The University of Maine, located in Orono, is the largest campus in the statewide university system. There is plenty of elbow room on its 1,200 acres, where the student is offered the diversity and challenge of a large university in the invigorating atmosphere of a small college. The campus at Orono is in a classic New England setting, located ten miles north of Bangor, Maine's third largest city. The region is conveniently located close to ski slopes, outdoor recreation areas, and the beautiful Maine coastline.

The University offers an outstanding faculty with a variety of exciting and challenging course opportunities. Baccalaureate degree programs are offered through seven colleges: Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, Education, Engineering, Forest Resources, Life Sciences and Agriculture, and the University College.

The campus houses the expansive Raymond Folger Library and a number of respected research facilities to give the student an excellent learning environment.

Students from 37 states and 36 countries studied at the University last year, and more than 20 percent of the total enrollment of 12,000 is admitted from outside the state of Maine.

There are seven scholastic honor societies, four non-scholastic honor societies, 22 departmental honor societies, 56 associations, clubs, and organizations, and six religious groups. Nineteen fraternities and 10 sororities have chapters in Orono. In short, a variety of opportunities exists for students, both academically and socially, outside of the classroom. Also, the Maine Center for the Arts, hosting concerts, comedy, theater, recitals, and other popular entertainment, is located on campus and features nationally and world renowned entertainers.

Maine offers its students, community and the state an outstanding athletic tradition. Black Bear teams have excelled in a number of sports reaching regional and national prominence.

Maine's athletic department has hired a full-time academic coordinator responsible for closely monitoring the progress of each of the 600 varsity student-athletes at the University. The individual sport coaches also monitor and advise their student-athletes, frequently holding meetings to specifically discuss academic situations. Study halls and special tutorial sessions are used daily as a way to enhance the learning process. This support and close scrutiny has been a major reason why the overall grade-point average of student-athletes at Maine has been higher than that of the general student body. The goal of the University and the athletic department is to see each individual reach his or her academic potential.

The Recreation and Intramural Department offers organized competition in a number of events throughout the year, from basketball and softball to team tennis, flag football, and soccer, to name a few. There are also open facilities available to the student for pickup games. Maine's 20 Division I athletic teams host more than 100 intercollegiate events on campus each year. The University offers the student a wide spectrum of possibilities to enhance the overall college experience.
MAINE BLACK BEARS

DR. DALE LICK
President

Dr. Dale W. Lick, 51, was named the 15th president of the University of Maine Sept. 1, 1986. He begins his third year of leadership at Orono this fall.

In making the announcement of Lick's appointment in 1986, Francis Brown, Chairperson of the Presidential Search Committee, described Dr. Lick as "an outstanding educator, an experienced academic leader, and an effective administrator and spokesman for higher education.

"He has the academic vision, personal skills and depth of experience to lead Maine into a new era of achievement as the State's leading research university," said Brown. Lick has proven his effectiveness as an administrator creating effective change on the Orono campus.

Dr. Lick came to Maine after serving eight years as President of Georgia Southern College in Statesboro, Ga. During his tenure at Georgia Southern, he was a guiding force in moving the school's athletic programs into Division I and for the Georgia Southern football team's back-to-back Division I-AA national championships.

A graduate of Michigan State University, where he obtained his baccalaureate and master's degrees in mathematics, Dr. Lick earned his doctorate at the University of California in Riverside.

Prior to taking the presidency of Georgia Southern, he was Dean of the School of Sciences and Health Professions at Old Dominion University, Vice President for Academic Affairs at Russell Sage College and Chairman of the math department at Drexel University.

At Maine, Lick has seen applications for admission rise 15 per cent in 1988 alone. During that same time, the standards for admissions have risen as well. Dr. Lick was responsible for the hiring of athletic director Dr. Kevin White, and athletic programs have grown toward national prominence during their tenure.

Dr. Lick is married and he and his wife, Marilyn, have three children.
DR. KEVIN WHITE
Director of Athletics

Dr. Kevin White, 38, is in his third year as Director of Athletics at the University of Maine. Regarded as an innovative and progressive administrator, White has very quickly made an impact on the athletic department's staff, scholarship funds, academic services, facilities, fund-raising, marketing, corporate sponsorship efforts and broadcast properties.

Athletic and recreation facilities have been a major focus lately at the University of Maine and White has worked with university officials to facilitate the $1.2 million Memorial Gym Renovation and Addition project. Other major projects include renovation of the Memorial Gym Lobby by the Varsity M Club, the new Mahaney Diamond baseball clubhouse, and a new all-weather running track. White played a major role in the negotiations with the City of Bangor to procure the Bangor Auditorium as the new home of Black Bear basketball.

A primary consideration for White has been having top quality personnel. Over the past several years, Maine has seen the recruitment and hiring of several coaches and administrators from among the nation's top major universities.

University of Maine broadcast properties have also seen growth under White's guidance. State-wide Black Bear radio and television networks have been formed for the first time with multi-year agreements involving Maine Broadcasting Systems of Portland and WABI of Bangor.

Prior to his appointment at Maine, White was with Loras College in Dubuque, Iowa. At Loras he served in several capacities, including Athletic Director and Assistant to the President for Institutional Marketing, Promotions and Special Events, and Vice President. His most recent assignment at Loras was Vice President for College Development, where he oversaw a successful $15 million capital campaign and an annual fund drive in excess of $1 million. Additionally, White is the founder and served as the Executive Director of the National Catholic Basketball Tournament in Dubuque. The NCBT annually invites 32 Catholic colleges from around the country to play 40 games over a four-day period, culminating in a live national cable telecast of the finals. White is presently a member of the NCBT advisory board.

Prior to his tenure at Loras, he was the assistant to the athletic director and head track coach at Southeast Missouri State University and the head track coach at Central Michigan University. A highly successful college coach, White guided 22 NCAA Division I and II All-Americans and two national champions.

With a varied background, he has served as director of numerous special events, including the State of Michigan Special Olympics, NCAA Division II National Cross Country Championships, and the Coors Semoction Relays at Southeast Missouri. He also served as sprint, hurdle and relay analyst for Saudi Arabia and as an executive fitness consultant for Aramco International of Saudi Arabia in 1978.

A graduate of St. Joseph's College, in Rensselaer, IN, White earned his master's degree in athletic administration from Central Michigan University. He received his doctorate in Education from Southern Illinois in 1983. His post-doctoral work includes attendance at Harvard University's Institute for Educational Management in 1985. Recently he has been named to the NCAA Executive Council Nominating Committee. He is married, and he and his wife, Jane, have four children.
32nd head coach at Maine on January 16, 1989, as he replaced Tim Murphy who resigned to accept the same position at the University of Cincinnati.

For Lichtenberg, success has been a part of every stop he has made along his 26-year coaching career. He brings to Maine his experiences from working at some of the top Division I-A programs in the nation.

Most recently, he was the Assistant Head Coach and Offensive Coordinator at Colorado State University under Head Coach Earle Bruce. He had previously worked with Bruce at Northern Iowa during the 1988 season. Lichtenberg was the Offensive Coordinator for Bruce at Ohio State for the 1986 and 1987 seasons. In 1986, the Buckeyes were Co-Big Ten champions, and defeated Texas A & M to capture the Cotton Bowl.

The 49-year old native of Cincinnati, Ohio, also has extensive administrative experience. He was an Assistant Athletic Director at Iowa State University for three years where his responsibilities... included academics and football.

In 1981, Lichtenberg was selected as the Offensive Coordinator at Notre Dame. He worked with Head Coach Gerry Faust for two full years before moving on to Iowa State. At Notre Dame, he was responsible for recruiting several top college and now professional players including Allen Pinkett, now of the Houston Oilers.

Prior to arriving at Notre Dame, Lichtenberg was the Head Football Coach at Morehead State University in Kentucky in 1979 and 1980. At Morehead, Lichtenberg produced the school's first winning season in six years as the team went 5-4-1 in 1979.

From 1974 through 1978, Lichtenberg was the Offensive Coordinator at Iowa State. After a 4-7 season in 1974, the Cyclones produced three straight eight-win seasons. Iowa State advanced to the Peach and Hall of Fame Bowls in 1977 and 1978, respectively.

Lichtenberg was an Assistant Coach at Morehead State for the 1972 and 1973 seasons. He was the Recruiting Coordinator, defensive backfield and offensive line coach. While at Morehead, he was responsible for recruiting Phil Simms, now of the New York Giants.

Lichtenberg began his coaching career in 1962 at William Mason High School in Mason, Ohio, where he started the football program. In six varsity seasons of football, his teams compiled a 44-4-2 record. He later moved on to Purcell High School in Cincinnati where he became the Head Coach.

Lichtenberg is a 1962 graduate of the University of Louisville in Health and Physical Education. He received his master's degree in Secondary Education from Xavier University in 1966.

He is married, and he and his wife, Sue Ann, have five children. The couple and their youngest son Bubba reside in Veazie.
John Baxter is in his first season at Maine after joining the Black Bear program from the University of Arizona. He was a graduate assistant at Arizona in 1988 under Dick Tomey, where he worked with the Wildcats' special teams, defensive secondary, offensive scout team and recruiting.

He previously held a graduate assistant position at Iowa State during the 1986 and 1987 football seasons. Baxter, 26, was a student assistant coach at Loras College for four years. He graduated from Loras in 1985 with a B.A. in Physical Education. He earned his Master's degree in Higher Education from Iowa State in 1987.

A native of Chicago, Illinois, he is single and resides in Bangor.

Dick Cassels, 28, is in his first season at Maine as the assistant coach responsible for the defensive line. He has been an assistant coach at Northeastern University for the past two seasons. He was the Huskies' defensive line coach and special team coordinator.

Cassels previously held a graduate assistant position at Rutgers University, where he worked with the team's defensive line and special teams during the 1986 season. He began his coaching career at Northeastern as a part-time assistant coach from 1982 through 1985.

Cassels is a 1982 graduate of Kutztown University, PA, in secondary education. He is currently working to pursue his master's degree.

A native of Sparta, New Jersey, he is married; he and his wife, Barbara, live in Brewer. The couple recently had a son, Devin.

Jack Cosgrove, 32, begins his third season as a coach at Maine, and was promoted to the position of Offensive Coordinator over the winter. Cosgrove is a 1978 graduate of Maine and was an All-Yankee Conference quarterback for the Bears in 1976. He currently ranks as the fourth all-time leading passer in Maine football history with 2,836 career yards. Cosgrove was an All-ECAC selection in 1976.

He came to Maine in 1987 as the quarterbacks and receivers coach. In 1988, he was promoted to Pass Game Coordinator before taking his current position.

He was a graduate assistant coach at Maine from 1978-81 under Jack Bicknell. He then moved to Boston College from 1981-84 as an assistant coach. He served as the Head Football Coach at Stoughton High School while assisting at BC.

Cosgrove received his Master's in Education from Maine in 1984. He and his wife, Marilyn, live in Bangor.
Paul Ferraro, 28, joins the Black Bear staff this year with previous experience at two other Yankee Conference schools. He began his career as an assistant at Massachusetts in 1982-83, and later was defensive coordinator at Villanova from 1984 through 1987.

Between these positions, Ferraro was a graduate assistant coach at Syracuse University, responsible for the defensive line in 1983-84.

Ferraro was the defensive coordinator at Dartmouth College under former Maine head coach “Buddy” Tevens in 1987-88. He moved to Catholic University in 1988 as the Assistant Head Football Coach and Assistant Athletic Director.

He is a 1982 physical education graduate of Springfield College. He was a four-year letterwinner and a second team All-New England strong safety for the Chiefs. He earned his master’s in physical education, concentrating in Athletic Administration, from Syracuse in 1985.

Ferraro is married, and he and his wife Patti live in Bangor.

Mike Kolakowski, 32, begins his first season at Maine coaching one of the Yankee Conference’s top defensive units. He comes to Maine from William & Mary, where he was an assistant coach for five seasons. His responsibilities with the Indians included the defensive secondary and special teams.

Kolakowski was the defensive coordinator at Morehead State University for the 1983 and 1984 seasons. He was promoted from an assistant coach responsible for the defensive line in 1982 at Morehead.

Kolakowski began his coaching career in 1980 as a part-time assistant coach at Cornell University. He moved on to William & Mary in a similar capacity for the 1981 season.

A 1979 graduate of Ohio Northern University, with a B.S. in Physical Education and Health, Kolakowski was a four-year participant on the football team as a receiver.

He is married, and he and his wife Kristen live in Glenburn. The couple have two children Ashley, 4, and Ryan, 2.

Mike Pendino, 29, joins the Maine coaching staff after a four-year stint in the Big 10 with the Minnesota Gophers. He was the head junior varsity coach in 1987 and 1988. His other responsibilities included serving as assistant offensive line coach and assistant strength coach.

Pendino was an offensive line coach at Rancoces Valley high school in 1984-85 while he taught marketing and education. He was an offensive coordinator at Cinnamaison High School in the fall of 1983.

Pendino is a 1983 graduate of Temple University in Marketing and Distributive Education. He was a three-year letterwinner for the Owls as an offensive lineman. He pursued a post-graduate degree at Minnesota in physical education.

He and his wife, Amy, recently had a son, Michael. The family resides in Bangor.
John Bonamego, 25, is in his second season as a graduate assistant coach for the Black Bears. He is responsible for working with the wide receivers and running the offensive scout team.

Bonamego is a graduate of Central Michigan University, with a B.S. in health and fitness. He is presently taking graduate courses in health and recreation at Maine working towards a master’s degree.

While at Central Michigan, he was a wide receiver on the football team for four seasons. For two years, he was the recipient of the Iron Man Award, given to the player judged to be the most consistent, hard-working practice player. He was also named an honorary team captain in his senior year.

He is married, and he and his wife Jill reside in Orono.

Joining the Black Bear football coaching staff this season is Casey Cobb, 22, a native of Orono. Cobb’s primary responsibility will be in assisting with the offensive backs.

Cobb graduated from Harvard University in 1989, where he was a Dean’s List student completing his B.A. in Economics. He is presently taking graduate courses in business administration at Maine. While at Harvard, he was a second baseman for the Crimson baseball team, earning the George A. Percy Award given to the player who best exhibits sportsmanship, leadership and team spirit.

Prior to college, Cobb quarterbacked coach Leo Pelleriti’s Orono High team to a 10-1 record, in 1984. For his accomplishments, Cobb was an All-State selection and the Most Valuable Player on the Orono team. While at Orono, he was a teammate of current Maine players Ray Wood and Jim Lucy.

Cobb is single, and resides in Orono.

Joe McDonald, 25, begins his third season as a graduate assistant coach with the Black Bears. His primary responsibilities will be in assisting with the offensive line.

McDonald is a 1987 graduate of the University of Maine, and is currently taking graduate courses in education. As an undergraduate, McDonald was an outstanding offensive tackle, earning second-team All-ECACHonors as a senior. In that season, the Black Bear offensive line provided the blocking that allowed the team to be ranked second in rushing in the Yankee Conference.

Prior to his outstanding career at Maine, McDonald attended Le- nape Valley High School in Stanhope, NJ, where he was an All-State defensive tackle.

McDonald’s wife, Lissa, is the UM cheerleading coach. His brother, Tom, is a center on the Black Bear football team.

Maine—Buck 15 of 21, 179 yards, 0 TD, 0 Int
YSU—Isaac 11 of 20, 126 yards, 0 TD, 0 Int

A tremendous individual effort by Maine's Carl Smith gives the Black Bears an opening day win. Smith scored three straight Maine touchdowns to lead the Black Bears back from a 7-6 deficit. The Bears feature an obvious new-look under first year head coach Tom Lichtenberg as they ran the ball 52 times out of 74 plays. The Maine defense led by Marc Dube and Mike Smith, who combined for 14 tackles, shut out Youngstown State in the second half.

- Villanova—Karoly 15/52; Johnson 2/33.

 Maine put on an awesome defensive performance running up over 500 yards of total offense against one of the league top teams. Mike Buck had his finest day of the season throwing for more than 300 yards and three TDs. Carl Smith had another fine game rushing for 140 yards. The Black Bear defense led by John Gibson who had nine tackles was excellent. Jamal Williamson’s interception return for a touchdown proved to be a big play as it gave the Bears an early 7-0 lead.

The Black Bears dominate both offensively and defensively against the Division II opponent. Mike Buck completes all but three of his passes on the afternoon including a TD strike to Steve Roth. Carl Smith runs for three TD's and Ben Sirmans carries for two more. Freshman Larry Peters makes his first career interception.
The text contains two football games summaries and individual leader statistics. The summaries include detailed information about the plays, scores, and team statistics. The individual leader statistics provide comparative data for rushing, passing, and receiving. The summary highlights notable player performances, such as Carl Smith's career-high rushing performance and Mike Buck's strong defensive effort. Mike Buck's performance was particularly highlighted as he had 17 tackles in the game against Rhode Island. The text also mentions Mike Smith's 100-plus yard performance and the contribution of DeGennaro, who received a 15-yard pass in the game against Connecticut.

Carl Smith’s 10-yard run with 6:19 remaining in the game lifted Maine to the win. Maine then dug in defensively, and shut down the Huskies to preserve the victory. Defensively, Mike Smith made 14 tackles to lead the Bears. The win was the ninth of the season for Maine, a new school record.
One of the premier Division I-AA conferences in the nation, the Yankee Conference begins its 42nd year after undergoing many changes since it began in 1947. Originally set up as a conference for the New England Land Grant institutions, the Yankee Conference now consists of nine schools. Five of the six original members (Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire and Rhode Island) are still in the Conference. Boston University joined the league in 1971 but was not eligible for the championship until 1973. The University of Delaware was voted into the league in 1983, while the University of Richmond was added in 1984. Villanova University was added in 1985 and became eligible last season.

The Yankee Conference developed from the old New England College Conference of Intercollegiate Athletics. When Northern University offered its resignation from the NECCIA, the Land Grant institutions appointed a committee to pursue a new league. On December 8, 1945, the committee recommended an athletic conference formed by the six New England Land Grant colleges, namely the University of Connecticut, the University of Maine, the Massachusetts State College, the Rhode Island State College, the University of New Hampshire and the University of Vermont.

On August 24, 1946, representatives from the schools met. A preamble and code of the Yankee Conference were adopted to become effective December 3, 1946. The first league championships were conducted in 1947.

In June of 1971, Boston University and the College of the Holy Cross accepted invitations to become members of the conference. For her own institutional reasons, Holy Cross withdrew from the conference in November, 1972. Vermont dropped football following the 1974 season. At that time, the Yankee Conference sponsored championships in almost every sport.

In 1978, the league disbanded in all sports with the exception of football. With Vermont not having football, the Yankee Conference had six schools, and the league was one of the original conferences to receive an automatic bid to the newly created Division I-AA football playoffs. During their time in Division II, New Hampshire represented the league in the NCAA playoffs twice and Massachusetts once. Since the construction of I-AA, Boston University has represented the league at the NCAA playoffs in 1980, 1982, 1983 and 1984, Rhode Island in 1981, 1984 and 1985. The University of Massachusetts went in 1978 and 1988, Delaware in 1986 and 1988, the University of Richmond in 1987, and the University of Maine in 1987.

The Yankee Conference has member institutions in eight states of the northeastern section of the country including Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Delaware, Virginia, and Pennsylvania. Dr. Dale Lick of the University of Maine is the chairman of the President's Council, and Edgar Johnson, Athletic Director at Delaware, is the Executive Director. Steve Green, Associate Athletic Director at the Boston University is the conference's Secretary-Treasurer. Eric McDowell of New Hampshire is the media relations officer for the conference.

1989 FOOTBALL MEDIA GUIDE
The University of Maine has been running roughshod through Division 1-AA

BY PAT PUTNAM

Once the saying went: As Maine goes, so goes the nation. But no more. Now as Maine goes, so go the NFL scouts—to Orono, the last outpost of civilization before you hit the Canadian border, 150 miles to the north. Orono is the home of the University of Maine Black Bears, the No. 4-ranked team in Division 1-AA football.

Orono is a place where, for excitement, folks drive around and watch dying foliage turn red and orange and yellow before the dullness of deep winter sets in. Author Stephen King lives near there, which may explain his writing. Orono is also where, on Saturday afternoons, they turn loose the Misfits, a crew of big, talented football players who fell through the nets of the major-college recruiters. Last week, for example, the Misfits manhandled the University of Connecticut, a good Division 1-AA team, 30-8 and ran their record to 8-0.

The glamour names at Maine are Buck and Smith, as in Mike Buck, a 6' 4'', 223-pound senior quarterback with a rifle arm, and Carl Smith, a fleet sophomore tailback who is as hard to collar as a hyperactive puppy. So far this fall, 13 NFL scouts have come to Orono to take a look at them. "Buck is one of our high-rated prospects," says Dick Mansperger, the director of college recruitment at Maine.
Smith trampled teammates and opponents alike in gaining 116 yards against U Conn.

scouting for the Dallas Cowboys, who already have a couple of quarterbacks named Troy Aikman and Steve Walsh. "He has the size and the arm and all the other things."

Buck ranks second among all Division I quarterbacks this season, with a passing efficiency of 171.2. He has completed 112 of 165 passes for 1,516 yards and 13 touchdowns. Incredibly, his next interception will be his first. No starting pro-style quarterback has played an NCAA season without an interception.

Buck is the guy who dubbed his team the Misfits, and as is true of most of his teammates, there is a story behind his coming to Maine. While Buck was in his senior year at Sayville High on Long Island's south shore, his coach decided to run the veer offense. It was like asking a 265-pound offensive tackle to play flanker. "I wasn't very good," says Buck. Of the big schools, only Syracuse maintained an interest in him. The coaches there told Buck that if he wanted to walk on, they would try him as a linebacker. "Maine was my only offer," he says. "I knew it was a state, but I didn't know they played football."

Smith, another Long Island product from Riverhead, was the New York State 100-meter champion—his best time was 10.43—but he had trouble with his SATs. When he finally hit a combined 770 on his third try, only Maine had held a scholarship open for him. Against Connecticut he ran 22 times for 116 yards and one touchdown. The week before, against Rhode Island, he ran for 245 yards and four scores. For the season, Smith has rushed for 1,268 yards and 17 touchdowns.

Three other Maine seniors have also drawn NFL interest: 6' 6", 290-pound offensive tackle Scott Hough, 6' 6", 290-pound tight end Mike Bittermann, and 6' 5", 275-pound defensive tackle Justin Strzelczyk. "Just some more of our bump-and-dent athletes," says athletic director Kevin White with a grin. "They all came out of high school with at least one thing that turned off the major schools." Hough, from Newton, Mass., attended a small private school that went 0-7 his senior year. Strzelczyk weighed only 205 pounds coming out of West Seneca (N.Y.) High as a tight end.

Bittermann's love of basketball turned his recruiting suitors off. "It didn't help when my high school coach (in Fort Lee, N.J.) told all the football scouts that I was only going to play basketball in college," says Bittermann. In fact, he went to Maine on a basketball scholarship; he switched to football his sophomore year.

"The talent was here when I came," says first-year coach Tom Lichtenberg, who apprenticed as an assistant at Notre Dame, Iowa State and Ohio State. "I guess I just turned the right key. You know, there isn't much to do around here in the winter. Our kids just go to the weight room and to study hall. They just get bigger and smarter." There are 12 seniors on Maine's team; all are on schedule to graduate.

That may come as a surprise to some of the recruiters. Smith was not the only player to come to Maine as an academic question mark. Junior flanker Mark Dupree, an all-New Jersey split end at Passaic High, was rated the best receiver in the state. "But everybody backed off because of my grades," he says. He came in this year from Highland Community College in Kansas. Again the big schools backed off, not because of grades this time, but because of his timing. He graduated in June. The big schools like their J.C. athletes to get out in December so they can make spring practice.

Dupree has become Buck's prime target, having caught 35 passes for 527 yards to date.

Redshirt freshman Bill Curry, an all-New Jersey cornerback who was chased by West Virginia, Iowa, Iowa State and Michigan, was late taking his SATs. "When I looked up," he says, "there was only Maine." Sophomore tailback Ben Sirmans from East Orange, N.J., had to repeat his SAT tests; again, Maine was the only school with the patience to wait for him. He has to be the finest reserve tailback in the country. In 95 carries this year, he has rushed for 396 yards and six touchdowns. "Until I came here," says Sirmans, "I had never seen two trees standing side by side. I love it."

"You know, a lot of schools recruit by looking at paper," says team captain John Gibson, a 6' 1", 220-pound senior linebacker. "We call them paper tigers. You can't measure heart or desire. That is what this team is all about."

Maine has three more games in its regular season: against Delaware, Boston University and Northeastern. If it wins all three and wins the Division I-AA playoffs, the Bears could conceivably finish 15-0. But winning isn't the only thing that's getting to be familiar in Orono. "When I came here, somebody asked me if I had ever been to Maine," said Lichtenberg. "I told them no, but I felt like I had. My wife buys a lot of stuff from the L.L. Bean catalog."

1989 National Collegiate Division I-AA Football Championship

The National Collegiate Division I-AA Football Championship is under the control, direction and supervision of the four-member NCAA Division I-AA Football Committee elected by the NCAA membership at the annual Convention.

Chair of the committee is Beanie Cooper, Indiana State University. Other committee members are Benny Hollis, director of athletics, Northeast Louisiana University; Walter Reed, director of athletics, Florida A&M University; and Chuck Boone, director of athletics, University of Richmond. Dennie Poppe, NCAA director of championships, works closely with the committee in the administration of the championship and related matters.

Selection of teams and conduct of championship competition are the responsibility of the committee. The Division I-AA Football Championship provides for a field of 16 teams. Sixteen teams play first-round games on the campuses of competing instutitions.

The top two independent teams, as evaluated by the committee, receive automatic berths. The champions of seven conferences—Big Sky Conference, Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference, Ohio Valley Conference, Southern Conference, Southland Conference, Southwestern Athletic Conference and Yankee Conference—also are granted automatic qualification. The committee selects the remaining teams at large with assistance from four regional advisory committees.

Teams are selected for the championship on the basis of the following criteria (not in preferential order): (1) eligibility of student-athletes for NCAA postseason competition, (2) won-lost record and (3) strength of schedule.

The committee is responsible for all pairings and seedings. The top half of the bracket has the Nos. 1- and 4-seeded teams and the lower half has the Nos. 2- and 3-seeded teams. Teams are placed in the appropriate region according to the seeding of the top four teams.

The criteria for determining first-round and semifinal sites are: (1) availability of quality facilities, (2) consideration of financial success, (3) geographic location considering inclement weather, (4) seeding of teams, (5) competition from other institutions, (6) site of previous competition, (7) enthusiasm for hosting the championship and (8) experience in hosting championships.

The 1989 NCAA Division I-AA Football Championship game will be played Saturday, December 16, at Paulson Stadium, Statesboro, Georgia. Georgia Southern College will host the event.
