Oppose Plan For Literary Periodical

literary periodical? No, say 25% of the students in the Nova Scotia pool. That, they say, won’t damage their health. They say that it would be “badly insurance” to spend their time reading it if it is any other school’s periodical. The continuation of the M.C.A. magazine program is supported in both Maine and Nova Scotia. Many students seem enthusiastic about the idea of an all-schools literary periodical opening the Gates of the Allies in a new world for the student. The periodical idea is strong enough in the thought that they would like the idea developed.

The current newness existing among students is that of the Annual Instrumental Band.

Annual Instrumental Band Scheduled for Feb. 21

The annual intramural band, organized by the Interfraternity Council and Business and Art Association, will be held in the gym next week. The band will consist of all the musicians who made contact with the music. The committee has already planned an intramural band which will be featured at the annual intramural band. New Rushing System

Just off the new fraternity rushing system recently emerged the current flurry of activities. One can only be amazed at the bounds in which the brothers have taken, if this be the case, for many students have talked of nothing but the events of the past few days, and one can only wonder what will happen as the system is put into full operation.

From the point of view of the brothers, the system is a success, for it seems to have been designed with their needs in mind. It gives them a chance to choose the brothers they want, without having to worry about the opinions of others. It also seems to have made the process more enjoyable, as the brothers are now able to spend more time getting to know each other and less time trying to impress each other.

From the point of view of the sisters, the system is a failure, for it seems to have been designed with their needs in mind. It gives them a chance to choose the brothers they want, without having to worry about the opinions of others. The Future of Reciprocity Shaping up as one of the major political issues in the current session of Congress is the future of Secretary of State Hull's trade policy. Despite its weaknesses, this policy has withstood successfully the attacks of its opponents, and it is likely to continue to have an important role in American foreign policy.

Secretary Hull's trade policy has several features which should help to stabilize the international relations of the United States. For example, it encourages the reciprocal exchange of goods and services, which can help to reduce the costs of living for Americans and foreigners alike.

One of the most important features of this policy is the principle of non-reciprocity. This principle, which states that the United States should not be required to trade with countries that do not return our goods, has been very successful in preventing the United States from being pinched by its trading partners.

Another important feature of this policy is the principle of voluntary agreements. This principle, which states that the United States should only enter into trade agreements with countries that agree to pay a fair price for our goods, has been very successful in preventing the United States from being taken advantage of by its trading partners.

In conclusion, Secretary Hull's trade policy has several features which should help to stabilize the international relations of the United States. Despite its weaknesses, it seems likely to continue to have an important role in American foreign policy.
