Webster's dictionary defines the word "lot" as "one's way of life or worldly fate: one's fortune". Stephen King is a UMO grad who has become one of the nation's top writers of horror novels, with such bestsellers as "Carrie", "Salem's Lot", "The Dead Zone", "The Stand" and "The Shining" on bookstands everywhere. King is depicted on the cover with coaches Skip Chappelle and Peter Gavett as the fortunes of Black Bear Basketball are brewed in the caldron of Maine's national schedule in the midst of a new era at Orono.

Stephen Edwin King was born in Portland, Maine in 1947, the second son of Donald and Nellie Ruth Pillsbury King. After his parents separated when Stephen was a toddler, he and his older, adopted brother, David, were raised by his mother. Parts of his childhood were spent in Fort Wayne, Indiana, where his father's family was at the time, and in Stratford, Connecticut. Stephen and his brother paid frequent visits to members of his mother's families in Malden, Massachusetts, and Pownal, Maine. When Stephen was eleven, his mother brought her little family back to Durham, Maine, for good. Her parents, Guy and Nellie Pillsbury, formerly of Scarborough, had become incapacitated with old age and Ruth King was persuaded by her sisters to take over the physical care of the elderly couple. Other family members provided a small house in Durham and financial support. After Stephen's grandparents passed away, Mrs. King found work in the kitchens at Pineland, a nearby residential facility for the retarded.

Stephen attended the grammar school in Durham and then Lisbon Falls High School, graduating in 1966. He graduated from the University of Maine at Orono in 1970, with a B.S. in English and certified to teach on the high school level. During his college years, he was active on the college paper and in student politics, serving as a member of the student senate. He was also active in the anti-war movement on the Orono campus.

He married Tabitha Spruce in January of 1971. He met his wife in the stacks of the library at the University of Maine at Orono, where they both worked as students. At the time they married, Tabitha had still a semester of work to complete before graduating with her B.A. in history, and as Stephen was unable to find placement as a teacher immediately after leaving college, the Kings lived on his earnings as a laborer in an industrial laundry, and her student loans, with an occasional boost from a short story sale.

Stephen sold his first short story to a mass market men's magazine shortly after his graduation from the University. Throughout the early years of his marriage, he continued to sell stories to the men's magazines. Many of these were later gathered into the Nightshift collection or were anthologized.

In the fall of 1971, Stephen began teaching high school English at Hampden Academy in Hampden, Maine. Writing in the evenings and on weekends, he continued to produce short stories and work at novels.

In the spring of 1973, Doubleday & Co. accepted the novel Carrie for publication. On Mother's Day of that year, Stephen learned that a major paper back sale would provide him with the means to leave teaching and write full-time.

At the end of that summer, the Kings moved their family to southern Maine, after having lived in and around Bangor since their marriage. Renting a summer house on Sebago Lake in North Windham for the winter, Stephen wrote 'Salem's Lot, originally titled Second Coming and then Jeruzalem's Lot and waited for the publication of Carrie in the spring of 1974.

During this period, Stephen's mother died of cancer.

In the fall of 1974, the Kings left Maine for Boulder, Colorado. They lived there for a little less than a year, during which Stephen wrote The Shining.

Returning to Maine in the summer of 1975, the Kings purchased a house in Bridgton, Maine, in the lakes region of western Maine. At that house, Stephen finished writing The Stand.

In 1977, the Kings spent three months of a projected year long stay in England, cut the trip short and returned home in December, and purchased a new home, in Center Lovell, on the Maine-New Hampshire border.

After living there one summer, the Kings moved north to Orrington, near Bangor and the Orono campus of the University of Maine, so that Stephen could teach creative writing at the University. They returned to Center Lovell in the spring of 1979, and remained there while The Dead Zone, written in Bridgton, was published. In 1980, the Kings purchased a second, wintertime home in Bangor, retaining the Center Lovell house as a summer home.

The Kings have three children: Naomi Rachel, age 10; Joe Hill, age 8, and Owen Phillip, age 3.

Stephen is of Scots-Irish ancestry, stands 6'4" and weighs about 225 pounds. He is blue-eyed, fair-skinned, and has thick, black hair; in winter, he wears a beard, and occasionally a mustache in other seasons. He had worn glasses since he was a young child but is now experimenting with contact lenses.

He plays tennis and softball in the summer, swims, and watches baseball in season. He likes beer but drinks an occasional gin-and-tonic, smokes a low-tar cigarette, and eats Excedrin dry when he has a headache. He's interested in community theater but has not had the time to do much about it; he put some of his college dramatic society experience to use recently when he did a bit part in a new George Romero picture, Nightriders, with his wife.

In September, 1980 he published Firestarter, with the Viking Press. In the spring of 1981, Everest House will publish a book-length non-fiction essay called Danse Macabre and incidentally, Macmillan Publishing will put out his wife's first novel, Small World.

He is currently finishing the screenplay of The Stand which has been optioned for film by George Romero and Richard Rubenstein. After that he plans a new novel, probably set in Bangor. He works every day, except his birthday, Christmas and the Fourth of July.
A TRIBUTE TO "M" ATHLETES

The love of the game and a will to win has long been the University of Maine's athletic tradition. As an integral part of the total educational process, intercollegiate athletics has proved to be a rich experience for hundreds of Maine students. In 99 years the University has awarded the Varsity "M" to approximately 6,000 athletes. The combination of courage, team work and pride has provided excellence in all sports as Black Bear teams have brought honor and distinction to the University.

Athletics at the University of Maine will continue to develop qualities of leadership, fair play and a competitive spirit in those young men and women who choose to include varsity competition as part of their college education. The University takes great pride in paying tribute to all "M" letter winners for their outstanding contribution to the University Family and its athletic programs.

THE ORONO CAMPUS

The University of Maine at Orono, with its six colleges and four schools, is the largest campus in the statewide university system. There is plenty of elbow room on its 1,100 acres, where the student is offered the diversity and challenge of a large university in the invigorating atmosphere of a small college. Close personal contact among students, among students and faculty, is a tradition at Orono, where one knows his neighbors and his teachers.

Orono is a cosmopolitan campus in a classic New England setting. Last year students from 25 foreign countries and 45 states studied here, and fully 20 percent of the total enrollment of some 11,000 students regularly is admitted from other states and nations around the world.

There is ample opportunity for the student to enrich his university days academically and socially outside the classroom. There are seven scholastic honor societies, four non-scholastic honor societies, 22 departmental and professional honor societies, 56 associations, clubs and organizations, and six religious groups. Nineteen fraternities and 10 sororities have chapters at Orono.

The campus is located one mile from the center of Orono, an attractive town of about 10,000 population, and eight miles from Bangor, the state’s third largest city. It is in the center of the state’s year-round outdoor recreation area, with ski slopes, scores of ponds, lakes, streams, and the beautiful Maine coast within easy driving distance.

Interstate Route 95, a scenic four-lane highway that bisects the state north to south to the New Hampshire state line, passes within a mile of the campus. Air travelers land at Bangor International Airport, where the University of Maine has established a campus in former Dow Air Force Base facilities, Bangor Community College. BCC, in the 1974-75 academic year, became the new sixth college of the University of Maine at Orono. Although the 162 acre campus, with its 58 buildings, is located in Bangor, its relationship with Orono is the same as the other five colleges.

In its role as a community college, the primary objectives of BCC are to offer two-year associate degree programs, one-year certificate, and short-term programs to meet special educational needs.

The University of Maine at Orono offers programs in physical education, intercollegiate athletics, intramural sports, recreation and related club activities. These programs are recognized as an integral part of the educational process which the university controls and supports within the limitations of budget, staff, equipment, and facilities. These programs are to promote educational leadership, physical fitness, opportunity for recreational pursuits, and athletic excellence through instruction and competition.

In 1968 the State Legislature created a system of public higher education for Maine. This action unified the University of Maine and the five state colleges into one “cohesive structure of public education in the State of Maine.” The university now has campuses in Orono, Bangor, Portland-Gorham, Augusta, Presque Isle, Farmington, Fort Kent, and Machias.

The information in this publication pertains only to the activities and programs at Orono.
A Salute From The President

In the brief time I have been associated with the University of Maine at Orono, I have been greatly impressed with the scope and quality of the athletic programs and with the spirit, commitment and dedication of the athletes, coaches, trainers and other supporting personnel.

I subscribe to the philosophy that a university has a responsibility for the total development of its students, and I am convinced that the type of experiences provided through intramural and college athletic competition contributes significantly toward this end.

I wish the very best of success to all our athletic teams and I am confident that the young men and women who participate in this year's schedule will do so at the high level which has come to be expected and appreciated as a proud Maine tradition.

MAINE'S MERIT SCHOLARS

UMO 47, New England 56

The University of Maine at Orono offers no apologies for the abilities of its athletes — nor for the academic talent of its 11,000-plus student body. UMO's role of athletic success in recent years, playing against what has come to be known as "the big time", is well documented. Perhaps not so well known is the fact that UMO is in "the big time" when the measurement is by academic excellence.

The latest report of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, for instance, points out that UMO has 47 National Merit Scholars currently enrolled — more than any other public college or university in New England. The number nearly equals those enrolled in all the other land grant colleges in New England combined (56). And it's higher than such well-recognized institutions as the University of Maryland, University of South Carolina or the University of Oklahoma.

Overall in New England UMO ranks ninth in the number of National Merit Scholars, behind such giants as Harvard/Radcliffe, Yale and MIT. A total of 46 schools in New England enroll one or more such scholars.

President Silverman has taken note of the school's academic excellence a number of times. In referring to the enrollment of National Merit Scholars, Dr. Silverman says, "The University of Maine at Orono's ability to attract National Merit Scholars speaks exceedingly well for the reputation and substance of the institution's many programs, as well as its faculty".
There are two words that best describe James A. Harmon, who has served the University of Maine at Orono for 34 years, 22 of them as director of admissions. The words are "composure" and "class". They are particularly appropriate words for any athletic team and, in paying tribute to Jim Harmon for his loyalty, understanding and great interest in athletics, the UMO basketball team hopes it can embody these same traits as it meets the challenges of this and succeeding years. The composure and class of a Jim Harmon is what UMO and its athletic and academic standards are all about.

BASKETBALL AT MAINE

The history of basketball at Maine is unique. While it includes the accomplishments of a number of outstanding teams and several brilliant players, it also shows that the University dropped the sport from its intercollegiate program on two occasions due to a lack of proper playing facilities. But those days are behind now as the game has become one of the most popular indoor sports played at Maine with sellout crowds in view at almost every home game.

The first official team to wear the pale blue and white was the 1904-05 team which compiled a 7-9 record, not bad for a beginner. The next five seasons saw Maine produce winning teams, but the sport was dropped at the end of the 1909-10 season for lack of a gymnasium floor. It was resumed in 1921 and the teams of the 20s had only fair success, posting a 45-61 record during this period. Once again the game was dropped, from 1929 to 1935, when the construction of Memorial Gymnasium placed the game back on solid standing for good. The teams of the late 30s and 40s had a record of 93-102, but the decade of the 40s closed on a high note with Dr. Rome Rankin’s first team (1949-50) posting the best record ever for a Maine team until that time, 13-6.

It wasn’t until 1958 that basketball hit its highest plateau at Maine, however. Brian McCall, who captained one of Dayton’s great teams and had a brilliant high school coaching record in the Cleveland area, was hired as Maine’s first full time coach of basketball in the summer of that year and he promptly coached the 1958-59 team to 15 wins in 22 games, a new UM record. The 1958-59 season was but a tune-up, however. Led by the greatest starting five in Maine’s history, guards Tom “Skip” Chappelle and Wayne Champion, center John Ingalls, and forwards Don Sturgeon and Larry Schiner, the 1959-60 team opened with 13 straight wins and finished with a 19-4 record. The team was ranked sixth nationally. The 1960-61 team chalked up an 18-5 record to give McCall 52 wins in 68 games during this golden era. Chappelle was named to the AP’s All-American college division squad (first team). Chappelle established 15 all-time UM scoring records, but several were bettered late in the 60s by Jim Stephenson, who Chappelle coached at Ft. Fairfield High School.

McCall coached until 1968 when he resigned to become an assistant to Athletic Director Hal Westerman. In 1969 he became Athletic Director at the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C. His place as UM basketball leader was taken by Gilbert “Gib” Philbrick.

Chappelle took over the Black Bear helm in the 1971-72 season and led Maine to a 15-10 record, the best record in 11 years. The winningest coach in UM history (percentage-wise at .560), Chappelle has a nine-year record of 126-99.

Led by all-time career scoring leader Rufus Harris, who scored 2,206 points, rebounding great Bob Warner, number three scorer Roger Lapham and current assistant coach Peter Gavett, Chappelle’s teams went on to pile up winning records in all but the 1974-75 (11-14) and 1976-77 (13-13) seasons.

Phase one is about complete.

Once begun, it came fast, straight up, with hurricane force, and the rafters rang but the steeples did not fill up. The "move up" has been made.

In February of 1974 the UM Board of Trustees allowed the athletic department to award forty no-need athletic scholarships. These grants were to be funded from private sources.

This was the start of it.

The quality of basketball took an immediate step forward as the schedule changed dramatically with the addition of the Marquettes, Alabamas and DePauls. The 1978-79 season had the most notable changes as the Bears played nationally-ranked Marquette in Portland to the largest audience to see a basketball game in the State of Maine.

Following that season, Maine took on Alabama, LSU, Marquette, DePaul, South Carolina and Eastern Kentucky. With this firepower on the schedule, the program soon gained national attention and alerted our alumni and friends to the direction of Phase One.

At the same time, Phase One was creating a situation whereby we were bringing in to the State of Maine the best teams in the country. The appearances of Marquette and South Carolina in Portland and the 1980-81 scheduling of Texas A&M, DePaul and Eastern Kentucky in Bangor, and the Portland dates with Villanova, Temple and North Carolina-Charlotte shows what Phase One has meant to our program.

With the 1981-82 schedule incomplete, Alabama is penciled in to play in Portland and we will be making the trip to South Bend to take on Notre Dame.

Scheduling: a key to Phase One, was achieved with respectability gained, including the team's first-ever playoff games. The ECAC also chose to honor Rufus Harris as Co-Player of the Year and guard Rick Carlisle as the Co-Rookie of the Year.

Phase One is coming to a close. Stand and drink a toast once again.

Survival maintained, respectability gained and now consistency must be sustained... Phase Two.

Automatic NCAA Tournament berths will be awarded to the tournament champions from the ECAC/North, the ECAC Metro NY-NJ, and ECAC South divisions. There are a total of 30 teams in the three divisions.

On March 3, the ECAC/North playoff quarterfinals will have number five seed playing at number four’s site, while number six plays at number three. The top two seeds draw a bye. These four teams will meet at the Springfield Civic Center March 5-7 for the NCAA berth.

Maine's Black Bears rank third behind Holy Cross and Northeastern, in the nine seasons under coach Skip Chappelle (126-99), among the teams now in the nine-team division. Maine would have qualified for the playoffs eight of the nine seasons if the division format began in 1971-72. Holy Cross, the next-best, would have qualified seven times.
The Black Bears’ fifth-seeded team was expected to fall to fourth-ranked Northeastern for two reasons. First, the Huskies were coming off one of their school’s best seasons at 19-8, and second, NU had topped Maine twice during the regular season. Add the homecourt advantage and fans knew which team was favored.

Only it didn’t work out that way. The Bears hung in to lead by four at the half, but leading scorer Rufus Harris was in foul trouble. When NU made a run at the Bears, it was reserve guard Gary Speed’s five buckets while spelling the All-ECAC Harris that meant the difference.

In Portland, the long-awaited matchup of Harris and the fabled Ronnie Perry didn’t materialize as the Crusaders showed their experience and height advantage were too much for Maine’s Cinderella squad. Maine’s Joe Johnson pulled down a game-high 17 rebounds, while Harris chipped in with ten more.

Holy Cross went on to defeat Boston University in the final to qualify for the NCAA playoffs. BU had beaten Rhode Island in a semi-final game earlier.

The Black Bear Athletic Scholarship Program

We offer you full opportunity to participate as an “M” Club member or a loyal friend in all the functions connected with our University of Maine at Orono Athletic Program.

Our Athletic Program is not supported through oil, coal or wood. It is supported by Green Dollars and they burn up very rapidly. We must keep that Big Black Bear Hot. How about a donation now.

Mail it to Sam Sezak, Chairman, Black Bear Athletic Scholarship Fund, Memorial Gym, University of Maine at Orono, Orono, Maine 04469.

WE SALUTE THE 1980 BLACK BEAR AWARD RECIPIENTS

Three men were awarded the Black Bear this year for their demonstrated loyalty and service to the University. They are, from left to right, George Hale, the radio voice of Black Bear sports for more than 20 years, William Palmer of Falmouth Foreside, a member of the Class of ’58, and Bert Pratt, a former UM athlete and now assistant director of admissions at UMO.

The Summer Youth Sports Clinic program at the University of Maine at Orono has been in existence seven years. During those years more than 6,000 youngsters were enrolled in clinics one week in length and in nine different sports activities. Each clinic is directed by a UMO varsity head coach or comparable director who is assisted by his staff, guest lecturers, and prominent high school coaches.

The participants will have the opportunity to improve their skills in the sport or sports of their choice; to participate in a framework of sportsmanship, teamwork, and safety; and to enjoy a week at one of America's most beautiful college campuses. The food is superb and the living accommodations are outstanding.

The clinics are open to both boys and girls but vary from sport to sport. Highlighting the program is "Super Week" which is conducted in both boys' and girls' basketball for the more advanced players. In addition to regular basketball clinics, the other sports activities include competitive swimming, diving, baseball, soccer, football, gymnastics, tennis, and athletic training.

MEET THE BEARS

22 Jim Mercer, Co-captain
Senior, G, 6-2, 190, 1/8/58, Fall River, MA

A transfer from Northeastern, Jim begins his third season in Black Bear country as co-captain along with Dave Wyman. The personable senior is an outstanding outside shooter and can provide instant offense. He stepped in at the guard slot last year for the injured Rick Boucher midway through the season and did an outstanding job. Jim’s two foul shots late in the game gave Maine a key road win last winter over North Carolina A&T. On the night former Black Bear great Rufus Harris scored his 2000th point, Jim was the high scorer in Maine’s 65-54 win over New Hampshire. The leading scorer at Durfee High School, he led the Hilltoppers to a state title in 1976 under coach Skip Karam.

52 Dave Wyman, Co-captain
Senior, F, 6-6, 210, 11/9/59, Westminster, MA

This co-captain will be relied on heavily to provide rebounding strength for the young Black Bears. The third-leading rebounder on the squad last year, Dave is the only returning front court starter. Dave averaged 3.9 points per game last year, but his forte is down at the other end on defense. He scored Maine’s first two points in the Bears’ ECAC North playoff game last March against Holy Cross with a vicious slam dunk. The mathematics major was a three-sport letterman at Oakmont Regional High where he claimed the Central Massachusetts high jump championship as well as being named MVP on the basketball team, coached by his father, Bill.

10 GARY SPEED
Senior, G, 6-1, 180, 3/22/58, Harrison, ME

Known previously for his defensive prowess, Gary, in his role as third guard, hit key baskets down the stretch last season in Maine’s drive for its first-ever playoff berth. “Speedo” is an outstanding ball handler with great court awareness. He also gets the job done on defense with his aggressive, scrappy style. Cool under pressure, Gary hit eleven out of 13 free throws last year. Gary was a two-sport standout at Lakes Region High, earning All-State honors in basketball and team MVP in baseball. He majors in Education.

34 RICK CARLISLE
Sophomore, G/F, 6-5, 200, 10/27/59, Ogdensburg, NY

The ECAC/North Co-Rookie-of-the-Year will be relied on heavily to provide much of the scoring punch throughout the long season. As a freshman last year, Rick burst onto the Black Bear basketball scene with a bang and didn’t let up, starting every game of the season. An outstanding jumpshooter and penetrator to the hoop, he averaged 12.3 points per game and was the Black Bears’ high scorer in their loss to Connecticut with 19 points. Rick also contributes heavily to Maine’s rebounding attack, pulling down 96 boards last year along with leading the team in rebounding in the Massachusetts and Boston University games. The Political Science major is interested in a career in politics.

44 CLAY GUNN
Sophomore, F/C, 6-6, 220, 3/15/59, G. Barrington, MA

Hoping to bounce back strong after missing the second half of ’79-’80 campaign, Clay is to be Maine’s rebounding force in the middle. In just fourteen games last year, Clay pulled down 99 rebounds while scoring 148 points. His outstanding game came against nationally-ranked Louisiana State when he was credited with ten rebounds in the Black Bears’ 103-81 defeat. He earned a starting berth mid-way through his freshman season and has been a favorite of Maine hoop fans ever since. The Education major was an All-Western Mass. and All-Berkshire MVP in both basketball and football at Monument Mountain Regional High School.

32  CHAMP GODBOLT
Sophomore, G, 6-4, 195, 5/6/61, Springfield, MA
This sophomore will be pushing for playing time immediately based on the potential he showed last season before sitting out the campaign’s second half. The highlight of his shortened freshman season was a 19-point effort against number one rated DePaul. Champ is an outstanding floor general and handles the ball well under pressure. With some work on his jump shot, his potential is unlimited. Combining with Rick Carlisle, he gives the Black Bears an outstanding guard tandem for the future. The Management major was awarded the John Lahovich Award for 1979, symbolic of the best high school basketball player in Western Massachusetts, while at Springfield Tech High School.

50  MITCH ANDERSON
Freshman, F, 6-7, 190, 7/28/61, Westminster, MA
Mitch averaged 16 points and 11 rebounds per game in helping Maine Central Institute to the New England Prep School Championship last year. A good shooter, Mitch’s ease in adjusting from prep school to Division One play will determine his court time. He graduated from the same high school as co-captain Dave Wyman, and was coached by Wyman’s father. Mitch is an Education major.

40  PAUL COOK
Freshman, F, 6-6, 190, 3/3/61, Lubec, ME
A teammate of Mitch Anderson’s on Maine Central Institute’s New England Prep School Champions last year, Paul has impressed the Black Bear coaches with his determination, hustle, and second effort. The 15 point per game scorer at MCI moves well without the ball and is a good shooter. Paul played for coach Don Farrell at Lubec High.
54  JEFF CROSS
Freshman, C, 6-10, 230, 9/1/61, New Castle, NH
   At 6-10, Jeff is the tallest player in the history of UM basketball. His progression could be a tremendous key to the Black Bear fortunes for the freshman’s first year of competitive hoop was his senior year in high school. Jeff moved on to Worcester Academy last year where he averaged 19 points and 11 rebounds per game in being named MVP while leading the school to the New England Prep finals. Jeff is enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences.

24  KEVIN GREEN
Freshman, G, 6-3, 185, 9/26/60, Natick, MA
   Another Maine recruit from prep school, Kevin was the team captain last year at Worcester Academy. The Business major was an honor student in prep school and is a highly-motivated, coachable and aggressive player. He averaged 11 ppg at Worcester Academy.

20  CRAIG KELSEY
   The third player on the Black Bear squad from Westminister, Craig holds the distinction of being the youngest player on the team. He will not turn 18 until Dec. 11 when the Bears play at Connecticut. Craig made the Black Bears as a walk-on and has shown tremendous desire. He is majoring in Parks and Recreation.

42  JEFF STURGEON
Freshman, G/F, 6-4, 185, 9/13/61, Old Town, ME
   The All-Maine forward at Old Town High School set the school’s all-time scoring record (24 ppg) in pacing the Indians to the state Class A finals last winter. Jeff’s father, Don, played with coach Skip Chappelle at Old Town High and for the Black Bears. Jeff is a versatile, intelligent player who will see duty at guard and forward. He is enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences.
