks were on "Temperance, 1951 Style," and "Take A Long View."

A Drafty Subject

The first examination under the new draft plan will be held May 26. U. of M. is one of the many places where the test will be given.

All college males of draft age will be allowed to take the examination. In order to be deferred, the student must have a grade of 70 on this test. Seniors planning to enter graduate school must get 75.

Students may be deferred on another basis. Freshmen in the upper half of their class, sophomores in the upper two-thirds, juniors in the upper three-quarters, and seniors in the upper half who are entering graduate school will be deferred regardless of what they get in the special examination.

Many educators are in accord with this plan, but many objections have also been raised.

Some of those objecting fear an "aristocracy of brains." They want to know why one boy, just because he is better at head work, is allowed to sit in a classroom, while another boy, perhaps equally capable with his hands, must fight a war.

Another objection to the plan is that limited manpower in the military will result. It is estimated that about 75 per cent of all the students will be permitted to remain in college, and it is thought that an unusually high number of high school boys will enter college under the new plan.

Still a third objection is that the plan may make a virtual draft board of college professors. It is pointed out that deferment depends, in part, on a student's grade, and that this is decided upon by a professor. It is feared that this is putting both too much responsibility and too much pressure on the faculty.

Others feel that going to college is too much dependent upon one's financial set-up and not enough dependent upon one's qualifications. They say that the boy who cannot afford to go to college should not be penalized.

Most people will agree that there must be some sort of a plan through which a continuing supply of trained youth will be forthcoming. This is, perhaps, especially true of the technical fields, in view of the immediate situation, but it is hardly less true, in the long run, of the arts, sciences, agriculture, and the other fields.

We who are in college do not worry too much about the new plan because it favors us. But what about the apprentices, trade school students, and on-the-job trainees, who will be just as important as individuals to any war effort, cold or hot, the country is called upon to make?

And what about those young men who, if not drafted, would, in the four years it will take others to complete a college program, become integral parts of a productive unit?

It is impossible to devise a deferment plan that would satisfy all segments of our society. Some men have to go. The authorities, faced with the possibility of a long war, necessarily take the long range point of view. The supply of trained personnel must be maintained. Therefore, the new draft plan, unfair though it may be, will serve as the basis of deferment for some time to come. The country's youth will either have to go to college or to war.

MY DAZE

BY DAVE GETCHELL

Since nearly everyone else in this country is trying to reform something, it is with deep pleasure that I finally find a chance to throw in my bit. And a big bit it is.

No, I'm not going to offer by opinions on the MacArthur controversy, the Truman administration, or the Kefauver hearings. That's too simple. Instead, I think the time is long overdue for someone to try to actually teach college students something.

I'd like to have it understood right here that I'm not trying to teach anything—I'm trying to get taught the same as you are. On the contrary, the point of my reform is that we've got to teach each other.

As a "for instance," let me ask you a few questions. What do you know about Bowdoin, Bates, Dartmouth, Yale, or Harvard? In most cases, your answer will be the same as mine. Bowdoin is full of "booze hounds."

Bates is a pleasant little place which occasionally pops up with a good football team. Dartmouth skis summer and winter. Yale is where the elite meet to learn daddy's business. And Harvard... I think you can see my point.

Are our pictures of these colleges correct? I doubt it. Are their impressions of our fair university correct? I shudder to think so. Has anyone ever tried to dispell such warped illusions? If they have, their attempts folded somewhere south of Orono.

My solution for such ignorance among us and others, which I will enlarge upon at another date, is an original plan called "Know America First" (not to be confused with the travel slogan).

After some of the questions some of my friends in other colleges have asked me about the University of Maine, and after some of the answers they have given me regarding their own colleges, I think it's about time we knew the true story.

Gathering Words

BY DICK SCHURMAN

For the last three nights I have been working feverishly on an important project over behind the library next to Stevens. I have to get it done by tomorrow morning. If there are any red-blooded loyalists here on campus, I pray that they will gather tonight to assist me in this worthiest of projects.

You see, I was out picking Mayflowers in back of the Aggie barn at 6:00 a.m. Monday last, when a soldier tapped me on the shoulder. He told me that he had graduated from the U. of M. in 1948 and had been completely out of contact with the university ever since. He had just been transferred to Dow Field and was dying to get a look at the new Union Building.

"I've thought about that Union Building a million times while I was in Korea," he said. "You students are some darned lucky to have a swell place like that." He told me that he had donated fifty dollars to the fund before he had graduated and it had made him kind of feel like he had a big part in it.

Not knowing how to tell him, I started hemmin' and hawin' about the plans which had been made to build it down by Beta near the cannons.

"Good. Let's go down and play pool."

Easy-like I told him that they had changed their minds and selected the lot next to the M.C.A. building. He wanted to see it. But then, of course, just before we got to the M.C.A., I had to tell him that the site had been changed again.

And that is the way it went. The proposed location had been unproposed and changed to the Mall, then to a spot next to Carnegie, then over by Stevens. Finally, he decided that he had to go back to the base; but he said that he would be out to see the Union Building, for sure, Friday morning. That is tomorrow. Still, even if we get it built by morning, he probably will be able to tell that it isn't the real Union Building, but at least I will have something to show him.

Letter From Father Ryan

To the Editor: The May third issue of The Maine Campus carried an account of the incident of my walking out of the Panel Discussion on the subject: "Can Religion Take the Place of War in Solving the Conflict Among World Ideologies?" Concerning the coverage of this incident, there are certain comments I would like to make.

Dr. Cecil Hinshaw made not only the statement that the "Iron Curtain" was not wholly Russian but at least partly American. He made other statements, too numerous to mention verbatim; which statements exhibited an attitude of appeasement and pussy-footism regarding the entire Russo-American crisis. He advocated that a policy of armed resistance to aggression be put aside in favor of one of passive resistance. He made the point that the example of Mahatma Ghandi in waging a war of non-violence was one to be admired and imitated by us today. In answer to a question from the floor, Dr. Hinshaw said that, while it was true that we had placed some faith in the Russians at Potsdam and Yalta, we were not placing any faith in them today. Such as attitude, he said, was regretful and has resulted in our exhibiting a complete lack of trust in the Russians. Previous to this, Dr. Hinshaw had said that it was no wonder that the Russians did not like us and did not trust us, since we had sent an invading army into Russia at the close of the First World War!! He made no attempt to go into the history of this "invasion"; no attempt at all: he just made the bald statement!

When such remarks are made by a Minister of a Christian sect in a Panel of which I formed one-third a part, why should I not have cried out in rage? Perhaps there are Americans who can remain studiously calm and silent in such a situation. I do not happen to be one of them. I did what I believed I had an obligation in conscience to do: I protested. Especially, sir, when I recalled to mind that several Priests of my Church have been killed; others wounded; that Ministers of other Faiths have been killed and wounded; and that seventy thousand Americans have been killed or wounded in Korea in an effort to stop this woefully misunderstood and shamefully mistrusted oligarchy of bandits from imposing its will on people who have desired only peace. I wonder how a person like General MacArthur would have reacted had he been in my place on that platform. I doubt that he would have sat there calmly puffing his corn-cob pipe while he polished his medals. No, sir, he would have screamed out louder than I did!

Dr. Hinshaw denied that he was a Communist. He must have been a bit anxious, for I had not accused him of being one. I said merely that his remarks parroted the party-line: they were a loud, hollow echo from the Daily Worker!! That is still my firm conviction.

At the close of the news-article in The Maine Campus, the statement was made that I had been accused by one of the audience of being intolerant. Which accusation, the article added, was greeted with applause. The writer of the article failed to mention that the applause was weak, and readers of the article were left with the impression that I was intolerant. They were not told that I answered the accusation in a loud, clear voice! I told the audience what tolerance was.

Services Held For Bill Kenyon; Hauck, University Pay Tribute

A Requiem High Mass was celebrated at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Orono, Wednesday morning, for William Curtis Kenyon, 53, former University coach who retired from his duties two years ago because of ill health. The beloved mentor was taken to the Eastern Maine General Hospital Friday evening and died early Sunday morning. Burial was in a Millinocket cemetery.

Wednesday afternoon, a moment of silent prayer was held by President Arthur A. Hauck and students prior to the State Series baseball victory over Colby. Said president Hauck: "I would like to pay tribute to Bill Kenyon, a great sportsman and a man who loved and excelled in all athletics. He was loved and admired by both players and friends alike. His loss will be greatly felt by all."

Outstanding Career

Kenyon established a remarkable career as a coach and athlete, both.

He came to the University in 1926 after having served from 1923 to 1925 as coach of football, basketball, and baseball at Georgetown University. After coaching the Maine freshman teams, he tutored all three varsity sports, both separately and combined, at different periods from 1934 until 1949.

His athletic career at Georgetown University was widely acclaimed. He was named an All South Atlantic basketball guard on the Georgetown championship team in 1919; played four years of football and was chosen both All-South Atlantic and All-Southern end for his first two years and then received the same distinctions as a fullback in his last two; played for the New York Giants professional baseball team in 1925 after completing four years of collegiate baseball and receiving the Veteran Athletes Association of Philadelphia baseball trophy in 1922.

Kenyon was born in Manchester, N. H., Dec. 5, 1897. He attended Manchester high school for three years, Allen Military school at West Newton for one year, and Georgetown University for four years.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Ida Kenyon; a son, Cpl. William C., Jr., USMC, Point Nugent, Cal.; a brother, Thomas, Manchester, N. H.; and several nieces and nephews.

Letter From Father Ryan

I told them that a Christian is tolerant of persons because they are created by Almighty God and are possessors of immortal souls. However, I continued, a Christian could not be tolerant of error; he can never be tolerant when Truth is in question. I said that a Christian American is compelled both by his religion and by his obligation of patriotism to hate the error of Communism which is inimical with both his religious and patriotic beliefs. He can never tolerate it; he must fight it and cry out against it whenever he confronts it. Then I left. As a Christian and an American I could not remain in a place where such erroneous nonsense was being so blandly "dished out" by a honeyed tongue. I could not stay in the hall of a State University, supported by American taxpayers, where the party-line was being strung out as Dr. Hinshaw was stringing it out. I felt outraged and insulted. Had I done nothing, I would be terribly ashamed of myself today. To keep the record straight and clear, applause greeted my closing remarks. It was gratifying to know that in the audience were some solid citizens... and good Christians.

In regard to the absurd remarks made by one of the students about his trip to the Soviet Zone in Germany, I replied that such a statement was patently ridiculous and irrelevant. As the late Al Smith would have replied to such a heckler, "The feller is only a boy."

I trust, sir, that in the spirit of fair play, you shall not butcher this letter by printing only those parts that suit your fancy. If you decide to quote me, quote all of me!

Sincerely,

REV. FRANCIS X. RYAN,
C.S.P.

Bear Facts

By BOB LORD

Before turning to this day's column, it is fitting to pay tribute to Maine's beloved Bill Kenyon. A silent grey-haired man as this writer knew him, Kenyon was a superlative athlete in his happier days. Mere words will not suffice, however, and in actuality, we are far from qualified even to attempt to pay due respects to this quiet man who endured untold suffering in his last years.

We have lost a fine coach and a respected gentleman in Kenyon's death. His feats as a coach and as an athlete have been told and retold. The eulogies have been delivered. All that remains now is a bit of emptiness in the hearts of those who were fortunate enough to know him... and, we dare say, in the hearts of those who wish they might have known him.

That finish the other day at the PVCC golf course where Maine won the Yankee Conference title was really one for a storybook. After nearly all the golfers had completed the 36-hole route, Connecticut's team anxiously began to add the scores. All the Uconns were accounted for, and Maine, obviously the closest competitor, also had five men finished.

The fact that the Bears had six men competing, however, was overlooked, and when Paul Lindgren of Maine walked in off the links, his total provided the margin of victory for the Pale Blue. Lindgren fired a 173 while the sixth Maine player had shot 175. The larger score was, of course, discounted, and this gain of two strokes gave the Bears the edge over Uconn by a single swing.

Obvious disappointment wreathed the faces of the Connecticut team members, and naturally so. Although the elation was gone, however, the Uconns showed their taste for sportsmanship and were quick to congratulate the Maine squad. Such action speaks volumes for the Connecticut coach, the team, and the school itself. They are to be commended.

Turning to tennis, we no doubt will be accused of putting the well-known hex on Maine's varsity team when we say it's no small secret that Coach Bill Small is entertaining high hopes of a "double sweep" this year. A twin win, of course, means titles in both the Yankee Conference and in the State Series.

As far as the YC race is concerned, the Bears have just about sewed matters up by virtue of their five consecutive victories. But the State Series is something else again. Bowdoin always has dominated the state scene on the courts, and Maine never has been able to take the flag outright since Small took over the reins in 1930.

Such a turn of events would probably make Small a very happy man. And if the Blue forces did come through, he might even give his classes a month or so off from the mysteries of Shakespeare and Chaucer.

Maine lost its state title in track at Waterville over the week end, but the cindermen produced as best they could. There was no shame in losing to Bowdoin's Polar Bears because they were strong. If nothing else, we saw that Maine was definitely weak in the dashes and in the hurdles, and that's where Bowdoin made its margin of victory. And it's bound to be another tough assignment this Saturday in the rugged Yankee Conference meet at Storrs.

Connecticut Tests Bear Strength Saturday

Bears To Meet Rams For YC Track Honors

Maine's track team travels to Connecticut this week end with two straight season's victories and a runner-up state title spot to its credit to compete against top material for the Yankee Conference title. Despite the Pale Blue wins over both Boston College and New Hampshire, it will be Yankee Conference defending champions Rhode Island which will be hard to upend. The Rams have a well-balanced outfit and are in a good spot to retain the crown.

The Bears fell down in last Saturday's state meet against the other three Maine colleges because of the same weakness which has been hampering them all season—the dashes. The Pale Blue weightmen performed admirably but a near clean sweep by the Polar Bears in the running events was enough to give them the nod, 66-55½.

In the coming competition, the customary fight to place within the top three spots will be changed so that men placing within four of the top will receive points. A substantial number of first and seconds will still be required to win the meet for the team.

Last week at the state meet, the Bowdoin speedsters took everything in the low and high hurdles including the 100-yd. dash to rack up points and counterweigh Maine power in the field. The Pale Blue placed Jack Wathen first in the 880 and in the 440 and Floyd Milbank, Bear captain and consistent point getter for the Bears, in the shot put and the discus.

The team leaves Friday morning with coach Chester Jenkins for Storrs, Connecticut.

U Of M Woodsmen Take Third Place In Dartmouth Meet

Twelve University members of the MOC and Forestry club combined traveled to Storrs Pond on the Dartmouth campus, last Saturday, and walked off third best against seven other colleges in the annual Woodsmen week end competition. The Dartmouth hosts swept first place.

The Maine woodsmen garnered a first place in both the wood splitting and in the two-man canoe race; a second in pulp throwing and a third in felling and twitching, chopping, and fire building.

The host Dartmouth squad took top honors in the week-end marathon with Middlebury placing second ahead of Maine.

The events included felling and twitching, cross-cut saw, pulp throwing, bucksawing, splitting, chopping, fire building, packboard racing, one-man portage race, and the one-and two-man canoe race.

The teams in order of finish were: Dartmouth, Middlebury, Maine, Kimball University, Williams College, McGill University, Paul Smiths College and Norwich Academy.

Netmen Face Wildcats Tuesday; Blanchard Setting Torrid Pace

The Maine tennis squad will attempt to hurdle the last obstacle in its race for the Yankee Conference net title against New Hampshire, here next Tuesday. The Bear squad has already beaten every Yankee Conference competitor so far, including the Wildcats on their home court, 8-1, earlier this season.

After having compiled a record of two wins and three losses against Southern state competition, the Pale Blue forces have topped New Hampshire, the University of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and Rhode Island again in that order. Ben Blanchard, ace performer for the Pale Blue, has swept every singles and doubles match in Conference competition. This virtually assures the Maine senior of a top spot on the mythical Yankee Conference individual title race.

The Pale Blue team has already statistically won the Yankee Conference crown, even though it should lose to the Wildcats on Tuesday.

Rhody Downed Again

Last Friday, the netmen again downed Rhode Island by a score of 7-2, the previous meet with the Rams saw Maine on the long end of an 8-1 score. Ben Blanchard topped Rhody's ace performer, Bob Love, 6-2 and 7-5 coming up with another stellar performance.

Besides Blanchard, Bill Bird, Dick True, and Bob LePage all won in the singles and the doubles sets against the Wildcats.

Against its last YC contender, New Hampshire, coach G. William Small intends to keep the same lineup which has brought him the impressive string of successive victories. The doubles combinations are: Ben Blanchard and John Domenico, Bill Bird and Paul Peterson, Dick True and Bob LePage.

Future Action Pending

Wednesday afternoon, the state series was to have opened against the Colby Mules at Waterville. On Monday and Tuesday, May 21 and 22, the state meet will be held on the University courts and the final match of the season will be against Bowdoin at Brunswick on May 25.

Women's Sports

By SALLY ARSENEAULT

New officers for the Women's Athletic Association are: president, Constance Berry; vice president, Barbara Jackson; secretary, Ruth Johnson; treasurer, Ruth Ellingwood.

The Annual WAA Recognition Banquet will be held May 23 when all awards will be given. Leta Strickland is acting as chairman, and tickets may be obtained from Junior Council members for $3.35.

There will be a physical education demonstration in the Women's Gym Tuesday May 15 at 8 p.m. At this time WAA clubs, Modern Dance, Tumbling Club, and Square Dance will present demonstrations from "Alice in Wonderland." All-Maine Hockey and All-Maine Hockey Reserve will also participate.

The two top players from each women's dorm are in a badminton elimination tournament. The winner will decide the University women's championship.

Ben Blanchard, ace University tennis captain, ranks as the number one Yankee Conference man as well. Maine's three-year veteran has yet to be defeated in Conference competition in either the singles or the doubles matches.

Linksmen Face Rugged NE Test

A surprising Maine golf team, winners of the Yankee Conference match Monday, face an even stiffer task this week end in the New England matches which will be held at Watertown, Mass.

About 34 of the top golf teams in New England will be in competition for the coveted trophy which was won last year by Boston College. In addition to the Eagles, other sharp-shooting squads who will compete are Harvard, Holy Cross, and Dartmouth.

At the PVCC golf course Monday, Maine took the YC crown by the margin of one stroke. "The boys did better than I anticipated," said Coach Charley Emery. "They played steady and deliberate all the way."

The meet was a four way affair with the teams coming through in this order: Maine 839, Connecticut 840, Vermont 875, New Hampshire 899. The scores are a total of individual's scores over the 36-hole distance.

The first three men to come in for the Maine team all had scores of 165. These were Capt. Don Brown, Conrad Bosworth, and Walt Hewins. John Gowan was next with 171 followed by Paul Lindgren 173.

John Pracon from the University of Connecticut walked away with the individual Yankee Conference cup by posting a neatly-played low score of 157. It was the second time in three years that Pracon has captured this honor.

Frosh Tennis Team Whips Into Shape

Tennis coach Bill Small will be striving to get his freshman net team in permanent positions following yesterday's matches here with Ricker Junior College.

Although the Frosh boast several promising performers, Small will be working the team hard in order to get a better look for future matches. At the present time, however, those expected to see plenty of action this spring include Ken Bernard, Skip Hall, Mark Liberman, Nelson Luce, Bob Irish, and Art Traub.

Nutmeggers Favored; Hope Fades For Bears

Maine's luckless baseball forces will head into more Yankee Conference trouble here Saturday when the Bears square off in a doubleheader with powerful Connecticut. Game time is set for 1 p.m.

The Blue nine, present defending champions, are virtually out of the YC race this season after having dropped four of five conference contests. Connecticut, on the other hand, is riding near the top of the heap.

Uconns Beat Rhody

The Uconns hold a 6-4 decision over the University of Rhode Island earlier this year. It was this same Rhody Ram nine which twice dealt losses to Maine by scores of 4-0 and 8-7.

Looking over the past week with the Maine squad, Rhody won Friday 8-7 in an exciting dual which saw the Bears nearly pull out ahead in the game after trailing 8-2. Saturday, Maine again was dropped by a single counter when Bowdoin won a State Series tilt 5-4 in a battle of errors by both teams.

At Durham, N. H., Maine again lost 11-9 to the Wildcats who thus extended Maine's losing streak to four straight. And Connecticut, if anything, will prove tougher. The Nutmeggers lost by only a single run to Army earlier this spring.

New Pitchers

Coach Mike Lude will have a host of newcomers from which to choose as starting pitchers. Among them Charley Simmons, lefty Jack Butterfield, Hank Woodbrey, Marv Dow, Blaine Trafton, and fast-baller Gordon Cram.

The Maine line-up will be strengthened by the return of a pair of veterans who were sidelined last week. Both Al Hackett and Rolie Chamard are set for action, and Hackett already has made his presence felt with his hits in the Bowdoin and New Hampshire games.

Freshman Baseball Starts Tomorrow Against Higgins

Coach Hal Woodbury will unwrap his Maine Frosh baseball array here tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. when the Blue yearlings go against Higgins Classical Institute.

Higgins already has played three or four games this spring so will be ahead of the Maine nine in that respect, but Woodbury has several fine performers in his charge and the Frosh are eager to start the season with a victory.

The lanky Frosh coach announced his tentative line-up for the game which is as follows: Don Mavor, c; Bob Wallace or Fred Tolman, 1b; Lee Schilder, 2b; Steve Novick, ss; Elmer Pelletier or Mike Boyd, 3b; Ronald Perry, lf; Roy Raymond or Grady Mahoney, rf; Al Philbrick, cf.

As far as the pitching is concerned, Woodbury has yet to name a starter. At the present time, however, he may use one of two right-handers, Jim Orino or Fred Coddington, or a southpaw, Gerry Clark.

There will be a meeting of the Sailing Club tonight in 32 South Stevens
