'Winterset' Packs A Wallop!

By Hal Maguire, Jr.

Veteran campus thespians and newcomers to the stage joined forces Wednesday evening to achieve a highly successful opening night presentation of Maxwell Anderson's Winterset. Our hat is off to Herschel L. Bricker for directing his cast of 17 members to peak performances—each to the full capacity of his or her part and ability. Winterset packs a wallop!

Cast in the leading roles in this three-act tragedy, the theme of which is the perversion of justice, are Louenna Kostenbauder and Skip Avery, both of whom bring depth and understanding to their parts. As Miriamne, Louenna is as she is meant to be, "a white chalice holding fire, a flower in flame..." Skip, as Mio, the son dedicated to proving the innocence of his father whom the State has executed, is "alone and half-mad with hate and longing." Occasional lapses into a brittle over-animation mar but do not erase the professional quality of his performance.

Tremendously fine acting jobs are turned in by Wes Dyer, Dewaine Gedney, Sidney Baker, and Bill Anderson. Perhaps the outstanding scene of the entire play is the one in which Wes Dyer as Shadow, thrice-wounded and thrown in the river to die, manages to come back to face his murderer. With life ebbing away and sight dimming, he moves his audience

Society:Weekend Filled With Parties, Dances And Ace Of Spades

By Diane Wiseman

Parties, parties everywhere, and not a drop to drink!

Alpha Tau Omega held a formal dance at the house with the orchestra of Nat Diamond. Alpha Gam held their Pledge Dance Friday night with the "5 Notes" providing the music. It was carnival time at Kappa Sig Friday evening. Dale Whitney and his Maine Bears furnished the sounds. TEP had a vic dance Friday night with Sigma Nu following suit on Saturday evening with a record party. Lambda Chi held a costume party.

The annual Ace of Spades party was held Saturday evening at the Union. Gambling, dancing, and two great floor shows by the Sultans, a dance combo from Dartmouth College, rounded out the evening's entertainment. Many lost their shirts gambling—they were fortunate that it was only paper money.

Phi Mu sorority is holding its annual bazaar on Saturday, May 2. It will be at the Memorial Union from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

PINNED: Julie Mariner to Dave Fast, Phi Kappa Sigma; Patricia Schur, Univ. of Syracuse, to Stan Medved, Tau Epsilon Phi.

MARRIED: Marcia Patterson to John Miniutti, Sigma Nu.

The Geology 1 classes will have a make-up field trip to Mosquito Mountain. The students will leave May 4th at 1 p.m. from Boardman Hall. Students may sign up on the list in the Geology department.

Four Lithographs Given To University Of Maine

The University has been presented with a series of four original stone lithographs by the distinguished American printmaker, Mr. Emil Weddige. The group of four-color lithographs depicting the history of paper-making was commissioned by the Dow Chemical Company of Midland, Michigan, as gifts to the University of Maine and three other universities with pulp and paper divisions.

The four lithographs are presently being featured in a very large exhibit of Weddige's prints in the Union Building during the months of May and June. Dow Chemical Company arranged this exhibition to coincide with a national meeting of electrical engineers sponsored by the University of Maine Pulp and Paper Foundation.

Emil Weddige who teaches at the University of Michigan is one of America's finest printmakers. Irvin Hass, Prints Editor of Art News, recently commented, "He is distinguished for his fertile creativity, his impressive equipment as a print technician and his great skill as a colorist. He is, without doubt, one of the most talented and creative artists working in color lithography here or abroad."

Mr. Harry Greaver, who arranged this show, mentioned that "this is the third one-man exhibit of Weddige's to come to the University and each time he has been extremely popular." Maine owns three of his prints already, one of which "The Harvest," will be on exhibit.

University of Maine varsity baseball home games in 1959 are on May 1, 2, 6, 11, 13, 15, 16, and 20.

Editorials:Do We Want Assemblies?

The fact that assemblies here are completely voluntary was made painfully clear last Monday. Nearly everyone "voluntarily" stayed away.

This does not do ourselves or our University credit. The University stand upon assembly attendance has been fair. They have never said, "you must go"; rather they have had faith in our common sense and intellectual curiosity to attend assembly programs. Apparently we are lacking in both.

If this is the case, perhaps there should be no more assemblies. The first cry of protest to this proposal will, no doubt, arise from the group who would rather have the hour free to sit in the Union and drink coffee or lounge about the campus "getting a tan".

Those who do go to the assemblies will probably just shake their heads in silent disgust at the apathetic attitude which prevails. And well they should.

Meet The Candidates

BILL CHANDLER

MARK SHIBLES

In keeping with our policy of informing the student body, The CAMPUS submitted a four question questionnaire to the candidates for President of the General Student Senate. We invite your critical attention to their answers, so that when you cast your ballot May 5th, you may be better informed as to their stands on pertinent matters.—Ed.

Why do you want the position of Student Senate President?

SHIBLES—As a candidate for the Presidency of the Senate, the challenge of student responsibility for their own affairs is my prime interest. This challenge can be met through cooperation and development of student responsibility.

CHANDLER—I want the position of Student Senate President, because I believe I am well qualified to lead Student Senate activities.

What do you plan to do about the accusation of a "do nothing" Senate?

CHANDLER—Before Student Senate legislation becomes valid, many obstacles must be overcome. This involves a lapse of time, during which the students are not informed as to the progress of the measure. The students must be informed as to why these lapses occur, where the bottlenecks are, and understand that the Senate is not always at fault.

SHIBLES—For the Senate to make any type of progress, interested, vigorous and competent people must be elected to its body. They in turn will see that efficient committees are elected and encouraged to function. In the future the Senate must take a greater initiative on the problems facing the student body in general. By assuming a definite position on these basic issues, and if the resulting challenges are met, the often voiced accusation of a "do nothing" Senate would cease to exist.

Have you any plans for the Student Judiciary?

SHIBLES—The Student Judiciary is not something that is to be accomplished in a day. As it stands now, two members of the administration are sitting with that committee, and well they should, for it means a substantial grant of power by them to the students, for the first time, in arbitration of the organization of the proposed judiciary. With this change, I feel confident that a student judiciary will finally be established next year.

CHANDLER—If the Student body wants a judiciary they certainly should have one. The major problem is to arrive at a plan that everyone will accept.

The Chatter Box:Class Meeting Was "A Riot"

By Tanya Sloveyn

Seniors, did you happen to attend your (ha-ha) class meeting last week? Reports have it that it was a riot—or could have been if the seniors hadn't sat there like sheep in a pen and let the powers-that-were run all over them.

I understand that you were told how, when, where, why and in what way you should present your class gift. After all the hassle over that—the filet mignon proposal sounds quite sensible. Or wouldn't that be "traditional"?

Tell me, some senior in the know, how did that second proposal for the athletic scholarship get turned down so easily? Some railroad job, eh? — must have been traditional.

Then, the real fun began — the few minutes where you voted on whether to have three seats or six seats for graduation. Actually, you can't be blamed, think of the trouble it might be to transport a few faculty and administrative members to Bangor. Of course, when you circulated that petition, weren't you told that Bangor could be one of the alternatives? Wasn't it too, too, too loosely stated that whatever the seniors wanted, they could have? What happened to Bangor? The grapevine says that Bangor wanted us — perhaps as another "big highlight" in their 125th year. However, the word was that Bangor was very willing as they like to keep closer relations with the University.

Let's face it — you were told how the University wanted you to conform and you were just a big mass of conformity. If a quorum hadn't been necessary, you were foolish to even attend. Those few voices that cried out in the wilderness of tradition belonged to very brave people.

It is too late to do anything about it now, as if you could be allowed to protest. Remember, if you ever need to — you are free individuals and used to have some democratic rights — stick up for them in the future.

Pipe Smoke

By Bill Cook

Spring on this campus is in many ways a remarkable experience. In about two weeks I fully expect to wake up to the fact that we have a darn beautiful campus for the second time. This makes me think of how other people look at the place.

I have heard several people comment on the architecture from time to time and generally they don't like the haphazard design of the buildings.

Why can't it be all modern or that their judgment suits me in every way. Much of the physical charm of the University of Maine lies in its diversity — its variety, if you will. Take Colby with its new and sterile campus. It is beautiful, true, but in my opinion it has too much of a good thing. A few older buildings scattered here and there blend very well with our new ones.

The critics understand this but still wonder why the first style couldn't have been continued. I wouldn't care to try to answer for the many boards of Trustees that have determined what architectural policy would be, but I will say new ones.

Do you have any ideas for any major change in Senate Proceedings or Constitutions?

CHANDLER—The Senate Constitution committee had a plan for revision of the constitution that will be presented in the near future.

The major problem in Senate proceedings is in the action taking place after passage by the Senate. Next year, channels will be cleared through the administration or else the students will be informed as to what has become of our legislation.

SHIBLES—Much of the effort of any governmental organization of necessity deals with routine legislative and administrative matters. A considerable amount of the achievement is accomplished in committee. Reports of both the standing and special committees should be docketed, with the Senate taking harsh action against them for failure to produce some type of progress report at the set time. With regular reports from committees, both the students and the Senate, would have a greater insight into the work being done.

The President must take a more active role, if the Senate is to grow. He must spend a great deal of time consulting with the other governing organizations on campus, and perhaps test the opinion of the Senate concerning their particular problems, as well as those of the general student body.

In the end, the Senate is basically what the students want it to be. If they do not feel that it is doing its job, they should seek to improve it. This is far more effective than to merely criticize, despite what benefits may come of criticism.

Mail Bag

Throughout the school year, especially this semester, a great deal of discussion and controversy has arisen concerning the General Student Senate. Most of this criticism has been of a derogatory nature. I, for one, am surprised and disappointed that there have been so few constructive opinions and comments on behalf of those who are the Senate's severest critics. Admittedly the Senate is not as strong a determinant of major campus policies as it might be, but the Senate is still a growing organization that requires an "ironing out of a few more wrinkles." This will take time and cooperation.

Here are some of the Senate's more important problems and, in my opinion, possible solutions:

1. Committee action is too slow. One of the major reasons for the seemingly inefficient and sluggish operation of the Senate is the length of time a committee takes to return a bill and/or recommendation to the Senate.

This problem might be remedied by placing a reasonable time limit on the various committees. If the bill hasn't been returned to the floor of the Senate within the allotted time, either a new chairman or a new committee should be appointed.

2. There is a lack of coordination between the Senate and the Administration. Many feel that the Administration has discouraged the Senate from dealing with questions which have been heretofore strictly Administrative. This is not so. I feel that the Administration welcomes student interest and participation in the University's policy making.

The Senate should have a representative to the Administration to explain the views of the Senate on any particular bill. If it is not feasible to have such a representative, then the Senate should at least submit a written evaluation with the bill when it is given to the Administration. Also, the Senate and student body should be better informed as to why a particular bill has not received Administrative approval.

3. The Senate-Campus relations should be improved. There have been, and still are, somewhat strained relations between the Senate and the "Campus." I do not propose to try to explain these poor relations—even if I could, but I would like to suggest a way to achieve closer cooperation between these two organizations.

First, the Senate should have a publicity committee which could compile reports of all Senate action including the functions of various committees. Second, the reporters from the "Campus" might have a more complete insight and appreciation of the problems confronting the Senate if they were to attend various committee meetings.

4. A recent problem is the lack of enthusiasm of the Senators. The success of the Senate depends on active participation and interest. However, is it the disinterest of the individual Senator or is it the lack of interest within the organization which he represents that is really hurting the Senate?

I feel that since Senators reflect the attitudes of the groups they represent, the problem starts with the organization. The solution would necessitate a complete change of attitude. If the students would realize and appreciate the value and potential of the Senate and support it, the Senate would be a stronger and more effective student governing body. With this kind of encouragement, the Senators' interest and enthusiasm will be revitalized.

Marterie To Appear At Junior Prom

RALPH MARTERIE

Ralph Marterie and his Marlboro Men will appear in person to play at the Junior Prom May 1 here.

Before organizing his own band almost ten years ago, Marterie gained his early experience over the NBC network out of Chicago where he played until he was called into the Navy during World War II. His fluid phrasing on the trumpet quickly won him enthusiastic audiences on his appearance dates.

Marterie's campus-acclaimed band is currently on the best-seller lists for his Mercury recording of "Pretend Cha-Cha" and "Flighty." Among Marterie's many LP albums are "One Night Stand," "Trumpeter's Lullaby," "Marterie's Mood" and "Dancing on the Downbeat."

Alpha Chi Omega Pledged And Installed Into National Sorority

Glenn Philippon

The Alpha Chi Omega pledge colony was pledged and installed as the Delta Theta chapter of Alpha Chi Omega national sorority last week-end. The chapter has fifty charter members, five of whom will remain pledges until next fall, and two invited initiates, Evelyn Elder Elliott (Mrs. Lloyd H. Elliott) and Mary Elizabeth Simpson.

Present at the pledging ceremony Tuesday evening were three members from the Rhode Island chapter who conducted the Dream Cake Ceremony. Thirty members of the Alpha Tau chapter, New Hampshire, arrived to assist with the Saturday afternoon installation at the Orono Methodist Church.

Dr. Lloyd H. Elliott, speaking at the installation banquet Saturday evening, welcomed the chapter to the University of Maine. Following the banquet, the new chapter was presented with greetings from all over the United States and Ontario, Canada. National Secretary, Mrs. Cope, presented the charter to Rheta Colwell, president of the Delta Theta chapter.

ident of the Delta Theta chapter, Mrs. Kennard Jones, national president, was unable to attend because of illness. Gifts of silver from chapters and clubs from the six New England states, New York and Ontario were also presented. The New Hampshire sorority girls gave the Maine chapter its banner.

A model chapter meeting was held Sunday morning before attendance at worship services.

The new sorority on campus does not as yet have a brother fraternity. Rheta Colwell, sorority president, said, "The fraternities have been so good to us that it is hard to decide. We feel that it would be best if we wait awhile before having a brother fraternity."

Will any freshmen or sophomores who are interested in working on the 1961 Prism and did not attend the meeting last week please sign the list at the Union newscounter. Students may sign up to work on either the Business staff or the Editorial staff.

THE MANY LOVES OF THORWALD DOCKSTADER

When Thorwald Dockstader—sophomore, epicure, and sportsman—first took up smoking, he did not simply choose the first brand of cigarettes that came to hand. He did what any sophomore, epicure, and sportsman would do: he sampled several brands and then picked the mildest, tastiest, pleasingest of all—Philip Morris, of course!

Similarly, when Thorwald took up girls, he did not simply select the first one who came along. He sampled. First he took out an English literature major named Elizabeth Barrett Grisht, a wisp of a girl with luminous eyes and a soul that shimmered with a pale, unearthly beauty. Trippingly, trippingly, she walked with Thorwald upon the beach and sat with him behind a windward dune and listened to a sea shell and sighed sweetly and took out a little gold pencil and a little morocco notebook and wrote a little poem:

*I will lie upon the shore,
I will be a dreamer.
I will feel the sea once more
Pounding on my femur.*

Thorwald's second date was with a physical education major named Peaches Glendower, a broth of a girl with a ready smile and a size 18 neck. She took Thorwald down to the cinder track where they jogged around 50 times to open the pores. Then they played four games of squash, six sets of tennis, 36 holes of golf, nine innings of one old cat, six chukkers of lacrosse, and a mile and a quarter of leap frog. Then they went ten rounds with eight-ounce gloves and then they had heaping bowls of bran and whey and exchanged a manly handshake and went home to their respective whirlpool baths.

"I think I'll stick with PHILIP MORRIS," he said

Thorwald's final date was with a golden-haired, creamy-browed, green-eyed, red-lipped, full-calved girl named Totsi Sigafos. Totsi was not majoring in anything. As she often said, "Gee whillikers, what's college for anyhow—to fill your head full of icky old facts, or to discover the shining essence that is YOU?"

Totsi started the evening with Thorwald at a luxurious restaurant where she consumed her own weight in Cornish rock hen. From there they went to a de luxe movie palace where Totsi had popcorn with butter. Then she had a bag of chocolate covered raisins—also with butter. Then they went to a costly ballroom and cha-cha'd till dawn, tipping the band every eight bars. Then they went to a Chinese restaurant where Totsi, unable to decipher the large and baffling menu, found a simple way out of her dilemma: she ordered one of everything. Then Thorwald took her to the women's dorm, boosted her in the window, and went downtown to wait for the employment office to open.

While waiting, Thorwald thought over all of his girls and came to a sensible decision. "I think," he said to himself, "that I will stick with Philip Morris. I am not rich enough for girls."

Five Dartmouth collegians entertained with jazz numbers at three shows during the evening.

Union Turned Into Gambling Casino

An informal gathering of students and faculty took place at the Ace of Spades party Saturday night. The annual affair was sponsored by the Memorial Union, and was held in that building. Both floors of the Union were turned into a gambling casino. The Bear's Den provided a place for dancing in one half of the room. Tables, covered with checkered tablecloths, were placed around the other half of the room for eating, drinking, and talking. Candles were the only form of illumination used and this lent a nightclub atmosphere to what is normally the student cafeteria. Nat Diamond's band provided dancing music. All the rooms on the first floor of the building were used for gambling. Roulette, casino, poker, blackjack, and crap games were available for the student gamblers. Faculty members donned the typical green eyeshades and acted as croupiers, instructing the inexperienced and keeping order in the games. Play money, which was received in exchange for an admission ticket, was used in all the games. A room was also set aside for chess players, if they could concentrate with all the commotion around them. A feature attraction of the evening was the jazz group from Dartmouth College. "The Sultans." They presented half-hour shows three times during the course of the evening. The young musicians have played at many colleges and nightclubs throughout the east.

Maine Masque Presentation Is Well Received

to great emotion in an unforgettable death scene.

Dewaine Gedney, as the scheming, shifty, treacherous, death-dealing Trock, is superb.

Sidney Baker, as the gentle but trapped Garth, turns in his best performance to date.

Bill Anderson, as Esdras, a Rabbi, is the balancing influence of the play, and amid the violence of hate, revenge, fear, and guilt, his role of saddened father, mellowed to life by faith in God and man, is outstanding.

In the role of Judge Gaunt, the conscience-tormented trial justice, whose mind loses touch with reality, Harry Bartlett does a commendable job.

Rating special notice also are Carole Allen for her top-notch portrayal of the hobo, and Fred Varrichio for his sensitive execution of the role of loyal friend of Mio.

Cast in lesser roles, but each giving excellent support to the cast, were Bill Munsey as the fiery, daring, loquacious radical; Bill Hanson, the expendable organ grinder; Sara Lou Johnson, the apple-vending Piny; Barry Kilday in the dual role of handsome sailor and police sergeant; Beatrice Reynolds and Lucy Bartlett, handling the amusing, racy lines of two girl friends; Ray Tanguay, who enlivens the part of the flatfooted cop stepping into a veritable bee-hive; Dick Fayle and Alan Chapman as "two men in blue serge" who, though non-speaking, heighten the suspense of the play. Dick Fayle also plays the part of the gawky shoe salesman, Herman.

The set, designed and executed by Alan Chapman, depicts the bank of a river under a bridgehead, and, alternately, a cellar apartment.

Winterset is largely in verse, and its poetic rhythm helps to propel the action into a throbbing emotion-packed presentation which the entire campus should witness.

The play will be presented again each evening of this week through Saturday at 8:15 o'clock at the Little Theatre. A Saturday matinee will be offered at 2:30 p.m. Chuck Micicche will replace Ray Tanguay in the matinee performance.

Philippine Girl Tells Of Life During War In Homeland

By Carol Pollard

There is a big difference between the complacent life of an American girl and the terrorized life of a Philippine girl during World War II. Nicky, better known to the University of Maine campus as Nicky, pointed out that American girls are very lucky not to have wars in this country as she related her story of the war. Nicky is a graduate student in chemical engineering from the Philippine Island of Manila.

Nicky was eight years old when the war began and at the beginning of the Japanese occupation of the Philippines her father was arrested for being a member of the underground forces. She remembers taking food to him and having to push it through a tiny hole in his cell. He was released after one month but the Japanese began again to hunt him as soon as the Americans took the offensive. She and her family along with several other families fled to the mountains to hide from the soldiers. During the days they were in hiding they could use no lights at all, and had to be very careful about smoke or other signals that would give away their hiding place. There were guards constantly watching and passing signals by word of mouth when the Japanese soldiers were coming. Everyone would grab whatever they could find for belongings and flee for their lives. Even the small children carried heavy bundles on their backs and heads.

At the same time the Americans were bombing the Philippines. During air battles between the American and the Japanese planes the people on the ground had to dig caves in the sides of the hills and crawl into them to escape the bombs from both sides.

Nicky and her family got through the war unharmed, and she continued her education, graduating from the University of the Philippines. She is not only doing graduate work in this country, but is also teaching a class in her field here.

Rhode Island Next On Bear's Schedule

By Art Zalkan

The University of Maine's baseball team opens its home schedule tomorrow afternoon against Rhode Island at 3. On Saturday, the Bears will again play the Rams in the second game of a two day series. Saturday's contest is scheduled for 2:30.

Rhode Island comes to Maine with a record of 0-3 in Yankee Conference competition thus far. The Rams suffered a 23-4 loss to Connecticut.

The Bears played two games during the week. Colby and Bates were their opponents on Tuesday and Wednesday. Next Wednesday, May 6, the Bears will meet Bowdoin in a 3:00 p.m. contest.

Last season, the home team beat Rhody at Kingston, 6-2 and 3-0. They lost to Bowdoin 9-4 and 8-3.

It is expected that Jack Butterfield, baseball tutor, will hurl one of three pitchers against the Rams, Burt Payson, Dick Colwell, or Billy Burke. Haddon Libby may get the call in Saturday's encounter. Senior Don Means will also be available if needed. Behind these men will be Art Kilbourne.

The same lineup that has started for the Maine team is expected to get the nod for the weekend contests.

Charlie Eberbach (.190) will be the signal caller. The infield will be composed of Blink Davis (.307) at first, Kenny Perrone (.307) at second, capt. Dick Hlister (.320) at short and Dean Deshone (.280) at third. Jack McCabe (.143) and Phil Curtis (.200) will be on deck if needed in the infield. In the outfield, Dave Mosher (.222), Ray Weed (.333) and Tom Valiton (.105) are expected to start.

FRESHMAN BASEBALL

Jim Butterfield's Bear Cubs open their schedule on May 4 against MCI. The contest will start at 2:30 p.m.

Maine Humbles BC As Horne, Spencer Show Improvement

By Pete Hannah

A powerful and well balanced Maine track team marred the record of Boston College Saturday, and won their first outdoor meet by a score of 72-63. Boston College, a fairly strong team this year, placed a lot of responsibility on their top competitors Bob O'Leary and Larry Barry. They previously won two triangular meets this spring over Massachusetts and Brandeis and over Bowdoin and Amherst.

Terry Horne was top scorer for Maine taking first place in the hammer with a throw of 152' 10", first in the discus with 139' 10" and a third in the shot put. Dave Linekin dominated the pole vault clearing 12' 6" and placed third in the broad jump. Bob DuBois placed second in the pole vault and Roger Hale placed second in the broad jump. Wilbur Spencer hurled the javelin 182 ft., for first place then placed second in the half mile run just two strides behind O'Leary. O'Leary also won the mile run in a close race with Dale Bessey of Maine.

Larry Barry was top scorer for B.C. taking firsts in the shot-put, low hurdles and high hurdles, and second in the javelin and discus. Cliff Ives of Maine ran a very close race with Barry in the high hurdles. Barry won the race by inches then battled Ives again for victory in the lows.

Phil Haskell sped through the 100 yd. dash in 10.1 seconds to win the race, then later won the 160 yard dash in 15.9 seconds. This race was substituted for the 220 yard dash as the runway was not long enough for the 220. Arthur Conro surprised the pack by coming up from last position to take second place in the 440 yard run.

Maine displayed balanced potential in their first meet which should be a forewarning to Bates that there will be trouble brewing in the State Meet May 9th.

This Saturday Maine will meet New Hampshire on the home track. New Hampshire is a team to respect, but Maine can be expected to be the victors. New Hampshire has some good competitors, particularly McGregor in the mile and two mile. Field events will begin at 1 p.m.

Phi Eta Nears All-Point Trophy

By Stan Allain

Who's going to win the All-Point Trophy? The race isn't over, but Phi Eta Kappa seems to be in the best position to cop the prize. Through well-balanced power in practically all of the intramural sports, they have chalked up 406½ points. This total will probably be too great for Kappa Sigma, with 277½ points, or Phi Mu, with 238 points, to catch up.

The volleyball season ended with Phi Eta winning the title in the fraternity competition. The Faculty won the non-fraternity division and a chance to face Phi Eta for the campus championship. After a hard fight, the Faculty finally succumbed to their younger rivals, and Phi Eta reigned as the campus volleyball champs.

Another intramural sport, tennis, has started to roll as the spring days get warmer. Delta Tau and SAE have played the only match so far, but the rest of the Houses will soon swing into action. Norm Merrill and Ron Cilley of Delta Tau won in two straight sets, 7-5 and 6-2, over their neighboring rivals at SAE.

Track Teams Excel In Past; Interest Lax Among Students

By Rick Brennan

Every year records are being broken in a sport to which people pay comparatively little or no attention. This lack of interest at the University can hardly be attributed to Maine's past records as they have shone brilliantly in this sport in past years. Last year the Bears took both of their dual meets against New Hampshire and Boston College and were barely edged at the State and Yankee Conference meets by Bates and Rhode Island. Their stiffest competition during the current season will probably be met in the latter two opponents.

Track has always been interesting spectator sport and although the number of home meets during the course of the season is small (there being only one this season) it is difficult to operate otherwise owing to the short season.

The fact that there are so few home sports activities during the spring in other sports has been a negative factor in that these particular sports do not hold the interest of the student body. Half of the Maine baseball schedule has elapsed before the squad plays on the home diamond. Although baseball is not as pulsating a sport to watch as is football or basketball, more interest could be cultivated in baseball activities were there more home games nearer the beginning of the season.

The following week will see a full schedule of sporting events here at school. The Pale Blue meet Rhode Island twice this weekend on the diamond. . . . McCall's tennis squad challenges Rhode Island and Bowdoin Friday and Saturday. . . . Styra's boys pit their strength against a weaker New Hampshire crew.

PLAYERS OF THE WEEK: Phil Haskell took a first place in the 100 yard dash, going the distance in 10.1 and Will Spencer showed marked improvement in winning the javelin toss and taking a second place in the 880. The showing of these two athletes did much to lift Maine past Boston College this past Saturday.

More people drop in for Camels than any other cigarette on earth. It stands to reason: the best tobacco makes the best smoke. The Camel blend of costly tobaccos has never been equalled for rich flavor and easygoing mildness.

Put fads and fancy stuff in the past . . .

Maine Day Activities

Maine Day morning the University band with "Little Max" will form at Carnegie for its 6:30 "wake-up" march. Exchange breakfasts have been planned at Stodder Dining Hall and The Commons. Those assigned to projects numbers 1, 2, 6, 7, and 11 will eat at The Commons and numbers 3, 4, 5, 8, 9, and 10 at Stodder Dining Hall. At 8:00 a.m. all the mayoralty candidates will open the last phase of their campaigns on the library steps by briefly stating their respective qualifications. After this students and faculty will join their project leaders in a morning of planting, digging, painting, and general cleaning up.

Students and faculty have signed-up for approximately thirteen projects. The majority of these projects are in the area of the gym. Sidewalk-building, fence-painting, and shrub-planting will be under the supervision of project leaders. Not all those that signed-up for the projects could be assigned to their first choice. Changes had to be made in cases where many signed-up for a project needing a limited number of workers.

Mayoralty Campaign

During the morning, mayor candidates will be traveling around to the work areas bidding for votes by staging zany stunts and crazy skits. A refreshment truck will circulate in the work areas during the morning. The campaigning will be over at 10:00 a.m. At this time a mobile voting truck will go around to the projects so the students can cast their votes. At 11:30 the ballot boxes will be moved onto the mall where the voting will continue until 1:00 p.m.

Float Parade

The float parade will begin at 1:30 Wednesday afternoon with the theme of "Views from Video." The parade will run twice around the mall. The lead car will have president Elliott and this year's mayor, "Little Max" Maguire. The second car will contain managers of nearby towns of Bangor, Brewer, Old Town and Orono. Following this will be five cars with the reigning campus queens: Sally Kennett, Homecoming Queen; Carol Quigg, Calico Queen; Jane Chiarini, Winter Carnival Queen; Joyce Johnson, Honorary-Lieutenant Colonel; and Pat Hebert, Greek Goddess.

After the floats have paraded, the judges will decide the winner. During the time the judges are in conference, the ROTC drill team will give an exhibition, and selections will be played by the band. The next campus mayor will be presented at the same time the float parade winner is announced.

Master of Ceremonies for the parade will be Don Billet.

Student-Faculty Skits

"Swanee on the Stillwater" is the theme for the student-faculty skit to be held night of Maine Day. The event will take place at 8 p.m. in the Memorial Gymnasium with J. Duff Gillespie, professor of speech, as master of ceremonies. Both students and faculty members will participate in the production.

Appearing will be such personalities as Nelson "Satchel" Jones, Don "Bustopher" Billet, Erwin "Drowsy" Douglas, Eliot "Filthy" Rich, Don "Timorous" Taverner, and Ron "Have-U" Hurd. Dale Whitney will play.

Elect Littlefield New President Of IFC

Maurice E. Littlefield, Sigma Nu, was elected president of the Interfraternity Council last week.

Littlefield was chosen at the annual meeting of the IFC last Wednesday.

Donald C. Lewis is the new IFC vice president. Lewis, president of Tau Kappa Epsilon, has been active in the Student Drive for the Hauck Fund.

Secretary-treasurer is Bentley L. Brown. Brown is president of Sigma Phi Epsilon. Other Executive Committee members are John W. McCabe, Kappa Sigma, and Salvatore J. Garro, Lambda Chi Alpha.

The Council heard reports from two committees at the annual meeting. Rushing committee chairman Donald Lewis reported that many changes are being considered for rushing next February. Among the changes are: shortening of the rush period to one week; a freshman orientation period sponsored by the IFC in the fall; more literature to "sell" fraternities to prospective pledges.

William Donnell, Sigma Chi, said that the response to the IFC Sing, May 5, has been "very encouraging." Thirteen of the seventeen fraternities have indicated that they will participate.

Committee Studies Placement Bureau

The Placement Bureau has appointed a committee to improve placement procedure. This committee, known as the Placement Evaluation Committee will seek to make suggestions toward improving the University's Placement Service in its work for students.

The twelve students on the committee are Joellen Anderson, Dale Bessey, Harold Buzzell, Douglas Champeon, Don Cookson, Leigh Harter, Duane Huff, David Larrabee, Margaret Mahar, Frank McQuade, James Viola, and William Zeising

Debates Held At Bowdoin And New Jersey Colleges

On Tuesday night, April 28, the University of Maine met Bowdoin College in a public debate, the subject of which was, Should the Further Development of Nuclear Weapons be Prohibited by International Agreement? The public was invited to attend this campus debate in the Bangor Room of the Memorial Union Building. Presenting the negative view for the University were John Philbrick and Donald Sweeney.

The Annual Tournament of the Eastern Forensic Association will be held at St. Peter's College in Jersey City, New Jersey, on May 1 and 2. The affirmative will be taken by John Dennis and James Bishop; the negative team will be John Philbrick and Donald Sweeney. Entering a contest in persuasive speaking is James Bishop, and speaking extemporaneously will be John Philbrick and John Sweeney.
