IFC Action Ends Rumors On Violation

Rumors that more fraternities would be prosecuted by the Interfraternity Council for violation of the drinking rule during formal rushing were ended last night.

Routine Business

The 17 member council carried on routine business in a relatively short meeting in the Dean of Men's office in the Library.

The executive council of the IFC reportedly met with representatives of one fraternity Monday night in the Union over its possible violation of the drinking rule.

The council, however, did not have enough evidence to warrant prosecution against the particular house, according to IFC members after the meeting was over.

In other business the IFC voted to raise the non-resident quota of Tau Epsilon Phi from 1 to 3 members.

A motion not to count non-resident fraternity members who live in Orono, Bangor, Old Town and surrounding areas on the non-resident quota was defeated by a heavy majority.

Save Three Cents, Use Regular Stamp

Do you ever send air mail letters to destinations in New England or New York City from Orono?

If you do, you are wasting 3 cents!

According to postal authorities, letters leaving campus in the morning mail, whether by a 3 cent letter by train or by a 6 cent letter by plane, are delivered at the same time the following morning.

Air mail to points beyond New England, other than New York City, is effective whenever it leaves the campus, but the greatest advantage is obtained when it is in the meter room in the Administration building before 10 a.m.

Brotherhood Program Is Set

Program Starts Sunday With Union Reading

The University's annual Brotherhood Week observance gets underway Sunday with a dramatic reading program in the Union.

The program Sunday afternoon will begin at 3:30 p.m. in the Main lounge. A play with a brotherhood theme will be read and may be supplemented with records.

Similar Program

A program similar to this may be held in freshman dormitories Monday night.

Tuesday evening the chaplains of the four University faith groups, Canterbury, Hillel, MCA, and Newman Clubs, will explain services of their religions at a program in the Bangor room beginning at 7 p.m.

The annual Brotherhood Banquet will be held Wednesday evening at 6:30 in the North Estabrooke hall dining room.

Roger C. Gay, president of Nasson College, Springfield, will be guest speaker.

Representatives of many University clubs and organizations as well as faculty members are expected to attend the banquet. Reservations are available at the S.R.A. office in the Union.

Thursday and Friday afternoons University students will have an opportunity to visit Bangor Social agencies. So far the only four students have signed up for is to the Bangor State hospital, but possible tours are also scheduled for the Eastern Maine General hospital and YMCA building.

Students will leave Campus at 2:30 p.m. and the tours will begin in Bangor. (Continued on Page Eight)

Young Republican Club Swings Back Into Action On Campus After Absence

(This is the first of two articles dealing with new political clubs on campus and their activities. Next week the Young Democrats will be examined in the Campus.)

By JIM HAMBELTON

Young elephants are trumpeting again on campus. With a surprising show of vitality even for an election year, the Young Republican Club is back in action.

Both the Democrats and the Republicans have been organized under the direction of Gerald Grady, professor of government.

Clubs Separate

However, after the initial meeting the two clubs have been turned out on their own and now operate under direction of their own executive councils.

The purpose of the Young Republicans is to promote interest in politics. Their secondary purpose is to stimulate interest in Republican principles. In carrying out their goals, the YGOP intends to associate with the regular Young Republicans of Maine, with their campus rivals, the Young Democrats, and with the Politics and International Relations Club, a non-partisan organization.

Send Delegation

As part of their introduction to political activities, the YGOP sent a delegation to the state convention of the Young Republican party held in Auburn this past weekend.

The convention met to decide the platform of their party for the coming election. According to reports from the Maine delegation, the convention was the scene of many bitter arguments before the platform was decided.

Depaur Chorus To Sing Here On March 12

The world famous Depaur Infantry Chorus, composed exclusively of 30 college graduates, will appear at the University March 12, according to Prof. Lewis H. Niven, chairman of the University Concerts committee.

The choral group which has established a record as the most heavily booked concert attraction in America with over 3000 concerts to its credit, is under the direction of Leonard Depaur.

The group has developed programs which please all types of audiences. Songs of many lands visited by the chorus while on Army tours in World War II, plus Negro, secular, and religious songs are included in the program.

This concert, the second of the 1955-56 University series, will be given in Memorial Gymnasium. Students will be admitted by showing their ID cards as will season ticket holders.

Delta Zeta Elects

Delta Zeta sorority elected Elva Brackett new president Monday night. Other officers elected were Marlene McKenney, pledge trainer; Gayle Prince, rush chairman; Joyce Lyon, recording secretary; Jane Cushman, corresponding secretary; Judith Dale, treasurer; Patricia Tripp, historian.

The University Band will present its Ninth Annual Pops concert Wednesday evening, March 14, in the Memorial Gymnasium. A variety of musical selections will be presented. Student leaders and soloists will be featured.

Francis G. Shaw, director of the band, received his B.S. and M.A. from the University. In 1951, he received his B.M. from the Northern Conservatory of Music where he is an instructor.

The first musical group to be organized on campus was a military band which, in addition to functioning as a school band, served as a unit in the First World War. In 1947 the need was felt for a separate musical organization, and the University of Maine Varsity Band was formed.

Dartnell To Speak

Rev. Charles Dartnell of the Brewer Methodist Church will be the speaker at the annual Freshman Class Banquet, March 10, at 6 p.m. in Memorial gym.

There will be no charge for the banquet.

Off-campus students can sign up for the banquet at the Union at noon with either John Thibodeau or Norinne Hilehey. Students must sign up before Mar. 6.

Devoe, Grant Lead Debate Team To Good Showing At Boston

Dana Devoe and Frank Grant combined to make the best showing of the University Debate team this year, winning fourth place in the tenth annual Boston University National Invitational Debating tournament at Boston last week end.

The University team was eliminated in the semi-finals by Notre Dame who went on to win the tournament. Other winners were Brandeis University, second place and Boston University, third.

Win Majority

Devoe and Grant won five out of six contests, defeating Brooklyn college, Navy, Rutgers, Johns Hopkins, and Wake Forest, while losing to University of Pennsylvania.

Prof. Wofford G. Gardner, debate director and head of the speech department, commended Grant and Devoe for their outstanding performance.

About 30 colleges and universities from all parts of the nation competed in the tournament. There were six rounds of preliminary debate, followed by the semi-finals and finals.

Debaters argued both sides of the national intercollegiate debate question concerning guaranteed annual wages for non-agricultural employees.

Dana Devoe, a senior, is majoring in history and government. He is the present president of the Maine Debating Council and a member of Pi Kappa Delta, a national forensic honor fraternity.

Frank Grant, also a senior, is a chemical engineering major. He was last year's president of the Maine Debating Council and is a member of Pi Kappa Delta.

A University debate team of James Hambleton and Zane Thompson will compete in the Harvard University Invitational Debate tournament Friday and Saturday.

Thirty-eight teams will debate the intercollegiate proposition "Resolved: That the non-agricultural industries of the United States should guarantee their employees an annual wage."

This tournament will consist of six rounds of debate with semi-finals and finals with each team debating both sides of the proposition.

Prof. William Whiting will accompany the debate group.

Brotherhood On Campus

The Student Religious Association sponsors each year a Brotherhood Week. The purpose of this week is to explore what it means to be concerned about other people and the ways in which this concern can be expressed in everyday acts.

Brotherhood is not just an intellectual concept, but an everyday, practical matter. Too often, Brotherhood is just a sham. Too often we pretend we feel sorry for Miss Lucy in Alabama or give 50¢ to Korean War orphans, not because we have any genuine concern, but simply to salve our consciences.

Brotherhood Week can cut through the sham and will help make the Maine student really aware of what brotherhood can mean between himself and people from other countries, himself and other ethnic groups in our own country, and himself and other students right here on the campus.

The Week will attempt to do this by exploring these areas more thoroughly in the Brotherhood Conference, and by giving students a chance to see what is being done, both by social agencies in Bangor, and by the fraternities and sororities in our own campus, in the area of Brotherhood.

Take It In Stride, Miami

Unusual but true. There was no mention of "Suntan U" or "Country Club" in a recent and very lean attempt to humorize about the University of Miami in the University of Maine newspaper, the Campus. The most hilarious part of the column turns out to be the writer's pen name, Joe Kiddidlehopper. Or is that his real name?

Joe proposes that the University of Maine establish an annex next to UM. He bases his findings on observations of our University and the growing expansion of our academic curriculum.

However, like some college journalists, he has been misled by the tropical climate and writes that our South Florida institution offers such courses as Flower Watching, Early Morning Bird Calls, Salt Water Conch Diving, and Underwater Totem Pole Carving.

It is implied by Joe that his column is satire, but it is very poor satire. Poor in treatment, poor in taste, and very much repetitious of the publicity UM has received in the past, has learned to live with in the present and hopes to eliminate in the future.

On the other hand, the University might construct an annex next to the University of Maine and offer courses in Lumberjacking, Maple Syrup Gathering and Cod Fish Ball Shaping.

Ed. note—Yes, sometimes repetitious but nevertheless publicity Miami has received in the past, has to live with now, and probably will never eliminate.

We have our own "publicity" too you know—"Cow College" or "Farmer's Haven." Bear with us, Miami.

Senators Lax On Duties

Since the beginning of the year attendance at General Student Senate meetings hasn't been what it should be.

Last week the Senate took action against two senators who have had three or more absences and at the next meeting two more senators will have to explain their reasons for missing Senate meetings.

The Student Senate is supposedly a representative student body, but how can the Senate fulfill its responsibility to students if, as has been the case at times this year, there is not a quorum present to do business?

We urge senators to attend all Senate meetings and feel if this is done the Senate can fulfill to a greater degree its purposes and duties.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bibler

Tradewinds

BY NEIL TROOST

Our Maine co-eds are the most naive, conceited, and over-rated females in existence. They float around the campus as though each is a goddess of consummate beauty. This titanic travesty is forced upon the male students by the 4-1 ratio on this campus. The dainty sex is praised and worshipped by altogether too many men and their ego has risen to unimaginable heights. It's a sad situation!

Everyone knows that the maternal instinct and the almighty dollar have induced the female to enter college in search of a nice intelligent husband, who will make a pretty penny later on. By nature our feminine counterparts are feeble and dependent, capable only of clinging to the first acceptable male in sight. On the Maine campus the female is raised upon a pedestal and can select a mate from an array of suitors. She wouldn't deserve a second look anywhere else.

A girl starts as a freshman and usually is pinned by her sophomore year, unless she's got rabies. By the time a girl's a senior she's pinned, engaged, married or is a "undesirable."

The men seem foolish enough to succumb to their feminine wiles, so the condition cannot be remedied. The innocent females are deluged with phone calls every night and dates are as hard to get as uranium.

The amazing fact is that most of the co-eds are really plain and unchallenging (I know of one strong exception). There is an obvious absence of any form of sophistication or poise among our girls. In other words, most of them are "out of it." They are merely enlarged high school kids, from country schools, that is.

The situation at Colby is much more desirable. There the co-eds exude real beauty and sophistication, along with less vanity. They dress in fine taste and can converse cogently on a variety of subjects. Their interests are of a wide span also.

With the new women's dorm, the situation will improve, and perhaps someday, the female will assume her proper role on this campus. The present mockery is too unbalanced to tolerate. The situation should be reversed, with each man having at least several co-eds to enjoy on week ends.

Chatterbox

BY BEVE FOWLIE

I suppose you all know it, but I didn't. But I did know that the Major Leagues have begun working out. What I didn't know was that Maine's own Ted Williams and Stan Musial are working out, too. The only difference is that our boys aren't down South. At least so they tell me.

But really, now, they are working out—all ready, yet—up there in the fieldhouse. Yup, there are baseballs flying all over the place, I guess. And you can hear the crack of bats, the punch and smack of leather, and the general feeling that the baseball season has come.

But there are no home runs, yet, or long hits. The batter and pitcher and catcher all do their work in a netted area about 80 ft. long, 15 ft. wide and 12 ft. high. (You probably know all this. . . .) And there are pitchers going around swinging wild arms, sore arms, bad arms and no arms. But, you have to realize that it's still pretty early in the season, yet.

Anyway, it just occurred to me that if the season is really getting under way that it means that we girls have to get on the ball. Well, some of us, anyway. I was talking to a fellow yesterday and he told me about taking a girl to a baseball game out at Fenway Park. "I'd like t' died," was what he said.

It turned out that she asked him an awfully lot of questions. . . . "But why does he have to run around after he hit the ball out of the park?" (To me, this is a perfectly logical question—why does he?)

Also "why must he kneel there in that little circle so close to the man who is batting? He will get hit by a baseball." (Well, he might. . . .)

And "why does he swing three bats while he's waiting his turn and then only use one of them?" (It does seem a waste of strength. . . .)

And "why on earth do they make those grown men wear boys' knickerbockers?"

And "why are those men throwing that ball back and forth? They're not part of the baseball game are they? Maybe they've lost track of what's going on, too." (And at this point with the bases loaded and a double to right field the batter scored the winning run. This play was missed by our young man who was trying to explain what the pitcher was doing in the bull pen.)

"Aaaaaaah! What an afternoon! And a double-header, at that!" These were a few of the sentiments expressed by a man who took his girl to a baseball game—once.

So perhaps while our Maine boys are working out in the field house it might be a good idea for some of us women to stick our noses in a book entitled "Rudiments of Baseball."

Chatterbox Not Realistic

To the editor:

I am writing in reference to the column in the Campus entitled The Chatterbox, which is written by an extremely sweet and charming young coed, but I sincerely wish that she would chatter somewhat more realistically!

I am referring to her column of two weeks ago entitled, "Maine Men Have Good Manners!" I found it to be the most misleading, erroneous journalistic endeavor that I have read in a long time.

For example the author said, "Haven't you ever noticed when you approach a table in the Bear's Den, a fellow will offer his chair and get another for himself?" I'm really sorry that I have never seen this done, but maybe you can advise me, Miss Fowlie, as to the most opportune hour to visit the Bear's Den so as to witness this remarkable phenomenon.

The author also lauded Maine men for always walking on the outside lane when walking with a girl. This practice is one of the many folkways in our culture and if a man does not follow it he is considered eccentric and unsophisticated by the more conventional members of his society. Few of us want to be thought of in this manner so . . . we walk in the outside lane, not because we are chivalrous knights, but because, as the saying goes, "Monkey see, monkey do." So you see Miss Fowlie, we "outside lane walkers" are not half as noble as you have made us out to be.

In conclusion, Miss Fowlie, I will not criticize your column further, but will end only with the hope that in the future you will try to be more realistic in writing your column. The world of reality can be much more rewarding than that castle high in the clouds of fantasyland.

Wants New Cheers

To the editor:

In regard to the editorial by Neil Troost in the Feb. 23 Campus I would like to say this: I feel that Mr. Troost is wrong in saying that the spectators are not supporting their team. Players are always cheered on and given a hearty round of applause for every well-done job.

I will agree, however, with his statement that the cheerleaders do not gain any response. I think that if the cheerleaders would secure some new, clever cheers and stop repeating the old ones with an occasional variation they would secure that "necessary explosion."

Sincerely,
PATRICIA DAY

Has More Suggestions

To the editor:

After last week's article by Neil Troost on the school spirit situation, I'd like to make a few more suggestions.

An all-girl cheering squad lacks the impact necessary to stimulate a mass of students. High pitched female voices can be more irritating than arousing. Male cheerleaders should be added to the squad. Masculine voices will add a zest that will really command attention. Years ago Maine had a two platoon cheering squad of eight men and eight women. One of these platoons would rest while the other cheered. Each cheer can be vibrant and powerful.

The rallies can be renovated. Stagnant upperclassmen need reanimation, and the rallies can do it. Next year's mayor must be capable of inflaming the Maine spirit into the students. We need a spontaneous performer of great wit. Anyone interested in our University should look around him for a possible future mayor. This year's selection has to be good!

Let's set a rip-roaring tempo next year that will never die. With a new cheering setup some different cheers, a terrific mayor and student cooperation, Maine will carry on its tradition.

Might Alter Demerit Plan

A committee of women students, Mary Jean Keith, Jacqueline Boutin, Sally Kappas, Marilyn Malkin, Margaret MacKinnon and Sue Bockus, brought up a proposal to eliminate personal judgment in the handling of cases that come before WSGA Council.

Applications Must Be In By Monday

University students interested in taking the Selective Service College Qualification test have until midnight, Monday, March 5, 1956, to submit application. It was announced this week by Prof. John Crawford, school of education.

The test center on campus is at 8 South Stevens where applications can be picked up.

To be eligible to apply for the test, scheduled for April 19, a student must intend to request deferment as a student, be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction, and must not have previously taken the test.

They made this proposal recently for the revision of the demerit system.

As a result of the proposal a committee of representatives from WSGA and an elected representative from each dormitory was drawn up.

This committee will discuss the demerit system and the way in which the cases are handled. They will compare Maine's system with the systems on other campuses. If any action is taken, it will result in a Blue Book revision.

The result of any action could lead to a common demerit system where there would be a definite penalty set for each type of misdemeanor.

The penalty would be set according to the seriousness of the cases.

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young manager handles finances for $40,000,000 business

General Electric is made up of more than 90 product departments that operate as individual "businesses" — each conducting its own legal, financial, manufacturing, engineering, marketing and research activities.

One of the most important of these businesses is the Technical Products Department that makes broadcasting and communications equipment and semi-conductor devices. Responsible for managing the finances of this $40 million business is Robert H. Platt.

Platt's Work Is Important, Responsible

In the next ten years, the Technical Products Department is expected to reach the $100 million mark — more than doubling its present size. This is a big job. And it requires Platt to keep tabs on everything from tax, cost, and general accounting to payrolls, budgets and measurements, credits and collections, and internal auditing.

25,000 College Graduates at General Electric

Experience gained in the Business Training Course and as a traveling auditor gave Platt a variety of financial experience. Like each of our 25,000 college-graduate employees, he was given the chance to grow and realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: When fresh young minds are given the freedom to make progress, everybody benefits — the individual, the company, the country.

Maine Skiers End Campaign With Victory

Maine's state championship ski team defeated the University of New Brunswick 292.4 to 254.08 last week end at Fredericton, N. B.

The meet marked the end of the season for the Black Bears as an official group, but Maine skiers will compete as individuals in a number of open meets and the Golden Ski Races in coming weeks.

Despite the loss of Frank Morgan, Milt Christie, and John Bragoli from the squad because of injuries, Maine outdistanced the strong Canadian team by a comfortable margin.

In the Colby Carnival some weeks ago New Brunswick outscored Maine in the downhill and slalom, but fell behind in the jump and cross-country.

At Top Strength

Some of the best New Brunswick performers did not compete in the Colby Carnival, but were on hand Saturday to put the Fredericton combination at full strength.

Leon Akers paced the Black Bears to victory, winning the cross-country and jumping. For his brilliant efforts Akers was awarded the coveted Skimeister trophy, his third for the season.

Everett Cowett and Dave Gould placed second and third in the cross-country behind Akers, who established a new course record by eight minutes.

Kelly Elliot won the slalom with Akers placing third. The downhill and the two combined events were not held because of class and travel schedules.

Bear Facts

By

MAX BURRY

(Sports Editor)

With only one game remaining on the Maine basketball schedule, this seems like a good time to glance back over the 1955-56 campaign for a frank evaluation. Coach Harold Woodbury handled the varsity reins very well despite what appears to be a poor season.

The season was poor only as far as the win-loss record is concerned. On the books Maine won five and lost 12. However, with exception of a few games, the Black Bears performed as well as their opponents, sometimes better.

For example, Maine lost to Colby by one point in the early part of the season. In the second Maine-Colby duel the Mules won by a 15-point margin, but had to fight hard to salvage a two-point victory against the Pale Blue forces two weeks ago. This alone proves that the Maine team had the stuff to stand up to the State Series champions. Three points would have changed the Series picture drastically.

Maine also bowed to Northeastern by a single marker and lost to Bates with a narrow 76-72 verdict. Summarized, the Pale Blue win-loss record is far from being a true picture of the current season. Maine lost only five games by more than a ten-point spread, and in many cases the game was nip and tuck right down to the final three or four minutes of play.

Looking ahead to next year, the current campaign can be regarded as a building year. Gus Folsom and Mike Polese are the only seniors on the squad. The rest of the 16-man team will be back next season.

In addition to the men who saw action with the varsity combination this season, the team will be bolstered by some of the players from this year's strong freshman squad. Coach Jack Butterfield's first-year aggregation produced some top-flight ballplayers who could turn into good varsity material in another year.

And, as a final note, Keith Mahaney and Tom Seavy, who sparked Maine two seasons ago, may join forces with the Black Bears next year. Mahaney is back from a two-year hitch in the Army, while Seavy is scheduled to be discharged within the next few months.

Just Jottings: Wes Santee question still has many writers wondering why the A.A.U. doesn't release concrete evidence to support its case against the highly-touted milers... we're still not satisfied that Santee was justly chastised, are you? Red Sox seem to be planning a do or die year... lots of material signed up but gray hairs adorn many Bosox heads. Nothing definite as yet, but the Sailing club may locate at Cold Stream Pond in Enfield... more on this at a later date. Billy Fletcher's Lynx may be destined for the State M lid. The Lincoln team looked like a college quintet in capturing the Eastern Maine title and we're picking them to go the distance in the state playoff. And, as a final note, intramural basketball is more competitive this year than it has been for many a winter... boxing gloves and headgear may be brought into use if the race for the fraternity crown gets much hotter.

The recent appointment of Bob Clifford as head football coach at Colby may prove to be a "shot in the arm" to the Mules come next pigskin season. Clifford has 15 years experience behind him and could turn up lots of surprises in State Series football. He is a strong advocate of the split-T formation with variations.

Trackmen Face Last Meet, Phi Eta Wins Intramurals

Coach Chester Jenkins' varsity indoor track squad will see action for the last time this season when the Bears travel to Boston Saturday for a meet with Northeastern.

Maine will go into the meet with a perfect record, but Northeastern is expected to give the Pale Blue aggregation trouble in practically all events. Since the season began, Maine has recorded victories over Bates, New Hampshire and Connecticut.

Last Saturday Phi Eta Kappa swept the intramural track meet for the fifth consecutive year. Phi Eta carded victories in both the Charles Rice Trophy and Intramural action.

In the Charles Rice Meet Phi Eta encountered little trouble in piling up 86 points, 75 more than second-place Sigma Chi. Phi Gam and Sigma Nu tied for third place honors with 10 each, followed by Phi Mu with 5, Kappa Sig with 3, and Dunn Hall with 1.

Phi Eta captured the Intramural Meet title with 77 points. Phi Mu proved to be the top contender for the championship and posted 48 points. Sigma Nu followed with 18 while Tau Epsilon Phi and Kappa Sig grabbed 6 and 4.

Prep Tourney Set For Gym Tomorrow

The annual Prep School tournament will get underway in Memorial Gym tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 p.m. when Higgins battles with Bridgton. At 4 p.m. M.C.I. will tangle with Coburn.

The playoff game between the two winners in tomorrow's action is slated for 12:45 p.m. Saturday. M.C.I., the defending champion, is rated as a slight favorite in the tourney which was started in 1922.

Oak Grove Seminary captured the first title, while Higgins, Coburn, and Kents Hill all hold five-year trophies.

Faculty Manager of Athletics Ted Curtis, director of the tournament, has announced that student I.D. cards will be accepted for admission to all of the games.

Maine To Close Cage Season Here Saturday

The University of Maine varsity basketball quintet will take the court for the last time this season when the Black Bears host Bowdoin in Memorial Gym Saturday at 4 p.m.

Since the opening of the campaign, the Pale Blue forces have split with the Polar Bears, losing the first game, 71-77, and coming out on top in the last meeting with an 82-66 decision.

Brud Stover has been the Bowdoin sparkplug for the past few months, while Janelle poses a secondary threat. Although Maine walloped the Brunswick quintet in the last Maine-Bowdoin game, the Polar Bears are expected to produce plenty of competition here Saturday.

5-12 Record

The Black Bears will go into the game with a 5-12 record. In State

Series competition the Woodburymen have won two while losing six. Maine has done slightly better against the Yankee Conference teams, posting a 3-5 mark.

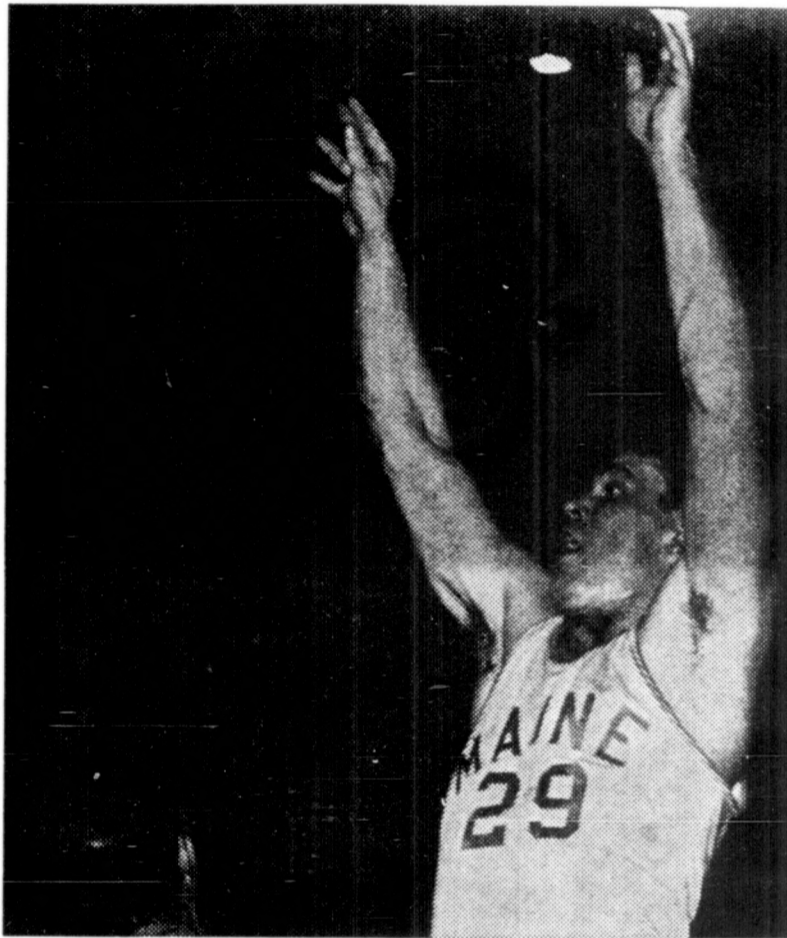

On Saturday, Maine rallied back from a ten-point deficit early in the final half to stop Bates in a 83-79 thrill-packed game in Lewiston. The Black Bears shone on the free throw line, dunking 16 of 25 foul tries.

Kosty Hits 27

The Garnet forces held the edge in scoring from the floor, 34-30. Pete Kosty set the pace for both teams with 27 points, his highest point total of the season. Kosty piled up 10 baskets from the floor and hit seven times from the foul line.

Will Callender and Johnny Man-teiga hit for 21 and 20 to capture Bates scoring honors, while Mike Polese and Thurlow Cooper dumped in 19 and 18 for Maine.

Frank Smith saw extensive action for the first time this season in the Lewiston game. Smith helped out considerably with the rebounding chores and played in much of the second half.

Baseball Team Prepping For Southern Trip

Less than a month remains before the 1956 edition of the Maine baseball team will hit the road for the annual Southern trip. Coach Walter Anderson said Monday that he has stepped up the training program in preparation for the annual outing which will open against Princeton March 31.

"For the next two weeks we're going to concentrate on fundamentals," said Anderson.

He added that each candidate will have batting practice in the cage for at least 10 minutes. When asked about the battery, Anderson said that he plans to stress control in workouts as well as more speed.

Informal workouts have been held in the field house for the past month, but regular practices began two weeks ago. Anderson, who is starting his second season as head coach, said that weather conditions will probably keep the varsity pastimers indoors until the last of March.

Statistics Show Varsity Cagers Outscored, But Not By Much

Official NCAA figures, compiled by local statistician Tom Brackett, reveal that despite a 5-12 record, Maine's cagers have not fared too badly this season.

Comparative totals indicate that Maine has been outscored 1357-1262, averaging 74.2 to their opponents' 79.8. The margin lies solidly in the "push 'em up, lay 'em out column," where Maine has been out-scored 489-430.

Pete Kosty has hit on 71 floor goals, 93 foul shots for a total of 235 points to pace the club offensively. Dud Coyne, instrumental in Maine's late season spurt, has averaged 17.8 points in seven games, besting Kosty's 13.8 in 17 tilts. Co-captain Mike Polese is close behind peppery Pete, with 201 points, an average of 11.8.

South Portland's Dick Libby, of overhead set shot fame, has 181 points for a 10.6 average while Thurlow Cooper, showing tremendous improvement this winter, has dunked 165.

If an award were to be made to the squad's foul-shooting champion, slender Bobby Jones would cop the crown rather handsily. Jones has gone to the line 80 times, hitting on 58—a sensational .725 clip. Among the regulars, only Polese challenges, having been successful on 35 of 55 attempts. Here again, Dudley Coyne is in evidence, for although he has appeared in only seven games, the ex-Cheverus star has compiled a .784 average.

Although the Bears are not among the nation's small college leaders in offense or defense, they do hold the rather dubious distinction of ranking high in the personal foul department. Going into last week's Rhode Island game, they had averaged 26.3 fouls—third in the country.

Comment On Santee

Dear Mr. Burry:

You mentioned in your column in The Maine Campus of February 23, that you thought that Wes Santee received unjust punishment from the A.A.U. As I understand it, Santee was offered a check which exceeded his prescribed expense account, which he accepted. It is the duty of the A.A.U. to keep our amateur athletes amateurs. Because Santee was a big hope for the next Olympic games should have no bearing on his punishment. Should a pretty face sway a jury?

It seems to me as if the American sportswriters are actually jealous of Russia's superior athletes.

As far as the payment of the Russian athletes goes, isn't that an issue for the Olympic officials? I was always under the impression that professional athletes were not allowed to play in the Olympics. Just a note in passing.

Meet With Top Men

According to Zane Thompson, executive council member of the YGOP, the convention gave the delegates the opportunity to get a behind the scene look at the operation of a political party. At the convention the Maine students also met and talked with most major Republican candidates.

Advisors are Miss Helen Philbrook, assistant manager of the Union, and Prof. Brooks Hamilton, head of the journalism department.

Closer Affiliation

In the past the YGOP on campus has done little to associate itself with the regular Young Republican movement of Maine. However, the present executive council hopes to correct this situation.

A fraternity, sorority coffee will be held in the Union's main lounge beginning at 3 p.m. Friday. Each fraternity and sorority has been asked to make a Brotherhood Week display which will be used in the Union.

Brotherhood Conference

The final event on the week-long program is a Conference on Brotherhood scheduled for Saturday. The conference will parallel the annual Fall Leadership Conference, but topics will center around brotherhood in three broad areas, at home, on campus, and abroad.

A keynote address by the Rev. Albert C. Niles, pastor of the First Universalist Church of Bangor, will get the program underway at 8:15 a.m. Saturday.

The discussion groups will be held following the keynote address.

Four topics under "Brotherhood Abroad" will be discussed by groups meeting at 9 a.m. The second topic, "Brotherhood At Home," also with four groups, will get underway at 10:45 a.m. and end at 11:45 a.m. The afternoon session with four groups discussing "Brotherhood on Campus" will begin at 1:30 p.m.
