Expect Prism June 2

The 1946 Prisms are expected to come out on June 1 or June 2. Students who have ordered them are urged to call for the yearbooks at the Administration Building as soon as they are ready.

The Prism this year is necessarily smaller in size than it has been previously, but the quality of the content has not changed. One section of this year's Prism is devoted to pictures of members of the junior class who are now in the service. Another part includes the activities of the ASTP at Maine. In addition to snapshots, the informal section will have write-ups.

A few extra copies will be on hand and may be obtained by anyone who forgot to order one earlier in the year.

Picnic Supper To Be Sponsored By MCA Sun., May 21

The MCA picnic supper will be held Sunday, May 21, at High Head. The program will consist of softball, volleyball, and other recreation, a picnic supper, and an outdoor vesper service. This picnic is the final MCA get-together for the year.

All University students are invited to attend the affair and everyone will meet at the MCA at 2:30. The supper will be twenty-five cents.

Joan Potter is chairman of the picnic committee, Barb Smiley is in charge of food, Elizabeth White and Jane Longfellow, publicity, Nick Copadis and Harold Thurlow, recreation, and Sally Phillips, vesper service.

Warmingham Guest, Tri-Delt Sponsored Sunday Service

Dr. Osbert W. Warmingham, representative of the American Youth Foundation, will be the guest speaker at the Sunday service to be held in the Little Theatre at 10:45 a.m. on May 21. Dr. Warmingham was the guest leader at the Phi Mu Delta House and the speaker at the final service during the January Religious Embassy.

The Delta Delta Delta Sorority is sponsoring the service this week, and Evelyn Shaw is in charge of the arrangements. The special music for the service is comprised of Bach's anthem "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," a duet of Smart's, "The Lord is My Shepherd," by Virginia Harvey, '45, soprano, and Betty Jenkins, '46, alto, and the old Crusader's hymn "Beautiful Savior." The leaders of the program are Marian Littlefield, '47, and Louise Eastman, '45, and the ushers are Jeanne Ross and Helen Belyea. Dorothy Currier is the pianist.

Sigma Mu Sigma Elects Next Year's Officers

At a meeting of Sigma Mu Sigma, honorary psychology fraternity, Tuesday night, the following officers were elected for the coming year: Virginia Clay, president; Marie Haines, vice president; and Norma Herzog, secretary-treasurer. Dr. A. Douglas Glanville will serve as faculty adviser of the group.

Masque Will Present 'There's Always Juliet'

This Saturday night the Maine Masque presents "There's Always Juliet," a gay tale of love on leave in England written by John VanDruten, the author of the hilarious "Voice of the Turtle" which is now one of Broadway's most popular comedy hits.

Graduation Plans For June 3 and 4 Nearing Completion

The 1944 Commencement will consist of a two-day program with Saturday, June 3, given over to the events of Alumni Day and Senior class day, and Sunday, June 4, devoted to the Baccalaureate Services in the morning and the Commencement Exercises of graduation at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Alumni registration, the annual meeting of the Alumni Association, and the final business meeting of the senior class will take place Saturday morning. At 12:30 p.m. in Estabrooke Hall the Alumni-Faculty Luncheon will be held with the members of the class of 1894, returning to the campus for their 50th graduation anniversary, as this year's guests of honor.

The senior Class Day speakers will present their program for classmates, relatives, and alumni at 2:30, Saturday afternoon. Speakers include Sam Collins, Jr., Valedictorian; Mary Billings, Salutatorian; Hughene Phillips, Class Ode; Elizabeth Brackett and Arletta Thorpe, Class gifts; and Esther Randall, Class will.

President and Mrs. Hauck will be at home to their guests from 3:30 to 5 p.m. and the Alumni banquet, climax of Alumni Day, will be held in the Alumni Memorial Gymnasium at 6.

One of the outstanding features of this program will be the honoring of President and Mrs. Hauck on the completion of their first ten years of service at Maine.

On Sunday morning at 10:30 in the Memorial Gymnasium the Baccalaureate Services will be held with the Reverend Fred Thompson of Easthampton, Massachusetts, a graduate of the class of 1928, giving the sermon.

Final events of the week-end will be the traditional Commencement Exercises in the Memorial Gymnasium at 3 p.m. Following the parade of seniors and faculty, the program will see the award of senior degrees, award of graduate degrees, and the presentation of several honorary degrees to outstanding persons.

At this time will be announced also the winner of the Portland Alumnae watch to the outstanding senior woman.

Students graduating either July 1 or in September are invited to take part in Class Day exercises along with the June graduates.

Room Drawing In 15 Coburn, March 23, 24

The drawings for rooms in Balentine and Estabrooke Halls for next year will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 23 and 24, at 1 p.m. at 15 Coburn Hall.

The present sophomores and juniors will draw on Tuesday and the freshmen on Wednesday.

The drawing for rooms at the Elms will be held on Thursday, May 25, at the Elms at 1 p.m.

The one and only performance is at 8:30 p.m., May 20th, in the Little Theatre. Virginia Wing is in charge of the tickets which may be obtained directly from her or at the bookstore.

The cast for this play has been chosen with care and the rehearsals indicate fine results. Here are the actors as we see them about campus and as they will be in "There's Always Juliet."

Ruth Higgins: wears the pine tree of the All-Maine Women, is on the Campus and Prism staffs, is a Student Government representative, bashes a tennis ball around with a mean stroke, is glib with the Russian accent, remembered by Masque goers as the recent melodrama heroine, a naive Muriel Foster in "Out of the Frying Pan," a winsome Claudia, and a charming Lady Capulet. In "There's Always Juliet" she will portray Leonora Perystoste, a vivacious and aristocratic member of London's social circle.

Alan Shulman: enjoys tennis, swimming, horseback riding (instructed at Jamaica Plains), a juicy steak, history, and the Masque—really weakens when it comes to thoroughbred horses—draft status: 1-A. On the 20th he will try Army life as Captain Dwight Houston, the self-assured and charming American on leave.

Jean McKenney: fell out of a third story window when she was two, will graduate from Maine as a theatre major in June, and then leaves for Washington to study interior decorating and scene design, as well as to work in the decoding department of the Army Signal Corps, is fully at home at the Little Theatre either behind the scenes or before an audience. Remember the nurse in "The Man Who Came To Dinner" and the landlady in "Out of the Frying Pan"? Next Saturday she will add humor through the part of Florence, the devoted servant of Leonora.

Nat Bartholomaei: had dinner with Tommy Dorsey, has Glen Miller's autograph, plays golf, thinks flying is "slightly terrific," spends his afternoons looking at the innards of engines, is Masque house manager, has been on many stage crews and in many productions, including the recent "Ah, Wilderness" as barkeeper. Nat will play Wing Leader Peter Walmsley, the very English Englishman of "There's Always Juliet."

Betty Rowe, the stage manager, and Jeanne Ross, her assistant, have guided the stage craft class in the construction of the set representing a London flat. Bill Rigby is in charge of the lighting. Properties are being handled by Barbara Bond and costumes by Emmie Lou Littlefield.

Spell It With An 'e'...

An editorial in the Indianapolis News

Once upon a time, 74 years ago today, an able young Indianapolis newspaperman became convinced that he could publish a better newspaper. There had been much in his career to persuade him that his decisions were likely to be right.... The man's name was John Hampden Holliday. The newspaper that he founded was The Indianapolis News. The date was Dec. 7, 1869, six months after his twenty-third birthday.

As time went on, the young man succeeded in realizing his ambitions. One of his best attributes was his firmness of principle. Some people thought he was especially gifted in the quality of his prejudices....

Some 50 years ago, Mr. Holliday felt that his printers were not setting his editorials as he wrote them. He wrote his editorials by hand, and it is a matter of legend in the printing craft of Indianapolis that his chirography was not a model for the school copybooks. The printers did their best, but Mr. Holliday still thought they were not following copy, as the saying goes. So he issued an order that his copy must be followed to the letter.

The printers and proofreaders accepted the challenge. They made sure—doubly sure—that the next editorial that Mr. Holliday sent over was perfectly set. They followed copy to the letter. They sent the proof to Mr. Holliday.

In no time at all Mr. Holliday came into the composing room waving his proof. He called the printers together and pointed on the proof to a word—clear evidence that they had not followed copy. But the printers were prepared with evidence of their innocence. They pointed to his copy. They were right. They had set the word as he had written it. So he reconciled the conflict by ordering it run in the paper, then and henceforth, as he had spelled it. That is why The News still spells the word without the "e"—hight.

POLITICAL SCENE

By Elbridge Burton Davis

The Party Primaries are still the biggest news again this week. Today (Tuesday) the spotlight is focused on California where there is a senatorial primary so jumbled up that even the candidates themselves are confused. Under state law it is possible to run on more than one party ticket. Because of this there are five Republicans, who are also filed on the Democratic side, and seven Democrats who are filed on the Republican side. This sort of thing always makes California contests exceedingly interesting and results often in some amazing paradoxes. The voters generally disregard party lines and split their ballots indiscriminately.

The present battle is over the seat now held by Senator Sheridan Downey, Democrat of Atherton, who is seeking re-election under what must be, for him, very trying circumstances. Downey is a political "queer," having ridden into office in 1938 on the promise of "$30.00 every Thursday" for everyone over 50 years of age. At that time he defeated Philip Bancroft, Republican, who is head of the Associated Farmers of California, an organization which is at sword's points with the radical labor groups on the coast.

Bancroft is in the fight again this year, but has powerful opposition from Lieutenant Governor Frederick F. Houser. Downey, who in six years in the Senate has lost his enthusiasm for the "$30 every Thursday" plan, is not particularly well thought of at present by the "lunatic fringe."

In most states it is rare to defeat an incumbent senator in his own party primary, but Californians, true to their unorthodox practices, are in the habit of doing so. Downey gained the nomination in 1938 by beating elderly Senator William Gibbs McAdoo.

Also, despite its seemingly leftist leanings, California had an unbroken succession of Republican state administrations for nearly half a century until 1938 when the Democrats elected Culbert L. Olsen governor. The G. O. P. bounced back again four years later defeating Olsen with Earl Warren, now the probable Republican vice-presidential nominee.

Political Notes: Analysis of early returns received late Tuesday night indicated that Californians had "dood it" again. Unpredictable as ever, they renominated Downey on the Democratic slate and chose Houser for the Republicans, and each ran second in his rival's own primary. It is anyone's guess who will win in November.

New Jersey Democrats have an interesting figure as their candidate for the Senate this fall. He is Rep. Elmer H. Wene, a well-known chicken farmer. The political humming bird was down that way recently and got all fowled up in the wire cages and enclosures where literally thousands of huge birds were observed at their egg-laying activities. He reported seeing a large banner suspended over the driveway containing a not exactly original slogan which read: "Elect Wene: A chicken in every Pot."

Professor Kurrelmeyer of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology complained recently about the illegibility of the papers turned in by his students and suggested that they use a typewriter to ease his deciphering task. During the next German quiz the quiet of the room was suddenly shattered by the pecking of a typewriter in the back of the room. It seems that one Oliver Selfridge was taking the professor at his word... literally! (ACP)

Footlights And Ether

By Muriel Polley

Billy Shakespeare was king of jive Saturday night when the University faculty put rhythm into their hilarious presentation of "Julius Caesar." President Hauck rivalled the best of Elizabethan actors when he sang "Mares Eat Oats." The audience was especially delighted with the Senators in their Ballet Comique. The comment among their favorite students was, "I didn't know they could do it." Even the weather approved the performance by producing the first thunder shower of the year just in time to be sound effects for the tragedy.

This version of "Julius Caesar" was brought to the University of Maine by President Hauck. The author of the first presentation is anonymous, but the play has been renewed by Mr. Selwood to fit the tunes of popular music. The general opinion is that the faculty should not limit their dramatic efforts to very infrequent shows but should form a club to be known as "The Faculty Players."

During the preparation for the production of "Julius Caesar," an incident occurred which brought to the fore the ingenuity of our faculty. By some trick of fate, a mistake was made in ordering the material for the costumes. The material came, but, lo and behold, it wasn't wide enough to cover our sturdy Romans. Well, what were those gracefully draped garments the actors wore? Bed sheets!

The performance given by Reserves in "A Wedding" was one more addition to dramatics since they have been here. (We hear they are still rehearsing this play.) They deserve laurels for the spirit with which they have helped to carry on the Masque shows and other entertainment which would have been impossible without them. A boy of unusual talent is Irving Marsden, the male lead in "A Wedding." Having no previous experience in acting, he has performed like a veteran in this play and in "Button Your Lip." Another Reserve who deserves our praise is Pat O'Keefe, male lead in "Ah, Wilderness." Also included in the honor roll of Masquers are Joe Courtney, P. Forbes McCance, Nick Cherrick, Nick Copadis, Don Mathias, Henry Baker, and the many others who have contributed to these shows.

The Maine Radio Guild will go on the air again this Friday at 8:15 over WLBZ. The script, "The Decisive Wire," was written and directed by Katherine Ward. The cast will include Dot Collette, Gwen Cushing, Pat Hutto, Dick Fuller, and Norma Quinn as announcer.

BEAR FACTS

By Bob Krause

Following the New Hampshire and Bowdoin slaughters of last week, a good many people we know found eating supper was like trying to devour a meal of ground glass. As far as we can see there is very little point in trying to offer an assortment of excuses for those two games in which your University of Maine baseball team looked none too good—a good example of understatement. Both of these defeats were decidedly unpleasant, especially when accompanied by the usual assortment of loud bleats from the grandstand. Among these were heard such gems of wit as: "Say, they couldn't beat their grandmothers" and "They ought to be playing grammar school clubs." Both of these, of course, are samples of oratory which will live forever.

But, wait a minute. Everybody seems to have forgotten that your ball club has already won two contests to balance those setbacks. We suppose that it is only natural for people to ignore this in view of the last couple of miserable showings. But it may serve to cause you to stop and think before you give up on your team as a bunch of blind cripples who would probably drown in a bird bath. At any rate the squad is going south to recuperate this week in order to prepare for a respectable showing in the last home game of the year against Northeastern on May 27.

Regardless of this, however, the painful fact must be mentioned. Against Bowdoin the Pale Blue faced, in Holden Findlay, a pitcher with a fair curve ball. He gave up only six hits, while his mates banded fifteen off the offerings of Hal Parady and George Doe to make the final count 15 to 5. Captain Charlie Norton was the only Maine slugger, with three safeties in four trips, and the answer to the loss lay in the inability of anybody else to match the Mouse.

Last Saturday it was a different story. The Black Bear played the only really bad game out of the four so far. New Hampshire got fourteen bingles and took ready advantage of eleven errors to run up an overwhelming final score of 18 to 5. Red Adams, the Wildcat hurler, may have won his game more on his reputation than on his "stuff." Just before game time the rumor was going around that Red had played a little semi-pro ball. There is certainly no harm in this and it does improve one's press notices. Still, Kenyon's men did manage to get to Adams for eleven hits. But the catch is that he made some Pale Blues turn very red by striking out sixteen of them!!

It is quite possible that, by the time you read this, your diamond representatives will be in that "browsing town" (courtesy of the Hotel Bellevue). Today the New England trip commenced with the second Battle of Bowdoin at Brunswick this afternoon. Tomorrow will be the first Northeastern struggle in Boston, and the excursion will close with a doubleheader against Connecticut at Storrs on Saturday afternoon. Coach Kenyon chose the following players for the three-day marathon: Sam Stuart, Dan Frazier, Johnny Gleason, Ernie Sherman, Hal Parady, George Doe, Doug Williamson, George Millay, Bob Krause, Charlie Norton, Dick Ackley, Charlie Cushing, and Dave White.

As to our opponents there are one or two points of mild interest. Northeastern has a pitcher who is ambidextrous, believe it or not. He throws right handed to left handed batters, and vice versa. Personally, we feel that he may confuse himself by getting his arms mixed up. Let's hope so. Connecticut has two Japanese players. These men have been "relocated" from the west coast to go to school in the east. The Army classifies them as friendly aliens. We'll see about that.

Ted Curtis' tennis team, which barely lost its first match to Bowdoin last Wednesday by 5-4, also is facing the Polar Bears this afternoon. Beaufrand, Southard, Long, Smyth, MacDonald, O'Connell, and Malcolmson were scheduled to make up the group. The racquetters are at least sure of a lengthy afternoon as the first struggle lasted over six hours.

this event will take up the greater part of the afternoon's program. The guests will leave the campus late Saturday afternoon.

Ruth Hansen is general chairman of the Play Day and is also chairman of the various discussion groups. Hazel Nutt is in charge of housing the guests, Phyllis White in charge of preparing breakfast and lunch, Ruth Stearns, program and registration chairman, Gloria Lombard and Mary Libby, recreation.

Martha O'Brien was elected president of the Square Dance Club and Mary Hubbard, secretary-treasurer at the meeting of the Club last Tuesday night. Next year's officers for the Modern Dance Club were also elected, and they are: Dottie Currier, president, and Fay Jones, secretary-treasurer.

It is hoped that the tennis matches will be played off as soon as possible. There's a snappy looking trophy awaiting the winner of the tournament!

Off-Campus Women Hold Picnic And Installation

On Tuesday evening at 5:30 the off-campus women held a weenie roast at the picnic grounds in Stillwater. Mrs. Ernest Jackman and Mrs. Fred Griffie were guests. Installation of the new officers of the off-campus women's organization took place during the outing.

Student Help Asked In MCA Clean-Up

The MCA rec room has been sadly in need of improvement for a long while and now materials have been collected to start a renovation project. But paint isn't useful while it's still in the paint can and its only method of being transferred will be through your help. If you have a few minutes to spare and like to paint, drop in at the MCA Friday or Saturday. Charlie or Margo will furnish you with the necessary implements.

The WAA is beginning to round up its physical fitness program this week by a heavy schedule of events which began Monday afternoon with the play-off of the tie for the Inter-Class volleyball tournament between the Frosh and the Seniors. The Frosh beat the Seniors by the narrow margin of one point, 33-32. The Juniors defeated the Sophs for third place, leaving the standing in the tournament as: Frosh, Seniors, Juniors, Sophs.
